Carson Withdraws Unit School Plan — For Now

by LINDA VACHATA

Warren B. Carson, superintendent of Wood Dale elementary Dist. 7, this week withdrew his proposal that he become superintendent of a unit district consisting of Dist. 7, Bensenville Elementary Dist. 2 and Fenton High School Dist. 100.

In light of Carson's action, the Dist. 2 and 100 school boards Wednesday night at a special joint meeting went ahead and chose the Illinois Association of School Boards (IASB) as the screening agency to help the boards select a new superintendent for Dist. 2 and Dist. 100 only.

About 20 Wood Dale and Bensenville residents attended Wednesday night's special joint meeting, where board members of Districts 2, 7 and 100 were to discuss Carson's unification proposal. Carson did not attend the meeting, but two Dist. 7 board members, Robert Doane and Al Maki were present.

Doane was one of the members of the Dist. 7 board who openly opposed district unification.

"WHEN I CONSIDERED presenting this idea, one of the main benefits I hoped would develop would be a communication and cooperation bridge to tie the three districts closer together to improve education," Carson said in his latest letter to the school boards.

"It is my observation and impression at this point that instead of improving relationships the proposal is creating divisiveness, misunderstanding and distrust.

"I have enjoyed the conversations with the various boards of education. I still feel that ultimately a unit district is a most necessary structure, but the proposal I made is withdrawn."

"It took a great deal of courage and perhaps a little foresight for Carson to stick his neck out," said Martin Romme, Dist. 2 president and board member of Dist. 100. "The boards wanted to hear him out. I think he did the right thing (in proposing that he become superintendent of the unified three districts). What has been said was only for the purpose of information."

CARSON PRESENTED his proposal ("to move closer to district unification" by hiring him as superintendent of the three districts) several weeks ago at a joint meeting of the Dist. 2 and 100 boards. At that time, the boards were reviewing presentations by several screening agencies.

Since then the boards have concerned themselves with the unit district proposal to seek more information on its feasibility.

Wednesday night the boards took up where they left off at the meeting several weeks ago and selected an agency.

It was recommended at the Wednesday night meeting the boards wait until the presently contracted Illinois Schools Consulting Service (ISCS) unification study is completed before selecting a new superintendent. It was felt the final report might indicate the three districts in Bensenville and Wood Dale should immediately move toward district unification.

MORTON WRIGHT, Dist. 100 board president, felt the boards should go ahead with the screening process while the ISCS study is being conducted. He added he hoped Carson might still consider a position with Dist. 2 and 100, if the ISCS study recommended moving immediately toward district unification.

"I did not make a personal application (for the Dist. 2 and 100 superintendent vacancy) at this time," Carson told the Register Thursday. "I made a proposal and I withdrew that proposal to clear the air."

When told members of Dist. 2 and 100 suggested Carson be kept in mind should the districts move toward unification, Carson answered "I have no objection to that."

"I think the announcement (of Carson's proposal) in the newspapers was a little premature," said James DiOrto, member of the Dist. 100 and Dist. 2 school boards. "We still don't have the answers on unification."

"The state is giving us funds for a unification study (the ISCS study). There are still a lot of questions. Unfortunately some people got riled up."

A STUFFED ANIMAL booth, a toy booth and a candy booth will highlight Grace Lutheran Church's Octoberfest Bazaar, to be held Oct. 22.

Mrs. Arthur Hundley, left, and Mrs. Aloysius Kazenske are co-chairmen for the event, to be held from 9:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the church.

Agency To Assist Board

The Illinois Association of School Boards (IASB) has been assigned to help Bensenville Elementary Dist. 2 and Fenton High School Dist. 100 search for a new superintendent.

The estimated cost of the screening procedures could run from $850 to $1,200, depending upon how extensive the search is, according to the IASB presentation outline. The boards also will have the added, undetermined expenses for bringing candidates to Bensenville to be viewed by the boards and the expenses of board committees visiting communities where candidates are employed.

The IASB indicated the screening process could take up to three or four months. "It is well that this procedure not be hurried and it is better to spend some three or four months than to act without adequate information," the IASB presentation outline said.

The IASB suggested the boards should screen applicants presently employed by the school districts, but board members Wednesday night voted to have the screening committee screen these people as well as applicants from outside the district.

IN ITS BRIEF presentation outline, the IASB suggested the board select a three-man committee to do the actual screening.

These three men, the IASB recommended, should be chosen from:

—An experienced school superintendent or a retired school superintendent who has attained a high professional stature.

—A member of a board of education with considerable experience as a board member and who has with his own board participated in the selection of a superintendent.

—A staff member of a department of school administration of a college or university, or

Besides selecting the committee, the school boards will also determine the procedures to be followed in screening for a new superintendent.

THE BIGGEST TASK the boards now face is drafting material for a brochure to be used in notifying placement offices of the vacancy in the Bensenville and Wood Dale school districts and for the use of applicants.

Suggested material for the brochure includes a description of the community (sociological, economic, industrial and cultural nature), a description of the school district (geographic location, basic philosophy of education), the aspirations and ideals of the citizens concerning education, a description of the curriculum presently in operation, the board and community attitude toward research, the present staff (number, educational preparation, tenure and salary) and the financial structure of the districts (budget totals, bonded indebtedness, bonding power, assessed valuation, tax rates and history of referendums).

The screening committee would meet with the board and counsel with it in completing material for the brochure, according to IASB.

Chamber To Hold First Fall Meet

The Bensenville Chamber of Commerce will hold the first general membership meeting of the fall Tuesday at Ehlen's Greentree Inn, located on Irving Park Road in Bensenville.

John Clark, the sales manager for Wilson-Jones Co., will speak on "Products Marketing."

The social hour will begin at 6:30 p.m. and dinner will be served at 7 p.m.

Bensenville GI Cited In Vietnam

Army Pfc. Robert W. Decker II, whose parents and wife, Shirley, live at 202 S. Rose St., Bensenville, recently received the Combat Infantryman Badge while serving in Vietnam.

The 23-year-old soldier is a grenadier in Company B, 6th Battalion, Ninth Infantry Division, serving near Ben Luc. He entered service in May, 1968, and already holds the Purple Heart medal.

The badge is a blue rectangle with a silver rifle mounted on it, superimposed over a curved wreath. The award was originated in World War II to honor the infantryman's effort.

He received the honor for performance in active ground combat against a hostile force.

Zoning Proposal Upheld By Board

The Bensenville Zoning Board of Appeals has stuck to its guns by retaining the original proposed zoning scheme for the Bensenville Home Gardens and Irving Highlands area.

Since these areas were forcibly an-nexed into the village several months ago, some residents have protested the proposed zoning.

Although a public hearing regarding the proposed zoning has not been held, village officials have given residents of the area an opportunity to express their views at village board meetings and at a special meeting of the zoning board.

A Bensenville Zoning Board of Appeals public hearing has been scheduled for Sept. 25 at 8 p.m. in the village hall. At this time residents can further make known their views and make alternate suggestions prior to the zoning board's final recommendation to the village board. The village board does not have to accept the zoning board's recommendation.

RESIDENTS LIVING on the west side of Walnut Street in Irving Highlands and homeowners of Brookwood Street in Bensenville Home Gardens have vehemently protested the original zoning proposal.

The zoning scheme calls for R-2 (single-family residential) zoning for the west side of Walnut and an R-4 (multiple-family residential) for the east side of the street.

The residents living on the west side of Walnut Street contend multiple-family dwellings located across the street from them would lower their property values and be a detriment to the community cohesiveness on the block.

Several Brookwood Street homeowners have likened their situation to a battle for survival.

While the south side of Brookwood has been scheduled for R-4 zoning, the north side is planned for M-1 (light industrial) zoning.

VILLAGE OFFICIALS contend the M-1

zoning would not adversely affect the present homeowners unless someone panicked and sold out to an industrial developer. Eventually, officials say, the north side of the street will be part of the O'Hare Southwest Industrial Park, but residents now living there would probably not be affected for some time.

The homeowners of the area have retained a lawyer to aid them. He is scheduled to formally represent the homeowners at the public hearing.

THE JAYCEE CARNIVAL will come to Addison Sept. 16 - 20. One of the acts will feature a motorcycle feat in a wire globe. Here Speedy Wilson "goes over the top" in his speeding motorcycle performance.

Oktoberfest Coming Soon!

There will be an Oktoberfest in Bensenville this October, complete with bratwurst and root beer.

The Grace Lutheran Church, 950 S. York Rd., has scheduled an Oktoberfest Bazaar at the church for Oct. 22 between 9:30 a.m. and 6 p.m., to raise funds for the church.

Featured at the bazaar will be a "Grandma's Attic" booth, containing junk and discards; a toy and stuffed animal booth; a Christmas decorations booth and a bakery booth.

There also will be a fish pond and toy castle for the youngsters.

Members of the Grace Lutheran Church have worked several months planning and constructing the booths for the bazaar.

Graham Film Offered

The First Spanish Baptist Church, located at Foster Street and E. 89 in Bensenville, will present a Billy Graham film, "His Land," tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

A representative for Graham will be on hand at the church to discuss the film prior to its showing.

Arrest 3 On Drug Counts

Two Wood Dale teens and a 16-year-old from Bensenville last week on narcotics charge.

Richard Conner, 18, of 415 E. Irving Park Rd., was charged with possession of a dangerous drug, driving while under the influence of narcotics and driving off the roadway.

Michael Cooper, 17, of 145 E. Foster Ave. and the juvenile were charged with possession of a dangerous drug. They were reportedly passengers in Conner's car, police said.

Police arrested the three after Conner allegedly drove his car off the roadway near Fenton High School. An officer reportedly spotted a capsule on the floor which he identified as Tuinal, a barbiturate, according to reports. A further search of the car reportedly turned up four more Tuinal capsules, some seeds resembling marijuana and traces of a substance resembling marijuana or its residue, police said. The capsules and substance resembling marijuana were sent to the Joliet Crime Lab for tests.

Conner and Cooper are scheduled to appear in Wheaton Court today. They were being held on $1,000 bond.

The juvenile was turned over to the Bensenville juvenile officer.

In '61 The Paving Estimate Was $23,000; Today It Has Skyrocketed To $182,000

The (Costly) Saga Of Westwood Creek

Several Addison developers were charged with a cumulative bill of $182,000 for improvements to a local drainage ditch following a meeting of Addison village board Tuesday.

The board directed Bud Loftus, village attorney, to send letters to all those developers of subdivisions utilizing Westwood Creek as a drainage ditch, requesting that they render their share of what it would cost to pave the creek.

Westwood Creek accepts most of the storm water drainage from a triangular area formed by Lake Street on the north, Army Trail Road on the south and the proposed I-61 Route 53 on the west. Subdivisions primarily concerned with the creek are Presidential Estates, Westwood, Addison Highlands and Kings Point East.

According to a detailed report submitted by Charles Washer, chairman of the land use committee, ever since 1961 village engineers have been requesting that bonds placed by the developers include the cost of paving the creek, but all such pleas were apparently ignored by the board.

ACCORDING TO WASHER, Anthony Ross, the developer of most of the subdivisions involved, has the major responsibility for paying the costs of improvements to the creek.

"Ross in theory was supposed to pave the creek at the time he developed the Pioneer Park subdivision," Washer said, "but the board never pushed the matter."

Although Ross has often in the past indicated that he would put the improvements in, he has never been required to commit himself legally in terms of a bond.

The original estimate to pave the creek back in 1961 was about $23,000. Today, according to Joseph Pavia, village engineer, the estimate has risen to $182,000, which includes paving not only the invert, but also the sides of the creek to prevent them from being washed away.

THE BOARD WILL hold a special meeting on Monday, Sept. 14, to continue the discussion on the plan.

In other matters, the removal of a "Sunday a.m. only" one-way street sign in front of St. Joseph Church on Fullerton Avenue caused some friction between Trustee Peter Callahan, chairman of the public safety committee, and William Drury, village administrator.

Callahan charged that Drury had removed the sign without having first consulted his committee, and that his action made it appear that the committee didn't know what it was doing.

The pastor of the St. Joseph Church complained that the one-way sign caused confusion about which way to park on the street. However, the public safety committee had earlier recommended that the sign stay up because of the heavy outflow of traffic at the church on Sunday mornings.

DRURY SAID THAT he removed the sign because he found no resolution providing for it. The public safety committee is now forced to re-examine the issue and decide whether or not the sign is required.

In other action, the board approved an ordinance authorizing the holding of a $3 million bond referendum on Oct. 17. The referendum proposes to issue the bonds for public utility improvements.

The four parts of the proposition to be included on the ballot of the referendum are as follows: $485,000 in bonds for improvement to sanitary sewer facilities; $500,000 in bonds for improvements to storm sewer facilities; $935,000 in bonds for improvements to water facilities; and $1,080,000 in bonds for improvements to streets.

DURING THE MEETING, the board presented a certificate of achievement to Arthur Petersen who has served as director of parks and recreation for the Addison Park District since May, 1963. Petersen resigned his position as director effective Aug. 21 to accept a position with high school Dist. 38 as a para-professional and teacher aide.

The board also presented a certificate of appreciation to William Marunde, superintendent of public works, for having served the village longer than anyone else, since Sept. 15, 1950.

Last Broker Park Payment Deferred

Payment of the Bloomingdale Park District's final $4,000 to the village for the Broker Road Park, located on Broker Road north of Lake Street, has been deferred for three years by the village board.

The park board a month ago requested a complete waiver of the payment. However, after several weeks of discussion, the village board at its meeting Wednesday night voted to defer payment with the stipulation that it could be waived at any time during the three years.

The park district made an agreement with the village two years ago to purchase the property for $12,000 — $8,000 of which already has been paid.

Village Pres. Robert Meyers called for a motion concerning the waiver so the park district could be given a definite answer.

Trustee Werner Troesken said he wished to meet with Bill Bryan, village treasurer, to discuss the village's budget before making a decision.

Meyers answered Troesken by saying, "We need recreation facilities desperately. When it comes to this, we can't do enough. I recently had the sad experience of attending a wake for a 12-year-old boy who died while playing in our streets."

"I would like to take action to either approve or disapprove the waiver, so that the park district can go ahead with its plans to develop the park," he continued.

Soden Named To VFW Post

Ray Soden, a member of the Bensenville VFW Tioga Post 2149, was recently named vice chairman of the VFW National Voice of Democracy Committee.

The committee will hold an organizational meeting Sept. 20 in Kansas City, Mo., the site of VFW National Headquarters.

In appointing Soden vice chairman, Herbert S. Rainwater, commander in chief of the VFW, said "The United States of America continues to be plagued by armed enemies abroad and by increased dissension from within. An active, dedicated and resourceful citizenry in these times is vital in maintaining our freedom heritage.

The Voice of Democracy program teaches young Americans that freedom is not free and encourages them to exercise their rights and responsibilities as citizens of a free country.

"The potential of this program is limitless and leadership at all levels of the VFW is extremely vital to the program.

"I am delighted to have Soden as a member of this national committee and look forward to working with him."

Flooding, a perennial problem in DuPage County which accompanied the celebrated expansion of the 1960's, raised its head again Tuesday when Pat Savalano, Bloomingdale Twp., presented a petition with 398 signatures to the county board protesting a "quite appalling" situation at North Avenue and Bloomingdale road. The signers were property owners in Bloomingdale and Milton Townships and Savalano said he was aware that it would take a good deal of money but it was time the county board started moving.

In his remarks this Bloomingdale Township board member made the point that previous boards had been derelict but absolved them from blame because they did not "understand the magnitude of the situation."

THOUGH THE PETITION was received and placed on file it stirred up little or no comment. The County Chairman did ask: "What can we do about it?" No one had any answers. Savalano had said that the State had appropriated monies to DuPage County to solve flood problems and that Bloomingdale and Milton Townships had considerable monies on hand in their road funds which could be legally used for drainage purposes.

A little research reveals, according to County Chairman Weeks, that Bloomingdale Twp. has on hand $37,000 and Milton Twp. over $100,000 in their road funds but the Milton money is already earmarked for other projects. Weeks is supervisor for Milton.

A special bridge tax which can legally be used for drainage is the basis for these township balances. The county also has this "special" tax levy with a provision that it can legally match dollar for dollar with townships to eradicate flood conditions. The question is how much money is it going to take to get rid of the flooding at Bloomingdale Rd. and North Ave. Weeks estimates the cost at between $300,000 and $400,000. He says he has another one a few blocks west which will probably involve another $150,000.

This is why, he says, the county board has not moved faster on this flooding problem which exists throughout the county. It costs money. The fastest way to get this money is to increase the special tax for drainage but would the taxpayers stand for it?

"WE HAVE THE authority but no money," the county chairman says. He insists that a great deal of the flooding has been due to the uncontrolled development of subdivisions throughout the county. The run-off from one area travels to another and creates a flood problem. What's the solution? A countywide approach rather than the present "piecemeal" procedure as at present. Sewage disposal, drainage and pollution have to be considered within the concept of a countywide problem and he estimates the cost at $400 million. This concept was voted down at a referendum last spring.

But within limits imposed over which the county board has little or no control, Weeks says it has to act in the interest of its citizens. He reveals that the road commissioners of Bloomingdale and Milton Townships have been meeting with the chairmen of the county board road and public works committees for the past two months on the issue at hand.

The county chairman blames the "archaic county zoning laws," which he claims are 25 years behind the times, for the present situation. Planning and controlled development is the only sure solution and this means a rewriting of the current zoning code which is 15 years old.

DuPage County, fastest growing in the nation, doubled its population in the past 15 years. This is what has created the problems that confront county government and is bringing pressures for their immediate solution. The elementary logic says more money means larger budgets which call for more taxes.

Fact-finders In Dist. 12

A special fact-finding committee will soon be formed to act as an intermediary in the negotiations between teachers and officials of the Roselle Elementary School Dist. 12.

Teacher contract negotiations which have been going since early this summer are at a standstill, having reached what is known as the impasse stage.

The fact-finding committee is required under the terms of a professional negotiations agreement which both sides approved prior to the start of discussions. The agreement spells out the format negotiations must follow and provides methods for resolving impasses.

The fact-finding committee will consist of a field representative for the teachers, one for the board of education and a third party mutually chosen.

The school board was expected to select its representative yesterday and vote on the third member also.

After three weeks this committee will make recommendations to both sides. The specific area of disagreement can't be discussed under the terms of the professional negotiation agreement, according to Roselle Dist. 12 Supt. E. J. W. Bagg.

Benefits and not salaries, however, is said to be the main area of dispute. Both district officials and teachers have said there is no danger of a strike. All teachers are currently employed under the terms of last year's contract terms.

While contract negotiations have bogged down in Roselle and other neighboring towns, Dist. 11 Medinah teachers are working under a new contract approved this summer.

Negotiations in Dist. 11 proceeded without formal guidelines. Because of an early start in February a settlement was reached in July. Starting salaries for first year teachers with a bachelors degree was increased from $7,000 to $7,500 and for first year teachers with a masters degree from $7,400 to $8,100.

The teachers originally asked for starting salaries for persons with a bachelors degree of $7,800, and proposed a contract which was geared for the tenured, career teachers, according to Wilbert Yakkel, president of the Medinah Teachers' Association.

Although the teachers "were appalled at the school board's first reply to their terms," they finally accepted what they considered a benefit program which was an improvement over last year's, Yakkel said.

Scout Troop 405 Plans Activities

The Itasca Boy Scout Troop 405 has announced its schedule of activities for the coming year.

On Sept. 25, 26 and 27, troop members will be attending their Fall Camporee at the Salt Creek Forest Preserve in Wood Dale. The outing, which is being held for all troops in the Sauk District, is sponsored by the DuPage Area Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

A second spring camporee will be held in either March or April.

The troop will also go on three overnight hikes at a camping area in Tinley Park, during October, December and March.

Three paper drives, which are annually sponsored by the troop for Itasca residents, will be conducted on Oct. 18, Jan. 17 and April 18.

A swimming program at the Elmhurst YMCA will be in progress throughout the year. Scouts participating will be able to take lessons as well as use the pool for recreation.

To start off the new year, the troop will take a weekend ski to Wisconsin in January.

The scouts also plan to take part in the Klondike Derby on Jan. 30 at the Cantigny War Memorial Park near Wheaton. Here, they will participate in dog sled races and other snow-oriented activities.

In February, the troop will hold its annual Pancake Day, to which everyone in the town is invited. The exact time and location will be announced.

To begin the summer program, in June, members will head for Camp Northwestern in Wisconsin for a camping excursion.

Highlighting the year's schedule, will be the two week camping trip to the Glacier Camp Grounds in Estes Park, Colo., in August. During the two weeks, scouts will be working on conservation projects and night seeing.

The troop, which presently consists of 25 boys ranging in age from 11 to 16 years, is led by Scout Master Frank Cieslack, and his Assistant, Donald Perry.

Starting next week meetings will be held at 7 p.m. on Mondays at the Bethany Church at Walnut and Division streets. Previously, meetings were held on Wednesday night.

Sewer Ratings Rise With TV

Wood Dale's Public Works Dept. has decided to bolster its sewer ratings by televising the sewer line between Wood Dale Road and Grove Street on Commercial Avenue.

Although it won't be on any national channel, the officials will be viewing the program with extreme interest. Area residents have suffered continual water backup during heavy rainfalls.

Ralph Maonna, sewer and water commissioner, rates the project in "prime time" and added that the village would pay the cost of the program.

From Sesamy Street to Grove Street, Wood Dale residents are hoping the televised special will be a huge success.

The televised sewer line project will start subject to approval of a bid on the project.

3 Arrested For Check Thefts

A Roselle man and two area women were arrested last week by Bloomingdale police in connection with the theft of checks from The DeOr Construction Co. in Bloomingdale last April, according to police reports.

Ronald C. Ecklund, 30, of 506 S. Sycamore, Roselle, was charged with theft by possession, and Elouise Prescott, 20, of Northlake, and Barbara Gean Thompson, 22, of Glen Ellyn, were both charged with forgery and the possession and passing of stolen checks, police said.

According to Police Chief Harold Rivkin, checks taken during the burglary belonging to the DeOr Construction Co. and Coin Electric were cashed in Glendale Heights in July.

Following a month-long investigation, the three suspects were apprehended, Rivkin said.

Ecklund was released on $1,000 bond. Bond was set at $15,000 for the two women who are presently in the DuPage County jail.

Sacred Music Concert Slated

A special group of singers will present a program of sacred music at 7 p.m. Sunday at the Evangelical Free Church, Bonnie Brae and George Streets, Itasca.

Under the direction of Harry Hunt, the group has performed in many outstanding concerts throughout the Chicago area. The goal of the group is to present a high quality of sacred music that will be both stimulating and rewarding.

The singers are sponsored by Evangelical Child Welfare Agency of Chicago. Robert Murfin, executive director of the agency, said presenting the singing group is one way the agency has of expressing appreciation to the churches and community for support given to the child welfare work through the years.

Vote To Rezone Mart Property

The Bloomingdale Village Board Wednesday night voted to rezone the Econ-O-Mart property at 110 Ridge St., upon the recommendation of the plan commission.

The zoning change is from B-2 (community business district) to B-3 (service business district), with a special-use permit to allow open and outside sales in conjunction with the retail operation in progress on the premises.

Wallace Geils, village trustee, is the owner of the business.

Itasca Hears 2 Annex Pleas

Annexation proposals for the Peter Spears' property located near Arlington Heights and Thorndale roads, and the parcel owned by the Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS), northwest of Itasca, are being considered by the Itasca Plan Commission for recommendation to the village board.

Representatives of the proposed Spears' development and CBS appeared at a public hearing before the commission Tuesday night to present their proposals.

According to plans, the approximately 97 acres of Spears' property will house a subdivision of apartments and custom built single family units.

the single family units, composed of 20 lots.

ANOTHER 14-ACRE portion of the area will house six to eight three-story apartment buildings. Guy Fishman, architect for the development, said there will be a total of 252 apartments, one-third having one bedroom, and the rest with two bedroom units.

Fishman said about one and one-half acres will be designated for public use, which "probably will be given to the village."

He also said the complex will include parking space, a swimming pool and other recreational facilities.

Business zoning is being requested for roughly 15 acres on the site for a shopping center to be built later.

The engineer for the development told the commission designs for sewer and water service have been completed, and have been approved by the village consulting engineer, J. Richard Koehler.

In accordance with the pre-annexation agreement, the developer will provide paving on Bryn Mawr Avenue from Arlington Heights Road to Willow Street, including curb and gutter facilities, and will reserve one lot site for street dedication.

REPRESENTATIVES of CBS also presented their case for annexation of the approximately 56 acres, located near the southwest corner of Devon Avenue and Route 53.

Radio transmitters and other broadcasting facilities for WBBM are presently located on the site.

CBS is requesting B-3 zoning (service business district), to accommodate possible relocation of its Chicago studios and offices in the future.

Provisions in the pre-annexation agreement stipulate CBS will be exempt from any special assessments or taxes for five years from the date of annexation, because the site is already self-contained with its own sewer and water facilities.

A spokesman for the Ralston Purina Co. also submitted plans for its proposed manufacturing subdivision to the commission at its regular meeting following the public hearings.

The proposed development will be situated on a 20-acre stretch of the 62 acres owned by the company, near the Milwaukee Road tracks and east of Prospect Road.

Vote Expected On Zone Request

Roselle's Plan Commission was expected to vote on a rezoning request last night for land in what is slated to be the new center of town, near the relocated railroad station.

At the continued meeting the members will consider the petition of De-Or Builders and A. R. DiBastista to rezone five lots behind the Jewel Tea food store, from residential to business use.

The lots which are part of the Willow Creek Unit Two development total about one and a half acres, and are east of Cherry Street according to Marvin Ravis, plan commission chairman.

The plan commission didn't act on the request at its regularly scheduled meeting last week, because the petitioners weren't present to answer questions. Some of the commission members hadn't seen the land involved, Ravis said.

The rezoning request is scheduled for a public hearing before the Roselle Zoning Board of Appeals at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the village hall.

New Principal Is Appointed

George W. Bowman has been appointed by the Medinah Dist. 11 school board as the new principal for South School.

Bowman, 51, left a position as a college administrator at Sturgis, Mich., to take the job.

"We are extremely fortunate to find such an outstanding candidate as this at this time," Orval Trail, Dist. 11 superintendent, said.

Bowman has had extensive experience in elementary education, said Trail. Prior to his work at Sturgis, Bowman was an elementary principal and curriculum coordinator in Iowa.

He received his bachelor's degree from Grinnell College, Grinnell, Iowa, and his master's degree from Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa.

BOWMAN HOLDS a doctorate in general and elementary school administration from the University of Nebraska.

He is married and has a married daughter. He and his wife are seeking a home in the area.

The Dist. 11 school board hired Bowman Tuesday night at a special executive session.

In other action at the meeting, the board authorized Trail to initiate a policy for instruction to homebound students.

Under the new policy students who because of injury or illness must remain out of school for at least a month can receive an hour of instruction a day from the district, on the receipt of a letter from a doctor.

The district has had several requests in the past to provide homebound instruction and has handled each case individually. Establishment of a policy will prevent any time lag from the period of request to board approval, Trail explained.

Theft Reported At House Of Fashions

An unknown amount of money was stolen last week from the Palmer House of Fashions, located at 442 S. York Road in Bensenville.

A person or persons entered the building through an unlocked window sometime Wednesday night, according to police. A desk drawer, where the cash box was kept was pried open and an undetermined amount of money was taken. Change from a soft drink machine was also reportedly taken.

Police are investigating.

Peace Corps Reaches Age Of Maturity

by ED MURNANE
PADDOCK STATE EDITOR

The Peace Corps, nine-year-old brain child of the late Pres. John F. Kennedy, is reaching the age of maturity, according to Thomas J. Houser, former Arlington Heights resident and currently deputy director of the Peace Corps.

During an exclusive interview with Paddock Publications last Friday, Houser, who has been deputy director since early 1969, said he thinks the Peace Corps "has definitely been a success but that it's just starting to learn from its mistakes."

"He said the Peace Corps is now entering a new phase and that its service will be determined largely by the countries it helps, rather than by the kind of help it has provided in the past."

and had 12,500 volunteers in 54 countries in 1966.

"But in 1966 something happened," he said. "The host countries said they loved the Peace Corps and they loved the young people who were in their countries. But they needed greater skills and the trend began to fall off. We had fewer requests from overseas for assistance."

Houser said the falling off trend continued until last winter and that now, the decline apparently has reached a bottom level.

The emphasis in the Peace Corps now, he said, is to provide the kind of assistance the host countries request.

"That's what makes the Peace Corps so unfamiliar to a lot of Americans," he said. "The key thing to consider is that every other U.S. agency that has over-

One of the problems that led to the Peace Corps' heavy emphasis on cultural exchange during its early years, Houser said, was the abundance of recent college graduates who applied.

"In the beginning, the Peace Corps was overwhelmed by college graduates," he said. "From 90 to 95 per cent of the volunteers were recent graduates and there still is a stereotype that the Peace Corps is something for young people to do."

"We need college graduates and they do have skills," he said. "But for the most part, their skills are not the kind that can be transferred to counterparts in other countries."

Today, Houser said, the emphasis is on filling the requests of the overseas countries with a mixed assortment of skills and trades.

"We've made great progress this year in agriculture," he said. "We're getting farmers and people with agriculture degrees. We're also getting architects and engineers. These are the kinds of skills we need now — not just recent graduates who can teach in overseas schools."

Houser said there has not been as strong a response from blue collar workers but the Peace Corps is beginning a working relationship with the United Auto Workers and the American Federation of Labor in an attempt to get more volunteers.

"We definitely still have a great interest in getting college graduates to volunteer," Houser said. "They probably will continue to be the backbone of the volunteer force."

He said there has been a drop-off of college volunteers and that recent anti-American sentiments on college campus may be one of the reasons.

"A lot of the young people are growing more concerned with the problems we face at home and they aren't as willing to volunteer for overseas duty," he said.

Some volunteers, he said, probably have joined the Peace Corps to get draft deferments but there no longer is a deferment for joining.

"We do have an understanding with the Selective Service Department that they will not draft a volunteer who is overseas," he said. "But we don't want Peace Corps volunteers to be exempt from the draft. That probably would increase the number of applicants but it also probably would cut down on the idealism of the volunteers."

Houser thinks the Peace Corps may be having its greatest success in Africa.

"I don't mean that the program in Africa is the best but because of the rash of emerging new countries, there is a great need for help and we're providing it."

"There also is a great appreciation for us in Africa. The Peace Corps makes up almost our only presence in Africa since we have very limited foreign policy there."

Houser sees a bright future for the Peace Corps and thinks the Peace Corps idea is now firmly implanted in Congress.

"During the last few years, the Peace Corps has been going through tough times with Congress, but so have most other foreign policy agencies. We're coming through well, however."

The Peace Corps appropriations reached a peak in 1966 with $113 million and were down to $101 million last year.

'...Still Interested In College Graduates'

"The real turning point for the Peace Corps came in 1966," Houser said. "That's when the honeymoon ended."

Prior to that, he said, the Peace Corps had concentrated heavily on two goals of the Peace Corps Act which stressed the benefits of cross cultural exchange for Americans, who would learn a foreign culture, and for natives of other countries who would learn about Americans.

"The third part of the Act is the important one," he said, "and that's the goal of transferring manpower skills to other nations and helping them with their own economic development."

"The Peace Corps wasn't paying much attention to that phase during the early years," he said.

From 1961 to 1966, Houser said the Peace Corps showed a rapid growth rate seas operations conducts those operations in the selfish interests of the United States, and that's the way it should be.

"But the whole idea behind the Peace Corps was to act in the selfish interests of the host countries. That approach makes it unique — and it also makes it acceptable in some places where other American activities aren't acceptable," he said.

One problem that results from the Peace Corps approach, Houser said, is that it is evaluated and criticized in terms of its effect on the United States.

"The press looks at the number of applicants to determine if it's a success," he said. "That's not the right gauge to use. It has to be evaluated in terms of overseas performance."

Record History On Glass Bottles

NEW YORK (UPI) — Many of history's greatest events are indelibly recorded on glass bottles.

Nineteenth-century glass blowers were frequently called upon to make bottles commemorating military victories, political events and notable achievements in such fields as exploration, science and invention. Elaborate designs depicting eagles, sailing ships and men on horseback were blown right into the glass.

Because glass is durable and impervious to the elements, many of these memorial bottles, still exist.

"THE HONEYMOON ended in 1966 for the Peace Corps," said Deputy Director Thomas J. Houser during an exclusive interview with Paddock Publications. "Our emphasis now is to provide the help other nations want."

Houser Eyes 'Old Neighborhood'

Although Tom Houser makes it very clear that the Peace Corps "prides itself as being apolitical," the former Wheeling Township Republican committeeman hasn't lost his interest in politics, nor his willingness to talk about his favorite pastime.

He's now a member of official Washington, holding the highest administration position of any former Northwest suburban resident in recent years.

But Houser still keeps his eye on the old neighborhood and he spoke freely last week on political activity and developments in Illinois.

Twice, Houser served as campaign manager for Sen. Charles H. Percy — in 1964 when Percy ran unsuccessfully for governor against former Gov. Otto Kerner and in 1966 when he defeated former Sen. Paul H. Douglas.

His views on several issues: — On Percy and his apparent problems in the Republican Party: "I think he does have some problems in conservative areas. The conservatives think he's too liberal. But polls are showing that he's running remarkably well with the electorate as a whole."

"ONE POLL showed that 74 per cent of the voters felt he was doing an acceptable job. The key questions now are what will happen in 1972? Will there be serious opposition? I think he's gratified with Gov. Ogilvie's support. That will mean an awful lot."

"But it's still premature to rule out opposition. There are forces opposed to him, but Chuck is a tough campaigner and it's hard to tell if there will be serious opposition. It's very difficult to mount a good campaign."

— On the Smith-Stevenson race for the United States Senate: "I think the Washington view right now is that it's a close race, with Stevenson slightly ahead. I can see Smith gaining but the real problem is in terms of name identification. I personally think at least 20 per cent of the voters don't make up their minds until the last 48 hours so what Smith needs is a crescendo, a strong climax at the end. It's still too close to call and it could go down to the last 12 hours. I don't think you can say Smith doesn't have a chance. I think any debates they have will be a plus for Smith."

— On former Rep. Donald Rumsfeld's future: "He'll be around for awhile. He's a remarkable young man with a good political head. He has what it takes to go far. I think he's done a very good job so far in a very tough position (Rumsfeld is director of the Office of Economic Opportunity)."

"RUMSFELD is growing very close to the inner circles of the White House and his future may very much depend on his own decisions of where to go — the timing of his moves and the jobs he takes."

"I think the MOED move was a good one — although I didn't at the start. But Don needed administrative experience and he has learned one heck of a lot. He's getting a balanced perspective and that's a very good sign."

— On Rumsfeld's successor, Rep. Philip M. Crane: "I think he's making a favorable impact on Washington. A lot of people see him as acting and voting more moderately than they would have been led to believe possible by his earlier positions and image."

"I don't think he's disillusioning the conservatives, yet he's pleasing us. I think he's an attractive candidate but he has a record to compile and it's still too early to say what that record will be."

— On changes in the Northwest suburbs since he left last year: "I don't see as many political changes as I do social ones. I think people are growing more concerned, there's a lessening of apathy. It's difficult to be apathetic. I think the Wheeling GOP's idea of communicating with the young people is an excellent example of this. I'm not sure I even care what happens as a result of it, just as long as there's an exchange of ideas. Both sides are knocking out the old stereotypes."

HOUSER IS A native of Chicago and practiced law in the Chicago area for 10 years prior to accepting his appointment as deputy director of the Peace Corps.

He was Wheeling Township Republican committeeman from 1962 to 1966.

THOMAS J. HOUSER, former Wheeling Township Republican committeeman, returned to the Northwest suburbs last week for his first official visit as deputy director of the Peace Corps.

Hope For Park Expansion

The Wood Dale Park Board earlier this week sent a letter to the village council seeking a long-term lease to two park sites and funds from the sale of another, according to Bill McDowell, park commissioner.

The park district is requesting that the village council give it a long-term lease on "O'Brien Park" located at Carter and Forrest View and lot 84 (donated by developer Joe Willens for recreational purposes).

O'Brien Park, named in memory of resident Jack O'Brien, is a 2½-acre site which park officials feel should be within park district domain.

"WE FEEL THIS site would serve a number of youngsters east of Addison Road and south of Irving Park Road," McDowell said. "The property hasn't been maintained very well."

Lot 84, under village control, is another site the park board wants developed into a "tot lot" for preschool children. It is asking for a long-term lease on this land.

The park board is asking for the $7,500 obtained by the village in the sale of lot 68, another lot donated by Willens for recreational use. Park commissioners hope to use this revenue to purchase park equipment for Brookwood, O'Brien parks and lot 84.

Some village officials feel that their generosity in partially-financing the village-park swimming pool was a big enough contribution to park district development. They feel some park officials are being unfair in continually asking the village council for additional funds for park use.

Reportedly, the $7,500 from the sale of lot 68 was transferred into the Municipal Building Fund.

IN THE PAST month, the park district has had the opportunity to add five additional parks into its control. The public donation of Traveleire Day Camp to the park district, the availability of O'Brien Park and lot 84 and the recent purchase of property by the fire department for park development are being considered by park commissioners.

The possible purchase of Lionwood Park, behind the Wood Dale Library, is still in the negotiating stage. The Lions are asking $25,000 for the park which they find difficult to properly maintain. The park district has offered $20,000.

The Lions set Sept. 1 as a deadline for the sale but indicated that deadline would be extended if the park board showed interest in the purchase.

Both parties have sent letters setting their price for the park. Park board commissioners are now awaiting further word from Joe DiBella, Lion park committee chairman.

"We haven't heard from them so we don't know what they're doing," said Jo Kuffel, park commissioner.

Local WIU Co-ed Bound For Paris

Victoria Iwanow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Waseil Musyka, 250 N. Orchard St., Bensenville, will study this year at the Paris center of the Institute of European Studies.

Miss Iwanow is a junior, majoring in French at Western Illinois University, Macomb.

At each of the six institute centers in Austria, England, France, Germany and Spain, American college undergraduates have the opportunity of studying at a European university with European professors.

Institute students attend university courses — supplemented by the institute's own classes and tutorials — taught by European faculty in their native languages.

The central objective of the institute programs is to strengthen the student's educational experience by exposing her to a different intellectual tradition and to integrate this experience, through a transfer of academic credits, with their American college program of studies.

The Institute of European Studies, one of the largest American foreign study programs, regularly draws students from more than 400 colleges and universities across the country. Since its founding in Vienna in 1950, the Chicago-based institute has provided more than 5,000 students the opportunity of studying in a regular academic program in Europe.

The total enrollment for 1970-71 is 550, with most students participating in the full-year programs. The institute also has summer language programs in Madrid and Paris.

DuPage Party Sick

The Democratic Party organization of DuPage County is sick. It has been ailing for a long time, but now some of its symptoms appear fatal.

Two of the Democratic candidates slated for the November elections have dropped out of the running, and the party has had to find standins.

Nicholas Thomas withdrew from the race for Democratic candidate for Congress in the 14th District.

Democrats came up with an opponent in the person of William Adelman of Bensenville, former candidate for delegate to the Illinois Constitutional Convention.

Earlier, Wood Dale resident Philip Grisolia withdrew from the race for county clerk and was replaced by Mrs. Patricia Ring, a housewife from Downers Grove.

Thomas reportedly withdrew for reasons of health; Grisolia issued a statement saying he was disgusted with the party's organization and effort. This loss of candidates puts the enfeebled Democratic Party in an unusually awkward light.

Broader participation and more vigorous leadership seem essential if the party is to pull out of this nosedive and begin offering effective alternatives to GOP monopoly. As it is, the only semblance of a two-party system in DuPage is the conservative-moderate split within the Republican Party.

The Fence Post

Class Size Is Not Key

The teachers in Dist. 59 are refusing to sign a contract. The remaining large issue is not salary but their insistence that class size be reduced. This is not a reasonable demand for two reasons at least. The first reason is that the school board is properly the agency to determine policy. The teachers and other professionals are of course valued for their professional opinions. When these opinions are not convincing to the policy board, it hardly seems correct for them to resort to compulsive methods to force their opinion on the proper policy body. The matter at issue is one concerning the functioning of the district and is not one concerning their own individual rights.

In pushing for smaller class sizes the teachers have espoused a cause that has much popular support. Everybody assumes that small classes are beneficial. Statistical evidence suggests otherwise. Let me quote from authoritative sources. Doctor Roger Freeman, presidential advisor, said in a major address on this point on June 19: "The evidence we have accumulated is somewhat surprising. We have recorded traditional variables that supposedly affect the quality of learning, class size, school expenditure, pupil/teacher ratio, condition of building, teacher experience and the like. Yet there seems to be no direct relationship between these school measurements and performance. Statistical data in that report show that reading and arithmetic achievements in the highest expenditure schools average between five and seven months behind those in the schools with the lowest expenditures. The same is true for teacher/pupil ratios."

HE WENT ON further to say: "On the whole the statistical findings definitely favor large classes at every level of instruction except the kindergarten, the general trend of evidence places the burden of proof squarely upon the proponents of small classes." He went on to say that three years ago the Coleman report found that the teacher/pupil ratio "showed a consistent lack of relation to achievements among all groups under all conditions." He went on to say, "That the myth that pupils learn more in smaller classes still flourishes and the demand for cutting class size continues while resistance to technological progress such as programmed learning with the help of machines or television and film grows."

The findings of this authority are supported by many others including the renowned Negro educator, Kenneth Clark.

Statistical evidence in our own community supports these conclusions. In a report issued by Dist. 59 itself, it was shown that the achievement levels of the children in our district are considerably below that in the adjoining parochial schools. The same finding has been true for the entire Chicago area. These figures are only recently released. Dist. 59 not only has many more teachers than the parochial schools, but is spending over three times as much money per pupil and getting much poorer results.

The figures from Dist. 59 will show that we hire one teacher for every twenty students. Somehow the average class size is about 28 students in a class. In addition to the teachers we hire, we do have available volunteers whose use should have a beneficial effect if small class size is the objective.

THE ABOVE COMMENTS are merely the statistical proof that small class size is not effective. You may cast about for reasons why the results are not consistent with the opinions of the teachers themselves. One enlightened teacher suggested that large classes contain "peer teachers." That is, the children learn a great deal from their contemporaries. It is easily understandable that in a large class size the discussion may cover a greater range of facts and that more children may bring their problems with the subject matter to the attention of the entire class. This is improved supposition but the statistical facts remain. Dist. 59 recently authorized the hiring of 25 more teachers. This was done after the budget had been set for the current year and was apparently a response to the insistence of the teachers. The taxpayer will in the end have to pay for the implementing of this. Dist. 59 has for many years been the highest spending district in this area. The results have not been commensurate with the expenditure. Rather than insisting on smaller classes, perhaps our experts should study the school systems that are able to get better results in larger classes and with less money. Perhaps the solution lies in good leadership and the insistence on discipline in the class.

Wood Dale Sidewalk Law 'Segregates'

The latest victory in Wood Dale politics is an ordinance providing sidewalks for a segregated group of homeowners. The village council's concern for the safety of our children should be commended.

Realizing the possibility of defeat in a referendum, they segregated the homeowners, by means of an ordinance that put into law, sidewalks on the main county roads of Wood Dale.

This ordinance directly affects my pocketbook and I would grit my teeth and bear it, if the council had the courage to follow their own convictions. It appears that the village has taken a step in reverse, with the latest release, that only one side of Addison Road must install sidewalks.

APPARENTLY THE need for safety, is limited to the children on the east side of the road. The fact that the school is located on the west side has not been considered in the retreat. Logic should tell our councilmen that the children on the east side must cross Addison Road and a one-sided safety measure could best serve all the children if the sidewalks were installed on the west side of the road. However, west sided residents could claim that there is no danger to their children as they do not have to cross the street, and object to paying for the safety of our children. I quite agree.

The truth is safety should be the concern and burden of all village residents, not a segregated few. As an American and a taxpayer, I resent any law, any ordinance that discriminates against a selected minority. As a voter, I resent when village officials feel the will of the people, no longer must be considered, once they are in office.

Who Sees Drug Problem?

Friday, Aug. 28, 1970, you carried two articles in the paper. One of them was headlined "No Drug Problem Here" and the other "Suburban Drug Abuse Talk Held By Area Residents." It seems strange that more than "100 local, county and state representatives" should meet to discuss a non-existent problem.

I would agree with the no drug problem if police records of arrests for possession of drugs was the basis for the statement as it seemed to be. (I didn't notice any mention of drunken driving or alcohol related arrests, our number one drug abuse.) We would be burying our heads in the sand if we accepted this headline as truth. We are a pill popping drug abusing society. Rather than look at the police records, perhaps we should take a survey upon: the number of sleeping pills, get going pills, tranquilizers and diet pills prescribed by physicians; the over the counter No-Doz, Compoz etc. sold at the drug store. Certainly police records are an indication of the illegal users, according to present laws, but they are certainly not indicative of all the abusers of drugs.

FORTUNATELY OUR local residents have not accepted the No Drug Problem headline; I hope they are attacking the causes of the problem and girding their forces to change the antiquated laws now on the books. I hope the educators are going to their schools to revamp the curricula to reach all their students needs, not just the academically oriented college bound. Are they working on ways to recognize the student is a person, not an IBM number (especially at the high school level)? Why not explore student planned (with help) years of growth in high-school? How important and necessary are English, math, history and sci-those other people singing at a community sing or when the national anthem is played? It seems to me enjoyment of knowledge is enough at the elementary level without a label. If there are no A's, no one has to cheat to get one. Later in life he might get a "high," even though it may be off-key.

We're a pill popping society, no wonder. We've been lambasted by every commercial in the world that our problems, no matter what, can be solved by a blue, pink, green or what-have-you pill, and if that won't do it booze will. Not only will our problems be solved, but the advertising industry would have us believe that as a normal side effect of these pills, cigarettes (another drug—nicotine) etc., our masculinity and femininity are enhanced.

NO WONDER WE worry about the druggers, and if we don't we'd better. They're here (in spite of the police record) in the form of abusers of sleeping pills, LSD, marijuana, booze, etc. It's not just the teenagers and the swingers, but let's get to the causes as well as the symptoms. Let's look at the problems: antiquated drug laws, lack of rehabilitation facilities, Vietnam, narrow minded curricula, turned off parents, turned off people not caring about each other.

Have we set up false idols for our youngsters? Do they have the right to question our establishment? Even the elementary school youngster must begin to worship "the grade" or we say he's shirking. It's not enough, for example, to love singing and be putting your all out. It's the quality that's important, so we give an "A" or "D," but we have no idea what the "feeling" is. Enough quality marks not so good as someone else and soon the love of singing is gone, maybe stamped out forever. (Why aren't all

We Got A Two-Party System

The Political Beat

Fungus Carries Dynamite

by CHARLES HUFNAGEL

Corn may decide the election Nov. 3 in Illinois. It's the opinion of many observers that the extent and quality of this crop and the price the farmer gets for it will be an important factor in what the downstate rural areas do with their votes.

The reasons why this is so are the reasons why Republican Party prognosticators in the leading corn states, Illinois, Indiana and Iowa — the heart of the Republican conservative Midwest — are following with no little concern what the fungus blight is doing and may do to the farmer's pocketbook.

It is true that the farmer today represents only a fraction of the producing and earning population but as a supplier of basic foodstuffs, in Illinois principally meats, he has to be recognized as a major factor in the economic life of the nation. As he goes, so goes a large sector of the economy.

BECAUSE OF advanced farm technology today with intensive and scientific handling of the soil to get maximum crop production, the farmer has to have tools which run into big capital outlays. To finance his complex operations — equipment, fertilizer, seed, insecticides — he has well developed banking connections. He is a major customer in the village and population centers in rural Illinois. But equally significant he is a major taxpayer, especially for schools.

So it is no exaggeration at all to contend that the extent of this corn fungus blight on the 1970 crop weighs heavily on the economic fortunes of rural Illinois. As the farmer goes pocketbookwise so go these areas. The corn fungus contains political dynamite.

In the Galesburg, Rock Island and Quincy triangle after a delayed start and a wet season, the corn crop looks promising. However some fields are visibly hurt, have already turned brown, and the question now is whether the worst is yet to come. Some surveys have placed the loss expected at 5 per cent, which would hurt but would not be disastrous. Other estimates are at 10 per cent and higher. But sounder views say it is now too early to tell. It will take from three to four weeks to determine how great the damage of this fungus blight when the harvest gets under way. Last year Illinois was the No. 1 corn producer.

Reports from other corn areas are less promising and point to trouble. What this can mean is that a poor corn crop would almost certainly lead to higher meat prices and an upward pressure on food prices generally. The threat of higher food prices is a reason why unions feel assured of winning their bid for bigger pay envelopes. This of course spells trouble for conservative Republicans who insist on pay increases as inflationary.

WHAT THE NIXON economists proliferate as higher wisdom could be scuttled in a jiffy by the capriciousness of mythic gods. The danger latent in this situation is that it carries the seeds of a chain reaction which could upset the calculations of orthodox political and economic thinking.

Addison Arena

Randhurst: Big Challenge

by JIM FULLER

Is Randhurst really ready to shuck out a $30 million investment right now to come to Addison?

The question was raised by a disgruntled property owner last week, and is only one of many which have begun to crop up, each trying to pierce the aura of mystery which now surrounds the proposed shopping center.

According to the latest information made public by the village, Randhurst would like to become part of Addison before the end of this year; however, everything appears contingent on numerous bold ventures and overcoming sharp obstacles — and the sweat and blood are beginning to show.

One of the most hazardous obstacles appearing on the horizon, and closing in much too fast, is the $3 million bond referendum scheduled for Oct. 17. To stumble here would be disastrous.

ACCORDING TO the village, the bond money would be used to widen streets, to build a well, storage tanks and a booster station, and to construct a sanitary sewer line to serve the general area as well as the new shopping center.

But the most crucial venture for the village involves the purchase of land around a small lake south of the proposed center. Plans call for the lake to be deepened and expanded so it can be used as a storm water retention basin to control flooding in the area.

The village has already condemned the land of four people in the area of Swift and Medinah roads, and tempers are flaring. The residents in the area are accusing the village of "underhanded dickering" and making the people a "niggardly offer" for their land.

"It's all this underhanded stuff," one resident said. "All they had to do was come to the homeowners and discuss this thing. Instead they sent them letters condemning their land at $2,000 an acre."

The village had hoped to negotiate with the landowners and avoid a court fight. But the reaction of the homeowners to the tactics used by the village are now so completely negative that negotiation may be impossible.

But is there time for a court fight? Randhurst officials have said they want to sign an annexation agreement by the end of the year. The shopping center's land option on property between Swift and Medinah roads runs out on Feb. 15. Added to all this, another question had been raised — with the present recession, is Randhurst really ready to lay out $30 million right away to proceed in building the project?

Village manager William Drury stated earlier this week that the village board had its work cut out for it — this may have been an understatement.

Sewer Disconnect Extension Delayed

Bloomington Village Pres. Robert Meyers failed to issue an executive order granting a six month extension on the Oct. 1 storm sewer line disconnection deadline for residents in Suncrest Highlands, at the village board meeting Wednesday night.

He said he postponed the order pending decision on the results of a meeting with Suncrest residents Thursday night.

The meeting was called so that the issue could be discussed and suggestions for alternative solutions could be made.

TRUSTEE RALPH Johnston suggested action should be taken at the board meeting to extend the deadline. "Sixty-three disconnections have already been made, and by the end of this month a considerably larger portion of residents in the area will have disconnected."

Meyers answered him by saying he would like to discuss the issue further with the residents. "There will be another board meeting before Oct. 1, and if need be, the order can be issued then," he said.

Homeowners in Suncrest were requested in December to disconnect, in accordance with provisions in a suit filed against the village last fall by State Atty Gen. William Scott.

The suit that was originally filed accused Bloomington of polluting Spring Brook Creek.

PRESENTLY, storm water is flowing into the sanitary sewers, causing an overload to the treatment plant. Because of this, polluted water is bypassing the plant into the streams around the town.

Since December, residents have complained about the high cost of the project.

Meyers intended to issue the executive order so that the matter could be referred back to the public works committee for further study.

He said he hoped the committee could come up with a more equitable solution from both economic and engineering standpoints.

'Special Use' Bid Rejected

The Wood Dale Village Council Thursday night rejected local developer Pete Forrest's request for a special use permit in the construction of 18-unit apartments near Irving Park and Wood Dale Road in the village.

Only Councilman Don Voss approved the special use as recommended by the village planning commission. Ralph Madonna abstained from voting while councilmen Dino Janis, Hilbert Gehrke and Mayor Ralph Hanson vetoed the request.

It has been previously reported that Forrest's special use had been approved by the council.

Following the vote, a debate arose between councilmen Voss and Madonna as to the procedure on approving village zoning requests.

Madonna objected the village master planner not having his opinion known to the planning commission prior to the decision. Voss argued that the village shouldn't punish a developer for its own errors of procedure.

DON SHAFFER, village planner, denied the Forrest special use because he said it was in violation of C-1 zoning. He indicated that apartments were not allowed above the first floor on commercially-zoned property.

The planning commission, unaware of the village planner's recommendations, approved the Forrest request. It felt the developer would improve the property and provide adequate parking and access.

The council adopted a new policy in which all zoning requests would be forwarded to the village planner and then to the planning commission for its final decision.

It was the second time in recent months that the council rejected the planning commission's recommendation of approval. Wayne Waltrip's zoning request for the "old lumber yard" property along Irving Park Road was also nixed by the council.

'OYIA Phase Two' Sets Fall Kickoff

"OYIA Phase Two" is the new name for the Older Youth-Young Adult Club for physically handicapped young people residing in DuPage County or surrounding areas.

The group invites anyone between the ages of 18 and 28-years-old who is physically handicapped, to the first event of the year, the Fall Kickoff.

The party will be held at the Glen Ellyn YMCA, 65 Newton Ave., in Glen Ellyn, Sept. 20, starting at 2 p.m. Everyone attending is invited to bring his or her favorite board game.

Those interested may contact Judy Dinoffria, 834-7311, or Sue Owen, 231-0451, if transportation is needed.

Stipulations Set On Sewer Project

Roselle can join Schaumburg's interceptor sewer project provided several stipulations are met, Schaumburg trustees said this week.

Schaumburg is installing an interceptor to take the overload from the Timbercrest sewage treatment plant to a Metropolitan Sanitary District line on Higgins Road.

Since the overload at the Timbercrest plant was causing pollution, the MSD got a court order that gives Schaumburg until Nov. 1 to have the interceptor line installed.

If part of the line is enlarged to serve the Kennedy Brothers development in the Cook County portion of Roselle, Schaumburg won't be able to meet the Nov. 1 deadline.

Schaumburg trustees said this week, Roselle must get permission to extend the Nov. 1 deadline from the MSD. The MSD must also approve the revised engineering plans to increase the line.

According to Roselle officials, increasing the forced main line from 12 to 14 inches will be adequate. It will cost Roselle $9,700 and save Schaumburg about $4,000.

If Schaumburg has not received an extension by Sept. 20, work will begin. Schaumburg awarded Rosetti Construction Co. of Rolling Meadows a contract for the work. The bid price was $112,686.

The interceptor line as well as the Timbercrest plant will no longer be used when the MSD completes the Salt Creek Water Reclamation Plant.

Library Begins Story Hours

Registration is now underway at the Bensenville Community Public Library's for the pre school children's story hour program.

The library is offering a series of five pre school story hours to be held at the library on consecutive Thursday mornings beginning Oct. 1. A second series will be offered starting Nov. 12.

Children from 3 to 5 years old who reside in Bensenville Community Public Library District are eligible to attend.

The storyteller will be Mrs. Judy Belanger of Addison. Mrs. Belanger conducted the library's story hour program this summer.

Sessions will begin at 10 a.m. and last approximately one hour.

Interested parents may receive additional information by calling 766-4042 or by stopping in at the library, located at 201 N. Church Rd.

Homeowners Ask For Speed Sign

A spokesman for the Indian Lakes Homeowners Association in Bloomington appeared before the Bloomington Village Board Wednesday night requesting the installation of warning and speed signs in the area.

The action was apparently spurred by an incident last week, in which a 12-year-old boy died after suffering injuries received when the bike on which he was riding was hit by a truck on Cardinal Drive in the Indian Lakes area.

The association has sent two letters to the village within the last four months requesting the installation of such signs.

Robert Meyers, village president, informed those residents present at the meeting that a traffic survey of Cardinal Drive and the Indian Lakes area had been completed several hours before the accident occurred.

As a result of the survey, board members voted to install three-way stop signs at the following intersections: Thrasher Street and Cardinal Drive, Raven Lane and Oriole Street and Cardinal Drive.

Trustees said they would take into consideration the possibility of installing warning signs, such as "children at play," and added speed limitation signs in the area.

Mortgages Set A Record

George R. Rudolph, DuPage County recorder of deeds, announced his office handled a record shattering pace for total mortgage considerations in August.

A total of $66,811,161 mortgage business was recorded by Rudolph in August, almost double the August, 1969, activities of $39,648,322. The old record was $68,127,435 set in May of 1969.

Rudolph said that both May and August are traditionally the top months of the year for mortgage transactions, which he relates to the opening and closing of the school year.

The building and mortgage industries were below levels until last month. The anti-inflation war is thought to have caused the cooling off in the first half of 1970.

The record-breaker in August might be the signal that these industries are experiencing a technical adjustment to the nation's economy or that DuPage County has resumed its fantastic growth boom, Rudolph said. Rudolph thinks that the statistics of the next few months will be critical and indicate the course of things to come.

County recorder Rudolph said "August of 1970 was our all-time biggest month for mortgage recordings. We recorded 1,474 in August. That is 124 more than the same period last year."

Dist. 88 Meeting Reset For Sept. 21

John Thorson, superintendent of Community High School Dist. 88, announced a change in the monthly meeting schedule for the Dist. 88 Board of Education.

The curriculum meeting which was scheduled for Sept. 14 has been rescheduled for Monday, Sept. 21 at 7:30 p.m. in the board room at Willowbrook High School. The curriculum meeting will feature a review of the homecoming program in the three high schools.

The board's finance committee will meet on Sept. 21 at 8:45 p.m. rather than 7:30 p.m. following the curriculum meeting.

Police Officer Is Promoted

Bloomington policeman Edward Greene has been promoted to the position of sergeant.

He was presented with his gold sergeant's badge by Village Pres. Robert Meyers at the board meeting Wednesday night.

Greene, who is from Glendale Heights, has been with the force for the past five years, serving as a senior officer. He is married and is the father of three children.

At the meeting, board members also voted to raise salaries for sergeants in the department to $825 per month, with a $80 increase after one year. Previously, sergeants received a starting salary of $725 per month.

The board also appointed Kenneth Serzen of Streamwood and Dennis Woltman of Hoffman Estates as part time police officers.

Neither has had previous law enforcement experience. They will be receiving a salary of $3.25 per hour.

You can speak French by Nov. 12th

The trick is how we teach you. On September 21st, when the course begins, you start right in with simple words. "Le déjeuner." ("Lunch.") "Du vin." ("Some wine.")

After the first lesson, you're speaking easy sentences. Useful stuff, like "Qui est cette demoiselle?" ("Who is that young lady?")

And by the time the course ends, on November 12th, you'll know enough French to get around. "Gargon, cette addition est invraisemblable!" ("Waiter, this check is outrageous!")

At this point, we feel it's only fair to warn you that only a few people can take each French course at Berlitz. (The cost is $121.) The same goes for our other language courses, which start the same week. So maybe you should call us tout de suite. Or in other words, right now.

'Kid's Lib' Also Seeks Equality

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON UPI — Shortly before his school reopened this week, Finster Tachwaller, 8, co-leader of the Children's Liberation Movement, held a news conference on the playground near the swing set. I was there.

"Finster, just what is it that . . ."
"Pardon me for interrupting, sir, but your presumption in addressing me by my first name even though you are a stranger to me is an excellent sample of the patronizing manner that we children resent in adults."

"Sorry, I didn't mean to appear condescending. How should I address you?"
"In my peer group I am usually called 'Mushmouth.'"

"OKAY, MUSHMOUTH, just what is it that you kids are . . ."

"I'm afraid I must interrupt again, sir. The term 'kids' is one of those derogatory appellations that are code words for adult superiority and thus offensive to children."

"Again I apologize. Just what is it that the Children's Lib Movement is trying to accomplish?"

"In a word, sir, equality. Our goal is no less than total equality for children, which, of course, means a complete end to age discrimination."

"Could you point out some of the areas in which you feel there is prejudice against children because of their age?"

"Children have been barred from X-rated movies. In many homes they have been subjected to earlier bedtimes than the rest of the family observes."

They have been denied employment opportunities. In the entire space program, for example, there is not a single juvenile astronaut."

"WITH ALL due respect, Mushmouth, aren't many of the things you classify as age discrimination actually a case of adults being better qualified?"

"The myth of juvenile inferiority has been carefully nurtured by adults to protect their favored status. In nearly every instance where they have been allowed to compete on equal terms in watching X movies or staying up late at night, children have performed as well or better than adults."

"Well, if the Children's Liberation Movement succeeds, won't you also lose certain preferential treatment, such as half-price tickets to the circus?"

"I have to go now. I just heard the class bell ring."

A Flair For Calligraphy

She Writes A Fancy Hand

by MARY B. GOOD

Did you ever long to be an artist — but felt you had no talent?

Maybe it was like that with Eleanor Crispin of Arlington Heights. It took her three years to learn calligraphy because she's not artistically inclined.

Eleanor wanted to do something beautiful and self-satisfying, so she took up fancy handwriting as an art form (calligraphy). She adds that calligraphy was the one thing she could do while her children were sleeping. She certainly couldn't play her cello or piano!

During the day, this mother of five boys (now in school) teaches music at Winston Churchill grade school in Palatine. A woman of unusual pursuits, Eleanor Crispin misses mountain climbing and back-packing since moving here last November from Portland, Ore. But she's etched a place in her leisure for the practice of calligraphy.

when the printing press came along and scribes were no longer needed to copy manuscripts, but the art has survived and there are 3,000 practicing calligraphers on the West Coast," said Mrs. Crispin. "Calligraphy amounts to something of a religion in the Orient. A period of Zen meditation and self-composure precede the execution of the Oriental's art."

Mrs. Crispin points out samples of good and bad calligraphy with the enthusiasm of an 8-year-old, at Christmastime. Layout, spacing, pressure, form, delicate strokes, all contribute to the beauty of calligraphy, and one-hair brushes, toothpicks and bamboo quills are among the tools of the trade.

"What good is it?" people may ask. It stimulates the imagination as well as a sense of awareness. A housewife could use it to make her own home business of graphic art. She could do posters, diplomas, wedding announcements or scrolls.

Christmas cards done by calligraphers are collector's items. Professional people use it to relax after a day's work.

"CALLIGRAPHY CONNECTS compartments of my mind, sections of knowledge that appear isolated," said Eleanor. She has used her flair in the design of calling cards, invitations, even a menu for an Italian restaurant.

"I find it exciting," she said.

Twelve years ago Eleanor studied calligraphy at the Portland Museum Art School. Eleanor has kept nimble practicing 20 minutes a day, especially when she is in training for classes.

Suburbanites will be hearing more about Eleanor Crispin and the West Coast calligraphy rage as she starts teaching fancy hand classes in Italian on Tuesday, Sept. 15, and every Tuesday through Nov. 3 at Harper College, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

And just wait until Countryside Gallery gets wind of it!

ART IS NOT ALL oil and watercolor. Calligraphy — fancy handwriting as an art form — is very popular on the West Coast, says Eleanor Crispin, a recent arrival from Oregon, who will be teaching classes in calligraphy at Harper College this fall.

New Phosphate List

The latest charts prepared by the Northwestern University Students for a Better Environment, spearheaders of the movement to reduce pollution-causing phosphates from washday products, have recently been made available.

Last week the Jewel Tea Company announced that response to its phosphate information program implemented in the chain's stores has resulted in approximately a 50 per cent increase in the sales of those items in the lower half of the chart. Jewel carries 87 items on the detergent list chart.

George Antos, who coordinated the research for the student organization, told Paddock Publications that manufacturers of products like Miracle White, Cold Water All and Amway products have reduced or replaced the phosphates in their products. Sears and Marshall Field products are about to undergo a radical reduction in phosphates, he said.

ANTOS EXPLAINED that the changes in amount of units of phosphate on the latest list are due to reformulation by the manufacturer, or by better analysis and sampling where the count was suspect. Error is plus or minus 10 per cent of value reported.

The expanded and revised edition of the Northwestern detergent list is as follows:

Note: Asterisk (*) denotes change from former listing. The phosphate units on all items used are based on the amount recommended by manufacturer's specifications on the package, with the exception of the all-purpose cleaners (Janitor in a Drum, Spic & Span, Solax, etc.) which have been used in equal, standardized quantities of 1/4 cup, and on individual items where specified.

Fabric softeners: generally no phosphates.

Women on the move against pollution in their everyday activities include the Cook County Conference of Republican Women's Clubs.

"Women do have a strong voice in buying decisions, and we hope to get them to use this power to stop pollution," said Mrs. Catherine M. Richards, chairman of the conference. "Well-directed use of our buying power in the open market place is far more direct and far more effective than legislation," she said.

The group is trying to impress women — and through them their entire families — that every time they waste water, use high phosphate detergents, don't bother to measure detergent according to manufacturers' recommendations and ignore current developments on the pollution solution, they are polluting the environment and ruining their world.

(The complete updated detergent list containing over 133 popular brands of detergents, soaps, presoaks, fabric softeners, additives, bleaches and bluing, boosters, all-purpose cleansers, cleansing powder, automatic dishwashing compounds, bath aids, and miscellaneous products is available on request from Paddock Publications Suburban Living Department with a STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED business envelope attached. MEET ZIGGY. He's a Brookfield Asian elephant, who after 29 years of indoor captivity as punishment for bad behavior, may soon have an outdoor enclosure of his own.

DARYL SCHULTZ, the salesman, tells John Grayson and Doris Silver, "This is our simple model mattress," in "The Footsteps of Doves."

Home, Family and the Arts

SUBURBAN LIVING

A Benefit Performance

VT To The Aid Of Ziggy

Ziggy, a 53-year-old Asian male elephant, is looking for a new home, and Village Theatre is helping him to find it.

The oldest and largest of the pachyderms in the U.S. has been confined to his stall indoors at Brookfield Zoo since April of 1941 as a result of an attack upon his keeper. Individuals and organizations are now in the midst of raising money to build an outdoor enclosure for Ziggy at the suburban zoo in order that he may again "see the sun."

Village Theatre, a local community theater group, is one of those organizations. Members will be staging a benefit performance of "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running," their fall opener, Sunday, Sept. 20, at 7:30 p.m. at Arlington High School.

ALL PROFITS WILL be contributed to the "Help Build a Home for Ziggy" fund at Brookfield Zoo.

The fund currently totals $11,000 of a required $50,000. The Buick-Opel dealers of Chicago have agreed to provide matching funds for whatever the public supplies of the remaining amount.

"You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running" is four separate plays.

The first of the quartet is "Shock of Recognition." Daryl Schultz will play the unemployed actor willing to appear nude on stage. John Grayson plays the playwright demanding nude variety, and Bob Hawley plays the skeptical producer.

Barb McKee is the producer's secretary.

IN THE SECOND of the plays, "Footsteps of Doves," Doris Silver is the wife seeking twin beds, John Grayson her husband, Daryl Schultz plays the bedding salesman and Barb McKee is a young charmer who seeks a double bed because she "lives alone."

The third play is "I'll be Home for Christmas." In this vignette Bob Randolph portrays a dismayed father of adolescents. Doris Silver plays his wife, a mother "hep" on sex education for her youngsters, and Barb McKee plays their daughter.

"I'm Herbert" is the final piece. Bob Hawley will be a shabby-handed old fellow with shaky recollections and his wife, the dim-memoried old lady, will be played by Doris Kaczor.

"I CAN'T HEAR You When the Water's Running," a play that "draws and quarters sex," will be performed Sept. 19, 20, 25 and 26. However, only the Sept. 20 performance is a benefit for Ziggy.

Additional area donations by residents for Ziggy will also be forwarded by Village Theatre. Further information is available through Mrs. Patrick O'Dea, 437-3238.

BOB HAWLEY tells Doris Kaczor, "I think we shouldn't talk anymore, you're getting confused," in "I'm Herbert," one of a quartet of plays, which included in "I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running."

You, Too, Can Be A Pro

Anyone attending a Paddock Publicity Workshop can become a pro in preparing news releases. All the do's and don'ts the "how-to's" and the "why-for's" are being covered in three separate workshops.

Open to presidents and publicity chairmen of all area women's organizations, the first workshop, for DuPage area women, was held Thursday at the Tigra VFW Hall in Bensenville.

The second and third workshops will be for Cook County women. On Thursday, Sept. 17, all the particulars about news releases will be revealed at the Plum Grove Club in Plum Grove Estates, Palatine. The Friday, Sept. 18, workshop will be held at the Northwest Suburban YMCA in Des Plaines.

CONDUCTING THE workshops from 9 to 11:30 these mornings will be Marianne Scott, women's editor of Paddock Publications' 11 daily and five tri-weekly publications. Assisting her will be Doris McClellan, assistant women's editor, plus one of Paddock Publications' professional photographers.

So that comfortable seating arrangements can be made for all, and also so that there will be enough coffee and rolls, reservations should be phoned to Paddock Publications, 394-2300 Extension 233; in Des Plaines women may call Dorothy Oliver at 297-6633.

Rep. Griffiths Asks Support

Congressman Michael W. Griffiths of Michigan, who was instrumental in getting the equal rights amendment passed by the House, is urging all citizens to support her resolution by writing their Senators and urging them to vote in favor of the amendment.

The equal rights amendment was overwhelmingly passed 360-15 by the House on Aug. 19. It is now before the Senate where passage has not been assured.

Concerned citizens may write Senators Charles Percy and Ralph Smith at their offices in Washington D.C.

School Sweethearts Wed

Dawn Donald and her bridegroom of Aug. 15, William C. Loster, will be making their home in Hanover Park. Dawn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Donald Jr., 210 S. Parkside, Itasca, and Donald, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Loster, 400 E. Bryn Mawr, Roselle, were married in Bethany United Methodist Church at 5:30 p.m. Rev. Paul Farley officiated the double ring ceremony.

The bride, a '70 graduate of Roselle High School, and her husband, a '69 graduate of the same high school, were high school sweethearts. The groom is presently employed at Randhurst Firestone. Mrs. Loster is working at Electri-Flex Co.

Dawn was given in marriage by her father, and her sister, Gail Donald, Itasca, was a bridesmaid. Marie Mruagac of Itasca was maid of honor and Carol Ozick, a cousin, Franklin Park, served as a bridesmaid. Flower girl was the groom's niece, Renee Rogers of Roselle.

THE BRIDE CHOSE a gown of white organza which featured a scoop neckline, pearl buttons to the empire waist and a chapel train. The gown was accented by tiers of lace, trumpet sleeves and a matching choker. Dawn wore a matching headpiece attached to a bouffant cathedral-length veil. She carried a bouquet of small gladiolus and camellia leaves.

For her attendants, Dawn chose pink chiffon gowns with white Venice trim and trumpet sleeves. Each maid carried a cascade of pink carnations surrounded by white feathers.

The groom's brother-in-law, Walter Rogers, Roselle, served as best man. Michael Tomaszewski of Chicago, brother-in-law of the groom and Robert Buck or Roselle were ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Loster

The bride's mother wore a gold colored dress featuring a bodice of lace and sequins and shantung skirt. She wore a wristlet of phalaenopsis. Mrs. Loster, mother of the groom, wore a mint green sateen dress with a beaded flower design on the bodice and across the hemline. She wore a wristlet of yellow roses

A family style dinner and cocktails for 150 guests were served at Mr. Call's in Norridge.

The couple spent a week's honeymoon in Daytona Beach, Fla.

Potluck Luncheon For Roselle WSCS

The first fall meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Roselle United Methodist Church, 206 S. Rush, will be a potluck luncheon Wednesday in Langdon Hall at 1:15 p.m.

Ruth Circle chairman Mrs. David McCandless of Schaumburg is organizing the meal. Members are asked to bring a salad to serve 8 to 10 adults. Ruth Circle will provide the homemade rolls, coffee and dessert.

The Rev. Fred H. Conger will show color slides and comment on his recent trip to Mexico. Mrs. Jesse Cobb of Hanover Park will give devotions.

Babysitting service is provided in Nursery II.

Legion Installs

The Eight and Forty of the American Legion Auxiliary will install Mrs. Ray Anderson, Roselle, as la petite chapeau and Mrs. Florence Ehlers, Wood Dale, as constitution and by-laws chairman, in the Roselle Legion home Wednesday at 8 p.m.

The Eight and Forty is an honorary organization which assists in the prevention and control of tuberculosis and cystic fibrosis in children. This year's funds will benefit a cystic fibrosis sweat chloride measuring system for National Jewish hospital in Denver, Colo.

Tea For Juniors

The Elk Grove Village Junior Woman's Club membership tea will be held Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. at the St. Nicholas Episcopal Church, 1072 Ridge Ave.

Tea arrangements will be handled by membership committee chairman, Mrs. Aldrich Lipka. Mrs. Phillip DeGullo, hospitality committee chairman, will direct preparing and serving.

Reservations may be made by contacting Mrs. Lipka at 437-8283. Prospective members interested in learning about the club are invited.

Slide Show For DAR

Members of Eli Skinner Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution saluted Constitution Day with a luncheon yesterday at Scanda House, Mount Prospect Plaza.

Colorful slides of "Early America" were shown depicting the trials and hardships of our forefathers and their ingenuity in combating them.

Palatine Pair Married 50 Years

It was 41 years ago that Italian born Anthony Marsiglia settled in Palatine, a town then inhabited mostly by Germans. A shoe repairman by trade, Anthony retired just five years ago after being in business for nearly 50 years.

With Anthony when he came to Palatine was his wife, Lillian, also Italian born, and on July 26, the couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. They observed the anniversary with a party for 50 relatives and friends at the Millionaires Club in Golf-Mill, Niles.

At the party Anthony Provenza reminisced how his cousin, Anthony Marsiglia, came to the United States in 1901, made a life for himself, later married and brought his family to Palatine.

THE MARSIGLIAS, who reside at 997 W. Kendallworth Ave., reared seven children: Joseph who resides with his wife, Joyce, in Mount Prospect; Mary, who lives in Des Plaines with her husband, Bill Lambert; Ann of Palatine who is married to Clifford Doerflinger; Margaret, who lives in Chicago with her husband, Joseph Dyson; Rose of Palatine, wife of John Hayes; Victor, who lives in Rolling Meadows with his wife, Darleen; and Bernard, who makes his home in Arlington Heights with his wife, Jane.

The anniversary pair has 16 grandchildren and will soon become great-grandparents. Mr. Marsiglia will be 85 in November; Lillian will be 70 next May.

Highlights of the anniversary were the apostolic blessing from Pope Paul and the congratulatory card from President and Mrs. Richard Nixon.

Art Show Thursday For Newcomers

An art show by the Paul Hamilton Galleries of Elmhurst will be in store for those attending the first meeting of the season of the Hoffman-Schaumburg Newcomers Club next Thursday, Sept. 17.

The meeting will be held at the Indian Lakes Country Club in Bloomingdale. The social hour begins at 7 p.m. followed by the meeting at 8. Newcomers to the area and members of the club are invited; for reservations and details they may contact Mrs. Thaddeus E. Pluta, 894-4662.

A two-hour moonlight cruise and buffet aboard the St. Charles Belle on the Fox River is planned for Couples Night Out Saturday, Sept. 26. Mrs. Robert Braden, 529-1209, may be contacted for further details. Ladies Day Out will be a luncheon and puppet show at Kungsholm Restaurant in Chicago Tuesday, Sept. 29. Mrs. George Dufek, 882-3826, has the details.

Purpose of the Newcomers Club is to provide social activities and help newcomers become acquainted with other residents of the community, according to Mrs. James Lowe, president.

Will Woman's Lib Usurp Fashions?

Northwest Community Hospital Women's Auxiliary will go to any lengths (of hemline that is) when it holds its 12th annual fall luncheon and fashion show Saturday, Sept. 19, in the west ballroom of Henrici's O'Hare Inn, beginning with cocktails at noon and lunch at 1 p.m. The luncheon, set on Saturday this year, will liberate guests from their usual weekend chores to view fashions presented by Bonwit Teller. Husbands are also invited.

Anything-goes hemlines are the order of the day.

Mrs. Oreste Tomie may be contacted for reservations at CL 3-2654.

SIG-NOTING, fashion-conscious members of the Northwest Community Hospital Women's Auxiliary including Mrs. Felix Krock, Mrs. Roger Carlson and Mrs. Edward Bartmann, are saluting the hospital's annual fall luncheon and fashion show with a sampling of do-your-own-thing hemlines.

CCW Sets Fun Night

The "Gay 70's" in the theme for a fun night Saturday, Sept. 19, at St. Walter School, Pine and Maple, Roselle. Sponsored by St. Walter's Council of Catholic Women, it will start at 8:30 p.m.

Sandwiches, beer, pop, party favors and hats will be sold. The tables will be decorated with peanuts and for entertainment, a piano and a banjo player have been obtained.

Everyone is invited. Tickets and more information may be obtained from Mrs. P. Clifford, 529-1378; Mrs. W. Nudd, 529-3949; or Mrs. R. Riedl, 529-3789.

Corn Festival Sunday

Palatine chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold its annual corn festival from noon to 4 p.m. Sunday in Area 2 of Deer Grove Forest Preserve.

All members and friends of the chapter are invited.

PRE-SCHOOL PROGRAM

A pre-school program for 3 and 4 year olds will open in South Arlington Heights, with State approval, early this fall.

The program is based on the premise that young children can develop the basic skills necessary for successful learning through small group play.

The goal of the CREATIVE NURSERY SCHOOL is to provide an opportunity for individual expression and self-understanding at the child's own rate of speed. The Play-and-Learn Program will provide opportunities for development of the child's social attitudes, sensory perception, language, art, science, and quantitative concepts will be available.

The 4-year-olds will meet on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings. The 3-year-olds will meet on Tuesday and Thursday mornings. They will be under the supervision of a qualified teacher.

School will be in the Church of the Incarnation (United Methodist) . . . 330 West Golf Road, Arlington Heights. For further information please call: 437-2845 or 239-9519

They'll Be Hearing Wedding Bells

Barbara Quigley

A Bensenville couple, Barbara Jean Quigley and Gary Lee Decker have become engaged. Barbara is the daughter of the James B. Quigleys, 17W261 Third Ave., who are making the announcement of the engagement, and Gary is the son of the Robert Deckers, 202 Rose St.

Miss Quigley is a 1970 graduate of Fenton and her fiancé is a '68 graduate of the same school. Barbara now studies at DuPage College and Gary at Aurora College in Aurora, Ill. They have not set a wedding date.

Mary Elizabeth Johnston

Mr. and Mrs. Roger A. Johnston, 900 S. Lancaster, Mount Prospect, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to John Arthur Jacobs, son of Mrs. Arthur Jacobs of Bloomington, Ill., and the late Mr. Jacobs. A February 1971 wedding is planned.

Miss Johnston, a graduate of Prospect High School, is now a student at Illinois State University, Normal, Ill. Her fiancé is a graduate of Illinois Wesleyan University in Bloomington and is employed as a field claims representative for State Farm Insurance, Des Plaines.

Karen Budsberg

The engagement of Miss Karen Budsberg to Paul Prather is announced by Miss Budsberg's parents, the Hanford Budsbergs, 15W180 George St., Bensenville. Her fiancé is the son of the Wilfred Prathers of Wood Dale.

The young couple are graduates of Fenton High School. Miss Budsberg is employed by St. Alexius Hospital and Mr. Prather is a student at Elmhurst College.

The wedding is planned for Jan. 16, 1971.

Laurel Lythcke

An April 3, 1971 wedding is planned by Laurel Lythcke and Richard Brown. The couple's engagement and approaching marriage are announced by Miss Lythcke's parents, the Charles Lythckes, 4N714 Church Road, Bensenville. Mr. Brown is the son of the Dennis Browns of Jackson Center, Ohio.

A graduate of Fenton High School, Laurel is employed by Ampex Corp., Elk Grove Village. Her fiancé is a student at Marquette University in Milwaukee, Wis.

Mary Eileen Callahan

Miss Mary Eileen Callahan's engagement to John J. Poweziak, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Poweziak, 108 W. Monterey, Schaumburg, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard E. Callahan, 401 Firestone Court, Hoffman Estates.

A June '71 wedding is planned.

The bride-to-be, a '68 graduate of Conant High School, is studying at Michael Reese Hospital School of Nursing. Mr. Poweziak was graduated in '66 from Palatine High School, attended Loyola University for two years and then entered the armed forces. He has served a year in Vietnam.

Kathleen Lynn McCabe

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCabe of Bensenville are announcing the engagement of their daughter Kathleen Lynn to Richard Raymond Rumbolz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rumbolz of Port Townsend, Wash.

A November wedding is planned, after which the couple will live in Washington. Kathleen is a '69 graduate of Fenton High School and attended Michael Reese Hospital School of Nursing. Her fiancé is a Marine veteran and works for Crown-Zellerbach Corp.

The Big Antique Show Is Coming Up

Forty eight dealers from five states will be displaying $75,000 worth of antiques Sept. 22-24 at the DuPage County Fairgrounds in Wheaton. Sponsored by the county's Homemakers Units, the Wheaton Antique Show is one of the largest in the north central area.

The annual event is the sole fund-raising project of the more than 1,100 members, and proceeds are used to support cooperative home economics education for the 36 DuPage units and also supports 82 4-H clubs in the county.

Each year, the Calico Cupboard is one of the show's highlights. It offers for sale homemade baked goods, fresh garden vegetables, homemade jams and jellies, art and craft items, plus such unexpected items as dried apple faces, tatted notepaper or "grow-it-yourself" oak trees.

STAFFING THE Cupboard and also the Cup and Saucer dinette on Tuesday, the first day of the show, will be members of the Addison and Itasca units, plus the two Bensenville units. The Keeneyville Unit will be in the Cupboard on Wednesday, and the Bloomington unit on Thursday.

Bensenville A.M. Homemakers will be bringing fresh baked goods, handmade household items and lingerie and scarves, while the Itasca group will be supplying tatted hankies, potholders, aprons and crocheted hangers for the Cupboard.

Tickets, good for all three days of the show, are available at the door or from any member of Homemakers.

Ladies Pajama Party Planned

An all-night talk session, dubbed a pajama party for women, will be held Friday, Sept. 25, at 8 p.m. until Saturday, Sept. 26 at 8 a.m., at Countryside YMCA, 115 W. Johnson, Palatine.

The party is open to all "Y" member mothers, wives, and single women; housewives and working women of all ages.

The activity is being planned as a follow-up to a previously successful "pajama party" where those who attended had a no-holds barred, let-your-hair-down all night talk "marathon", where they discussed politics, religions, kids, sex, and more.

Participants are asked to bring sleeping bags, if they desire, and enough snacks to survive the night.

A chance for new mothers to escape the 3 o'clock feeding, and let dad take charge of the homefront, the pajama party for women is a no-fee activity.

Further information is available from Bobbie Turcotte at 359-2400.

A June Bride

Janet Marie Russell, daughter of the junior Samuel F. Russells of Atlanta, Ga., and Michael Charles Francek, son of the Charles F. Franceks of Mount Prospect, are June newlyweds now residing in Arlington Heights.

The service was performed by the bride's uncle, the Rev. Lyndon L. Schendel of Albany, N.Y., in St. Paul Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect. Rev. Edward Ziele, church pastor, assisted.

A luncheon reception was held at the O'Hare Inn after which the newlyweds left on a honeymoon in the New England states.

The bride, a graduate of Florida State, teaches nursery school in Palatine, and the groom, a graduate of Prospect High and Northern Illinois University, is with John Hancock Insurance.

Mrs. Michael C. Francek

ALL YEAR, DuPage County Homemakers have been working on sale items for the Calico Cupboard at the Wheaton Antique Show. Mrs. Joseph L. Neal, Mrs. James Clark and Mrs.

Henry DuRietz of the Keeneyville unit and Mrs. Robert Holmes of the Bensenville Eves unit are busy gathering handmade articles to be sold during the three-day sale.

Heart Attack Survivor Can Still Enjoy Life

You've had a heart attack. Your doctor assures you about recovery; yet uncertainties may still plague you. That's only natural, says the Chicago Heart Association, but the record shows there is room for optimism. More than 3.7 million Americans are alive who have suffered a heart attack.

To help answer questions frequently asked by heart patients wrestling with doubts, Chicago Heart Association, 22 W. Madison St., Chicago 60602, will supply free of charge an eight-page booklet titled "After A Coronary."

It is reassuring to know that the majority of patients survive their first heart attack and enjoy years of productive activity, says the booklet.

Chances of leading a normal life — with some modification — are excellent. There is good likelihood that the patient can resume his old job, or some other work that places less burden on the heart. Although reasonable rest and sleep are essential for recovery, some recreation, exercise in moderation and social life are good.

THE MAJORITY of patients are able to play golf, take walks, fish, swim or engage in similar activities without difficulties. Doctors believe that moderate exercise is beneficial for most patients — providing it is supervised and does not cause pain, shortness of breath or other disturbing symptoms.

It is essential to eat less saturated fats, replacing these with polyunsaturated fats so as to reduce the amount of cholesterol in the blood. A lower cholesterol level tends to slow the process of hardening of the arteries which is behind most heart attacks.

Eating less to keep weight at or below normal is recommended. It also is advisable to eat several light meals rather than three large ones each day.

Cigarette smoking is a health hazard for anyone and a special risk for persons with coronary disease. It should be avoided completely.

Moderate amounts of alcohol and coffee are permissible. As for medication, the physician will prescribe for individual needs and his advice must be followed strictly.

GOP Lunch Tuesday

The Women's Auxiliary of the Schaumburg Township Republican Organization will sponsor its annual fall luncheon next Tuesday at the Dale House, Fieldale Road, Hoffman Estates, with cocktail hour at noon followed by the luncheon at 1 p.m.

State Senator John Graham and several candidates from the Cook County Republican state will be guests at the GOP luncheon.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Walter Wing, 529-4776 or Mrs. William Palmer, 894-6128.

Crisis Call Line Topic Of Nurses

Mrs. Ann Wooster

Mrs. Ann Wooster, director of nursing services at St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village, will be guest speaker for Tuesday evening's meeting of Elk Grove Nurses Club. The recently initiated Crisis Call Line, one of a spectrum of mental health and mental retardation services co-sponsored by the hospital, will be her subject.

The hospital sponsor's Crisis Call Line along with Northwest Mental Health Center and Clearbrook Center for the Retarded.

All registered nurses in Elk Grove Village are welcome to this first fall meeting of the club. It takes place at 8 p.m. in the Medical Library of St. Alexius Hospital.

Hostesses are Mrs. John Bourke, Mrs. Edwin Nolan and Mrs. Dean Armstrong. Mrs. Frank Van Dyke, 439-3784, can be called for further details.

Vacuum Galoshes

Have the insides of rubbers and galoshes cleaned with a vacuum while they are dry. Otherwise, accumulated dust and dirt can spoil shoe shines and spoil trouser cuffs.

Adult's Vocabulary

How many words does the average adult have in his reading vocabulary? About 30,000 to 40,000, according to Dr. William LaPlante, director of curriculum and materials development of Borg-Warner Educational Systems.

Clean Boots To Store

When storing winter boots, brush loose dirt and sand from the inside first. Then wash off the outside with a sudsy sponge, rinse, and dry thoroughly. Clip pairs together with a spring clothespin, and store.

FINAL WEEK OF CLASS RESERVATIONS

They're having a blast learning piano, and their school grades will improve, too.

Here's how:

Our sparkling new approach guarantees to make piano lessons fun, as they should have been all along. The result is rapid achievement of piano skills, along with the development of good learning habits which will last for a lifetime.

Motivation to learn comes from the student's own achievements in our classes as they learn quickly to compose their own songs, improvise, sight read, and play in any key. All of this is accomplished with a program which stresses the understanding of music, rather than the memorizing of music.

While learning piano with us our students are at the same time assured the scientifically proven advantages of music study, for music rightly taught is the best mind trainer on the list.

Our fall term begins the week of Sept. 14th. You may assure a convenient class time by calling 253-5592 now to pre-register. Tuition is $12.00 a month. The registration and materials fee of 10.00 includes everything that will be needed for the entire school year. Guarantee the magic of music for your school-ager by enrolling in the M.E.C. Piano class now. Call 253-5592.

Two Guilds Enter Festival To Perform One-Act Plays

Two local theater guilds have been invited to participate in a one-act play festival sponsored by the Illinois Community Theatre Association next Thursday through Sunday at Barat College Hilton Theatre.

Competing with 11 other community groups, The Des Plaines Theatre Guild and The Guild Players of Hoffman Estates will both be performing.

The Guild Players will present two performances of Donald Abramson's one-act play, "The Lot Assigned," Thursday, 8:30 p.m. and Saturday, 2:30 p.m. The three leading roles will be played by Rosemary Tengler of Schaumburg and Bill Schumacher and Richard Groat, both of Hoffman Estates. Victor P. Simone will be the director. Ticket information is available through 529-1075.

DPTG'S ENTRY is "One Way for Another" by Jean Tardieu. It will be presented Saturday and Sunday evening.

Appearing in the one-act are Raleigh Powell, Marshall Klevit, Ginny Boyer, Ken Johnson, Jeannine Carlson, Kathy Linsey, Keith Olsen and Remi Bonfard-deci.

Mike Woods will direct the play, and Julie Tobias will assist and coordinate production.

The Des Plaines Theatre Guild will celebrate its 25th consecutive season tonight with a champagne premiere opening of "Little Mary Sunshine," a musical comedy to be presented in association with Music On Sage.

Performances will be every Friday and Saturday evening beginning this weekend through Oct. 3 at the Guild Playhouse, 620 Lee St., Des Plaines. Curtain is 8:30 p.m. Tickets are available through the box office, 296-1211, noon to 8 p.m.

Art Guild Meets

The Arlington Heights Art Guild will meet at 8 p.m., Pioneer Park in Arlington Heights next Thursday.

The newly formed organization elected officers and formulated plans for the season at their last meeting. Those serving this year are Stanley Anderson, president; Lucille Anderson, vice-president; Barbara Tihou, secretary; and June Walker, treasurer.

Committee chairmen are Joan Ziebler, exhibition; Hazel Herter, Hospitality; Jan Titus, publicity; and Fran Boeck, membership.

Membership is open to anyone interested in art. Meetings are always held the third Thursday of each month at Pioneer Park. Further information is available through Fran Boeck, 203 S. Princeton, Arlington Heights.

THE QUEEN OF Burlesque, Ann Corio, brings her production, "This Was Burlesque" to the Mill Run Theatre for a six-day engagement beginning Tuesday.

New Fairy Tale At Mill Run

"Jack and the Beanstalk" will make its debut at the Mill Run Children's Theatre in Niles this weekend, Saturday and Sunday, at 1 p.m.

The thriller starring Jack who climbs a stalk in search of treasure will be presented every Saturday and Sunday during the month of September and possibly extending into October.

Reservations are available through 298-2170.

The Potting Shed

by MARY E. GOOD

I'm not happy unless I can embark on an adventure, and the Labor Day weekend provided such fortune.

The great mushroom expert visited us while we stayed in the North Woods and we joined him on a hike. I thought he'd reveal a few of his secrets, but no...

We picked blackberries as we tired and stopped to admire wildflowers at a clearing. All he pointed out in 10 miles of hiking was amanita (death cap), the large, poisonous mushroom, abundant thereabouts. I was disappointed, and when we got back, I let him know it.

"Do you really want to go mushrooming?" he said.

"Of course," and I was up and grabbing my hat.

Now I know why people die of jungle rot. I worried about fungus, snakes, and ticks as the rotten branches scratched my legs, and water in the swamps drenched my moccasins. The forest ferns were taller than my eight-year-old daughter, and I kept her close so as not to lose her in the woods.

THE MUSHROOM expert, who asked that I not use his name, (he needs no publicity), is famous in that area. He has been picking and preparing mushrooms in gourmet dishes for 55 years. He has been poisoned several times by deadly varieties and probably knows more about mushrooms than anyone in the Midwest.

Watching him straddle rotten tree trunks over a bog was like watching Carl Wallenda do his aerial act.

The mushroom man explained that this was the terrain for boletus (leccinum scabrum). He filled his bag with pinky (russula rubicunda), and he fell into a swamp straining to pick a russula alba just out of reach.

He said saffron milk cap was very abundant and pepper cap looked good. The man predicted a bonanza year for mushrooms in Vilas County just after he slipped down a gorge.

IT WAS A treacherous trip, and I don't know how we would have made it if anything serious would have happened to our friend, but he said the spills are to be expected.

I never knew I would be in for a pioneering trek through some of the slippery foothills... and the densest woods, marshiest swamps and roughest terrain I'd ever seen... but it was a revelation to follow a pro as he "does his thing."

We went into places inaccessible even to the animals, I would guess, because the way was paved with skeletons of deer that died en route. I picked up a deer skull on a rotten branch, covered with black-red fungus and waved it all the way through the swamps to scare away hobbits.

Exotic, wild, primitive, beautiful — someday the North Woods will be my KICKING UP HER heels for Northwest Chorale's fall rehearsals, is Mrs. William Fancboner of Mount Prospect, who will provide special accompaniment for the women's choral group from Northwest Suburban YMCA in Des Plaines. The chorus rehearses from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. every Tuesday at the "Y", 300 E. Northwest Hwy. Membership is open to all women. Child care facilities are provided.

Horsecapades

Chicago's famous Medinah Black Horse Troop will present its 15th annual Horsecapades at the Arlington Park race track tomorrow.

Two shows, 3:30 and 8 p.m., will include a variety of equine acts and displays of precision riding.

Tickets are available through 437-3800 or 774-1515.

Kid's Korner

POTATO GOLF

by Marilyn Hoffman

With chalk, draw six circles (about one foot across) on your sidewalk or driveway. Number them 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6. The first player places a potato in the first circle and, with a large spoon, hits it toward the second circle. He adds up the number of strokes it takes to get the potato inside the circle. The next player then does the same thing. Continue the game to the sixth circle. Winner is the player with the least number of strokes at the end of the game.

History Of Rembrandt Told On Channel 5

"Lord of Light," the life story of Rembrandt as told through his paintings and the voices of the women in his life, will receive an encore broadcast on Channel 5's Sunday Special at 10:30 p.m.

A 1969-70 Emmy nominee, the program was first aired last November.

Paintings shown at the 300th anniversary exhibit in the Art Institute illustrate the artist's life, with actresses providing the voices of women in his life.

Filmed in color at the Art Institute of Chicago, "Lord of Light" was written by Bonnie Remsburg and produced and directed by Bill Heitz.

The Doctor Says:

All Barbiturates Are Habit-Forming

by WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Q.—WHAT ARE the harmful effects of using phenobarbital?

A—ALL BARBITURATES are habit-forming. They depress the nervous system, so a very large dose may cause unconsciousness. This effect is heightened when alcohol, also a nervous system depressant, is present in the body. Barbiturates also interfere with the normal periods of dreaming during sleep so that, although your muscles are fully relaxed, although your muscles are fully relaxed, your nervous system is not.

Q.—IS IT HARMFUL to drink coffee and take phenobarbital on the same day? HARMFUL to drink coffee and take phenobarbital on the same day?

A—NO. But the effects of caffeine, a stimulant, and phenobarbital, a sedative, are antagonistic and to a degree cancel each other out.

Q.—MY HUSBAND'S HANDS and elbows are chapped and the skin is very rough. He has tried all kinds of creams and lotions without success. What is the cause and is there any remedy?

A—THE CAUSE MAY be a deficiency of oil in the skin, exposure of the damp skin to cold, excessive dryness of the air in which your husband works or something he comes in contact with at his work. Before prescribing any treatment, every effort should be made to pinpoint the cause and eliminate it.

Q.—WHAT CAN BE done for a calcified aneurysm of the aorta?

A—AN ANEURYSM is a bulging out of the aorta.

involved is the aorta, surgical repair is sometimes attempted. In the acute stage (first two or three weeks), however, the safest treatment is bed rest in a hospital and the slow intravenous (drip) injection of a blood pressure reducer and a tranquilizer.

Q.—MY DRUGGIST recommended Empirin for my headache. It contains phenacetin which I have heard is dangerous. What do you think?

A—EMPIRIN contains aspirin, phenacetin and caffeine. Kidney damage may occur when this compound or phenacetin alone is taken in large doses daily.

Q.—IS ASPIRIN constipating?

A—NO.

Q.—WHAT ARE the side effects of the antidepressant Aventyl?

A—DRY MOUTH, drowsiness, dizziness, tremors, constipation, mental confusion, blurred vision, fast pulse, easy fatigability, sweating, insomnia and headache, to list a few.

Check Trouble? Stop Payment

by RICHARD PUTNAM PRATT

Want to test yourself with a consumer quiz? Try this:

SITUATION—You buy a new home, and you hire a landscaper to grade the bare plot, cover it with four inches of topsoil, and sow it completely. After viewing the finished job, you hand over a check for $1,200 in full payment.

The next day you discover no topsoil was applied and the landscaper refuses to consider a rebate.

QUESTION—What's the easiest way to get the landscaper to negotiate a settlement?

ANSWER—Stop payment on the check. The stop-payment procedure is a little-known but legitimate method of retracting a payment you wish you hadn't made in the first place.

As in this case, the reason may be a contractual disagreement, but stop-payment can also be used in the case of lost checks or where duplicate checks have been written by mistake.

There are some practical aspects to the use of the stop-payment procedure that you ought to be acquainted with if you want to use it.

The most important of these is speed. Payment can be stopped only if the check is caught before it passes too far along in the system.

The minute you know you want payment stopped, call your bank. It will probably put the procedure into effect based on your phone call but will require you to sign a written order later.

The bank's problem is to locate the check. Massive volume, plus automated handling procedures make this difficult.

Once the bank is sure the check hasn't been paid, it flags your account so that the check will be sidetracked when it does show up.

Along about this point, you're going to be charged a fee for the stop-payment service. This fee will probably be about $3, but it could be $5, or even $1.

There are several reasons for the charge. First, the bank is stuck for the amount of the check if it errs by paying it after the order has been issued. Second, the time, trouble and paperwork involved in keeping track of stop orders makes them an expensive proposition for the bank.

Considering the trouble and expense, you won't want to use a stop-payment order for minor amounts. For sizable sums, however, this method provides a means for both parties to talk out their differences.

One final note of caution. Don't over-use the stop-payment order. At best, it is a cumbersome procedure for a bank and one fraught with peril.

Your banker is likely to be understanding about an occasional problem, but he will take a dim view of your using the system frequently as a result of petty disagreements.

Ordinance 0-70-68

AN ORDINANCE PROVIDING FOR THE SUBMISSION TO THE VOTERS OF THE VILLAGE OF ADDISON, DU PAGE COUNTY, ILLINOIS THE QUESTION OF ISSUING $400,000.00 IN SANITARY SEWER BONDS, $400,000.00 IN STORM WATER DRAINAGE BONDS, $100,000.00 IN STREET BONDS AND $300,000.00 IN WATER BONDS AT A SPECIAL ELECTION TO BE HELD ON THE 17TH DAY OF OCTOBER, 1970 IN AND FOR SAID VILLAGE.

WHEREAS, it is to the best interest of the Village that sanitary sewer, water facilities and storm water drainage facilities presently located in the Village of Addison be enlarged and street improvements on Swift Road and Lake Street be constructed; and

WHEREAS, the President and Board of Trustees of this Village have heretofore approved preliminary plans submitted to them by the Village Engineer and the estimates made of the costs thereof; and

WHEREAS, funds are not available for the purpose of enlarging and improving said sanitary sewer, water and storm water drainage facilities and constructing said street improvements and it will therefore be necessary to borrow money and in evidence thereof issue bonds of said Village, and before bonds can be issued the question of issuing such bonds must be submitted to the voters of the Village and approved by a majority of the voters voting on said questions at an election called for that purpose.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Addison, DuPage County, Illinois, as follows:

SECTION 1: That there exists a necessity for the enlargement and improvement of sanitary sewer, water and storm water drainage facilities in the Village of Addison and improving Swift Road and Lake Street and that it is essential to construct said improvements, and to accomplish said construction there be borrowed by, for and on behalf of said Village, the sum of $400,000.00 for sanitary sewer improvements, the sum of $400,000.00 for storm water drainage improvements, the sum of $100,000.00 for water improvements and the sum of $300,000.00 for street improvements, and that to evidence said loan negotiable bonds of said Village be issued in the principal sums of $400,000.00, $400,000.00, $100,000.00 and $300,000.00 bearing interest as set forth in Section 3 hereof.

SECTION 2: That the question of issuing bonds be submitted to the voters of said Village at a special election which is hereby called to be held in and for said Village on Saturday, October 17, 1970 between the hours of 8 o'clock A.M. and 6 o'clock P.M. of said day, and for the purpose of said election said Village shall be divided into four (4) election precincts, the boundaries thereof and the polling places to be set as forth in Section 3 hereof.

SECTION 3: That the Village Clerk be and is hereby ordered and directed to cause notice of said election to be given by publishing notice once in the Addison Register, the same being a newspaper published and having a general circulation in said Village, the date of such publication to be not more than thirty (30) days nor less than fifteen (15) days prior to the date set for said special election, and said notice as published shall be in substantially the following form:

NOTICE OF SPECIAL ELECTION

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT A SPECIAL election shall be held in and for the Village of Addison, DuPage County, Illinois, on Saturday, October 17, 1970, at which time there will be submitted to the voters of said Village the following questions:

Shall bonds in the amount of $400,000.00 be issued by the Village of Addison, DuPage County, Illinois, for the purpose of enlarging and improving the sanitary sewer facilities of said Village, said bonds to bear interest at the rate of not to exceed 7% per annum?

Shall bonds in the amount of $400,000.00 be issued by the Village of Addison, DuPage County, Illinois, for the purpose of improving the storm water drainage facilities of said Village, said bonds to bear interest at the rate of not to exceed 7% per annum?

Shall bonds in the amount of $100,000.00 be issued by the Village of Addison, DuPage County, Illinois, for the purpose of enlarging and improving the water facilities of said Village, said bonds to bear interest at the rate of not to exceed 7% per annum?

Shall bonds in the amount of $300,000.00 be issued by the Village of Addison, DuPage County, Illinois, for the purpose of constructing street improvements on Swift Road and Lake Street, said bonds to bear interest at the rate of not to exceed 7% per annum?

For said election, said Village shall be divided into four (4) election precincts. The description of the precincts and designated polling places for each election precinct being as follows:

Precinct No. 1: All of that part of the Village lying within the following described boundaries: The middle of Lake Street on the north, the Village limits on the east, the Village limits on the south, and the middle of Addison Road on the west.

POLLING PLACE: Fullerton Public Grammar School

Precinct No. 2: All of that part of the Village lying within the following described boundaries: The middle of Lake Street on the south, the Village limits on the east, the Village limits on the north, and the middle of Addison Road on the west.

POLLING PLACE: Oak Public Grammar School

Precinct No. 3: All of that part of the Village lying within the following described boundaries: The middle of Lake Street on the south, the Village limits on the west, the Village limits on the north, and the middle of Addison Road on the east.

POLLING PLACE: Indian Trail Jr. High School

Precinct No. 4: All of that part of the Village lying within the following described boundaries: The middle of Lake Street on the south, the Village limits on the west, the Village limits on the north, and the middle of Addison Road on the east.

POLLING PLACE: Old Mill Public Grammar School

The polls at said election will be opened at 8:00 o'clock A.M. and closed at 6:00 o'clock P.M. on the date of the election and all persons qualified to vote at regular Village elections are qualified to vote on said questions and each voter shall vote at the polling place established for the election precinct within which he resides.

BY ORDER OF THE President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Addison, DuPage County, Illinois.

DATED this 8th day of September, 1970.

ROBERT E. DE VRIES
President

Lancers Hope To Lead League's Point Parade

by PHIL KURTH

Take the fantasies of childhood, refine them a bit, add a touch of reality, and you have the dreams of later years.

To the author, it's an immortal novel. To the artist, a timeless masterpiece. To the football coach, an unbeaten season.

And to most coaches, it's little more than a fantasy.

But to Lake Park coach Bob Monken, that dream of an unbeaten season has been close enough, and real enough, to touch. Twice in the last three years the Lancers have reached for perfection, and fallen less than a touchdown short.

In 1967 Lake Park finished the season with a 7-1 record — that one loss being a wild, improbable 23-23 setback to Crown.

Last season four thin points separated the Lancers from the ranks of the unbeaten and untied. They opened the campaign with a 6-6 standoff against Conant and then crushed five straight opponents before succumbing to Wheaton North 15-13.

The '69 Lancers set a school scoring record with 239 points — an average of almost 35 a game. They rolled up such margins as 32-8, 41-6, 63-0.

But that, of course, was a year ago. And in high school there is a continuous process of change. The behemoth, the speedster, the super-star moves on, and the building of a champion begins all over.

Last year the Lancers built their title hopes around a tough, quick, phantom-like quarterback named Glenn Damato. An extraordinary performer, Glenn was one of the state's top scorers and Monken admits that there was the vague "tone of a team supporting an individual."

Says Monken: "This was not by intent of the coaches, but was due to a vast amount of publicity given an outstanding individual. I cannot visualize this happening to the 1970 team as the returning players are a group very similar in ability."

Stepping in for the incomparable Mr. Damato at quarterback is a rough, rugged, rocket-armed senior who could be one of the big surprises of 1970 — Ted Brinkman. It's no secret he's impressed Monken during the pre-season workouts.

"He throws well, he's a smart kid, and he's a gutsy runner," says Monken of his rock-ribbed 185-pound signal-caller.

Appraising this year's Lancers, Monken says: "We're extremely strong in the backfield. We don't have the big fullback right now with Larry Harber out of action, but we've got some depth at quarterback with Pat Dempsey to back up Brinkman and we have several fine running backs, including Norb Schaeffer, Rod Smolla, Don Loren, and junior Brian Elliott."

Joining Harber on the injury list is Jim Saccomanno who suffered a dislocated shoulder in the first week of practice.

"Both of these guys could come back in three or four weeks so we could get stronger as the season moves on."

"At slot end we have Sal Dalo who has been impressive this fall. He might go both ways, playing halfback on defense."

"Interior-wise, Larry Theling and Dale Zajick are two of our best. Pete Hanson will probably be our starting center and Jim Pemberton (6-2 235) has looked real good and is a probable starter either offensively or defensively."

"At the other guard and tackle spots, there are quite a few kids fighting for positions."

"Guards include Mike Tock, Chuck Little, Steve Wright, Roger Reitzel seems to have a spot nailed down at tackle, and Pemberton might play in the offensive line. Dave Williams (6-1, 220), who played some fullback last year, has looked real good in his first year at tackle."

"We're going to try to keep our number of two-way players to a minimum. Loren, Smolla, Dalo, Zajick, and Theling will probably go both ways."

"Defensively, Mark Black will get a shot at an end spot. Chuck Blimeboese, who was injured in a motorcycle accident prior to the season, is working out now and we're hoping he'll have enough practices in to be eligible for our first game. Senior Willie Campbell will be one of the defensive halfbacks, and juniors Roger DeLazzer and Dale Pellen also figure in our defensive plans."

"DeLazzer will be a defensive end and we're hoping Pellen can be one of our starting interior linemen on defense."

Junior Lance Bayne figures to be Hanson's back-up man at center.

With a rugged array of hard-running backs and the diversified offense that has become traditional at Lake Park, Monken anticipates another high-powered scoring attack.

Whether they can dethrone defending champ Wheaton North will depend on the timber of toughness in the line and on defense.

"We're kind of short of depth in the line. Right now we're probably leanest at our tackle positions so we may have to shift our personnel around to bolster the interior of our offense."

"Defensively we could have problems and unless we toughen up there's going to be some wild scoring ball games this fall."

Defense or not, Lake Park fans are going to see some mighty interesting football this fall. And problems or not, Monken, like every other coach, is dreaming.

TOUGH TED. A key to Lake Park's title hopes for 1970, senior quarterback Ted Brinkman has all the tools of the fine field general — good running ability, a strong arm, and the intelligence to keep the defense off stride.

SUPER SPEED. Norb Schaeffer, a track star and a three-year veteran of the Lake Park backfield, will keep opposing defenses wary as he looks for daylight and the step he needs for touchdown sprints this fall.

Shattered teeth. A few dozen stitches. Scars, bruises, broken bones.

These are the badges of courage for those of the steeled bodies, the icy nerves, the superb coordination, and the polished skills of the professional in the world of hockey or of football or even of baseball.

And for their strength and their guts and their pride they sip occasionally the wine of glory and they sup occasionally at the table of prosperity.

As long as the muscles and the nerves and the reflexes last, they retain that 10,000 or 20,000, or 30,000 dollar income.

And over in the land of the almost-athlete, the pudgy, balding, middle-aged pretender to the world of sport pockets 50 or 60,000 dollars for a couple of days of strolling in the sun, clubbing a little white ball.

The absurdity of it is staggering! Somewhere, somehow, some way the whole thing is out of whack. The fanatical attraction of millions to golf is one of the great mysteries of sport.

To play the game is fun. To watch someone else play it is as exciting as watching a kid kick a can.

It's hard to believe it's just an snob appeal that draws a crowd to a golf course to watch the biggies perform. There just aren't that many socialites.

And it's harder to believe that the people go out there for the action and the drama and the thrills of big-time golf. There simply isn't any.

But every time you open a newspaper or turn on the TV you're confronted with exclusive coverage of the annual 80 billion dollar Pocatella Open. And the implication is that you're watching the world's greatest athletes in the world's greatest sport.

Someone's got to be kidding. The most grievous injury ever suffered by a golfer was a busted blister. The greatest exertion required is wiping sweat from the brow — if there isn't a caddy around to do it. Toddlers or little old ladies can take a club and hit a ball that's sitting helplessly on the ground.

And yet professional golf is one of the more lucrative enterprises going. Maybe the doctors who deal in the workings of the human mind could study it and find an answer. From here the whole thing defies explanation.

Until this year, though, it was merely puzzling, not aggravating.

But when Arnold Palmer was named the Athlete of the Decade, professional golf stopped being merely ridiculous and became a terribly unfunny joke.

Arnold Palmer?

A better athlete than Bobby Hull or Gordie Howe or Hank Aaron or Bill Russell or Wilt Chamberlain or Jim Brown or Muhammad Ali?

Why not Minnesota Fats or Willie Mays? Why not Joe Kristoff or Buzz Fazio? Why not Syd Harnesk or Bert Wall? Why not Buddy Rogers or the Iron Russian?

Certainly pool or billiards or bowling or roller derby or wrestling are as much a part of sport as golf. Probably more so, and probably more deserving of publicity and recognition.

Arnold Palmer — the greatest athlete of them all. It's like calling Fabian the greatest singer of modern time or Annette Funicello the greatest actress. Except that it's not funny.

To the real purist, Arnold Palmer isn't even a legitimate athlete. And if we really want to be liberal about it, chess and checkers and poker are sports, too, and we might as well nominate Maverick as the athlete of the decade.

Arnold's Army? Sounds tough, huh? A badminton team could probably stomp 'em into the ground. Golf-watching has to be one of the silliest things going, and if it appeals to anything, it must be vanity. Kind of like people gathered at a plush restaurant to grab a glimpse of a movie star.

Golfers are a strange breed, and I have nothing against those who love the game and rush out to the course every chance they get — as long as they don't bore me with the details of their after-noon's recreation.

But when they insist that golf is as tough a sport as hockey or football or baseball or basketball, they exceed the limits of good sense.

And when they compare Arnold Palmer to Bobby Hull they're entering the world of fantasy.

It would be nice to ignore them and humor them but then you shake your head and realize that it's not an illusion — Arnold Palmer IS the athlete of the decade and old duffs who can't bend over and touch their toes ARE getting rich on the bounty of a stupid sport.

And you wonder where the world went wrong.

Rich Net Pros To Gather At McGaw

At least four of the six contract professionals who will be appearing at McGraw Hall Sept. 17 and 18 in the Marriott All-Star Tennis Classic will make over $100,000 this year from playing professional tennis.

Ageless Pancho Gonzalez and 1970 Wimbledon champion John Newcombe who will be highlighting the two-day tourney with a $10,000 head-to-head match on Sept. 18, rank four and six, respectively, in official earnings so far this year. Prior to the U.S. Open at Forest Hills, Gonzalez had won $62,749 and Newcombe $47,630.

Tom Okker and U.S. Pro Champion Tony Roche, who will be playing on Sept. 17, have won $52,990 and $46,069, respectively, so far this year.

Newcombe says, "Before the year is out, my winnings should come to between $50,000 and $60,000. Then there are the endorsement fees from manufacturers of tennis equipment. Including endorsements, a top player ought to make $110,000 to $150,000 a year." As for endorsements, the number two seed at the U.S. Open Tennis Championships said, "One of the world's top-ranked players should be making $35,000 to $50,000 a year from his racquet endorsements. This is about double the figure of two years ago."

Rod Laver, the top tennis player in the world, has already earned $135,003 in official earnings so far this year (prior to Forest Hills). He is so famous, so big, that while other players may endorse one racquet, Laver endorses three simultaneously. That's worth about $100,000 this year for Laver. When you add in his other endorsements, Rocket Rod should earn no less than $300,000 this year playing professional tennis.

Professional tennis is coming of age. "In just the last two years tennis has broken away from the cliquish country club set. Now the public is taking it up," says Gladys Heidman, editor and publisher of World Tennis Magazine. She adds, "All of a sudden the big companies are starting to sponsor tournaments, and the equipment makers are shelling out wads of money for endorsements."

This year the French Open and Wimbledon both offered $100,000 in prize money. The U.S. open at Forest Hills is offering $160,000 in total prize money, with $20,000 ear-marked for first prize in the man's singles competition.

A chief reason for the growth of pro tennis has been a 1968 agreement for "open tennis" negotiated among the various organizations that control the game. Now the pros can play in many important tournaments that formerly barred them. The prestige of the tournaments — and of the pros — has grown correspondingly. Tennis supporters contend that the game will grow in the 1970's the way professional golf did in the 1960's.

On a local level, this prediction would seem to hold true. Last year, Chicago had its first major professional tennis tournament, the success of which prompted its promoters to being about this year's Marriott All-Star Tennis Classic. And the lure of a $10,000 head-to-head match brought Gonzalez and Newcombe together for their second such competition this year. Gonzalez defeated the younger Newcombe in January of this year in another $10,000 head-to-head match.

In addition to Gonzalez vs. Newcombe, the Friday matches at McGaw feature Northwestern's Marty Riessen playing Tony Roche; and a doubles match pairing Tom Okker and Riessen against Tony Roche and Ismail El Shafei.

On Thursday night, the first night of competition, the action will get under way with singles competition between 1970 Wimbledon champion Margaret Smith Court and Nancy Richey, U.S. number one-ranked woman tennis player. If Mrs. Court manages to win the U.S. Open, in which she is competing, she will be the first woman tennis player to accomplish a grand slam (the championships of Australia, France, Britain and the United States in one year) since the late Maureen Connolly Brinker in 1953.

The next event Thursday night features 1970 U.S. Davis Cup champion Arthur Ashe and Cliff Richey in singles competition. Following this match, Mrs. Court and Ashe will team up against Cliff and Nancy Richey in mixed doubles.

Action starts both nights at 7:15 p.m. Tickets are priced at $5.50 and $3.00 and they are on sale at all Ticketron outlets and Marshall Field and Montgomery Ward stores. Tickets can also be purchased at Northwestern's Dyche Stadium or by mail. Mail orders should be addressed to Marriott All-Star Tennis Classic, Suite 505, 333 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Young Rules Waukegan Circuit

Ray Young will be the 1970 Waukegan Speedway champion. The Dolton driver clinched his second consecutive title on the Waukegan asphalt with a 4th place finish in the 50 lap Labor Day race held Saturday. Sunday's races were cancelled by the rain.

While Young has the title in hand, Jim Coesman of Waukegan and Bob May of Gurnee still have at least five more programs to decide who will rank second. These two collided and ended up on top of the pit wall in the big race Saturday. Coesman recovered to finish 7th, but May was out after 19 laps and finished last.

Fourth place is still in question as Lee Schuler of Lockport, Bob Anzinger of McHenry and Vern Browne of Waukegan are separated by only 17 points. Anzinger turned in an impressive win over Browne in the 50 lapper with Schuler 6th.

The hobby division also has a close battle with rookie Tom Oliver of Zion holding a 19 point edge over last year's champion, Tom Reuss of Wildwood. Chuck Chadwick of Lake Zurich and Floyd Burdick of Racine now rank 5th and 7th after feature race runs on Friday and Saturday. George Kladis of Chicago won the special 40 lap U.A.R.A. midget race Friday as 41 cars representing five states were on hand.

Enjoyable Days

The most points scored in one game by one player in the National Football League last year was 24, achieved by two men. Ben Hawkins of the Philadelphia Eagles caught four touchdowns in a 41-24 victory over Pittsburgh Sept. 28 and Davey Williams of the St. Louis Cardinals did the same in a 51-42 loss to New Orleans Nov. 2.

Young NIU Huskies Face

Northern Illinois University football coach Doc Ulrich has been optimistic with the progress of his sophomore grid-ders until this week when he ended the two-a-day practice drills with a full-scale scrimmage Saturday.

It appears that the untested youngsters have reached a plateau in their development and since Ulrich will have to rely upon these newcomers in as many as 11 starting positions on offense and defense he is obviously concerned.

He is especially worried since the Huskies open their 1970 campaign next Saturday by hosting San Diego State College at 7:30 p.m. on NIU's AstroTurf carpet. San Diego State went undefeated last fall and is expected to field another rugged team.

"I don't really know why," sighed Ulrich, "but I suspect that we've done as much as we can in preparing them for the game. However, there is a big difference between scrimmage experience and game experience and I am inclined to think that once we start playing teams, they will resume making progress."

"It's a normal thing, I guess, but it certainly is rather frightening when you are depending on so many of them and you are going to face one of the best teams in the country."

One of the sophomores on whom Ulrich is placing a great deal of responsibility is Terry Dragan who will start at quarterback.

Dragan, a 5-11, 170-pounder, has

Fremd Plans Special Day

A series of activities will be held at Fremd High School Saturday, Sept. 12 to raise funds for new lights to be installed at the football field.

Three intersquad games will be staged. There will be short games involving the freshmen and sophomores before the varsity holds a full-scale dress rehearsal starting at 1 p.m.

The band, cheerleaders and pom-pom girls will also add to the festivities. Door prizes will be given away, including a $1,200 stereo home entertainment center. Proceeds from chances sold will go toward lights. The stereo unit is on display at the Palatine National Bank.

pleased Doc to this point and Doc can't help but feel that with some game experience under his belt he will develop into a good one.

"He has good quickness and can make effective decisions in a split second," asserted Ulrich. "That, plus the fact that he can run very well and pass with equal accuracy, makes him a dangerous offensive threat on every play."

This is particularly important since Ulrich employs a roll-out style offense for his quarterback.

Ulrich also had some kind words for another newcomer, Dave Wassenberg, a transfer student, who has apparently won the tailback job.

Wassenberg, a 5-10, 187-pounder who hails from Marysville, Kan., provides Ulrich with a commodity which was sadly lacking in the backfield last season — speed. He is not a great speedster, but he has good speed in combination with being a hard runner and that will be another plus factor in the makeup of the 1970 football Huskies.

"He is getting better with every practice session because he's getting accustomed to our offense," declared Ulrich.

Ulrich also had some kind words for John LaLonde, NIU's All-America candidate at fullback. Doc has been pleased with John's spring and fall work and had nothing but glowing adjectives for his enthusiasm and work, which he describes as "110 per cent."

A major concern developed late last week when tackle Dave Weisendanger was felled by an illness and missed most of the week undergoing special tests. Weisendanger has been a starting offensive tackle for the Huskies the past two seasons, and if he is not able to play, Ulrich's forces will suffer a severe blow. Even if he is cleared to play, the effects of being hospitalized will no doubt prevent him from being in tip-top condition for the game.

'Y' Slates 16th Golf Tournament

Saturday, Sept. 26, at 10:00 a.m. is the date and time for the 16th Annual Northwest Suburban YMCA Golf Tournament. The site is the Crystal Woods Country Club at Rts. 176 and 47.

For all practical purposes, two tournaments are held concurrently. Any industry in the northwest suburban area is invited to submit a team or teams. Two high team trophies will be awarded.

Fastex Division of Illinois Tool cleaned up in 1968. Fastex Team No. 1 won the "low gross" title with a sparkling 33 (Polony 78, Schleicher 80, Gilliland 83 and Reed 87). The "low net" title was won by Fastex Team No. 2 with a 382-74 — 288. The "Peoria System" is used to determine team handicaps.

Teams may enter by calling Cliff Loth-ery at the Northwest Suburban YMCA, 296-3376. Team entry fee is $5.00 per man. This pays all costs, including the greens fee.

Anyone in the area may enter the individual title championships. Men interested in individual competition do NOT have to be on a team. The fee for individual competition is $3.00 plus greens fee.

Stampeding Cowboys

For the first time in the Dallas Cowboys' history, the club led the National Football League in rushing last season with 2,276 total yards. The record of 2,885 was set by Detroit in 1966. Dallas is the first team since Chicago in 1956 to be top-rated in team passing and also gain the most yards rushing. The Cowboys also won their third overall offensive title in the last four years.

Long Excursions

The longest run from scrimmage in the history of the American Football League was 81 yards by Sid Blanks of Houston against New York, Dec. 13, 1964. Three players — Jack Larseheid, Paul Lowe and Paul Robinson — turned in runs of 87 yards and Keith Lincoln recorded an 86-yarder.

Baseball Scores In Opening Midget Play

by FRANK HOLAN

The action was brisk despite the hot, humid weather as the expanded Mount Prospect Midget Football Association started its 14th season on five Lions Park gridirons.

The Senior Division results resembled baseball scores as the Packers edged the Bears 8 to 6, the Cardinals lassoed the Colts 6 to 2 and the Giants blanked the Lions 13 to 0.

Impressive wins were chalked up in the Juniors by the Steelers, Chiefs, 49ers, Vikings and Redskins while the Eagles tied the Rams. The Bantam Division victories went to the Buckeyes, Spartans, Gophers, Illini and Badgers. The Boilermakers and Wildcats fought to a scoreless deadlock.

SENIOR DIVISION

A 40 yard pass from QB George Misovich to end Bob Chamberlain enabled the Packers to beat the Bears 8 to 6 in the opening big guys game. Earlier, Bill Bulls blocked a punt and Bob Strasser fell on the ball in the end zone for a safety. Halfbacks Chuck Peters, John O'Brien, Tim Davies, Mike Lapewich and Bucky Fischer performed admirably. A strong defensive line game was turned in by Jim O'Brien, Jim Seasty, Matt Hower and Ray Demmert.

Dave Ennes tallied the Bears' lone touchdown on an eight yard down-and-out pass from Steve Spielmann who also intercepted two aerials. Jim Barrett ran well behind the fine blocking of tackle Alan Black and end Scott Hetherington. Jay Loos gathered in an enemy pass and hit runners for several losses.

The Cardinals scored a go-ahead touchdown late in the last quarter when signal caller Jim Petran hit halfback Rick Chuppek with a 55 yard bomb and then hung on to defeat the Colts 6 to 2. Ends Mike Ciarus and Mike Di Santl blocked hard and snagged several key passes. The V.I.P. linemen were Rob Van Sehalick, Mike Izban, and Mark Pauluzzi on defense. Fumble recoveries were made by John Wierr and Paul Youngquist.

The Colts couldn't dent the Redbirds defense but scored two points when a pass from center went over the Cards punter's head and was recovered. Halfbacks John Roth and Dave Thoma and end Chuck Frans executed some excellent passing and running plays. Key tackles were turned in by Jeff Leeman, Gary Horvath and Tom Dencker.

In the afternoon finale, end Dave Matzl long-armed in 1st and 4th quarter passes from QB Doug Spohn which enabled them to shutout the new Lions eleven 13 to 0. Al Miller converted the extra point. Sharp offensive line performances were turned in by guards Tom Di Gangi and George Bregar plus tackles Joe Bono and Randy Galtich. The defense was spearheaded by the quick quarter of Terry Fitzpatrick, Buddy Tolp, Jerry Parker and Steve Coskey.

The young Lions made a game of it as Mark Theobald threw several nice passes with Brian Shelton on the receiving end. Tackle Jeff Pounding blocked well. Ed Ernst, Jorey Shallcross, Steve Banaro, Bob Butler and Jimmy Miller stood out on defense. Phil Smith's punts kept the Giants on their toes.

JUNIOR DIVISION

The Steelers struck quickly in the first quarter and scored the game's only touchdown on a 30 yard flip from QB Tim Dixon to halfback Bruce Haaland and went on to blank the improved Browns, 6-0 in a defensive battle. Mark Sellers, Phil Bono, and Wayne Martinski blocked hard and good tackling was displayed by Ricky Holan, Jim Brown and Eddie Di Gangi.

Tough Tim Gosch picked up 60 yards for the Browns from his halfback position and end Lou Citro caught two clutch passes. End Perry Douvris blocked a punt, recovered a fumble and tackled accurately.

A short scoring sprint and two blocked punts in the first half resulted in the Chiefs scalping the rookie Raiders 15 to 9. Halfback Tom Smith recorded one six pointer and tackle Paul Kudalis the other. Center Jim Kennedy contributed some fine interior play. Tom Smolan called an outstanding contest. Glen Shaler, Mike Crnich and Gary Schriber anchored the defensive unit.

Fullback John Loukis was the Raiders top ball carrier. Larry Hayes made the most tackles but received plenty of help from tackle Doug Shattuck and line-backer-captain Kent Taylor.

Halfbacks Larry Ostling and Greg Gatto smashed for a touchdown apiece and Paul Izban ran back an interception to paydirt as the 49ers outdistanced the Cowboys 20 to 7. Gary Gripenrog, Randy Williams and Eric Mase were other standouts on the offensive squad. Pat Murphy and Dan Keller plugged up the opponents middle of the line.

The Cowboys grabbed a short-lived lead as Steve McBride went over on a 30 yard toss. Halfback Rod Mobus cracked over for the seventh point which ended the losers scoring for the day.

The Vikings struck quickly in their 24-0 conquering of the powerless Jets. Mike Szukalla scooted over on 1st and 3rd quarter dashes. Tom Hermanson hit smooth operating end Pat Foley with a beautiful pitch and later scored himself on a QB sneak. Andy Loos, Dick Paulus and Mike Janzow put on a tremendous defensive exhibition.

The Jets offensive attack couldn't get moving and wasn't helped by a porous secondary on defense. Right end Steve Nerby eliminated sweeps by the victors.

Rambling halfback Ron Lorch scored three times as the Redskins whitewashed the fledgling Falcons 29 to 9. Mark Kantecki made good calls and passed on target. Guard Doug Scott blocked savagely and Tom Sofie and Mark Norwick were hard-nosed tacklers.

Johnny Maestranzi was the Falcons ball carrying work horse as he performed behind the crisp blocking of Wayne Argast, Steve Mokry, and Pat Sidorchuk. Defensive stalwarts were Dave McKown, Greg Janese and Jim Peterson who also played well on defense.

The Eagles right end Mark O'Brill "stole" the ball from the Rams quarterback on a handoff late in the game and dashed 40 yards for a game ending 6-6 deadlock score. The Rams connected on an 18 yard pass from signal-caller Bob Schachner to end Mike Sramek. Mark Wertz and Chuck Lynch exhibited some hard halfback running power. Jim Zielinski led with the most tackles. Tom Kennedy intercepted a pass and recovered a fumble.

Tim Meyer, Kevin Kronforst and Joe Holloway were Eagles offensive stickouts and Tom Ruane, Art Stevens and Guy Semar were defensive stellar-fellars.

BANTAM DIVISION

The Buckeyes tamed the Tigers 24 to 0 as Mike Carroll, Mike Skoog and John Whitehead each scored a touchdown. John Pettit, Jim Whitehead and Steve Ford accounted for two safeties. Brad Hiller, Mark Hauser and Tom Brothers threw hard, key blocks. Dan Ayers and Mark Fassnacht recovered fumbles.

The willing but inexperienced Tigers got good performances from Bill Buffton, Frank Garapolo, Howard Schiff, Ricky Kooiker and John Georgen.

Jeff Patterson's punting kept the Hoosiers deep in their own territory and set up the second quarter safety which enabled the Spartans to squeak out a baseball-like 2-0 victory. The Spartans Matt Lee sprinted well and far. Defensive demons included Mark Dable, Joe Hamilton, Rick Wagner, Marty Boyles and Dave Brucki.

All the Hoosiers played hard and King Strobel, John Borden, Tracy Wertz, Billy Weislo, Kurt Anderson and Jeff Vlach stood out.

The Gophers bruised the expansion Bruins 27 to 0 as Dave Kozy, Joe Carcerano, Tim Maloney and Mark Smolan each crossed the goal line once. John Cadwell, Ed Demmert blocked and galloped effectively. Aggressive tackling was shown by George Stedman, Kevin Lowe, Greg Squires and Jeff Lowe.

Len Kaiser's Bruins couldn't put together any offense but should improve as they gain experience, confidence

The Illini beat the Hawkeyes 15 to 0 as Brian Gavre, Dave Peterson and Steve Joy scored. John Rover, Pat Schmiederer and Matt Johnson were other offensive standouts. Good charges and tackles were put on display by Pat Yates, Mike Ward and Jeff Johnson.

Bobby Skwarek was the Hawkeyes leading ball carrier. Scott Wright, Curt Calas and Pat Doyle collected the most defensive points. Hustling Harry Arnold pounced on two Illini bobbles.

The Badgers came from behind to record a 12-6 victory over the Wolverines as QB John Rohrer ran and sneaked for 45 and 20 yards respectively. Dave Pauluzzi and Mark Norris also carried the ball well. Tom and Brian Wabick, Richard Reed, Mike Roder, and John Horgan stopped a Wolverine rally in the closing minutes which was sparked by Don Bach, who put the losers in the lead in the first quarter. Bob Mularie, Don Lesner and Jon Seanlan ripped off good yardage. David Closek, Jeff Howell and Tony Dirk were a tough threesome on defense.

The Boilermakers and Wildcats put on a rugged bantam finale which ended in a scoreless duel. Halfback Chuck Arredia rushed for distance, made two game saving tackles on open field runs and recovered three fumbles. Joe Arredia punted for good yardage and centered effectively, when not performing kicking chores. Mike Burdi's tackling and Bob Peak's strong smashes were very effective.

(The Wildcats did not submit any game information).

How to tell how used a car is.

With a "Svensk Testad" used car, you'll find out exactly what you want to know about a car. Not just what a salesman wants you to know.

"Svensk Testad" is a 22-point inspection and repair procedure originally developed in Sweden. By examining the "Svensk Testad" inspection form, you can see exactly what was wrong with a car when we took it in. And exactly what we've done to make it right.

So while you're finding out how used our used cars are, you're also finding out how good they are.

Three Teams Post Sweeps In Gals' Classic League

The women's division of the Paddock Classic Traveling League opened its second decade of action at Thunderbird Lanes, and while you could probably hear a pin drop, the more pronounced sound was the chain reaction of 10 pins being avalanched by the big black ball.

Three of the eight PCTL entries found the pocket often enough to sweep their competition in three straight games and in the final category of total pins.

Lattof Chevrolet, Doyle's Striking Lanes and Franklin-Weber Pontiac mowed down their opponents to rise to the top of the standings with seven points apiece.

Arlington Park Towers dropped the middle set with Morton Pontiac to earn five points for the night, but Thunderbird Country Club, Des Plaines Lanes and Girard-Brums all failed to break the ice in the scoring column.

Lattof showed power at the home lanes as Isobel Kosi coasted in with the night's high series of 813 against Thunderbird. A 235 in the second game made her the only bowler to surpass the magical 600 series mark.

Teammate Donna Reinhardt, paced by a 225 opener, just missed joining her teammate as she settled for a 595.

Doyle's meanwhile, rode Lu Schoenberger's 230, the high game of the night, to a sweep of Des Plaines Lanes. Lu also added scores of 149 and 211 to finish with

Free Lectures In Boat Safety

The Skokie Valley Power Squadron, a unit of the United States Power Squadron, will offer its free lecture series in boating safety and procedures at two locations beginning this month.

Lectures will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesdays beginning Sept. 23, at Prospect High School, 779 W. Kensington (Foundry) road, Mount Prospect. Classes will also be offered at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesdays beginning Sept. 29, at Glenbrook North High School, 2300 Shermer Road, Northbrook.

Lectures are open to men and women 14 years of age or older. For further information contact Public Relations Officer, Jim Nowlen, 118 Wedgewood Drive, Barrington, Ill. 60010.

Arlington Newcomers Wind Up Golf Season

Barbara Scott led the field in low gross honors and Jane Pinter paced the low netters in the Arlington Newcomers Golf League tournament at Old Orchard Country Club last week.

The low gross leaders in the different classes were Gladys Barnes in 'A,' Gloria McDonald in 'B' and Delores Gill in 'C' Flight.

Tying for low net honors in 'A' were Jane Cook and Dottie Erlinger. Olive Stadi was the Class B leader and Evelyn Burdette took the Class C honors.

Gloria McDonald led the league with three pars on No. 2, 3 and 7. She also used just 15 putts.

Setting the pace for pars this year were these female golfers:

Barbara Scott with 23, Dottie Erlinger with 14 and Betty Godwin with 11.

Posting chip-ins were Mary Deichstetter on No. 9 and Delores Gill on No. 4.

The most improved golfer of the year was Marge Dryanski.

At Rolling Meadows

The Pearls took high series with 1985 and the Emeralds high game with 718 in the Thursday Eye Openers Bowling League at Rolling Meadows Bowl.

Top bowlers were Lorraine Dall of the Rhinestones with 488-192, Irma Reessler of the Onyx with 473, Jenelle Dearen of the Pearls with 472 and Pam Snell of the Sapphires with 194.

Delores Dupre received an achievement patch for converting the 5-10 split.

Ethel Juenger rammed home a 230 in the opener and closed with a 583 series to pace Franklin-Weber Pontiac to a seven-point blitz. Peggy Harris, although missing from the league opener, averaged her 183 standard to post the only 300-plus series for Girard-Brums.

The girls will travel to Des Plaines Lanes Saturday to resume play. The men's division, after a week's layoff, will convene at Hoffman Lanes for their second meeting of the campaign.

On Display September 10th!

We think it'll be just your size.

Because Vega is little on the outside, yet amazingly roomy on the inside. In fact, Vega gives you as much room per passenger as many big cars.

Plus a peppy 90-horsepower overhead-cam aluminum-alloy engine, front disc brakes and power ventilation — all standard.

Vega's just as much car as any big car, only smaller.

And Vega comes four ways, too: coupe, sedan, wagon, and even a little panel truck.

Come in the 10th. Pick up a Vega catalog. Talk to our salesmen.

About Vega. The little car that does everything well.

The Prince Cried, 'Aha' My Throne

by GEOFFREY MEHL

Love with a gristy touch is reported from Draycourt, England, where a parish council has asked for special police patrols to move couples from the village's favorite courting spot — the cemetery.

On the zoo beat: Residents living near the Plashet park zoo are up in arms (as most residents near most commercial activities are these days), but they've got a different sort of beef. Seems the mating cries of peacocks are nocturnal in timing and annoying to sleeping.

Closer to home, officials at the Brookfield Zoo have got a dinosaur in its collection, but don't get scared if you happen across it in an "unexpected spot." It's plastic, and it was donated by the Atlantic-Richfield Co., who is very ecology minded.

If you'll recall, dinosaurs were wiped out when they stumbled into tar pits, among other things. When the whole mess got washed underground, it and varieties of plant life formed such things as coal, oil and natural gas.

That's just the sort of thing needed for civilization, pollution, and good oil depletion allowances.

A HOT ITEM from the Friends of Dracula Committee: Officials at a research farm in Hextable, England are paying two cents a head for every slug brought in by local children.

A researcher said that due to a dry spell there's a shortage of the friendly creatures, and they're even offering wooden spatulas for those squeamish about picking up the slugs.

Take heart suburban housewives: Jim Dobbs has been licking trading stamps for 11 years now, all with one goal in mind: a new car. The 44-year-old salesman, who expects delivery of the prize soon, commented "I never want to lick a stamp again."

How many stamps for a car? A mere 1,216,000.

ICKY STICKY GOO DEPT. — A jealous wife who suspected her husband had a secret affair with another woman was convicted on a disorderly conduct charge in Cincinnati the other day.

Seems she roared into the suspect's office with a large bowl, hollered "here's some honey for your honey," and proceeded to cover a coiffure with the sticky stuff.

Jealousy was worth a $100 fine and 10-day suspended sentence.

On the consumer front, workmen razing a house in Grimsby, England, found a packet of breakfast cereal made in 1926, and report that it was still edible.

Our Food and Drug Administration probably would have tried to give a mouse an overdose to see if it caused cancer, but in England, they're more civilized about such matters.

Royalty can be fun. Prince Charles, heir to the British throne, was photographed (by Lord Snowden, of course) waterskiing while seated on a wooden chair perched on a table top.

"Aha" cried the prince, "my throne."

Then he toppled unceremoniously into the water.

Meanwhile, back at the castle, the 70-year-old Duke of Beaufort, who serves as master of the Queen's Horse to Queen Elizabeth and a recognized expert on matters of importance, will judge a contest to choose the prettiest female ankles at a party to be given by the Duchess of Westminster.

Harumph. Back in the days of Richard

II, it was called something else.

For the detective fans in the crowds, this exciting item: Dolly Roach (honest, that's his name) escaped from the St. Louis, Mo., city workhouse recently by simply calling a taxi and riding away.

The cabdriver said he was taken to a tavern, but Dolly's still at large.

Refreshments are served and everyone is invited.

Anyone interested in beginner square dance lessons, please contact Ole Berg at 253-2988. Classes will be held on Monday evening at St. Simon Church. The first dance will be a free get acquainted dance on Sept. 14.

The Almanac

by UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Today is Friday, Sept. 11, the 254th day of 1970 with 111 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase.

The Morning stars are Mars and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1777 troops of George Washington were badly defeated by the British at the Battle of Brandywine.

In 1841 all members of President John Tyler's cabinet resigned except Secretary of State Daniel Webster. They were protesting the veto of a banking bill.

In 1940 in the early days of World War II, Buckingham Palace in London was damaged by German bombers.

In 1963 all 81 aboard an Indian Airlines Viscount died when the plane crashed near New Delhi.

A thought for the day: Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "Life is not so short but that there is always time for courtesy."

Veterans' Vane

President Nixon has approved plans for a $14 million replacement hospital for the VA complex in San Francisco.

Kansas educator Theodore Shackelford has been appointed to VA's vocational rehabilitation & education advisory Committee.

During the past fiscal year, 451, 719 vets, a 28 per cent increase, were counseled on VA benefits at veterans assistance centers.

A new law increases monthly payments 8 to 12 per cent (retroactive to July 1) for most vets with service-connected disabilities.

VA study reveals that current GI Bill trainees are more likely to be enrolled in college than their WW II and Korean Conflict counterparts.

VA announced that eligible vets may now draw VA educational allowances while training at Opportunities Industrialization Centers in 33 cities.

Research additions costing $11 million will be constructed at VA hospitals in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Ann Arbor, Philadelphia, Oklahoma City, Albuquerque, Wilmington, and Jackson, Miss.

Village Moves To Join Mass Transit District

Roselle's village board took the first formal step Tuesday night to join the proposed mass transit district along the Milwaukee Road's Elgin-Chicago west line.

In addition, the board agreed to ask Cal Whitney, 6N300 Oak St., Roselle, to be the village's representative in the district that would include all the communities along the line.

Apparently fulfilling a resolution of intent passed last spring, the board authorized Village Atty. Craig Larson to prepare an ordinance that would make Roselle part of the mass transit district.

WHITNEY, co-chairman of the board of Milwaukee Road Commuters' Association said he would at least be the village's temporary representative.

"I haven't been contacted by the village yet, but I was approached by Thomas Ploss, the Milwaukee Road attorney who is the spokesman for the project. I told him I would have to know the duties involved before I accepted but I would at least serve temporarily until a more qualified person was found," Whitney said.

Although he disagreed with the idea of "federal government subsidizing the railroad through the mass transit district," Whitney said it was the only answer to the high cost of operation today.

"Even the commuters' association couldn't reasonably ask the railroad to lose $1 million for the sake of improving service. I don't like it (federal funding) either, but if millions of dollars are being appropriated for mass transportation and somebody's going to get it, why shouldn't it be the commuters of our line?" he said.

THE DISTRICT would own, operate and construct the mass transit facilities and would be entitled to federal funds of up to two-thirds of the cost of capital improvements. State legislation allows mass transit districts to levy a five-cent tax with a referendum. However, Ploss has assured municipal officials the district won't depend on revenues raised by property taxes.

"Although the mass transit district doesn't plan on taxing initially," Whitney said, "I'm sure taxes will be part of the over-all plan."

Whitney, a part owner in a packaging materials business in Chicago has lived in Roselle since 1929 and is one of the Milwaukee Road's most faithful commuters.

A firm advocate of mass transportation, he rides the Chicago Transit Authority lines when traveling in the city.

"Mass transportation is a matter of educating the public, showing them the convenience of driving their own car to the city when they want and leaving when they want isn't worth the wear and tear on the emotions, nerves and peace of mind," Whitney said.

He has been in the commuters' association since it was formed about 15 years ago and has been chairman of the board for five years. The association includes representatives from both of Milwaukee Road's west and north lines.

Rail Station 'Won't Be Relocated'

Roselle's railroad station isn't being relocated but rather removed from the village, according to Cal Whitney, co-chairman of the board of the Milwaukee Road Commuters Association.

"I disagree totally with the move," Whitney said Wednesday. "It's strictly for political reasons." He was referring to the relocation of the railroad station from its present site in the center of the village eastward to the overpass at Irving Park Road.

"IN effect, what's happening is Medinah will be getting another station and Roselle won't have any," he said.

Whitney, 6N300 Oak St., Roselle has also been recommended as the village representative for a mass transit district the Milwaukee Road is proposing for its west Chicago-Elgin Line.

ROSELLE IS THE largest station in terms of commuters served along the west line, Whitney said, with people from neighboring villages driving here to use the station.

Yet the relocation would place the station out of walking distance for many Roselle residents, especially the older, retired persons, he said.

"People living along the streets near the station who continually have cars parked in front of their houses will be relieved when the new station is built and the parking lot is provided," Whitney said, "but I still don't think the station should be moved."

"I don't understand why the railroad is doing it unless they will close the Medinah station very soon after the new Roselle station is built. Usually the railroad doesn't like to have stations within two miles of each other because trains are heavy things to have to start and stop. They don't pick up enough speed unless they've been going for a while," he said.

Construction of the new station by the railroad may be delayed. Construction bids taken by the Milwaukee Road were higher than anticipated.

No action has been taken to accept or reject any of the bids for construction which the village is indirectly financing through a lease of land for the station parking lot.

Village officials and railroad representatives met in an executive session yesterday to discuss the bids and the next course of action.

Bloomingtondale To Get Its Own Library?

Bloomingtondale residents may soon be getting their own community library.

Village Pres. Robert Meyers this week appointed a three-member committee to begin planning and gathering information to create a public library.

Those appointed are Don Froio, 150 N. Prairie Ave., Frank J. Johnson, 118 S. Pleasant Ave., and Mrs. Carolyn Schweitzer, 116 S. Euclid Ave.

Meyers said all three were chosen because they have shown a keen interest in working toward forming such a facility.

"This committee is the beginning of what some day will be the Bloomingtondale Public Library," Meyers said.

He added that several citizens have already said they are willing to donate books and other materials. Negotiations are also in progress with others who have expressed the desire to possibly donate property for a library site.

Anyone wishing to donate materials or work with the committee is asked to contact the village clerk, 529-2874.

Village Clerk's Hours Clarified

Apparently there has been some confusion as to the hours of the Bloomingtondale Village Clerk's office, according to Fortune LoPresti, village clerk.

The office is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, and from 9 a.m. to noon on Wednesday and Saturday.

Mrs. LoPresti has also announced that voter registration for citizens of Bloomingtondale will be held through Oct. 4. No one will be able to register on or after Oct. 5.

DON'T LET HER fool you, April Horace, 200 E. Thorn-dale Ave., Roselle, was really shy in the first grade. Now a second-grader in-the-know at Roselle's Lincoln

School, April remembers "standing up and reading in front of the whole class" was about the "scariest" thing in her first-grade career.

YES, ROBERT Oberschnieder, 125 E. Mattendorf Ave., Roselle, really liked being in kindergarten and first grade. Now a second-grader at Lincoln school, Robert says staying in school the entire day makes him hot and sticky.

'Not Babies Of School Anymore'

Second Graders Offer Advice

by GINNY KUCMIERZ

Like everything else, being in first grade has its advantages and disadvantages. Just ask any Roselle second grader who's been through it!

These "seasoned" school-goers have a mixture of advice to give friends and relatives who are starting education on a full-time basis this fall.

"You go to school for the whole day," Dean Gronemeier, a second grader at Roselle's Parkside school, said, "and it's harder."

Sitting still for a longer time did pose adjustment problems for some of the second graders like Dean and Mark Smith, a second grader at Lincoln School.

A little fancy footwork at the side of the desk, in the aisle and a few timely wiggles in the chair helps, Mark said. His fellow second graders at Lincoln School seemed to agree.

SPRING HILLS second graders adapted to the longer time spent in class and said two recess periods during the day really helped.

Although the work is more difficult in first grade, Pam Klement was happy to know more than the kindergarteners at Spring Hills School.

Rene Dowd, another Spring Hills second grader expressed a general opinion when she said "the work is hard in first grade, but it really gets harder in second grade."

Getting out of the play preparatory stage of education into the business of serious learning or the "hard stuff" as the second graders termed it was "scary" at first but not all that bad.

The second graders interviewed were split on the question of what was the most difficult subject area. Joanne Long, April Horace and Mark Smith, all Lincoln students, preferred the precision of arithmetic to the aesthetics of reading.

"The big words are hard," Joanne said, "if you get stuck in arithmetic you can always count on your fingers."

Robert Oberschnieder, another Lincoln student, agreed with the group from Park and picked arithmetic as the most difficult.

Robert and Jean Stoesser, James Niemann, Dean Gronemeier and Celia Ceh, all like reading.

"You just sound the letters and you've got it made," James said. He and the others didn't like to use a pencil all the time, a requirement in arithmetic class.

THE HARD WORK is apparently worthwhile for Debbie Van Cura, Spring Hills school, who enjoyed first grade and likes being a second grader even better because "you're not babies of the school anymore."

This status of being a more mature student entitles Spring Hills second graders to use a different door than first graders and those in kindergarten, and all of them, especially Peter Rodrick, enjoy it.

Kindergarteners, however, may have one advantage over first graders and everyone else for that matter. "Kindergarteners can always be silly," Mark Smith said.

Bassford Finishes Aerospace Course

Bert Bassford of Roselle recently completed a three-week aerospace career seminar held at Governors Island, N.Y.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Del Bassford, 314 E. Nerge Rd., Roselle.

The purpose of the seminar was to counsel Air Force Cadets in careers in aerospace related fields. It was one of several specialized courses offered this summer for Civil Air Patrol cadets like Bert.

In '61 The Paving Estimate Was $23,000; Today It Has Skyrocketed To $182,000

The (Costly) Saga Of Westwood Creek

Several Addison developers were charged with a cumulative bill of $182,000 for improvements to a local drainage ditch following a meeting of Addison village board Tuesday.

The board directed Bud Loftus, village attorney, to send letters to all those developers of subdivisions utilizing Westwood Creek as a drainage ditch, requesting that they render their share of what it would cost to pave the creek.

Westwood Creek accepts most of the storm water drainage from a triangular area formed by Lake Street on the north, Army Trail Road on the south and the proposed I-41 Route 63 on the west. Subdivisions primarily concerned with the creek are Presidential Estates, Westwood, Addison Highlands and Kings Point East.

According to a detailed report submitted by Charles Washer, chairman of the land use committee, ever since 1961 village engineers have been requesting that bonds placed by the developers include the cost of paving the creek, but all such pleas were apparently ignored by the board.

ACCORDING TO WASHER, Anthony Ross, the developer of most of the subdivisions involved, has the major responsibility for paying the costs of improvements to the creek.

"Ross in theory was supposed to pave the creek at the time he developed the Pioneer Park subdivision," Washer said, "but the board never pushed the matter."

Although Ross has often in the past indicated that he would put the improvements in, he has never been required to commit himself legally in terms of a bond.

The original estimate to pave the creek back in 1961 was about $23,000. Today, according to Joseph Pavia, village engineer, the estimate has risen to $182,000, which includes paving not only the invert, but also the sides of the creek to prevent them from being washed away.

THE BOARD WILL hold a special meeting on Monday, Sept. 14, to continue the discussion on the plan.

In other matters, the removal of a "Sunday a.m. only" one-way street sign in front of St. Joseph Church on Fullerton Avenue caused some friction between Trustee Peter Callahan, chairman of the public safety committee, and William Drury, village administrator.

Callahan charged that Drury had removed the sign without having first consulted his committee, and that his action made it appear that the committee didn't know what it was doing.

The pastor of the St. Joseph Church complained that the one-way sign caused confusion about which way to park on the street. However, the public safety committee had earlier recommended that the sign stay up because of the heavy outflow of traffic at the church on Sunday mornings.

DRURY SAID THAT he removed the sign because he found no resolution providing for it. The public safety committee is now forced to re-examine the issue and decide whether or not the sign is required.

In other action, the board approved an ordinance authorizing the holding of a $3 million bond referendum on Oct. 17. The referendum proposes to issue the bonds for public utility improvements.

The four parts of the proposition to be included on the ballot of the referendum are as follows: $485,000 in bonds for improvement to sanitary sewer facilities; $500,000 in bonds for improvements to storm sewer facilities; $935,000 in bonds for improvements to water facilities; and $1,080,000 in bonds for improvements to streets.

DURING THE MEETING, the board presented a certificate of achievement to Arthur Petersen who has served as director of parks and recreation for the Addison Park District since May, 1965. Petersen resigned his position as director effective Aug. 21 to accept a position with high school Dist. 83 as a para-professional and teacher aide.

The board also presented a certificate of appreciation to William Marunde, superintendent of public works, for having served the village longer than anyone else, since Sept. 15, 1950.

Last Broker Park Payment Deferred

Payment of the Bloomingdale Park District's final $4,000 to the village for the Broker Road Park, located on Broker Road north of Lake Street, has been deferred for three years by the village board.

The park board a month ago requested a complete waiver of the payment. However, after several weeks of discussion, the village board at its meeting Wednesday night voted to defer payment with the stipulation that it could be waived at any time during the three years.

The park district made an agreement with the village two years ago to purchase the property for $12,000 — $8,000 of which already has been paid.

Village Pres. Robert Meyers called for a motion concerning the waiver so the park district could be given a definite answer.

Trustee Werner Troesken said he wished to meet with Bill Bryan, village treasurer, to discuss the village's budget before making a decision.

Meyers answered Troesken by saying, "We need recreation facilities desperately. When it comes to this, we can't do enough. I recently had the sad experience of attending a wake for a 12-year-old boy who died while playing in our streets."

"I would like to take action to either approve or disapprove the waiver, so that the park district can go ahead with its plans to develop the park," he continued.

Soden Named To VFW Post

Ray Soden, a member of the Bensenville VFW Post 2149, was recently named vice chairman of the VFW National Voice of Democracy Committee.

The committee will hold an organizational meeting Sept. 20 in Kansas City, Mo., the site of VFW National Headquarters.

In appointing Soden vice chairman, Herbert S. Rainwater, commander in chief of the VFW, said "The United States of America continues to be plagued by armed enemies abroad and by increased dissension from within. An active, dedicated and resourceful citizenry in these times is vital in maintaining our freedom heritage."

The Voice of Democracy program teaches young Americans that freedom is not free and encourages them to exercise their rights and responsibilities as citizens of a free country.

"The potential of this program is limitless and leadership at all levels of the VFW is extremely vital to the program."

"I am delighted to have Soden as a member of this national committee and look forward to working with him."

Demos Make Picnic Plans

The Addison Township Democratic Organization will hold a special meeting tonight to make final plans for the group's Sept. 20 picnic.

Site of the meeting is unannounced but those interested in attending may contact John L. Wozniak of Addison at 543-9487.

The picnic will be held at the Butler Teal Lake Area in Oakbrook. Committee members and interested citizens will be invited to attend.

At last month's meeting the organization elected new officers. They are: George J. Mitchell, 216 S. Villa Ave., Addison, as chairman, Andrew S. Sabala, 731 Emroy, Elmhurst, as co-chairman, Sue C. Williams, 4N716 Rte. 83, Bensenville, as secretary, and Mrs. Robert Liss, 16W604 Forest View, Bensenville, as treasurer.

The newly selected executive board includes the officers and Mrs. Sandra Bacelli, 107 Janice Ln., Addison, Mrs. Franklin Little, 721 Howard, Elmhurst, Robert Liss of Bensenville, Gus Kalskeas, 341 LaPorte Dr., Addison, Lawrence V. Moretti, 900 N. Grant St., Addison, and John L. Wozniak, 100 N. Grant, Addison. Wozniak will also serve as publicity chairman.

Village Moves To Join Mass Transit District

Roselle's village board took the first formal step Tuesday night to join the proposed mass transit district along the Milwaukee Road's Elgin-Chicago west line.

In addition, the board agreed to ask Cal Whitney, 6N300 Oak St., Roselle, to be the village's representative in the district that would include all the communities along the line.

Apparently fulfilling a resolution of intent passed last spring, the board authorized Village Atty. Craig Larson to prepare an ordinance that would make Roselle part of the mass transit district.

WHITNEY, co-chairman of the board of Milwaukee Road Commuters' Association said he would at least be the village's temporary representative.

"I haven't been contacted by the village yet, but I was approached by Thomas Ploss, the Milwaukee Road attorney who is the spokesman for the project. I told him I would have to know the duties involved before I accepted but I would at least serve temporarily until a more qualified person was found," Whitney said.

Although he disagreed with the idea of "federal government subsidizing the railroad through the mass transit district," Whitney said it was the only answer to the high cost of operation today.

"Even the commuters' association couldn't reasonably ask the railroad to lose $1 million for the sake of improving service. I don't like it (federal funding) either, but if millions of dollars are being appropriated for mass transportation and somebody's going to get it, why shouldn't it be the commuters of our line?" he said.

THE DISTRICT would own, operate and construct the mass transit facilities and would be entitled to federal funds of up to two-thirds of the cost of capital improvements. State legislation allows mass transit districts to levy a five-cent tax with a referendum. However, Ploss has assured municipal officials the district won't depend on revenues raised by property taxes.

"Although the mass transit district doesn't plan on taxing initially," Whitney said, "I'm sure taxes will be part of the over-all plan."

Whitney, a part owner in a packaging materials business in Chicago has lived in Roselle since 1929 and is one of the Milwaukee Road's most faithful commuters.

A firm advocate of mass transportation, he rides the Chicago Transit Authority lines when traveling in the city.

"Mass transportation is a matter of educating the public, showing them the convenience of driving their own car to the city when they want and leaving when they want isn't worth the wear and tear on the emotions, nerves and peace of mind," Whitney said.

He has been in the commuters' association since it was formed about 15 years ago and has been chairman of the board for five years. The association includes representatives from both of Milwaukee Road's west and north lines.

Rail Station 'Won't Be Relocated'

Roselle's railroad station isn't being relocated but rather removed from the village, according to Cal Whitney, co-chairman of the board of the Milwaukee Road Commuters Association.

"I disagree totally with the move," Whitney said Wednesday. "It's strictly for political reasons." He was referring to the relocation of the railroad station from its present site in the center of the village eastward to the overpass at Irving Park Road.

"IN effect, what's happening is Medinah will be getting another station and Roselle won't have any," he said.

Whitney, 6N300 Oak St., Roselle has also been recommended as the village representative for a mass transit district the Milwaukee Road is proposing for its west Chicago-Elgin Line.

ROSELLE IS THE largest station in terms of commuters served along the west line, Whitney said, with people from neighboring villages driving here to use the station.

Yet the relocation would place the station out of walking distance for many Roselle residents, especially the older, retired persons, he said.

"People living along the streets near the station who continually have cars parked in front of their houses will be relieved when the new station is built and the parking lot is provided," Whitney said, "but I still don't think the station should be moved."

"I don't understand why the railroad is doing it unless they will close the Medinah station very soon after the new Roselle station is built. Usually the railroad doesn't like to have stations within two miles of each other because trains are heavy things to have to start and stop. They don't pick up enough speed unless they've been going for a while," he said.

Construction of the new station by the railroad may be delayed. Construction bids taken by the Milwaukee Road were higher than anticipated.

No action has been taken to accept or reject any of the bids for construction which the village is indirectly financing through a lease of land for the station parking lot.

Village officials and railroad representatives met in an executive session yesterday to discuss the bids and the next course of action.

Bloomingtondale To Get Its Own Library?

Bloomingtondale residents may soon be getting their own community library.

Village Pres. Robert Meyers this week appointed a three-member committee to begin planning and gathering information to create a public library.

Those appointed are Don Froio, 150 N. Prairie Ave., Frank J. Johnson, 118 S. Pleasant Ave., and Mrs. Carolyn Schweitzer, 116 S. Euclid Ave.

Meyers said all three were chosen because they have shown a keen interest in working toward forming such a facility.

"This committee is the beginning of what some day will be the Bloomingtondale Public Library," Meyers said.

He added that several citizens have already said they are willing to donate books and other materials. Negotiations are also in progress with others who have expressed the desire to possibly donate property for a library site.

Anyone wishing to donate materials or work with the committee is asked to contact the village clerk, 529-2274.

DON'T LET HER fool you, April Horace, 200 E. Thorn-dale Ave., Roselle, was really shy in the first grade. Now a second-grader in-the-know at Roselle's Lincoln

School, April remembers "standing up and reading in front of the whole class" was about the "scariest" thing in her first-grade career.

YES, ROBERT Oberschnieder, 125 E. Hattendorf Ave., Roselle, really liked being in kindergarten and first grade. Now a second-grader at Lincoln school, Robert says staying in school the entire day makes him hot and sticky.

'Not Babies Of School Anymore'

Second Graders Offer Advice

by GINNY KUCMIERZ

Like everything else, being in first grade has its advantages and disadvantages. Just ask any Roselle second grader who's been through it!

These "seasoned" school-goers have a mixture of advice to give friends and relatives who are starting education on a full-time basis this fall.

"You go to school for the whole day," Dean Gronemeier, a second grader at Roselle's Parkside school, said, "and it's harder."

Sitting still for a longer time did pose adjustment problems for some of the second graders like Dean and Mark Smith, a second grader at Lincoln School.

A little fancy footwork at the side of the desk, in the aisle and a few timely wiggles in the chair helps, Mark said. His fellow second graders at Lincoln School seemed to agree.

SPRING HILLS' second graders adapted to the longer time spent in class and said two recess periods during the day really helped.

Although the work is more difficult in first grade, Pam Klement was happy to know more than the kindergarteners at Spring Hills School.

Rene Dowd, another Spring Hills second grader expressed a general opinion when she said "the work is hard in first grade, but it really gets harder in second grade."

Getting out of the play preparatory stage of education into the business of serious learning or the "hard stuff" as the second graders termed it was "scary" at first but not all that bad.

The second graders interviewed were split on the question of what was the most difficult subject area. Jeanine Long, April Horace and Mark Smith, all Lincoln students, preferred the precision of arithmetic to the aesthetics of reading.

"The big words are hard," Jeanine said, "if you get stuck in arithmetic you can always count on your fingers."

Robert Oberschnieder, another Lincoln student, agreed with the group from Park and picked arithmetic as the most difficult.

Robert and Jean Stoesser, James Niemann, Dean Gronemeier and Celia Ceh, all like reading.

"You just sound the letters and you've got it made," James said. He and the others didn't like to use a pencil all the time, a requirement in arithmetic class.

THE HARD WORK is apparently worthwhile for Debbie Van Cura, Spring Hills school, who enjoyed first grade and likes being a second grader even better because "you're not babies of the school anymore."

This status of being a more mature student entitles Spring Hills second graders to use a different door than first graders and those in kindergarten, and all of them, especially Peter Rodrick, enjoy it.

Kindergarteners, however, may have one advantage over first graders and everyone else for that matter. "Kindergarteners can always be silly," Mark Smith said.

Bassford Finishes Aerospace Course

Bert Bassford of Roselle recently completed a three-week aerospace career seminar held at Governors Island, N.Y.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Del Bassford, 314 E. Nerge Rd., Roselle.

The purpose of the seminar was to counsel Air Force Cadets in careers in aerospace related fields. It was one of several specialized courses offered this summer for Civil Air Patrol cadets like Bert.

In '61 The Paving Estimate Was $23,000; Today It Has Skyrocketed To $182,000

The (Costly) Saga Of Westwood Creek

Several Addison developers were charged with a cumulative bill of $182,000 for improvements to a local drainage ditch following a meeting of Addison village board Tuesday.

The board directed Bud Loftus, village attorney, to send letters to all those developers of subdivisions utilizing Westwood Creek as a drainage ditch, requesting that they render their share of what it would cost to pave the creek.

Westwood Creek accepts most of the storm water drainage from a triangular area formed by Lake Street on the north, Army Trail Road on the south and the proposed I-61 Route 53 on the west. Subdivisions primarily concerned with the creek are Presidential Estates, Westwood, Addison Highlands and Kings Point East.

According to a detailed report submitted by Charles Washer, chairman of the land use committee, ever since 1961 village engineers have been requesting that bonds placed by the developers include the cost of paving the creek, but all such pleas were apparently ignored by the board.

ACCORDING TO WASHER, Anthony Ross, the developer of most of the subdivisions involved, has the major responsibility for paying the costs of improvements to the creek.

"Ross in theory was supposed to pave the creek at the time he developed the Pioneer Park subdivision," Washer said, "but the board never pushed the matter."

Although Ross has often in the past indicated that he would put the improvements in, he has never been required to commit himself legally in terms of a bond.

The original estimate to pave the creek back in 1961 was about $23,000. Today, according to Joseph Pavia, village engineer, the estimate has risen to $182,000, which includes paving not only the invert, but also the sides of the creek to prevent them from being washed away.

THE BOARD WILL hold a special meeting on Monday, Sept. 14, to continue the discussion on the plan.

In other matters, the removal of a "Sunday a m only" one-way street sign in front of St. Joseph Church on Fullerton Avenue caused some friction between Trustee Peter Callahan, chairman of the public safety committee, and William Drury, village administrator.

Callahan charged that Drury had removed the sign without having first consulted his committee, and that his action made it appear that the committee didn't know what it was doing.

The pastor of the St. Joseph Church complained that the one-way sign caused confusion about which way to park on the street. However, the public safety committee had earlier recommended that the sign stay up because of the heavy outflow of traffic at the church on Sunday mornings.

DRURY SAID THAT he removed the sign because he found no resolution providing for it. The public safety committee is now forced to re-examine the issue and decide whether or not the sign is required.

In other action, the board approved an ordinance authorizing the holding of a $3 million bond referendum on Oct. 17. The referendum proposes to issue the bonds for public utility improvements.

The four parts of the proposition to be included on the ballot of the referendum are as follows: $485,000 in bonds for improvement to sanitary sewer facilities; $500,000 in bonds for improvements to storm sewer facilities; $935,000 in bonds for improvements to water facilities, and $1,080,000 in bonds for improvements to streets.

DURING THE MEETING, the board presented a certificate of achievement to Arthur Petersen who has served as director of parks and recreation for the Addison Park District since May, 1965. Petersen resigned his position as director effective Aug. 21 to accept a position with high school Dist. 88 as a para-professional and teacher aide.

The board also presented a certificate of appreciation to William Marumde, superintendent of public works, for having served the village longer than anyone else, since Sept. 15, 1960.

Last Broker Park Payment Deferred

Payment of the Bloomington Park District's final $4,000 to the village for the Broker Road Park, located on Broker Road north of Lake Street, has been deferred for three years by the village board.

The park board a month ago requested a complete waiver of the payment. However, after several weeks of discussion, the village board at its meeting Wednesday night voted to defer payment with the stipulation that it could be waived at any time during the three years.

The park district made an agreement with the village two years ago to purchase the property for $12,000 — $8,000 of which already has been paid.

Village Pres. Robert Meyers called for a motion concerning the waiver so the park district could be given a definite answer.

Trustee Werner Troelsen said he wished to meet with Bill Bryan, village treasurer, to discuss the village's budget before making a decision.

Meyers answered Troelsen by saying, "We need recreation facilities desperately. When it comes to this, we can't do enough. I recently had the sad experience of attending a wake for a 12-year-old boy who died while playing in our streets."

"I would like to take action to either approve or disapprove the waiver, so that the park district can go ahead with its plans to develop the park," he continued.

PARK BOARD MEMBERS have said that if the payment was waived, they could use the extra money to start planting grass and purchasing play equipment.

Because of the concern for the possible village need of the $4,000 in the future, Trustee Wallace Geils made a motion to defer the payment for three years.

Trustee Stewart May moved to table this motion while making a second motion to completely waive the payment.

"We have discussed this issue enough. The park district is entitled to a definite answer," he said.

May's motion calling for waiver was defeated by a tie vote.

Following this, the board voted unanimously in favor of Geils' motion to defer payment.

Fire Dept. Buys Land For 3rd Station

by KEN HARDWICKE

The Wood Dale Fire Department Wednesday purchased 800 feet of property east of the Commonwealth Edison Co. highlines to be utilized as the village's third fire station and possible park area.

The volunteer fire department paid $8,000 to Addison Township for the property including legal fees. The township originally paid $12,000 for the property, but since the fire department is receiving only two-thirds of the total land, the price was reduced accordingly.

The property lies between the south end of Miller Lane and south Potter Street. Jack Haynes, Wood Dale fire chief, indicated that the purchase was ideal both economically and as to its location.

The fire department currently has one operating station located on north Wood Dale Road near Irving Park, the other fire station property lies north of the village by Hawthorne and Wood Dale roads. This vacant land along with the site just purchased will be developed into operational fire stations pending a referendum in the near future.

"It's certainly located in an area that we have to protect," Haynes said. "It is closer and we have to protect all those condominiums and apartments in the area."

THE NEW FIRE district property is located near the Georgetown-Brookwood and Sherwood Forest area and would allow firemen to service the residents from a closer location.

Pending the approval of a future fire referendum, the new site is expected to house Richard Fenel's 100-foot aerial ladder truck along with other fire equipment.

Haynes said the referendum will seek funds to construct fire stations for both the Hawthorne and Potter Street sites. Haynes added that his department needs architect's plans before proposing a referendum to the voters.

The negotiations for the property were a joint venture between the fire department and park district, said Haynes. The park district withdrew its interest in the negotiations to give the fire department a better opportunity to obtain the land.

WHILE HAYNES has reiterated that the land south of the proposed fire station would be used as a park site, park district officials are not so certain.

"I can't see the park board investing $10,000 or $12,000 to develop that site when we have the other (property at Westview School)," Bill McDowell, park commissioner, said. "We're interested in that property on a temporary basis but we're looking to purchase property adjacent to Westview School."

Earlier this year, volunteer firemen voted to abolish their $2 fee for fire calls and transfer that money into purchase of fire equipment and future fire station construction.

"The location is perfect and has been verified with the Ill. Inspection Bureau," Haynes said. "We must plan for the existing building in the area as well as the future developments."

The fire chief said that Commonwealth Edison Co. would provide access to the property by granting permission to extend Park Lane. A second accessway would be at the end of Miller Lane to the north. This will be gated to eliminate any through traffic.

HAYNES ADDED that the utility company will allow plenty of parking area under the highlines.

"This is one of the greatest things to happen to the fire district," Haynes said. "It is a beautiful location. Addison Township trustees did not seek to make a profit at our expense. Their price was very fair."

With the purchase now history, fire and park officials have planned meetings to discuss the proposed referendum and possible development of part of the property as a park site.

Hearing Set For Salt Creek Plan

A public hearing to discuss storm drainage, flooding and the possible improvement of Salt Creek will be held Monday at 8 p.m. in the Wood Dale Fire Hall on south Wood Dale Road.

State Rep. James "Pete" Philip R-39th, and State Sen. Jack Kneuper, R-39th, will be featured speakers in the discussion. A representative for the state division of waterways will also be present as will a representative of the state soil conservation service.

The public meeting was called by the Wood Dale Village Council earlier this year to discuss the problems and possible solutions of drainage in Salt Creek. The council had proposed a storm sewer program for Wood Dale but were concerned whether Salt Creek could handle the excess water and what was being done to improve it as a drainage tributary.

WOOD DALE residents, who have had their problems with flooding conditions as a result of improper drainage and Salt Creek backup, will be present and allowed time to voice opinions.

Ralph Madonna, sewer and water commissioner, has taken steps in recent weeks to improve the village's flood problem. He has contacted state officials on regulating the minimum flood of storm water between communities, and has proposed a recent ordinance requiring developers to provide storm water retention basins within their own development.

Dino Janis, finance commissioner, is anxious to get the storm sewer project installed throughout the village because of the rising costs of construction. Janis, who proposed the storm sewer program to the council earlier this year, said the project should be initiated as soon as possible to save taxpayers the cost of inflation.

Janis said that the cost estimate of the storm sewer program has doubled since it was first proposed a few years ago. It is now approximately a 2.5 million project.

WOOD DALE'S newly acquired fire-park site, east of the Commonwealth Edison Co. highlines near Potter Street, is to be developed jointly by the park district and fire department. The 800-foot parcel of property was purchased for $8,000 from Addison Township Wednesday night. Jack Haynes, Wood Dale fire chief, said the property would be used to house a proposed fire station.

Resident Selected Outstanding Woman

Lois Mazzuca, 288 Charmille Ln., Wood Dale, was among 11 graduates of Marycrest College to be recently selected to appear in the 1970 edition of "Outstanding Young Women of America."

Nominated earlier this year by the college alumnae association, the women were chosen for the awards publication on basis of their various achievements. Guidelines for selection of women between the ages of 21 and 35 include service to others, charitable activities, community and civic as well as professional recognition.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Mazzuca of the same address.

Carson Withdraws Unit School Plan

by LINDA VACHATA

Warren B. Carson, superintendent of Wood Dale elementary Dist. 7, this week withdrew his proposal that he become superintendent of a unit district consisting of Dist. 7, Bensenville Elementary Dist. 2 and Fenton High School Dist. 100.

In light of Carson's action, the Dist. 2 and 100 school boards Wednesday night at a special joint meeting went ahead and chose the Illinois Association of School Boards (IASB) as the screening agency to help the boards select a new superintendent for Dist. 2 and Dist. 100 only.

About 20 Wood Dale and Bensenville residents attended Wednesday night's special joint meeting, where board members of Districts 2, 7 and 100 were to discuss Carson's unification proposal. Carson did not attend the meeting, but two Dist. 7 board members, Robert Doane and Al Maki were present.

Doane was one of the members of the Dist. 7 board who openly opposed district unification.

"WHEN I CONSIDERED presenting this idea, one of the main benefits I hoped would develop would be a communication and cooperation bridge to tie the three districts closer together to improve education," Carson said in his latest letter to the school boards.

"It is my observation and impression at this point that instead of improving relationships the proposal is creating divisiveness, misunderstanding and distrust."

"I have enjoyed the conversations with the various boards of education. I still feel that ultimately a unit district is a most necessary structure, but the proposal I made is withdrawn."

"It took a great deal of courage and perhaps a little foresight for Carson to stick his neck out," said Martin Romme, Dist. 2 president and board member of Dist. 100. "The boards wanted to hear him out. I think he did the right thing (in proposing that he become superintendent of the unified three districts). What has been said was only for the purpose of information."

CARSON PRESENTED his proposal ("to move closer to district unification" by hiring him as superintendent of the three districts) several weeks ago at a joint meeting of the Dist. 2 and 100 boards. At that time, the boards were reviewing presentations by several screening agencies.

Since then the boards have concerned themselves with the unit district proposal to seek more information on its feasibility.

Wednesday night the boards took up where they left off at the meeting several weeks ago and selected an agency. It was recommended at the Wednesday night meeting the boards wait until the presently contracted Illinois Schools Consulting Service (ISCS) unification study is completed before selecting a new superintendent. It was felt the final report might indicate the three districts in Bensenville and Wood Dale should immediately move toward district unification.

MORTON WRIGHT, Dist. 100 board president, felt the boards should go ahead with the screening process while the ISCS study is being conducted. He added he hoped Carson might still consider a position with Dist. 2 and 100, if the ISCS study recommended moving immediately toward district unification.

"I did not make a personal application (for the Dist. 2 and 100 superintendent vacancy) at this time," Carson told the Register Thursday. "I made a proposal and I withdrew that proposal to clear the air."

When told members of Dist. 2 and 100 suggested Carson be kept in mind should the districts move toward unification, Carson answered "I have no objection to that."

"I think the announcement (of Carson's proposal) in the newspapers was a little premature," said James DiOrto, member of the Dist. 100 and Dist. 2 school boards. "We still don't have the answers on unification."

"The state is giving us funds for a unification study (the ISCS study). There are still a lot of questions. Unfortunately some people got riled up."

Cut Red Tape

Being a developer, builder or businessman in Wood Dale is becoming increasingly difficult. The major cause appears to be the lack of streamlined village procedures which process requests to a quick and sure end.

In recent months numerous businessmen and builders have been tossed around from board to commission to council to board in attempts to get zoning and building requests passed. Their main complaints stem from all the time and money required to get a firm answer.

AT THE HEAD of it all is the main governmental body of the village, the village council, which has become bogged down in its own antiquated procedures. It is time for an overall revamping of those procedures to insure peace of mind and ease of operation for all concerned.

The council has repeatedly denied and reversed the recommendation of the village manager, the village plan and zoning board and others.

The petitioners have been required to appear several times before the same governmental agency for hearings on their requests. The system lacks cooperative methods of handling village business, a situation which only gives rise to unwarranted, lengthy debates and irritation.

WE RECOMMEND that a study be made by an outside agency such as the International City Management Association located in Washington D.C. or the Illinois City Managers Association. Free studies are available from several qualified sources just for the asking.

Steps should be taken now especially in light of next year's change in village government to the aldermanic form of representation. The village faces enough problems without getting bogged in its own red tape.

Arrest 3 On Drug Counts

Two Wood Dale teens and a 16-year-old from Bensenville were arrested in Bensenville last week on a narcotics charge.

Richard Conner, 18, of 415 E. Irving Park Rd., was charged with possession of a dangerous drug, driving while under the influence of narcotics and driving off the roadway.

Michael Cooper, 17, of 145 E. Foster Ave. and the juvenile were charged with possession of a dangerous drug. They were reportedly passengers in Conner's car, police said.

Police arrested the three after Conner allegedly drove his car off the roadway near Fenton High School. An officer reportedly spotted a capsule on the floor which he identified as Tulal, a barbiturate, according to reports. A further search of the car reportedly turned up four more Tulal capsules, some seeds resembling marijuana and traces of a substance resembling marijuana or its residue, police said. The capsules and substance resembling marijuana were sent to the Joliet Crime Lab for tests.

Conner and Cooper are scheduled to appear in Wheaton Court today. They were being held on $1,000 bond.

The juvenile was turned over to the Bensenville juvenile officer.

In '61 The Paving Estimate Was $23,000; Today It Has Skyrocketed To $182,000

The (Costly) Saga Of Westwood Creek

Several Addison developers were charged with a cumulative bill of $182,000 for improvements to a local drainage ditch following a meeting of Addison village board Tuesday.

The board directed Bud Loftus, village attorney, to send letters to all those developers of subdivisions utilizing Westwood Creek as a drainage ditch, requesting that they render their share of what it would cost to pave the creek.

Westwood Creek accepts most of the storm water drainage from a triangular area formed by Lake Street on the north, Army Trail Road on the south and the proposed I-81 Route 53 on the west. Subdivisions primarily concerned with the creek are Presidential Estates, Westwood, Addison Highlands and Kings Point East.

According to a detailed report submitted by Charles Washer, chairman of the land use committee, ever since 1961 village engineers have been requesting that bonds placed by the developers include the cost of paving the creek, but all such pleas were apparently ignored by the board.

ACCORDING TO WASHER, Anthony Ross, the developer of most of the subdivisions involved, has the major responsibility for paying the costs of improvements to the creek.

"Ross in theory was supposed to pave the creek at the time he developed the Pioneer Park subdivision," Washer said, "but the board never pushed the matter."

Although Ross has often in the past indicated that he would put the improvements in, he has never been required to commit himself legally in terms of a bond.

The original estimate to pave the creek back in 1961 was about $23,000. Today, according to Joseph Pavia, village engineer, the estimate has risen to $182,000, which includes paving not only the invert, but also the sides of the creek to prevent them from being washed away.

THE BOARD WILL hold a special meeting on Monday, Sept. 14, to continue the discussion on the plan.

In other matters, the removal of a "Sunday a.m. only" one-way street sign in front of St. Joseph Church on Fullerton Avenue caused some friction between Trustee Peter Callahan, chairman of the public safety committee, and William Drury, village administrator.

Callahan charged that Drury had removed the sign without having first consulted his committee, and that his action made it appear that the committee didn't know what it was doing.

The pastor of the St. Joseph Church complained that the one-way sign caused confusion about which way to park on the street. However, the public safety committee had earlier recommended that the sign stay up because of the heavy outflow of traffic at the church on Sunday mornings.

DRURY SAID THAT he removed the sign because he found no resolution providing for it. The public safety committee is now forced to re-examine the issue and decide whether or not the sign is required.

In other action, the board approved an ordinance authorizing the holding of a $3 million bond referendum on Oct. 17. The referendum proposes to issue the bonds for public utility improvements.

The four parts of the proposition to be included on the ballot of the referendum are as follows: $485,000 in bonds for improvement to sanitary sewer facilities; $500,000 in bonds for improvements to storm sewer facilities; $335,000 in bonds for improvements to water facilities; and $1,080,000 in bonds for improvements to streets.

DURING THE MEETING, the board presented a certificate of achievement to Arthur Petersen who has served as director of parks and recreation for the Addison Park District since May, 1965. Petersen resigned his position as director effective Aug. 21 to accept a position with high school Dist. 88 as a para-professional and teacher aide.

The board also presented a certificate of appreciation to William Marunde, superintendent of public works, for having served the village longer than anyone else, since Sept. 15, 1950.

Last Broker Park Payment Deferred

Payment of the Bloomingdale Park District's final $4,000 to the village for the Broker Road Park, located on Broker Road north of Lake Street, has been deferred for three years by the village board.

The park board a month ago requested a complete waiver of the payment. However, after several weeks of discussion, the village board at its meeting Wednesday night voted to defer payment with the stipulation that it could be waived at any time during the three years.

The park district made an agreement with the village two years ago to purchase the property for $12,000 — $8,000 of which already has been paid.

Village Pres. Robert Meyers called for a motion concerning the waiver so the park district could be given a definite answer.

Trustee Werner Troestlen said he wished to meet with Bill Bryan, village treasurer, to discuss the village's budget before making a decision.

Meyers answered Troestlen by saying, "We need recreation facilities desperately. When it comes to this, we can't do enough. I recently had the sad experience of attending a wake for a 12-year-old boy who died while playing in our streets."

"I would like to take action to either approve or disapprove the waiver, so that the park district can go ahead with its plans to develop the park," he continued.

PARK BOARD MEMBERS have said that if the payment was waived, they could use the extra money to start planting grass and purchasing play equipment.

Because of the concern for the possible village need of the $4,000 in the future, Trustee Wallace Gells made a motion to defer the payment for three years.

Trustee Stewart May moved to table this motion while making a second motion to completely waive the payment.

"We have discussed this issue enough. The park district is entitled to a definite answer," he said.

May's motion calling for waiver was defeated by a tie vote.

Following this, the board voted unanimously in favor of Gells' motion to defer payment.

Demos Make Picnic Plans

The Addison Township Democratic Organization will hold a special meeting tonight to make final plans for the group's Sept. 20 picnic.

Site of the meeting is unannounced but those interested in attending may contact John L. Wozniak of Addison at 543-9487.

The picnic will be held at the Butler Teal Lake Area in Oakbrook. Committee members and interested citizens will be invited to attend.

At last month's meeting the organization elected new officers. They are George J. Mitchell, 216 S. Villa Ave., Addison, as chairman, Andrew S. Sabala, 721 Emroy, Elmhurst, as co-chairman, Sue C. Williams, 4N710 Rte. 83, Bensenville, as secretary, and Mrs. Robert Liss, 16W604 Forest View, Bensenville, as treasurer.

The newly selected executive board includes the officers and Mrs. Sandro Bacelli, 107 Janice Ln., Addison, Mrs. Franklin Little, 721 Howard, Elmhurst, Robert Liss of Bensenville, Gus Katsikas, 341 LaPorte Dr., Addison, Lawrence V. Moretti, 900 N. Grant St., Addison, and John L. Wozniak, 100 N. Grant, Addison. Wozniak will also serve as publicity chairman.

Soden Named To VFW Post

Ray Soden, a member of the Bensenville VFW Toga Post 2149, was recently named vice chairman of the VFW National Voice of Democracy Committee.

The committee will hold an organizational meeting Sept. 20 in Kansas City, Mo., the site of VFW National Headquarters.

In appointing Soden vice chairman, Herbert S. Rainwater, commander in chief of the VFW, said "The United States of America continues to be plagued by armed enemies abroad and by increased dissension from within. An active, dedicated and resourceful citizenry in these times is vital in maintaining our freedom heritage."

The Voice of Democracy program teaches young Americans that freedom is not free and encourages them to exercise their rights and responsibilities as citizens of a free country.

"The potential of this program is limitless and leadership at all levels of the VFW is extremely vital to the program."

"I am delighted to have Soden as a member of this national committee and look forward to working with him."

Hanlon Appointed To Village Board

Bernard Hanlon, chairman of the Addison plan commission for the past five years, has been appointed to the village board to complete the term of former Trustee Reed Carlson. It was announced at the village board meeting Tuesday.

Carlson resigned last month from the board to accept the post of village manager for Villa Park.

Hanlon's term on the board will expire in April, at which time he says he will probably run for election.

Hanlon, whose family includes four children, has lived in Addison for 10 days.

REPLACING HANLON as chairman of the plan commission will be John Gaiser, a member of that commission. Gaiser also was appointed to sit on the special zoning commission, which is considering the village master plan.

Appointed by the board to act as chairman of the special zoning commission was Raymond Mueller, also the chairman of the zoning board of appeals.

Joseph McDermott, president of the Kings Point East Homeowners Association, was appointed to the plan commission to fill the opening resulting from the departure of Hanlon. An opening on the zoning board was filled by James Luce, an Addison resident for the past five years.

The official committees of the village board also saw some switches in personnel. Taking Carlson's place on the judicial committee will be Trustee Edward Cargill.

Cargill also will occupy Carlson's position as chairman of the public service committee, while Hanlon will take the place of Cargill as chairman of the administrative committee.

Hanlon also will serve as a member of the public service and public safety committees.

THE JAYCEE CARNIVAL will come to Addison Sept. 16-20. One of the acts will feature a motorcycle feat in a wire globe. Here Speedy Wilson "goes over the top" in his speeding motorcycle performance.

She Remembers Little Library That Grew

by JIM FULLER

Mrs. James Morris can remember when the Addison Public Library was without air conditioning, and had to share the old municipal building with the recreation department.

"The rooms were crowded," she said.

"There was no place to put books. And the recreation department always overflowed into the library. The noise came through the walls. Sometimes they even had a live band there."

But in less than a decade Addison's library has grown from its first donated book, "The Basic Philosophy of Confucianism," and cramped quarters in the municipal building, into a modern glass-enclosed building circulating nearly 700 books a day.

"I came to work for the library about six years ago," said Mrs. Morris, now employed by the library to do mostly secretarial type work. "A library group came to our PTA meeting and asked for volunteers."

Actually, the Addison library owes its very survival to volunteer work. In February, 1962, the village board allowed the Kiwanis library committee, formed in 1960, to use four rooms in the municipal building for a library.

And the volunteers poured in. Walls were knocked down, shelves put in, tables and chairs installed. Even the electrical work and fixture installation was done by volunteers.

In September, 1962, when the library was ready to open, 12 housewives showed up to help type book cards and shelve books.

Mrs. Helen Bingham, today working as the children's librarian at the library, remembers the summer of 1962 when she saw a small notice in the paper — "any volunteers interested in helping the library..."

"The library was open from 2 to 4 p.m. in those days," said Mrs. Bingham. "The Kiwanis club donated the initial funds to the library to get us started, and the Boy Scouts went door to door collecting books that were donated as gifts by the community."

Up to this time, and for still another year, the library would operate without the use of public funds. Although the summer of 1962 saw the passing of a referendum approving a tax supported library, it wasn't until a year later that funds were made available.

In addition to about 1,000 books donated as gifts to the library, the state of Illinois pledged 2,000 volumes to the library to help it get started, and a state-sponsored bookmobile rotated 200 new books through the library each month.

By Nov. 10, 1962, 1,075 persons had registered at the young library, and 12 women and 18 high school students had volunteered their time to staff it.

"Five of that original staff that worked here that first year are still employed by the library," said Mrs. Bingham. "Practically everyone on the staff were volunteers before they were hired."

Spurred by the donations of local organizations and private individuals, the library grew rapidly, and by 1963 boasted better than 5,000 volumes and 1,414 borrowers.

"In 1966 the library tried to pass a building referendum, but it was turned down by 105 votes," said Mrs. Bingham. "Everyone seemed to think they didn't need a library, but they needed everything else."

But in 1967 the referendum was approved by a mere 22 votes, and about a year later the library moved into its new building with a collection of 30,000 books.

Today the Addison library has 30,000 books, 94 different magazines, a full range of sound cassette tapes and a staff of 12 women, four high school girls, and one man.

"This is a big-time operation now," said Mrs. Bingham. "I can remember back when we started we needed only one person to run things. Now you sometimes need a traffic cop just to handle the hordes of school kids coming through the doors."

"Before I practically knew every book we had," she continued. "And we knew most of the people pretty well. But now the number of people have grown, and so have the number of books."

"In fact, circulation has increased so much that if only 10 per cent of the books that go out in a day are not returned, that's 60 books," she said.

Mrs. Bingham also explained something she said most people don't realize.

"There are 14 steps which have to be taken between the time a book is ordered and the time it's put on the library shelf," she said. Just as an example, "Each book has to be ordered, given an accession number, catalogued, covered, and the catalogue cards have to be filed — it's really a much bigger job than most people think."

Mrs. Morris sees the opportunity to meet so many different kinds of people, and the opportunity to talk to them all, as the most interesting part of her job.

"And you get to see these kids grow up," she said. "They've gone from little kids to young ladies and men, and now they're reading on their own."

And the only frustrating aspect of the job, according to Mrs. Bingham, is to "see all those books and not be able to read them."

Addison PTA Sets First Meet

Addison Council PTA, Dist. 32, ICPT will hold its first meeting of the school year Tuesday, Sept. 15 at 1 p.m. in the Addison Municipal Building.

On the agenda is: School Dist. 4 referendum speaker, PTA Dist. 32 fall conference and the action program of the council for the school year 1970-71.

Randhurst Plan Wins Backing

The bulwark of community leadership displayed its support for Addison's Randhurst public improvement program committee at the committee's weekly meeting Wednesday night.

The committee met to review a slide presentation its members will make before various local organizations within the community. The purpose of the presentation is to explain the referendum to the people, and the benefits the village will accrue with the coming of Randhurst.

Present at the meeting were Pete Ogilvie, past president of the Addison park commission, Larry Keith, past Dist. 4 school board president, and Joseph McDermott, president of the Kings Point East Homeowners Association and recently appointed by the village board to fill a vacancy on the plan commission.

ALSO PRESENT to show their interest and support were Lt. Ralph Blust, assistant chief of the Addison Fire Department, Joseph Gallina, park board president, Angela Chrysogelos, park board member, and Arthur Naumann, a member of the police pension board as well as the special zoning commission.

Both Naumann and Ogilvie have agreed to serve on the Randhurst committee.

The committee has scheduled the following appearances to make their Randhurst slide presentation: On Sept. 16 at 7:30 p.m., the Addison Board of Review; Sept. 17 at 6:30 p.m., the Chamber of Commerce; Sept. 22 at 11:45 a.m., the Kiwanis Club; Sept. 23 at 9:30 p.m., St. Paul's Lutheran Church; Oct. 7 at 8:30 p.m., the St. Joseph's Women's Club;

Oct. 13 at 7:30 p.m., a public meeting at the village hall; and Sept. 14 at 8:30 p.m., the Addison unit of the Memorial Hospital Guild — Addison Savings & Loan.

Jaycees Plan Sept. Carnival

Motorcycle feats, elephant acts and sway pole acrobatics will all be coming to Addison as part of the Jaycee carnival to be held the week of Sept. 16-20.

The carnival, which will hold two free acts daily, at 6:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m., will set up at the Zayre shopping center parking lot on Lake Street. Eleven rides also will be part of the carnival.

The proceeds from the carnival will help to pay for the annual community days parade to be sponsored by the Jaycees on Sept. 20. Proceeds will also go to pay for other annual Jaycee community functions.

The (Costly) Saga Of Westwood Creek

Several Addison developers were charged with a cumulative bill of $182,000 for improvements to a local drainage ditch following a meeting of Addison village board Tuesday.

The board directed Bud Loftus, village attorney, to send letters to all those developers of subdivisions utilizing Westwood Creek as a drainage ditch, requesting that they render their share of what it would cost to pave the creek.

Westwood Creek accepts most of the storm water drainage from a triangular area formed by Lake Street on the north, Army Trail Road on the south and the proposed I-55 on the west. Subdivisions primarily concerned with the creek are Presidential Estates, Westwood, Addison Highlands and Kings Point East.

According to a detailed report submitted by Charles Washer, chairman of the land use committee, ever since 1961 village engineers have been requesting that bonds placed by the developers include the cost of paving the creek, but all such pleas were apparently ignored by the board.

ACCORDING TO WASHER, Anthony Ross, the developer of most of the subdivisions involved, has the major responsibility for paying the costs of improvements to the creek.

"Ross in theory was supposed to pave the creek at the time he developed the Pioneer Park subdivision," Washer said, "but the board never pushed the matter."

Although Ross has often in the past indicated that he would put the improvements in, he has never been required to commit himself legally in terms of a bond.

The original estimate to pave the creek back in 1961 was about $23,000. Today, according to Joseph Pavla, village engineer, the estimate has risen to $182,000, which includes paving not only the invert, but also the sides of the creek to prevent them from being washed away.

THE BOARD WILL hold a special meeting on Monday, Sept. 14, to continue the discussion on the plan.

In other matters, the removal of a "Sunday a.m. only" one-way street sign in front of St. Joseph Church on Fullerton Avenue caused some friction between Trustee Peter Callahan, chairman of the public safety committee, and William Drury, village administrator.

Callahan charged that Drury had removed the sign without having first consulted his committee, and that his action made it appear that the committee didn't know what it was doing.

The pastor of the St. Joseph Church complained that the one-way sign caused confusion about which way to park on the street. However, the public safety committee had earlier recommended that the sign stay up because of the heavy outflow of traffic at the church on Sunday mornings.

DRURY SAID THAT he removed the sign because he found no resolution providing for it. The public safety committee is now forced to re-examine the issue and decide whether or not the sign is required.

In other action, the board approved an ordinance authorizing the holding of a $3 million bond referendum on Oct. 17. The referendum proposes to issue the bonds for public utility improvements.

The four parts of the proposition to be included on the ballot of the referendum are as follows: $485,000 in bonds for improvement to sanitary sewer facilities; $500,000 in bonds for improvements to storm sewer facilities; $935,000 in bonds for improvements to water facilities; and $1,000,000 in bonds for improvements to streets.

DURING THE MEETING, the board presented a certificate of achievement to Arthur Petersen who has served as director of parks and recreation for the Addison Park District since May, 1965. Petersen resigned his position as director effective Aug. 21 to accept a position with high school Dist. 88 as a para-professional and teacher aide.

The board also presented a certificate of appreciation to William Marunde, superintendent of public works, for having served the village longer than anyone else, since Sept. 15, 1959.

Last Broker Park Payment Deferred

Payment of the Bloomingdale Park District's final $4,000 to the village for the Broker Road Park, located on Broker Road north of Lake Street, has been deferred for three years by the village board.

The park board a month ago requested a complete waiver of the payment. However, after several weeks of discussion, the village board at its meeting Wednesday night voted to defer payment with the stipulation that it could be waived at any time during the three years.

The park district made an agreement with the village two years ago to purchase the property for $12,000 — $8,000 of which already has been paid.

Village Pres. Robert Meyers called for a motion concerning the waiver so the park district could be given a definite answer.

Trustee Werner Troesken said he wished to meet with Bill Bryan, village treasurer, to discuss the village's budget before making a decision.

Meyers answered Troesken by saying, "We need recreation facilities desperately. When it comes to this, we can't do enough. I recently had the sad experience of attending a wake for a 12-year-old boy who died while playing in our streets."

"I would like to take action to either approve or disapprove the waiver, so that the park district can go ahead with its plans to develop the park," he continued.

Demos Make Picnic Plans

The Addison Township Democratic Organization will hold a special meeting tonight to make final plans for the group's Sept. 26 picnic.

Site of the meeting is unannounced but those interested in attending may contact John L. Wozniak of Addison at 643-6487.

The picnic will be held at the Butler Teal Lake Area in Oakbrook. Committeemen and interested citizens will be invited to attend.

At last month's meeting the organization elected new officers. They are George J. Mitchell, 216 S. Villa Ave., Addison, as chairman, Andrew S. Sabala, 731 Emory, Elmhurst, as co-chairman, Sue C. Williams, 48710 Rte. 55, Bensenville, as secretary, and Mrs. Robert Liss, 16W804 Forest View, Bensenville, as treasurer.

The newly selected executive board includes the officers and Mrs. Sandro Baccell, 107 Janice Ln., Addison, Mrs. Franklin Little, 721 Howard, Elmhurst, Robert Liss of Bensenville, Gus Katsikas, 341 LaPorte Dr., Addison, Lawrence V. Moretti, 300 N. Grant St., Addison, and John L. Wozniak, 100 N. Grant, Addison. Wozniak will also serve as publicity chairman.

PARK BOARD MEMBERS have said that if the payment was waived, they could use the extra money to start planting grass and purchasing play equipment.

Because of the concern for the possible village need of the $4,000 in the future, Trustee Wallace Gells made a motion to defer the payment for three years.

Trustee Stewart May moved to table this motion while making a second motion to completely waive the payment.

"We have discussed this issue enough. The park district is entitled to a definite answer," he said.

May's motion calling for waiver was defeated by a tie vote.

Following this, the board voted unanimously in favor of Gells' motion to defer payment.

A California Twin?

Another Elk Grove

by TOM JACHIMIEC

ELK GROVE, Calif. — More than 2,000 miles to the west of Elk Grove Village, Ill., nestled in the Sacramento Valley of northern California, is the former stage coach stop of Elk Grove.

One might call Elk Grove Village its sister city from the East as Elk Grove was established in the 19th century when the West was wild and Indians were the ruling class.

Basically a rural community, Elk Grove is in the early stages of becoming urbanized by its neighbor to the north, the City of Sacramento and capital of the country's most populated state.

Elk Grove is only 15 miles and a few minutes away by car on U.S. 50 and 99 from the state capital. It is considered by some to be a suburb of Sacramento, just as Elk Grove Village is a suburb of Chicago.

WITH A POPULATION of about 4,000, this community has quite a way to go to catch up to Elk Grove Village and its rising population of 21,541.

Elk Grove has quite a few years on Elk Grove Village, however, having been founded in 1856 by one James Hall who named it after the town from which he came in Missouri.

Elk Grove remains unincorporated since its founding days. It has no mayor or municipal government as we know.

Residents rely on the Sacramento County Board of Supervisors for services and several self-governing districts such as the Elk Grove Unified School District and the Elk Grove Fire District. Sheriff's police, a constable, and judge maintain law and order.

ELK GROVE Boulevard and Elk Grove-Florin Road are the main two-lane streets lined with small and neat homes along with drive-in shopping areas and service stations.

Unlike Elk Grove Village which has no main street or center of town, Elk Grove Boulevard serves as the main street in this sunny California community.

Some of the streets even have the flavor of the west in them — La Diana Court, Veracruz Way, Sierra Street, Durango Way, and Acapulco Street. Others are named after people — Eva Avenue, Emily Street, Polhemus Drive, Webb Street, and Derr Street. There is also a Walnut and Bond streets like those in Elk Grove Village.

The community has plenty of churches of several affiliations and clubs, including the 4-H and Grange, which are very popular, the Lions, Jaycees, Rotary and one known as Liberty Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, as well as the Native Sons of the Golden West.

ELK GROVE has a railroad, the Southern Pacific, which cuts through the east side, taking passengers to nearby Sacramento and Los Angeles.

It's not really a commuter line like the Chicago and North Western, but it does stop at the Elk Grove train depot though not quite as often as our commuters.

Most people get around by car and according to one resident there are quite a few "flying farmers," as she called them.

Farming is still big out here whereas in Elk Grove Village it is gradually being eased out by the high cost of living. Truck farms and dairy farms with sheep, cattle, and horses are popular. An important crop is tomatoes.

But, farming is reportedly on the way out of Elk Grove as residential subdivisions and industry take over.

Homes sell for $16,000 and up while furnished apartments rent from $100 to $150 according to information from the school district which had a projected 1970 enrollment of 10,000.

shopping areas, a convalescent hospital, and a state fish hatchery in the community along with beautiful Elk Grove Park and Lake that resembles an oasis in this dry and mild climate.

Temperatures average at highs of 78 degrees during the summer with accompanying Delta breezes cooling off the area during the evenings. However, there are days when the mercury reaches 108 degrees and dips to 25 degrees in the otherwise mild winters that average 45 degrees.

About snow. There's very little according to a lifelong resident who spread two fingers about a half-inch apart to show how much it snowed. "And taxes average about $250 a year," he said.

'Wade-In' Is Set To Clean Creek

Elk Grove Village teens, along with several community organizations, will gather tomorrow at 8 a.m. to fight pollution of Salt Creek.

Meeting at the teen center, they'll be wearing gloves and boots as well as a coating of mosquito repellent as they take part in a clean-up job billed as a "wade-in."

Mel Frouney of Elk Grove High School said they'll clean the creek from the Arlington Heights Road Bridge to Devon Avenue.

"We really don't intend to walk in the creek," said Frouney, "not unless someone really wants to."

He said the dirtiest point of the creek is south of the teen center on Kennedy Boulevard to Devon Avenue and that this area will get the most attention.

O'Hare Action Probed

A special Illinois Senate subcommittee will hold hearings Monday into allegations that the City of Chicago has planned expansion of O'Hare Airport without notifying nearby suburbs.

State Sen. Howard R. Mohr (R-5th), chairman of the subcommittee, said the committee will hear testimony from some O'Hare area mayors and state legislators on airport expansion and the problems of air and noise pollution in communities near the airport.

"There have been some charges that O'Hare expansion has moved ahead without proper notice to the neighboring communities of such changes," Mohr said.

"We're going to look into that and we're also very concerned about the problems of air pollution and noise pollution," said Mohr.

The hearing will be held at 10 a.m. Monday at the Schiller Park Village Hall, 9330 Irving Park Rd.

Des Plaines Mayor Herbert H. Bahrer yesterday said he will attend the hearing of the subcommittee, which was named by State Sen. Arthur R. Swanson (R-20th), chairman of the Senate Municipal Corporations Committee.

Kidnapper Is Sought

by TOM JACHIMIEC

Elk Grove Village and Chicago police yesterday were continuing an investigation into the kidnapping of an Illinois Institute of Technology professor Wednesday evening.

The professor, Miss Audrey Companion, 38, of Chicago, told police she was forced at gunpoint by a man to drive away in her car from a parking lot on Chicago's Southwest side.

She escaped her abductor when the car went out of control during a struggle at Tonne Road and Devon Avenue near Elk Grove Village.

THE CAR WENT into a gully near Hank's Service Station where Miss Companion leaped out of the car and ran for help. Her abductor then got behind the wheel and drove off.

"He hadn't really pulled out of drive and this woman came running up shouting for someone to call police," said Hank Sobieski, service station operator.

"There he was holding a gun in his left hand," he said "I never did get to look at his face."

The man apparently left the car in the parking lot at St. Alexius Hospital, at Bisner and Biesterfeld roads.

Police found the 1970 Cougar there later.

Elk Grove Jaycees To Sell Fertilizer

The Elk Grove Village Jaycees are taking orders for lawn fertilizer to be delivered Sept. 19.

The sale is similar to one held earlier this year, said Dick Rieken, but that only straight fertilizer and no weed and feed will be available this time.

Top Turf brand with a composition of 20-10-5 is being sold at $4 a bag. Each bag weighs 22 pounds and covers 5,000 square feet.

Residents may place their order by calling Dennis Walters at 956-0774 or Patrick Tuttle, 437-8345.

er with its lights turned on.

The police combed the area searching for the blond-haired man, a white, about 30, five feet five inches tall, and dressed in a yellow shirt and dark pants.

"We knocked on doors in the area for about one hour after dark," said Det. Robert Salvatore, "but didn't find anything."

"HE EITHER HITCHHIKED or stole another car," he added.

Miss Companion, a professor of physics and chemistry at the university, was treated at the hospital for bruises on her legs sustained when she jumped from the car.

Quotables

"Did you go to school dressed like that today?" asked a father of his bell-bottom clad daughter returning from her first day of high school.

She told police the man approached her in the parking lot of a food store at 6649 W. Archer Ave. about 5:30 p.m. as she was attempting to open her car while carrying two bags of groceries.

She told police he jabbed a gun in her side and that he wanted a ride to Brookfield. Later, he changed his mind, she said, and decided to go to Elgin.

After driving around for about an hour he threatened to tie her up, she told police, and when they began to struggle she escaped.

Theft Reported At Construction Site

A cement mixer weighing 700 pounds was reported stolen this week from a construction site at 201 Crossen, Elk Grove Village, in the industrial park. Valued at $900, it belonged to N. Oeser Masonry of Markham.

Fraud Office's Ear Bent To 30

by JUDY MEHL

Close to 30 people have registered complaints with the Elk Grove Village branch of the consumer fraud bureau since it opened last month. And 12 of these people have had their problems solved.

The branch opened Aug. 15 in the village office behind the police station at 666 Landmeier Rd. It is under the direction of the Illinois Attorney General's Bureau of Consumer Fraud and Protection.

Some complaints which were settled involved delivery of slipcovers that were long overdue and carpeting which was cut the wrong way.

Approximately 12 cases have been settled locally with about 12 others sent to the Chicago office for processing. Tom King, head of the volunteers manning the office, said.

EACH SATURDAY several of the volunteers open up the conference room from 9 a.m. to noon to receive complaints from people in the Elk Grove Village area. Other local offices are located in Niles and Schaumburg.

People may walk in to fill out their complaint forms or ask questions and be confronted with a gracious smile and a desire to help from either a college student, housewife or a retired special agent for Naval Intelligence.

King, the retired special agent, has been aided by Mrs. Jeanne Seidman, Mrs. Pat Peacock and Miss Kirsten Reeder. Two new volunteers have joined the forces. They are Mrs. Kay Lyette and Mrs. June Cronin.

All have volunteered because they believe too many people have been taken by unscrupulous businessmen or lose money because they are afraid to return to a company with complaints.

"We had to tell several people that we could do nothing and they should hire an attorney," he said.

"IF YOU'VE ALREADY accepted the merchandise after signing a contract or you buy a house and live in it a year and then complain that it's falling apart, we can't handle it," King said.

"If it's fraud, we can handle it. Sometimes things can be straightened out by a phone call."

"When you come right down to it consumer fraud agencies can become a nuisance to companies and they are willing to go along with us rather than just an individual. When dealing with state or federal agencies they are a little more cautious. They don't want to get around that such and such a company was a lousy one to do business with," King said.

ALTHOUGH THE office is located in Elk Grove Village, most of the people using it are from the surrounding communities. Only three people from Elk Grove have registered complaints according to King, while most of the others were from Itasca, Bensenville, Palatine and Mount Prospect.

Their complaints have been about clothes that didn't fit right or cheap jewelry or the stretch from industry King said, naming Chicago Magnet Wire in Elk Grove Village as the industry one resident complained was a polluter.

"She bought the property with the understanding there was no pollution and then found there was. Two bad she bought the property without smoking. We can't do anything about that," King said.

SALT CREEK'S MUDDED banks covered with debris will be cleaned tomorrow during an all-community wade-in beginning at 8 a.m.

Dist. 59 Classroom Proven Safe

by JUDY MEHL

Preliminary investigation of a Dist. 59 classroom which one teacher said was a potential fire hazard showed that a problem apparently does not exist.

The classroom, an art room at Grove Junior High School in Elk Grove Village, was investigated yesterday by the Elk Grove Village Fire Department, according to Fire Chief Allen Hulet.

He said the room had two exits, which is all that is required by law and the village fire ordinance. He said the investigation also would include inspection of the room for proper ventilation.

The complaint about the condition of the classroom was made by an art teacher who did not wish to disclose her name. It was made at a board meeting Tuesday night, when she was expressing concern about the size of the class.

She had said the class had an average of 40 students and that she had to put in two extra tables to accommodate them. She then said she was concerned that the room might be a potential fire hazard since it also had no windows or ventilation.

DAVE ROBERT, Teacher's Council negotiation chairman, who also teaches at Grove, said that although the room was safe, it was less than desirable from an educational standpoint because of the number of students.

Teachers in Dist. 59, especially junior high teachers, claim that classes have too many students per teacher and that in many of the classrooms desks or work tables had to be added to accommodate the additional students, causing overcrowding.

Although a new junior high school has been proposed for opening in September, 1972, with completion in 1974, the teachers are seeking an immediate solution. They want more teachers to be hired by the district, with a lowering of class sizes.

The district last year had 503 teachers and the board of education approved the hiring of an additional 25 to maintain the class size level of last year. Most of the 25 have been hired.

However, the teachers have been delaying ratification of a contract until the contract includes lowering of class size. They are also supporting a professional sanction of the district, which means they are not performing any lunchroom supervision or extra duty teaching in the areas of sports or other extra-curricular subjects.

WHEN THEY confronted the board with a request to lower class size they were told that the board would take no action until the sixth-day enrollment figures were received on Tuesday.

The teachers will wait until the sixth-day enrollment figures are in before they take any further action on the contracts, Robert said.

No further negotiation meetings have been scheduled between the two teams.

From The Library

'Special' Books

Elk Grove Village Head Librarian Learning disabilities have only been recognized in the past few years and in an even shorter time we have begun to learn to deal with the many complex problems.

Children with specific learning disabilities mean those children who have a disorder in one or more of the basic psychological processes involved in understanding or in using language, or spoken or written.

This disorder may manifest itself in imperfect ability to think, speak, listen, read, write, spell or do mathematical calculations.

Books in the Elk Grove Village Public Library which may be of interest to parents of children who need special education are:

"The Disabled Reader" edited by John Money. Here is a collection of papers by leading specialists about the many aspects and origins of reading disability and about possible teaching methods. It gives the kind of knowledge administrators and teachers need to know in order to deal with the problem.

"Reading, Writing and Speech Problems in Children" by Samuel Terry Or-ten, M.D. Dr. Orton describes a number of diseases occurring during childhood, discusses their origin and methods of correcting them. Also presented in this book are discussions of certain types of deafness, abnormal clumsiness, stuttering and other problems of definite concern to teacher and to the parent. Dr. Orton's study of disorders is the result of a 30-year period of intensive research.

"The Shadow Children: A Book About Children's Learning Disorders" by Carole Ellington. This title is an apt one as the book is about children — millions of them — with subtle learning disorders. They need help. This book defines the problems in a non-professional, everyday language; it tells of the children's subtle disorders and given identifiable patterns. The book contains a comprehensive cross-reference directory of the nation's testing and teaching clinics.

Other books in this area are "Learning Disabilities: Educational Principles and Practices" by Doris J. Johnson and Helmer R. Myklebust; "Reading Disability: Progress and Research Needs in Dyslexia" by John Money, editor; and "Reading Problems and Problem Readers" by M. F. W. Pollack.

'Meet The Teams' Set At Elk Grove High

The first annual "meet the teams" will be held at Elk Grove High School today from 6 to 8 p.m.

Sponsored by the Elk Grove High School Boosters Club, members of the community are invited to bring their cameras and take pictures under the lights of the individual football players, complete teams and coaches.

It is an opportunity to meet the members of all of the football teams; freshmen, sophomore, junior-varsity and varsity squads.

Anderson To Discuss Con Son

U. S. Rep. William Anderson, D-Tenn., will visit the 13th Congressional District today "to discuss Rep. Philip Crane's attempt to whitewash the Con Son prison report."

Anderson, one of two congressmen who visited the Con Son prison in Vietnam to report conditions there were inhumane, will hold a press conference in Glenview at 4 p.m. and also will speak at the Palatine Township Democratic Organization's dinner-dance at Rolling Green Country Club in Arlington Heights.

Following his visit, Crane, R-13th, also visited the prison and said reports of conditions there were "grossly exaggerated."

Anderson's visit was arranged by State Rep. Edward A. Warman, D-Skokie, who is challenging Crane for the 13th District seat in Congress in November. Crane beat Warman in last year's special Congressional election by 20,000 votes.

ANDERSON AND U. S. Rep. Augustus

Hawkins, D-Calif., were members of a congressional committee which visited South Vietnam, and one of the committee staff members who sold a story and pictures of the prison to Life magazine. The story told of mistreatment, malnutrition and generally unhealthy conditions there, and criticized the United States for supporting a government which allowed the conditions to exist.

Crane said he found none of the conditions described in the Life magazine articles and pictures and said conditions at Con Son were better than conditions in some Vietnamese homes, and also were better than conditions in many American prisons.

He accused Hawkins and his staff members of being "blind or deliberately misrepresenting what they found there."

Crane's statements prompted a strong rebuttal on the floor of the House of Representatives by several congressmen who defended Hawkins and Anderson.

ANDERSON HAS BEEN a congressman since 1964. Prior to that, he was a Navy officer and commander of the atomic submarine Nautilus when it made its historic cruise under the North Pole.

Anderson will be joined at the Palatine Democrats' dinner tonight by Adlai E. Stevenson III, Democratic candidate for United States Senator.

May Date Food Products

Food dealers in Elk Grove Village may be required to date their food products with an understandable code if a recommendation by a health board member is incorporated into a health code being studied for eventual adoption by the village board.

The Elk Grove Village Board of Health is presently considering use of the Arlington Heights food code as a model for its code.

The Arlington Heights code is similar to the federal code but more localized, according to Donna Farley, health board member who made a comparison of the codes.

There is a health code for Elk Grove Village but it is out of date and gives the sanitarian little or no jurisdiction if she has to resort to legal means, Mrs. Farley said.

THE OLD CODE is a general health code with only one section referring to food dealers, she said.

If the health board finds the Arlington Heights code more suitable to the village it will recommend the revised code to the village board for approval.

"It all started when Lynn Heidt approached Village Pres. Jack Pahl with questions on dating and other aspects of coding," Mrs. Farley said. Mrs. Heidt, of Prospect Heights, is active in the National Consumer Union.

Mrs. Heidt questioned Pahl several months ago, at which time he recommended consideration of the Arlington Heights code to the health board, Mrs. Farley said.

However, the health board had already been considering adoption of a new code. Last year, Mrs. Barbara Watson, health inspector, recommended adoption of the federal code, the U. S. Public Health Service Food Service Sanitation Ordinance.

THE REV. STEVEN Matthew, health board member, made the recommendation to include dating of food products after a resident complained about the lack of understandable codes.

Food products are presently dated by the manufacturer but are often coded so that the customer may not understand the expiration date of the product he is purchasing unless he inquires at the store.

If the village approved a new code, which included Rev. Matthew's recommendation, then food dealers would have to decipher the code for the customers.

Man Found Dead In Auto In Elk Grove

Mertys E. Maki, 53 of Chicago, was pronounced dead on arrival yesterday morning at St. Alexius Hospital after having been found by police slumped over in a car near Oakton Street and Higgins Road, Elk Grove Township.

Elk Grove Village Patrolmen John Bantner and Steven Ingebrigtsen gave Maki, apparently the victim of a heart attack, mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and massaged his heart, but were unable to revive him.

Village Proclaims Lung Disease Week

The week of Sept. 13 through -20 has been proclaimed as Children's Lung Disease Week by Jack Pahl, Elk Grove Village president.

Lung damaging diseases affect more than 5 million children in the United States, with the most tragic disease cystic fibrosis, an inherited biochemical disorder that occurs once in every thousand births.

Real Estate News & Views

YOU DON'T SELL A HOME -
YOU NEGOTIATE THE SALE

It is not always the case that a Real Estate Broker will sell a home for the exact listing price with no complications on mortgage or terms.

Often, there is necessary add-and-subtract between the buyer and the Real Estate Broker as the Real Estate Broker attempts to secure as fair a purchase as he can for the buyer while the interests of the owner are not compromised.

One of the greatest faults of home owners attempting to sell their own homes is inflexibility. Stating a price and terms and then stubbornly sticking to them regardless of the buyer's wants may seem to be a way of saving a lot of negotiating talk; however, it is also a way of losing many a buyer who would otherwise have been happy to purchase the property.

Perhaps the buyer's main concern is the down payment, or perhaps the arrangement of a completely new mortgage by the Real Estate Broker is necessary to resolve the deadlock. Sometimes the inclusion of extras such as drapes or air conditioning will create a solution beneficial to both parties.

An experienced Real Estate Broker is an expert in the give-and-take of property negotiation — a specialty that emphatically requires one.

NORTH POINT STATE BANK of Arlington Heights

(IN ORGANIZATION)

The new North Point State Bank moved one step closer to reality last week with the approval of the bank by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

The bank, which had previously been approved for a permit to organize by the Illinois Commissioner of Banks and Trust Companies, now has clearance to complete its organization.

The bank is expected to open approximately October 1st, in temporary quarters in the North Point Shopping Center.

Shortly after the official opening of the temporary quarters of the North Point State Bank, ground will be broken for the bank's permanent headquarters to be located at the north end of the shopping center.

Approximately 10,000 shares are still available for purchase, and the sponsors of the bank have stated their intention to give local area residents first opportunity to share in the bank's ownership.

Persons desiring more information about the bank may call 825-5520, or fill in the coupon.

U.S. Creates, Destructs Five Germanys?

by JOAN HANNAUER
NEW YORK (UPI)—This month marks the 100th anniversary of the emergence of Germany as a world power—and for good or ill the United States, in the view of one historian, made it possible.

According to newspaperman-historian-teacher Alfred R. Tyrnauer-Tyrnauer, the interrelationship of Germany and the United States in world affairs dates from the American Civil War.

Tyrnauer, who teaches a course at the New School for Social Research in New York titled, "America's Rise to World Power and the Five Germanys," explained:

"The creation of these five Germanys, as well as their destruction, was mainly the work of the United States. It was not intentional.

Austrian-born Tyrnauer defined the five Germanys in an interview as the Hohenzollern realm of the Kaisers, the Weimar republic that followed World War I, Hitler's third reich the two Germanys created by the Allies after World War II.

"I suppose this is a new way of looking at it," Tyrnauer said. "Usually historians treat modern western history as originating in Europe. America is still handled in the history books as a child of Europe. The fact is that the great energies concentrated and produced in America have, by the very fact that they existed, influenced European history."

"Modern Germany could not have been created by Bismarck as it was if the United States had not been reunited by the union in the Civil War."

HE EXPLAINED that the American which emerged from the Civil War, strengthened by a newly enhanced navy, forced France and Austria to withdraw the foothold they tried to establish on the American continent by setting up Maximilian, younger brother of the Austrian emperor, as ruler of Mexico.

But by the time France and its emperor Napoleon III abandoned the Mexican adventure, the emperor's treasury was depleted and the French army was weakened sufficiently to be defeated by Prussia in the Franco-Prussian War.

"Lincoln's navy had grown tremendously during the Civil War," Tyrnauer said. "Sending European troops to America violated the Monroe doctrine, of course, but President Lincoln wisely resisted those who urged him to declare war on France, saying, 'One war at a time is enough.'"

Instead, Tyrnauer said, Lincoln refused to recognize Maximilian as emperor of Mexico, never received his envoys, and warned the European powers that the United States would not tolerate foreign armies on its soil.

"THE ACTION of the French emperor in Mexico had been approved by several other European rulers who regarded the United States as a hotbed of revolution and republicanism," Tyrnauer said.

"It was the last attempt of the European empires to reestablish their rule in the New World and they failed."

While the others approved, Tyrnauer noted, it was France that footed the bill for the Maximilian affair, which ended when Benito Juarez—with U. S. help—defeated Maximilian who later was executed. The weakening of the French army and treasury allowed Bismarck and Prussia to move.

When the Franco-Prussian War erupted in 1870, President Ulysses S. Grant informed the French the United States would preserve strict neutrality but warned them to expect pro-Prussian sentiment.

"The American people have good memories," the French ambassador was told, "and they remember that while the Germans sympathized with the union and took its bonds freely during the (Civil) War the French had manifested no sympathy for the union but had negotiated a loan for the rebels. The French government had also sent an expedition into Mexico which had been construed by the American people as an act hostile to this country."

On Sept. 1, 1870, Prussia decisively defeated France at Sedan. Two days later Napoleon III was captured. Sept. 4 the new French republic was proclaimed in Paris and attempts were made to raise a new army to fight Prussia. But on Sept. 18 the Prussian siege of Paris was completed and, Tyrnauer said, "the siege of Paris sealed the fate of France."

"On Jan. 18, 1871," Tyrnauer continued, "Bismarck, Prussian prime minister and moving spirit of the war, proclaimed the new German reich (empire) with the king of Prussia as emperor of the new Germany. Bismarck thus unified the various German principalities into a world power."

It was this same reich that the United States helped defeat in World War I, less than 50 years after helping create it, albeit unintentionally.

As for the Weimar republic, Tyrnauer said, "Weimar Germany was supported financially by America but politically

America's new isolationism contributed to its weakening and the strengthening of the militarist and nationalist parties.

"Nazi Germany, which came into being in 1933, also was overthrown by a coalition led by the United States in World War II."

"And the two new Germanys, East and West, were the result of a compromise between the United States and Russia."

It is unlikely Bismarck could have dreamed of the role the United States was to play in Germany's future. He had no high respect for America, Tyrnauer said, and once even remarked to Carl Schurz, the great German liberal who emigrated to the United States:

"God takes care of drunkards and Americans."

Ho, Hum...Life Goes On In Koeta

KOETA, Colo. (UPI)—Except for the day the bank went broke there hasn't been much excitement in Koeta since a fellow named Butler was murdered and dumped into the town well. But that was 34 years ago.

"And that's how we intend to keep it," Clyde Stanley, 82, said as he adjusted the green eyeshade he used to reduce the glare in his cluttered, dimly lit general store on Roanoke Avenue.

"Sure, I liked Koeta better when we had 130, 140 folks living here. But I'd still take it this way over that city living. Why, according to the papers, they got four or five stickups every day in Denver."

Stanley is city clerk of Koeta, an incorporated town with six residents, a dozen crumbling buildings long since abandoned, two homes, a combination store and post office and a white frame church where Mayor Dean Bivens' teen-aged son keeps his sheep.

The old homestead settlement rises from the sun-scorched plains 105 miles northeast of Denver and five miles from Colorado 14, the nearest paved road.

The barren flatness around it is broken only by an occasional windmill. The silence is disturbed only by great gusts of howling wind which race funnels of dust for mile after aimless mile.

Koeta is so small that everyone except the teen-ager is an elected town official. The mayor's wife is the treasurer and her mother is a trustee. Stanley's 79-year-old widowed sister also is a trustee.

"Of course, we're meant to have meetings regular and put up notices," Stanley, a former Koeta mayor said. "But what's the sense in that? If we got something to do, we just get together at my place or up at Dean's."

"There's never much business anyway. Goeh, it doesn't amount to more than a $10 bill to pay every now and then."

Outside Stanley's store, whose glass-topped counters contain advertisements for penny candy, Roanoke Avenue is clogged with weeds and baked to a powdery dust by the blazing sun.

Only a stone front remains from the two-story Cottage Inn down the street, and the rail spur from Cheyenne, Wyo., to Sterling, Colo., is quiet now except for an infrequent special-order freight.

"We used to have five grocery stores, two blacksmiths and a lively saloon before folks started drifting away," Stanley said. "Never did have a bar, though 'cause we figured it wouldn't do us any good."

The high school closed down in 1951 after graduating two students. The daily passenger rail service to Cheyenne ended before World War II. The last minister left the little white church 20 years ago.

"I went into Denver one day right before last Christmas," Stanley said. "First time in two years I been there and first time in lots of years there's no one tending Koeta."

"And you know, someone breaks into the store that day and steals a clock that's been hanging on the wall since 1925. So the city doesn't have all the problems."

Stanley admits there are a few disadvantages to living in such a small town. He says he misses a lot of good picture shows, the Denver newspapers is delivered a day or two late, and it is too expensive to even consider calling a doctor or plumber from Greeley, the nearest city, 40 miles away.

"And there's too many people coming around here these days," grumbled his sister, Faye Oram, as she pattered among the stacks of old candy boxes filled with memorabilia.

"We don't need them. Those people have no respect—for us or for what's ours. They're taking things and they're messing up our town. We'd just rather be left alone."

A short while later, the visitor headed out of town on the unmarked dirt road to Greeley. Koeta was at peace again—alone in the vastness of the Great Plains and secure in the vestiges of busier days.

These 'Activists' Lauded

by JEFFREY L. FIELD

GLOVERSVILLE, N.Y. (UPI)—Thanks, in good measure, to a dedicated group of high school activists, Bobby played basketball Tuesday morning.

His friends clapped and cheered when he sank the winning shot. Bobby clapped too. In the afternoon, Bobby and his friends played volleyball and tetherball.

At age 26, Bobby is what is called a "long term client" at the Lexington Training Center in this Mohawk Valley community. The privately operated center, financed 90 per cent with state funds, provides services to 60 persons, including the physically handicapped, the emotionally disturbed and the mentally retarded.

UNDER EXECUTIVE Director Paul Nigra and his staff of 11, the center represents the only sheltered workshop and rehabilitation center between the upstate New York cities of Schenectady and Utica. It is housed in a 100-year-old brick building, a former school.

The involvement of high school "activists" began early this year when Nigra was contacted by Bill Kitchen, president of the senior class in neighboring Johnstown. Kitchen discussed the possibility of allowing the seniors to tour the facility as a class project.

Arrangements were made, and 250 pupils visited the center in groups of about 50. Nigra feels both sides benefited from the visits: The pupils became more familiar with what had been to most of them an unknown part of society—and the trainees received some much-needed contact with "outsiders."

After the initial series of visits, Kitchen and some fellow pupils began returning to the center to work with the trainees. Some supervised recreation, some helped tutor, and some helped in the workshop areas.

THE TEENAGED volunteers continued their involvement through the spring and into the summer months. Many attended the biweekly socials to dance with and talk to the trainees.

Johnstown High's class of 1970, nearing graduation, found it still had money in the class treasury—even after the traditional senior banquet. They could have sponsored a weekend beer blast or taken a trip somewhere, but they didn't. Instead, they donated money to the center to purchase paint. Then, they did the actual work—painting hallways, stairs and workshop areas.

Mark Hanchar, the class valedictorian and son of a local painting contractor, arrived with a truck loaded with scaffolding, drop cloths, rollers and brushes.

Twenty-five teen-agers reported for volunteer paint duty at 7 p.m. By half past midnight, the job had been completed. Some returned later to replace furniture which had been moved aside.

Center's staff includes two placement specialists, four workshop supervisors and a psychologist. The center's trainees range in age from 18 to 65. Some are college graduates; some have an IQ of 30.

The reaction of the high schoolers to the trainees was hard to judge beforehand. Some thought they wouldn't like or understand each other.

"I never thought I'd be able to get along with them," said Stephanie Svolos of Johnstown. "But they make you feel tremendous. They're always happy."

STEPHANIE WAS NOT among the visiting high school seniors. She's only 18. Her sister, Sharon, 19, was a senior—and Stephanie drove over to the center with her sister one evening, "just for the ride."

Since that evening, both girls have helped supervise recreation programs—and both have been doing clerical work on a volunteer basis.

Janet Hansen, 16, was another senior who has returned time and again to volunteer her services.

"They are some of the friendliest people I've ever met," Janet said. "I thought I'd be depressed—but these people are happy, and they really make you happy. You don't leave depressed."

Kitchen, credited by others with organizing the volunteer force, used his own spare time to construct volleyball and tetherball courts. He installed the equipment and supervised instruction.

One of the trainees at the school, a 19-year-old emotionally disturbed girl, wrote a poem about her five months there. The girl, whose first name is Chris, has since left the center and entered college.

In the poem she described the people she met and the atmosphere within which they live. The title of the poem, "TLC," means Training at Lexington Center. It has a submeaning of Tender Loving Care.

Reception For Dole Monday

A reception for Senator Robert Dole of Kansas will be held at 8 p.m. Monday at the Arlington Park Towers Hotel, Rohlwing Road and Euclid Street, Arlington Heights.

The area Young Republicans are sponsoring the reception and all residents have been invited to attend and hear Sen. Dole.

Monday has been designated as Senator's Day in Illinois and 18 U.S. senators will be coming into Illinois to campaign for Sen. Ralph T. Smith.

State Rep. David Regner, Sen. Smith's Regional Campaign Director, announced that Dole would be in the Northwest suburbs.

DeKalb 'Commuter' Proposed

The Chicago and North Western R.R. recently proposed a new experimental "Campus Commuter" service between Chicago and DeKalb.

The proposal includes fares reduced as much as 87 per cent below existing rates.

Two trains each way per day would travel between Chicago and DeKalb. The proposal has been coordinated with class times at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, and has been presented to city and NIU officials.

The new commuter service would start Dec. 11 if the Interstate Commerce Commission allows the discontinuance of the round-trip daily train now operating between Chicago and Clinton, Iowa. The train travels through DeKalb.

The new, experimental service would operate Mondays through Fridays (except holidays) through June 10 and could be continued depending on the use of the service.

THE STARTING OF the new service is also dependent upon new agreements with the railroad operating brotherhoods extending North Western's suburban territory from Geneva to DeKalb. Negotiations on this matter are under way.

The Westbound Campus Commuter would leave Chicago at 6:05 a.m., stopping at Kedzie, Oak Park, Maywood, Bellwood, Elmhurst, Villa Park, Lombard, Glen Ellyn, Wheaton, Winfield, West Chicago and Geneva. The train would arrive in DeKalb by 7:40 a.m., in time for students to attend 8 a.m. classes.

Students could return home on the Campus Commuter leaving DeKalb at 4:30 p.m. and arriving in Chicago at 6:10 a.m. It would make the same stops as the morning train.

One advantage of the proposal, according to railroad officials, is students traveling to Chicago on Friday afternoons could take the 4:30 p.m. train and arrive in Chicago at 6:10. Instead of returning Sunday afternoons, students could take the train on Monday morning at 6:05 a.m.

The Campus Commuter fares would be $2.10 for a one-way trip and $4.20 for a round trip. A ten-ride 10-ride ticket would be $19, a weekly ticket, $17.20; semi-month, $30.25; and monthly, $58.

We're experts in auto financing... not autos.

The other day Elroy Knight of Evanston proudly showed our vice president, Bud Bruhn, the new Mercury Cougar which he purchased with an auto loan arranged for him at First. Mr. Knight explained the 351 engine with maximum torque of 355 pounds per foot at 2600 RPMs and 9.5 to 1 compression ratio.

Though impressed, Bud was a trifle confused. He's an auto financing expert, not a mechanic. In his more than 30 years at First, Bud has made more loans on cars than anyone in town. He may not know exactly how the manufacturer hides the radio antenna in a Grand Prix, but he knows there are no hidden charges at First. Loans are handled quickly, and repayments are designed to fit each individual's budget.

So, if you want to know how the electric-defogging circuitry works in the new Thunderbird, ask a mechanic. If you want the straight facts on auto loans, see Bud Bruhn, John Crim, Larry McDonnell, Lisa Mogensen, Lyla Guthardt or Jack Haugen. They're our auto financing experts.

Art Fair Set For Sunday

Artists from throughout the northwest and western suburbs are making final preparations today for the Des Plaines Art Fair to be held this Sunday.

More than 130 artists will display their works from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Ellinwood Street between Lee Street and Graceland Avenue in downtown Des Plaines.

Exhibits will also be set up in the parking lot of the Des Plaines National Bank along the Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks.

In case of rain, the fair will be rescheduled for the same time and place Sept. 20.

Displays including paintings, ceramics, sculpture and special crafts will be on sale all day. Cash prizes and ribbons will be presented in oil, watercolor and mixed media competition. Original paintings by Christl Hansen of Mount Prospect, and Milvi Wheeling will be awarded as attendance prizes.

Admission is free to the fair and refreshments will be available, according to Gerd Renner, 332 N. Wolf Rd., Des Plaines, president of the Des Plaines Art Guild, sponsors of the 15th annual show.

Arrangements for this year's fair were made by a committee consisting of Irene Partridge of Arlington Heights, Dottie Roel, Peggy Wetter, Carol Venture, all of Des Plaines, and the executive board of the guild.

Des Plaines artists exhibiting their works at the fair are:

Mrs. LeRoy Armstrong, Mrs. George Beer, Robert Allan Blue, Mrs. Burton Bruhn, Mrs. Erwin Campbell, Virginia Caldwell Close, Mrs. Nickolas Biuliani, Donald F. Ellwanger, Mrs. George Halgren.

Also Mrs. D. H. Jacobsen, Mrs. Calmer Johnson, Mrs. Arthur R. Johnson, Mrs. Wayne A. Kiestler, Mrs. Fred Kramer, Henry L. McAlevy, Mrs. Thomas E. Maltese, Mrs. Arthur Nyberg, Mrs. Joseph Lucas, Mrs. Frank Rivara, Mrs. Jim Roel, Mrs. Roman Ryndak, Maxine Salisberg, Bruce Schelin, and Ross Utter.

Also planning to participate in the fair are: Arlington Heights residents Mrs. Richard Anderson, Mrs. Thomas Borifard, Barbara R. H. Gecan, Mildred Hamrin, John and Eleanor Hudson, Mrs. Kenneth Noesen, Mrs. John Rogers, Mrs. James S. Partridge, now of Barrington. Mrs. James H. Christensen, Mrs. Robert E. Guttery, and Mrs. Ronald Fornier, all of Elk Grove Village, will be displaying oil paintings.

Four Mt. Prospect artists participating are Mrs. Carl R. Hansen, Marlene S. Hunt, Mrs. Warren Smith, and Mrs. L. B. Vlasak.

Mrs. Conrad Kruse and Mrs. Robert W. Ziegler of Palatine are among the exhibitors, along with Sylvia and Richard Westgard of Buffalo Grove, and Mrs. John Kenny, of Wheeling.

Slide Show Set

The American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) will meet Sept. 22 at 7:30 p.m. at the Church of the Cross on Higgins Road in Hoffman Estates.

Featured speaker will be Anne Kelley who will give a slide presentation on Illinois' history titled "Illinois Heritage."

The presentation will cover happenings in the state between 1632 and 1942.

Miss Kelley is a supervisor in the educational relations group at Illinois Bell Telephone. In her work she talks to education majors at colleges about the educational aid available from Illinois Bell.

Chicago born, Miss Kelley has attended The Art Institute of Chicago, The Chicago Academy of Art, Wright Junior College, Dale Carnegie Institute and Northwestern University.

Nurse Refresher Course Offered

Registered nurses who have been out of the medical-surgical field for five years or more may get back into practice with an eight-week refresher course offered by St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village.

The program is open with no obligations to work for St. Alexius upon completion of the course. It is intended to encourage former R.N.s to return to the field.

For further information or to interview for application, contact Mrs. Marcy Harlow at 437-5500, extension 641.

Politics Topic To Be Discussed

A series of discussions concerning suburban politics will be held at the Childerley Retreat House, 506 McHenry Rd., Wheeling this weekend.

John Kearney, director of Friendship House, the agency that manages the retreat, will begin the series at 8 p.m. tomorrow. He will speak on suburban politics and analyze the patronage system.

The series will resume Saturday morning at 9:30 with Mrs. Ann Waller, a delegate to the Constitutional Convention speaking about the new constitution.

She will be followed by Mrs. Patricia Siebert, a candidate for the DuPage County Board, speaking on minority campaigning for the board.

At 1:30 p.m. Harvey Schwartz, corporation counsel for Skokie will give a talk about local government in suburban areas.

He will be followed at 3:30 by Stuart Roberts of Oak Park speaking on party structure with emphasis on the committeeman's duties and powers.

The series will conclude Saturday night with an open forum and discussion session at 8 p.m., Kearney said.

"We have tried to focus on encouraging attendance from the block of cities directly west of Chicago, but the general public is invited also," he said.

Accreditation Listed As Top Harper Event

Harper College's candidacy for accreditation by the North Central Association was listed as a highlight of progress by James Hamill, chairman of the board of trustees, at the fourth annual trustee dinner Tuesday.

Other highlights during Harper's four-year history are its increased enrollment and endorsement by summer school students, who compared it favorably with other colleges, he said.

Hamill said Harper has not solved all its problems or met all its needs yet and added that next year the faculty and administration will have to work harder to obtain accreditation.

On student unrest, he said, "Our recently graduated high school students were born in 1951 and 1952. They are very familiar with America's shortcomings and failures as viewed through the 1960 dissent years.

"As a board, we know that all of the people in this room acted responsibly in our one student unrest episode last spring. We are confident we can and will work together to resolve any future student unrest problems.

"The greatest asset of Harper College is not the bricks and mortar of the campus, but the people," he said.

Win at Bridge

by
OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

The original Culbertson asking bid was completely artificial. It was an extra jump in a new suit and it asked partner about first and second round control in that suit.

Today's hand was played by Culbertson in one of his last tournament appearances. He was playing with Ted Lightner, one of the truly great players and Ely's favorite partner.

Culbertson has been dead for almost 20 years. Lightner, who is now 77, still plays very fine rubber bridge at New York's Regency Whist Club. He is still an excellent bidder and player.

Ely's jump to four clubs was a Culbertson asking bid. Lightner is always pessimistic but he knew that Ely wanted to find out about the club ace and Teddy showed it like a true soldier.

Ely couldn't be sure about the king of spades but he gambled that if Lightner did not hold that nice card he might finesse for it successfully. In any case, Ely, like most great players, was not afraid to bid grand slams so he went right to seven spades.

Seven spades made easily. It may look like an easy grand slam to get to by some other method but in this particular match Ely's opponent didn't even reach a small slam with Ely's cards, so that this asking bid was worth the full grand slam bonus to Ely's team.

The Way We See It

DuPage Party Sick

The Democratic Party organization of DuPage County is sick. It has been ailing for a long time, but now some of its symptoms appear fatal.

Two of the Democratic candidates slated for the November elections have dropped out of the running, and the party has had to find standins.

Nicholas Thomas withdrew from the race for Democratic candidate for Congress in the 14th District.

Democrats came up with an opponent in the person of William Adelman of Bensenville, former candidate for delegate to the Illinois Constitutional Convention.

Earlier, Wood Dale resident Philip Grisolia withdrew from the race for county clerk and was replaced by Mrs. Patricia Ring, a housewife from Downers Grove.

Thomas reportedly withdrew for reasons of health; Grisolia issued a statement saying he was disgusted with the party's organization and effort. This loss of candidates puts the enfeebled Democratic Party in an unusually awkward light.

Broader participation and more vigorous leadership seem essential if the party is to pull out of this nosedive and begin offering effective alternatives to GOP monopoly. As it is, the only semblance of a two-party system in DuPage is the conservative-moderate split within the Republican Party.

The Fence Post

Class Size Is Not Key

The teachers in Dist. 59 are refusing to sign a contract. The remaining large issue is not salary but their insistence that class size be reduced. This is not a reasonable demand for two reasons at least. The first reason is that the school board is properly the agency to determine policy. The teachers and other professionals are of course valued for their professional opinions. When these opinions are not convincing to the policy board, it hardly seems correct for them to resort to compulsive methods to force their opinion on the proper policy body. The matter at issue is one concerning the functioning of the district and is not one concerning their own individual rights.

In pushing for smaller class sizes the teachers have espoused a cause that has much popular support. Everybody assumes that small classes are beneficial. Statistical evidence suggests otherwise. Let me quote from authoritative sources. Deior Roger Freeman, presidential advisor, said in a major address on this point on June 19: "The evidence we have accumulated is somewhat surprising. We have recorded traditional variables that supposedly affect the quality of learning, class size, school expenditure, pupil/teacher ratio, condition of building, teacher experience and the like. Yet there seems to be no direct relationship between these school measurements and performance. Statistical data in that report show that reading and arithmetic achievements in the highest expenditure schools average between five and seven months behind those in the schools with

HE WENT ON further to say: "On the whole the statistical findings definitely favor large classes at every level of instruction except the kindergarten, the general trend of evidence places the burden of proof squarely upon the proponents of small classes." He went on to say that three years ago the Coleman report found that the teacher/pupil ratio "showed a consistent lack of relation to achievements among all groups under all conditions." He went on to say, "That the myth that pupils learn more in smaller classes still flourishes and the demand for cutting class size continues while resistance to technological progress such as programmed learning with the help of machines or television and film grows."

The findings of this authority are supported by many others including the renowned Negro educator, Kenneth Clark. Statistical evidence in our own community supports these conclusions. In a report issued by Dist. 59 itself, it was shown that the achievement levels of the children in our district are considerably below that in the adjoining parochial schools. The same finding has been true for the entire Chicago area. These figures are only recently released. Dist. 59 not only has many more teachers than the parochial schools, but is spending over three times as much money per pupil and getting much poorer results.

The figures from Dist. 59 will show that we hire one teacher for every twenty students. Somehow the average class size is about 28 students in a class. In addition to the teachers we hire, we do have available volunteers whose use should have a beneficial effect if small class size is the objective.

THE ABOVE COMMENTS are merely the statistical proof that small class size is not effective. You may cast about for reasons why the results are not consistent with the opinions of the teachers themselves. One enlightened teacher suggested that large classes contain "peer teachers." That is, the children learn a great deal from their contemporaries. It is easily understandable that in a large class size the discussion may cover a greater range of facts and that more children may bring their problems with the subject matter to the attention of the entire class. This is unproved supposition but the statistical facts remain. Dist. 59 recently authorized the hiring of 25 more teachers. This was done after the budget had been set for the current year and was apparently a response to the insistence of the teachers. The taxpayer will in the end have to pay for the implementing of this. Dist. 59 has for many years been the highest spending district in this area. The results have not been commensurate with the expenditure. Rather than insisting on smaller classes, perhaps our experts should study the school systems that are able to get better results in larger classes and with less money. Perhaps the solution lies in good leadership and the insistence on discipline in the class.

Wood Dale Sidewalk Law 'Segregates'

The latest victory in Wood Dale politics is an ordinance providing sidewalks for a segregated group of homeowners. The village council's concern for the safety of our children should be commended.

Realizing the possibility of defeat in a referendum, they segregated the homeowners, by means of an ordinance that put into law, sidewalks on the main county roads of Wood Dale.

This ordinance directly affects my pocketbook and I would grit my teeth and bear it, if the council had the courage to follow their own convictions. It appears that the village has taken a step in reverse, with the latest release, that only one side of Addison Road must install sidewalks.

APPARENTLY THE need for safety, is limited to the children on the east side of the road. The fact that the school is located on the west side has not been considered in the retreat. Logic should tell our councilmen that the children on the east side must cross Addison Road and a one-sided safety measure could best serve all the children if the sidewalks were installed on the west side of the road. However, west sided residents could claim that there is no danger to their children as they do not have to cross the street, and object to paying for the safety of our children. I quite agree.

The truth is safety should be the concern and burden of all village residents, not a segregated few. As an American and a taxpayer, I resent any law, any ordinance that discriminates against a selected minority. As a voter, I resent when village officials feel the will of the people, no longer must be considered, once they are in office.

Who Sees Drug Problem?

Friday, Aug. 28, 1970, you carried two articles in the paper. One of them was headlined "No Drug Problem Here" and the other "Suburban Drug Abuse Talk Held By Area Residents." It seems strange that more than "100 local, county and state representatives" should meet to discuss a non-existent problem.

I would agree with the no drug problem if police records of arrests for possession of drugs was the basis for the statement as it seemed to be. (I didn't notice any mention of drunken driving or alcohol related arrests, our number one drug abuse.) We would be burying our heads in the sand if we accepted this headline as truth. We are a pill popping drug abusing society. Rather than look at the police records, perhaps we should take a survey upon: the number of sleeping pills, get going pills, tranquilizers and diet pills prescribed by physicians; the over the counter No-Doz, Compos etc. sold at the drug store. Certainly police records are an indication of the illegal users, according to present laws, but they are certainly not indicative of all the abusers of drugs.

FORTUNATELY OUR local residents have not accepted the No Drug Problem headline; I hope they are attacking the causes of the problem and getting their forces to change the antiquated laws now on the books. I hope the educators are going to their schools to revamp the curricula to reach all their students needs, not just the academically oriented college bound. Are they working on ways to recognize the student is a person, not an IBM number (especially at the high school level)? Why not explore student planned (with help) years of growth in high-school? How important and necessary are English, math, history and science in helping a student to find himself and who he really is?

Have we set up false idols for our youngsters? Do they have the right to question our establishment? Even the elementary school youngster must begin to worship "the grade" or we say he's shirking. It's not enough, for example, to love singing and be putting your all out. It's the quality that's important, so we give an "A" or "D," but we have no idea what the "feeling" is. Enough quality marks not so good as someone else and soon the love of singing is gone, maybe stamped out forever. (Why aren't all those other people singing at a community sing or when the national anthem is played?) It seems to me enjoyment of knowledge is enough at the elementary level without a label. If there are no A's, no one has to cheat to get one. Later in life he may sing to get a "high," even though it might be off-key.

We're a pill popping society, no wonder. We've been lambasted by every commercial in the world that our problems, no matter what, can be solved by a blue, pink, green or what-have-you pill, and if that won't do it booze will. Not only will our problems be solved, but the advertising industry would have us believe that as a normal side effect of these pills, cigarettes (another drug—nicotine) etc.; our masculinity and femininity are enhanced.

NO WONDER WE worry about the druggers, and if we don't we'd better. They're here (in spite of the police record) in the form of abusers of sleeping pills, LSD, marijuana, booze, etc. It's not just the teenagers and the swingers, but let's get to the causes as well as the symptoms. Let's look at the problems: antiquated drug laws, lack of rehabilitation facilities, Vietnam, narrow minded curricula, turned off parents, turned off people not caring about each other.

Fungus Carries Dynamite

by CHARLES HUFNAGEL

Corn may decide the election Nov. 3 in Illinois. It's the opinion of many observers that the extent and quality of this crop and the price the farmer gets for it will be an important factor in what the downstate rural areas do with their votes.

The reasons why this is so are the reasons why Republican Party prognosticators in the leading corn states, Illinois, Indiana and Iowa — the heart of the Republican conservative Midwest — are following with no little concern what the fungus blight is doing and may do to the farmer pocketbook.

It is true that the farmer today represents only a fraction of the producing and earning population but as a supplier of basic foodstuffs, in Illinois principally meats, he has to be recognized as a major factor in the economic life of the nation. As he goes, so goes a large sector of the economy.

BECAUSE OF advanced farm technology today with intensive and scientific handling of the soil to get maximum crop production, the farmer has to have tools which run into big capital outlays. To finance his complex operations — equipment, fertilizer, seed, insecticides — he has well developed banking connections. He is a major customer in the village and population centers in rural Illinois. But equally significant he is a major taxpayer, especially for schools.

So it is no exaggeration at all to contend that the extent of this corn fungus blight on the 1970 crop weighs heavily on the economic fortunes of rural Illinois. As the farmer goes pocketbookwise so go these areas. The corn fungus contains political dynamite.

In the Galesburg, Rock Island and Quincy triangle after a delayed start and a wet season, the corn crop looks promising. However some fields are visibly hurt, have already turned brown, and the question now is whether the worst is yet to come. Some surveys have placed the loss expected at 5 per cent, which would hurt but would not be disastrous. Other estimates are at 10 per cent and higher. But sounder views say it is now too early to tell. It will take from three to four weeks to determine how great the damage of this fungus blight when the harvest gets under way. Last year Illinois was the No. 1 corn producer.

Reports from other corn areas are less promising and point to trouble. What this can mean is that a poor corn crop would almost certainly lead to higher meat prices and an upward pressure on food prices generally. The threat of higher food prices is a reason why unions feel assured of winning their bid for bigger pay envelopes. This of course spells trouble for conservative Republicans who insist on pay increases as inflationary.

WHAT THE NIXON economists proliferate as higher wisdom could be scuttled in a jiffy by the capriciousness of mythic gods. The danger latent in this situation is that it carries the seeds of a chain reaction which could upset the calculations of orthodox political and economic thinking.

Eye on Arlington

Problem Will Be Around

by SANDRA BROWNING

Dwight Walton's been doing some thinking.

And he's come up with a great idea. During a committee meeting last week, the village board member suggested a committee be formed to study the over all housing problem in the village.

Walton said the low-income housing problem "will be with us for years." And he's right.

NO MATTER WHAT way the Victorian land is used, the need for low-income housing in the Northwest suburbs will continue to exist. The final decision on the use of 15 acres adjoining St. Viator High School will not magically make the problem disappear.

While some officials have been avoiding comment on the issue, Walton has taken a direct and intelligent approach. Many officials have refused to take any stand, saying that they will decide on the issue when the proposal comes before the respective village boards and commissions.

The first step in finding a solution is to recognize that there is a problem. And Walton suggested that the village take that step.

"We're kidding ourselves if we think a settlement of the Victorian issue is the end. That's just the start," Walton said. The whole issue of housing for people with low and moderate income extends further than the boundaries of the Victorian land and further than Arlington Heights.

One of Walton's best points is the formation of a committee which would hold discussion meetings which would help communications in this village.

The statement that there are a lot of "misconceptions" about low-cost housing is an understatement. I would label those misconceptions as panic rumors.

ONE OF THE best ones I can't repeat, because it lacks credibility and there's no sense in spreading lies.

Another one is the wholesale selling of homes in the area. Someone told me there were for sale signs up all along the adjoining streets. A quick check this week showed that about five homes in the immediate area are for sale, for various reasons. Some have been on the market for quite awhile.

Some of the letters to the editor and the phone calls we receive show that people make statements about this type of housing before they have their facts straight.

A committee to discuss the over all issue would certainly help.

Village officials, armed with a general policy on low-cost housing, could then begin to tackle the separate issues as they come up.

This has been done before with the apartment and subdivision policies which give direction to the development of this village. Results of the policies include subdivisions not being allowed to come into existence unless the builder guarantees to build appropriate streets and sidewalks and provide other items which years ago were unheard of.

AND ARLINGTON HEIGHTS is a better town because of those policies. This village will be a better town if Walton's suggestion is followed.

DuPage Mass Transit District In Works

Roselle's village board took the first formal step Tuesday night to join the proposed mass transit district along the Milwaukee Road's Elgin-Chicago west line.

In addition, the board agreed to ask Cal Whitney, 6N300 Oak St., Roselle, to be the village's representative in the district that would include all the communities along the line.

Apparently fulfilling a resolution of intent passed last spring, the board authorized Village Atty. Craig Larson to prepare an ordinance that would make Roselle part of the mass transit district.

WHITNEY, co-chairman of the board of Milwaukee Road Commuters' Association said he would at least be the village's temporary representative.

"I haven't been contacted by the village yet, but I was approached by Thomas Ploss, the Milwaukee Road attorney who is the spokesman for the project. I told him I would have to know the duties involved before I accepted but I would at least serve temporarily until a more qualified person was found," Whitney said.

Although he disagreed with the idea of "federal government subsidizing the railroad through the mass transit district," Whitney said it was the only answer to the high cost of operation today.

"Even the commuters' association couldn't reasonably ask the railroad to lose $1 million for the sake of improving service. I don't like it (federal funding) either, but if millions of dollars are being appropriated for mass transportation and somebody's going to get it, why shouldn't it be the commuters of our line?" he said.

THE DISTRICT would own, operate and construct the mass transit facilities and would be entitled to federal funds of up to two-thirds of the cost of capital improvements. State legislation allows mass transit districts to levy a five-cent tax with a referendum. However, Ploss has assured municipal officials the district won't depend on revenues raised by property taxes.

"Although the mass transit district doesn't plan on taxing initially," Whitney said, "I'm sure taxes will be part of the over-all plan."

Whitney, a part owner in a packaging materials business in Chicago has lived in Roselle since 1929 and is one of the Milwaukee Road's most faithful commuters.

A firm advocate of mass transportation, he rides the Chicago Transit Authority lines when traveling in the city.

"Mass transportation is a matter of educating the public, showing them the convenience of driving their own car to the city when they want and leaving when they want isn't worth the wear and tear on the emotions, nerves and peace of mind," Whitney said.

He has been in the commuters' association since it was formed about 15 years ago and has been chairman of the board for five years. The association includes representatives from both of Milwaukee Road's west and north lines.

Rail Station 'Won't Be Relocated'

Roselle's railroad station isn't being relocated but rather removed from the village, according to Cal Whitney, co-chairman of the board of the Milwaukee Road Commuters Association.

"I disagree totally with the move," Whitney said Wednesday. "It's strictly for political reasons." He was referring to the relocation of the railroad station from its present site in the center of the village eastward to the overpass at Irving Park Road.

"IN effect, what's happening is Medinah will be getting another station and Roselle won't have any," he said.

Whitney, 6N300 Oak St., Roselle has also been recommended as the village representative for a mass transit district the Milwaukee Road is proposing for its west Chicago-Elgin line.

ROSELLE IS THE largest station in terms of commuters served along the west line, Whitney said, with people from neighboring villages driving here to use the station.

Yet the relocation would place the station out of walking distance for many Roselle residents, especially the older, retired persons, he said.

"People living along the streets near the station who continually have cars parked in front of their houses will be relieved when the new station is built and the parking lot is provided," Whitney said, "but I still don't think the station should be moved."

"I don't understand why the railroad is doing it unless they will close the Medinah station very soon after the new Roselle station is built. Usually the railroad doesn't like to have stations within two miles of each other because trains are heavy things to have to start and stop. hey don't pick up enough speed unless they've been going for a while," he said.

Construction of the new station by the railroad may be delayed. Construction bids taken by the Milwaukee Road were higher than anticipated.

No action has been taken to accept or reject any of the bids for construction which the village is indirectly financing through a lease of land for the station parking lot.

Village officials and railroad representatives met in an executive session yesterday to discuss the bids and the next course of action.

Obituaries

Richard B. Runge

Richard B. Runge, 76, of 822 N. Dunton Ave., Arlington Heights, a resident for 12 years, was pronounced dead on arrival Wednesday at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, from injuries suffered in a car-truck accident at Illinois Highway 83 and Palatine Road, Prospect Heights.

Mr. Runge, a retired farmer since 1966, was born May 3, 1894, in Mount Prospect. He was a member of the Mount Prospect V.F.W. Post, No. 1337, and for over 20 years was a member and treasurer of the Mutual Fire Insurance Co., McHenry, Ill.

Visitation is today from 2 to 10 p.m. in Lauterberg and Oehler Funeral Home, 2000 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, and tomorrow until noon. Then the body will be taken to St. John United Church of Christ, 308 N. Evergreen Ave., Arlington Heights, to lie in state until time of funeral services at 1:30 p.m.

The Rev. Robert S. McDonald will officiate and burial will follow in St. John Cemetery, Arlington Heights.

Surviving are his widow, Emma; one son, Norman and daughter-in-law, Eleanor of Genoa, Ill.; one grandchild; two brothers, Otto and Barnie, both of Arlington Heights; and a sister, Mrs. Amanda Harbeck of Bensenville.

Contributions may be made to St. John United Church of Christ Building Fund, Arlington Heights.

Chester F. Bieschke

Funeral mass for Chester F. Bieschke, 57, of 148 Lincoln Lane, Long Grove, who died suddenly Monday in his home after an apparent heart attack, was said yesterday in Queen of All Saints Basilica Catholic Church, Chicago. Burial was in All Saints Cemetery, Des Plaines.

Mr. Bieschke, a former officer at Elston Fuel Co.; Fulton Fuel Co., and Petroleum Heat and Power Co., Chicago, retired in 1963 to raise cattle on his Lake County farm.

Surviving are his widow, Marjorie (Midge); four sons, Lawrence F. of Evanston, Robert of Los Angeles, Kenneth of Mundelein and James of Long Grove; three daughters, Mrs. Judy Maaske of Chicago, Mrs. Peggy Clough of Evanston and Mrs. Linda Cate of Mundelein; three grandchildren; and a sister, Mrs. Harriet Frank of Chicago.

Donations may be made to the Chicago Heart Association.

Lorraine T. Rotsko

Mrs. Lorraine T. Rotsko, 50, of 106 yesterday in St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village, following a brief illness.

Surviving are her husband, Alex; a son, Stephen Bingus; one daughter, Mrs. Ellen (James) Thompson, both of Chicago; three grandchildren; and a sister, Mrs. Cecelia (Leonard) Rudnick of Schaumburg.

Visitation is today from 2 to 10 p.m. in Martin Funeral Home, 333 S. Roselle Road, Roselle. Funeral mass will be said at 10 a.m. tomorrow in St. Hubert Catholic Church, 128 Grand Canyon, Hoffman Estates. Burial will be in St. Adalbert Cemetery, Niles.

Black Horse Unit To Perform

Medinah Temple's Black Horse Troop will present a special show Saturday for students at Clearbrook Center for the Retarded, Rolling Meadows.

The show will begin at 11:30 a.m. at Arlington Park Race Track, Arlington Heights. The show is in addition to the two shows later in the day, one at 3:30 p.m. and the other at 8 p.m.

The Clearbrook Community Association plans to have parents who can furnish transportation from Clearbrook to the race track, meet in the rear parking lot at Clearbrook at 11:30 a.m. Any parents who can assist with transportation or chaperoning should call 541-2926.

One Week Before Openers

Area Preps Set Weekend Scrimmages

by THE HERALD SPORTS STAFF

As the days dwindle down, to those precious few remaining before the 1970 openers, area football coaches are keeping late hours trying to, as they say on television, put it all together.

Some coaches are encouraged by the progress. Others are discouraged.

But the late hours continue, the planning, the juggling of personnel, the evaluating and reevaluating of the talent.

One week remains before the opening games, and the practice sessions over these next few days promise to be packed with some hard hitting as the boys battle for those coveted assignments.

Scrimmages this weekend should clear up many question-mark positions.

Here's the way it looks in the area camp, one week before the 1970 openers, with teams listed according to League finish last fall:

St. Viator

The St. Viator defensive secondary suffered a crippling blow last week during an intersquad scrimmage as both safeties Bob Broeren and Mark DiMusio sustained identical injuries.

According to Lion head coach Joe Gliwa, "They both broke collar bones and will be wearing casts for the next 4-5 weeks."

The incidents prompted Gliwa to rate his charges' physical condition as one of the big question marks of the preseason camp.

"I hope we'll be ready for our first game," Gliwa said. "We've really been fighting the weather. The hot, humid days are taking a toll. It's really draining our kids."

To offset the situation, Gliwa has altered his practice schedule so that the boys are synchronizing their timing and precision during the hot hours of the afternoon. After that, though, Gliwa's hard-hitting outfit lets loose in a full-scale scrimmage.

On the offensive side of the ledger, Gliwa is pleased with the overall depth of his line and backfield. "We're very optimistic with the progress of Bob Quint, Gerry Richardson, Tim Gillespie, Joe Bombicino, Keny Martin, Scott Lundberg, Dan Engel and transfer Stan Bobowski."

Co-captain Mark Rossi is back in pads after missing a couple of practice sessions because of a leg injury, and despite the loss of his pair of defensive backs, Gliwa is looking forward to a rematch with non-league foe Hersey, a team that the Lions trounced 25-0 last season.

Conant

Things are anything but bright at the moment in the Conant camp as coach Ralph Losee faces a depth problem with his defending champions.

The Cougars, who are expected to be a strong contender in the South Division, suffered a big loss when it was reported that Tom Caprice, an outstanding guard, will be lost for the season with a broken leg. That leaves Conant without any experienced interior linemen. Another outstanding guard last season as a junior, Duke Martin, is also out for the season as a result of severe burns suffered in an accident.

"We're hurting in bunches," frets Losee. "We don't have any interior linemen left and no depth. We're going to have to switch some positions around now."

"We are trying to pick out a starting unit, but we're at least a week behind where we were last year at this time."

"The boys are trying hard and their morale and spirit is good, but we've got a lot of work to do."

On the bright side, there are still some talented veterans working out. They include center Dennis Gilbert, halfbacks Craig Knapp and Rich Gallas, fullback John Whiteford, quarterback John MacDonald and two fine ends, Steve Nelson and Mike Peters.

Conant will open its season against its usual first-game non-league foe, Lake Park, at the Lancers' field Saturday, Sept. 19.

The varsity squad will hold an intersquad scrimmage Saturday at about 5 p.m.

Fremd

Things are progressing well at Fremd's veteran camp. As coach Al Ratcliff says, "It looks like we might develop some depth this year."

Even with the season opener still a week away (at New Trier West Sept. 19), the Vikings already have a fairly clear idea of who will be filling starting positions on both offense and defense. The club is especially loaded with experience on the attack.

Defensively, the front-runners thus far are: Brian Murphy and Craig Freund (ends), Tom Reed and Tim Tuerk (guards), Mark Wicklund and Dan Sharpe (outside linebackers), DeLloyd Burris and Bill Whitely (inside linebackers), Larry Hanks (deep safety) and Steve Bruce and Bill Cheney (cornerbacks).

Ratcliff singles out Wicklund, Hanks and Knigge, who has earned first-string rating at left tackle position, as looking particularly good. He comments:

"We've been working on our punting game... we'll need it if our defense is as good as we think it will be. We'd like to keep the opposition in a hole."

"We also need better receivers for improvement in our passing game. Hanks can throw the ball pretty well but we need more who can catch it. Our best receivers right now are Cheney and Callahan."

A varsity inter-squad scrimmage will be held from approximately 2:30 to 3:30 Saturday with other fund-raising events also scheduled for Fremd's new lights. It will be a controlled scrimmage with no kickoffs or punts.

Palatine

The Pirates have an extremely unsettled lineup, with more competition for starting berths than has existed in at least two years. The boys are starting out on a more equal basis than usual because of the greenness of the squad (only six returning lettermen).

One boy who has already proven to be a leader with great desire is Jeff Frost, who has been switched from tackle (where he was a regular last year) to guard, where he will probably play on both offense and defense.

Head coach Arv Herstedt reports that his team worked hard on offense in early practices because of much teaching to do, but is now spending more time on defense. All defensive positions are still up for grabs.

On offense, Herstedt has a better idea of who may be lining up for the season opener at home against Glenbrook North. However, everything is very tentative with several real dogfights for starting jobs.

A pleasant surprise has been the passing game, which had not been expected to blossom as quickly as it has. "It may even be as good as in the last three years, when we've done a lot of throwing," says Herstedt.

On the other side of the coin, there are several problem areas. Herstedt comments: "I'm not pleased with the running game and the blocking has not been up to par. Learning assignments is a hangup, too."

"Right now we just hope we can hit on the right combination, the right 11 boys."

Forest View

Despite the many difficulties of trying to ready a very green Forest View football team, Coach Paul Jordan could find praise for three of his young men.

He is especially elated at the way fullbacks Jack Reitz and Dave Schneider and halfback Bob Kasper have been running and blocking in recent practices.

One back he is particularly high on but who is injured right now is Val Valentine. He hurt his back and will be out for a couple of days at the most, according to Jordan.

Also hoping to be back in time for the intersquad game on Saturday are three of the six returning lettermen. Slightly injured are tackle George Bauer and defensive ace Mark Seasley and Steve Gross.

One player who has been sidelined for possibly the first three games is defensive back Larry Molinaro. Molinaro, who is also a fine offensive threat, is out with a hairline fracture.

All four squads — freshmen, sophomores, jayvees and varsity — will be scrimmaging Saturday with the varsity action scheduled to get underway around 7:30 p.m.

THEY'RE PULLING pitchers so fast these days in major league baseball that the busiest spot in the ball park is the bullpen telephone.

The Chicago White Sox have already established a new American League record for the largest phone bill from dugout to bullpen.

Wilbur Wood has been so busy he's hired an answering service.

The White Sox have only 12 complete games.

Minnesota is headed for a playoff spot in the American League, but the Twins showed only 20 complete games in their first 132 outings this year.

The American League is averaging about one complete game for every five or six starts, and that's despite the fact that Baltimore pitchers have registered over 50.

These statistics only strengthen the position of major league hopefuls like St. Viator grad Jerry Donahue, a relief pitcher in the Detroit Tigers system.

Donahue, a 5-10, 180-pounder, is progressing on schedule in his bid to achieve major league status. He just completed another exceptional season as a relief pitcher, and there's a possibility he'll be added to the Detroit roster for spring training.

Donahue, the only area pitcher ever to win 20 varsity games in his high school career, posted a 5-3 record with eight saves and a 1.82 earned run average for the Montgomery Rebels of the Class AA Southern League. That gives Jerry 15 wins in 18 decisions over the past two summers and back-to-back 1.82 earned run averages.

The fast-balling right-hander worked 62 innings for Montgomery, striking out 46 and yielding 30 hits. He didn't allow any home runs and only five of those hits were for extra bases.

Toledo of the Class AAA International League could be the next stop for Donahue although the parent club in Detroit isn't experiencing a banner year (only 28 complete games) and the Tigers may give a long look to a young relief specialist who has pitched so well over two straight seasons.

GREG LUZINSKI of Prospect Heights was added to the Philadelphia Phillies roster for the remainder of the season after tearing up the Class AA Eastern League. Luzinski had 31 homers, 111 runs-batted-in, and a .320 average just before joining the Phillies.

FRITZ PETERSON, who is closing in on a 20-game victory season for the New York Yankees, landed one of his most welcome triumphs when he blanked Minnesota, 6-0. The Twins had beaten the Arlington High product seven straight times and they had taken 11 of 13 decisions against the left-hander before that game. Fritz pitched a three-hitter, facing only 30 batters and striking out four. He delivered only 83 pitches.

UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS football coach Jim Valek reports that former Arlington High All-Stater Steve Allen has quit the team for personal reasons. No other information was available.

Meanwhile, Steve's dad Al Allen, former Arlington football coach, is involved in completing final plans for the $100,000 Robinson Open Golf Tournament, sponsored by Allen's Also Company in Champaign.

Tourney officials have received verbal commitments from such name gellers as Lee Trevino, Julius Boreas, Orville Moody, Tom Weiskopf, Frank Beard, Bobby Nichols and Chi Chi Rodriguez for the Sept. 15-20 event in Robinson, Ill.

They also remain optimistic about landing Arnold Palmer for the field. They met recently with Palmer, his manager and even his pilot to discuss tournament facilities and provisions. But Arnie has made no definite commitment.

Allen's Robinson tourney has an advantage this year: it did not have in past years. There is no big tournament in direct competition with Robinson. There is the Alcan Golfer of the Year championship on the same dates in Dublin, Ireland, but only a select group of winners from the 1970 tour is eligible.

Robinson also has the advantage of being the last big money tournament on the pro tour until the $150,000 Kaiser International on Oct. 22-25 in Napa, Calif.

JACK BASTABLE, a sophomore at the University of Missouri, kicked 7-of-7 conversions Saturday in a Tiger scrimmage — and just missed a 32-yard field goal try.

Bastable, who prepped at Wheeling High, is the team's No. 1 punter and place-kicker. He emerged in spring drills as Missouri's best punting specialist, but a thigh injury curtailed his running and sidelined him for the final game.

Missouri coaches still indicate that Bastable's option-pass talents might dictate a trial at quarterback, but two juniors are currently leading that battle.

TALENTED SOPH Phil Donahue, who dazzled area fans with his passing antics as a Palatine High School standout, is pushing the school record-holder for the starting assignment at Ball State University in Muncie, Ind. Donahue, a 6-2, 175-pounder, and senior Willard Rice of Kokomo, who has rewritten the Ball State record book in the passing department, are waging a spirited battle for that No. 1 spot.

LETTERS DEPARTMENT.

That column last week on the swimming moms and their penchant for publicity for their youngsters brought some interesting letters in the mail.

Some examples:

"I read your article, and I just had to write you personally to say how great I thought it was. I laughed so hard at that paragraph describing the way we swimming mothers walk and squint. Oh, how you hit the nail on the head! You have a refreshing way of getting your message across."

They weren't all that favorable.

"Reading your article this morning makes me wonder. Why did you say such a thing?"

"I only knew of one sportswriter who could write a swimming article as it should be. Most newspapermen don't know the difference between fly or free swimming."

"I sort of thought most of your young men who call themselves sportswriters are usually ones who never played ball, swim or engaged in anything except the 10-finger exercise you got over a typewriter."

Obviously, not everyone has a sense of humor.

You win a few, lose a few.

A LEADING ALL-STATE candidate from the Herald area is rugged Ed Klingberg of St. Viator High School.

Klingberg has been with the varsity Lions since his freshman year.

RETURN OF ALL-LEAGUE quarterback John MacDonald (shown here looking for running room or a pass receiver, makes defending champion Conant a team to watch again in the Mid-Suburban title scramble. MacDonald completed 57 per cent of his passes in league play as a junior, throwing for six touchdowns.

Fooball Coaches Trying To Put It All Together

head coach Len Burt and his assistants seems still to be the formulating of a definite first string from a heavy and energetic turnout.

The Huskie football program drew approximately 275 candidates all told and the varsity and jayvee rosters contain about 50 griders each. "Up until this week we've been shuffling, changing, experimenting," Burt noted, adding, "And only now are we beginning to jell, acquiring timing and teamwork, as the pieces fit slowly into place."

Burt had hoped to field two entirely separate units for offense and defense but is finding that some of his charges are too eager and talented to be kept out of action for very long. All-conference picks Bruce Frase and Tom Brandtner will likely see action both ways, Frase as a fullback-linebacker and Brandtner as a center-linbacker.

Others with two-way potential are halfback Gary Gehr, guard-linebacker Ken Morales and a move-in, 225-pound tackle Kevin Immel.

Another transfer who could help the cause is fullback Marty Epperly, whose family has just moved back into the area from Minnesota.

Prospect

It is the general feeling among Mid Suburban League coaches that Prospect will have to be reckoned with on the gridiron this season. And optimistic Knight head coach Don Williams isn't easing the situation by saying, "I think that we are farther along already than we were at any time last year."

That's quite a statement considering the Knights closed out the 1969 campaign with a string of four victories which included a pair of shutouts!

The fact is, however, that Williams is not venturing that far out on the limb with a "pretty good idea" of his personnel on both the first and second teams, Williams revealed that only a couple of boys would be playing on both offense and defense.

This alignment obviously would cushion the loss of a player to injury and give each unit ample rest during the other's turn on the field.

The competition for starting positions is still stiff though, especially in the defensive secondary. "We're still looking at several people," Williams said. "There may still be one guy that may fit into what we want. He'll have to have the right prerequisites and do different things. We're still undecided."

Knight fans will have a chance to see the varsity and jayvee squads in action Saturday night in a Booster Club sponsored intrasquad scrimmage. The spectacle will begin at 8:30 p.m. with the introduction of coaches inside the field-house.

Arlington

Mixed emotions — that's the situation with Bob Walther, head coach at Arlington.

Although he admits that his charges aren't as polished as he'd like them to be at this stage, he is pleased with the Cardinals' overall progress which he termed "a week ahead of last year."

Besides the usual difficulties of trying to fill graduated positions, Walther's team has been plagued with a fever and sore throat problem, mainly hitting his linemen.

Two other sore spots are at a linebacker position and pass blocking. However, there are a few bright spots for Arlington fans as the Cards prepare for their opener next Friday at home against Maine West.

Several Cardinals have stood out in the early going. They are Mike D'Angelo and Steve Chase who are fighting it out at fullback, halfback Scott Douglass, quarterback Terry Ormsbee and guards Pete Harth and Bob McDonald.

Walther is especially pleased with Ormsbee's maturity as a junior signal caller and the aggressiveness of Harth and McDonald.

Walther said that up and down the line he could hand out praise at the fine job his boys have been doing. Their attitude is tremendous, according to Walther.

Cardinal backers can get their first look at what the 1970 season has to offer tonight when an exhibition game will be played at the Arlington field beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The Coronet Drill Team and the Arlington Pep Band along with the cheerleaders will also be on hand to add color to the proceedings.

Wheeling

"Everyone is working hard and they're beginning to take pride in their work," stated head helmsman Jack Liljeborg of his Wheeling crew during a practice session this week.

Liljeborg reflects confidence as he preps the Wildcats for their opener at Maine South and feels he'll be in better shape to evaluate the team's progress after an intersquad game slated for Saturday evening following a frosh intersquad match at 6 p.m.

"The real evaluation will come after we play Maine South, of course, but I already know we're in better shape than we were last year at this time both from a progress standpoint and by the amount of depth we'll have."

All-conference end Brian Janus has been the most impressive in workouts and his mentor predicts another banner year for him. Mike Groot, who has been tabbed for starting signal-caller chores, has been showing signs of stability too, as has lineman Tom Holzkopf.

A couple of added bright spots in the 'Cat camp have been the return of Joel Olsen to the fold after sitting out last year with an injury and the addition of David Sorge to roster.

Liljeborg rates the 196-pound Olsen "about the quickest we've got" and has plans to use him as a defensive halfback in addition to backing up junior Burt Newman at the tailback slot. Sorge is a 170-pound move-in from California labeled a "good hitter" and also earmarked for defensive halfback duties.

Elk Grove

In the Elk Grove camp, "everything is running according to schedule," according to Grenadier head coach Don Schnake. The Grove is in the process of forgetting about a disastrous 0-7 slate last season and focusing their attention on becoming a formidable opponent in the Mid Suburban League's South division.

As of Wednesday, Schnake was pleased to report that his corps is relatively free of crippling injuries, a factor that can end the dreams of any rebuilding grid squad.

The Grenadiers of 1970 will be far from overpowering. "We're awfully small and young," Schnake said, a disadvantage that may be overcome, however, by speed and quickness.

Asked if there was enough time to develop a starting quarterback and an offensive line to open the holes for lone returning back Al Mitos, Schnake said, "There's never enough time. We just have to practice and make a go of it."

Elk Grove fans will get a preview of all levels of the Grenadier grid teams tonight in what Schnake called "a get-acquainted night."

"It's not designed as an intersquad game, although we will be throwing a few passes," Schnake said. "The purpose is to give them (spectators) a chance to meet the boys and take pictures."

The Elk Grove Booster Club sponsored activities will begin at 7 p.m. under the lights of the varsity football field.

Arlington Midget Grid Reveals 1970 Coaches

The names of coaches for the 16 teams in the Arlington Heights Boys Football program have been announced by Bernie Dabbert, chairman of the football committee.

Dabbert also announced the names of other committee members for the 1970 season, which gets underway with first games on Saturday, Sept. 19.

Junior League coaches and their teams are: Bob Bettis, Bears; Bob Zember, Colts; Paul Heinze, Cards; George O'Brien, Cowboys; Jim Sanders, Falcons; and Art Golberg, Packers.

Coaching in the Varsity League will be: Don Purcell, Eagles; Archie Loch, Saints; Cole Thieleman, Giants; Dick Jankiewicz, Browns; Tony Salis, Vikings; and Bill Perkins, Steelers.

Senior League coaches are: Clyde Gardner and Maurice Loeffel, Rams; Jerry Higgins, Redskins; Al Dreeke, Lions; and Dar Townsend, Fortyniners.

Townsend is also vice-chairman of the football committee and chairman of the rules committee, Dabbert said. League representatives on the rules committee are Bettis, Junior League; Jankiewicz, Varsity League; and Gardner, Senior League.

Other football committee members and their assignments are: Ed Evensen, secretary; Bill Kenning, officials; Bob Anderson, equipment; Larry Thorpe, publicity; and Bruno Waara and Mert Taylor, all-star game.

Taylor is administrator of the Arlington Heights Boys Baseball and Football programs.

Loeffel also acts as advisor to the President of Boys Baseball of Arlington Heights, Inc.

Speedway Holds Final Major Racing Weekend

A 250-mile national championship late model stock car race at Wisconsin State Fair Speedway on Sunday, Sept. 13, headlines the fourth and final major weekend of racing for the summer season in the Milwaukee area. Auto race directors John Kalishian and Tom Marchese expect more than 60 entries to vie for the 40 starting positions.

The big weekend starts Friday night with a full program of USAC midget auto races at the fast one-quarter mile dirt track, the Hales Corners Speedway. A 100-lap feature race headlines the program which gets under way with practice and time trials at 7 p.m. Races start at 8:30 o'clock. Larry Rice of Linden, Ind., winner of the race a year ago, heads an all-star field.

Saturday night, the modified and sportsman stock cars turn to thrill the fans at Hales Corners. More than 140 entries are expected for the two classes of competition, involving 12 competitive events. Time trials are at 7 p.m., races at 8:30.

All three winners of earlier late model races at the fair park are ready for the 250 miler on Sunday. They are Roger McCluskey of Tucson, Ariz.; Don White, Keokuk, Iowa and A.J. Foyt of Houston, Tex., who scored victories in the Miller 200, 150 and 200 milers respectively. White won the race a year ago and set a flock of new records along the way.

Advance ticket sales indicate that the race will be seen by a paid crowd ranging from 23,000 to 26,000. Prize money is expected to exceed $32,000. Grandstand reserved seat tickets on sale for $5.00 and $4.00 each. Reserved bleacher seat tickets on sale for $3.50 each for an adult and $1.50 for a child. Tickets on sale at Wisconsin Auto Racing, Inc., 1200 S. First Street, Milwaukee, Wis. 53204. Time trials start at 12:30 p.m. The race starts at 2 p.m., CDT.

THIS MAY HELP WHEN LOCATING YOUR CAMPFIRE AND SEATING ARRANGEMENTS

At least four of the six contract professionals who will be appearing at McGraw Hall Sept. 17 and 18 in the Marriott All-Star Tennis Classic will make over $100,000 this year from playing professional tennis.

Ageless Pancho Gonzalez and 1970 Wimbledon champion John Newcombe who will be highlighting the two-day tourney with a $10,000 head-to-head match on Sept. 18, rank four and six, respectively, in official earnings so far this year. Prior to the U.S. Open at Forest Hills, Gonzalez had won $82,749 and Newcombe $47,630.

Tom Okker and U.S. Pro Champion Tony Roche, who will be playing on Sept. 17, have won $82,980 and $40,080, respectively, so far this year.

Newcombe says, "Before the year is out, my winnings should come to between $50,000 and $80,000. Then there are the endorsement fees from manufacturers of tennis equipment. Including endorsements, a top player ought to make $110,000 to $130,000 a year." As for endorsements, the number two seed at the U.S. Open Tennis Championships said, "One of the world's top-ranked players should be making $35,000 to $50,000 a year from his racket endorsements. This is about double the figure of two years ago."

Rod Laver, the top tennis player in the world, has already earned $135,803 in official earnings so far this year (prior to Forest Hills). He is so famous, so big, that while other players may endorse one racket, Laver endorses three simultaneously. That's worth about $100,000 this year for Laver. When you add in his other endorsements, Rocket Rod should earn no less than $300,000 this year playing professional tennis.

Professional tennis is coming of age. "In just the last two years tennis has broken away from the cliquish country club set. Now the public is taking it up," says Gladys Heldman, editor and publisher of World Tennis Magazine. She adds, "All of a sudden the big companies are starting to sponsor tournaments, and the equipment makers are shelling out wads of money for endorsements."

This year the French Open and Wimbledon both offered $100,000 in prize money. The U.S. open at Forest Hills is offering $160,000 in total prize money, with $20,000 earmarked for first prize in the men's singles competition.

A chief reason for the growth of pro tennis has been a 1968 agreement for "open tennis" negotiated among the various organizations that control the game. Now the pros can play in many important tournaments that formerly barred them. The prestige of the tournaments — and of the pros — has grown correspondingly. Tennis supporters contend that the game will grow in the 1970's the way professional golf did in the 1960's.

On a local level, this prediction would seem to hold true. Last year, Chicago had its first major professional tennis tournament, the success of which prompted its promoters to being about this year's Marriott All-Star Tennis Classic. And the lure of a $10,000 head-to-head match brought Gonzalez and Newcombe together for their second such competition this year. Gonzalez defeated the younger Newcombe in January of this year in another $10,000 head-to-head match.

In addition to Gonzalez vs. Newcombe, the Friday matches at McGaw feature Northwestern's Marty Riessen playing Tony Roche; and a doubles match pairing Tom Okker and Riessen against Tony Roche and Ismail El Shafel.

On Thursday night, the first night of competition, the action will get under way with singles competition between 1970 Wimbledon champion Margaret Smith Court and Nancy Richey, U.S. number one-ranked woman tennis player. If Mrs. Court manages to win the U.S. Open, in which she is competing, she will be the first woman tennis player to accomplish a grand slam (the championships of Australia, France, Britain and the United States in one year) since the late Maureen Connolly Brinker in 1953.

The next event Thursday night features 1970 U.S. Davis Cup champions Arthur Ashe and Cliff Richey in singles competition. Following this match, Mrs. Court and Ashe will team up against Cliff and Nancy Richey in mixed doubles.

Action starts both nights at 7:15 p.m. Tickets are priced at $6.50 and $3.00 and they are on sale at all Ticketron outlets and Marshall Field and Montgomery Ward stores. Tickets can also be purchased at Northwestern's Dyche Stadium or by mail. Mail orders should be addressed to Marriott All-Star Tennis Classic, Suite 505, 333 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

Scuba Divers Compete In Aqualympics Games

Illinois scuba divers will compete Sept. 20 in the first Aqualympics games, when divers will battle the time clock in a series of underwater contests.

The 1970 Aqualympics will begin at 10 a.m., following a two-hour registration period, at Racine Quarry, Racine, Wis., where depths equal to the height of a seven-story building will allow Illinois diving addicts ample room to solve underwater puzzles, navigate by compass against a time limit, and find their way through an intricate "puzzle cage" wearing full scuba gear.

At least one team event is scheduled, when dive teams from any of the more than 30 clubs and associations of Illinois Council of Skin and Scuba Divers battle on the surface in a tug-of-war.

The Sunday meet is sponsored for Illinois Council by Lake County Divers, chosen Illinois Club-of-the-year in 1969.

"We expect a strong turnout, despite our having to go into another state to find a big deep-water quarry," said Howard Webb, Rockford, Ill., President of Lake County Divers.

"The Blue Whales Club drew 300 observers and 65 divers at an Illinois Council Treasure Hunt in August. We think the Aqualympics will draw more competitive divers, even though two of the stronger clubs are already rated favorites to sweep the club awards competition."

Prizes of diving equipment will go to top scoring divers, and bottom scorers will also get an award. Top ranking club will capture the 1970 Aqualympics trophy.

THE BEST IN Sports

phy, and become first winner of what is planned to be an annual event.

Despite its inland location, Illinois and the Chicago area represent one of the highest concentrations of sport divers in the U.S. The Illinois Council and its member clubs have also earned a national reputation for their aid in underwater recovery work, conservation and pollution control work, and in offering survival training for public agencies in the state.

Anzinger Breezes On Oval

IT'S NOT UNUSUAL. Race driver Tom Jones earns another checkered flag as he cruises around the oval track at Waukegan Speedway after a winning performance.

Bob Anzinger of McHenry breezed home in the 50 lap Labor Day championship race at the Waukegan Speedway Saturday night. Anzinger grabbed the lead at the start of the 6th lap and withstood two periods of yellow flag for the win.

Sunday's scheduled 50 lap late model event was cancelled around noon due to the heavy and continuing rain in the area. The next 50 lap event will be run Saturday night, September 26. Next Sunday night's races will include a 30 lap late model feature and a powder puff derby. A demolition derby and late model races will also be run Sunday afternoon September 20th.

Anzinger's impressive win was the biggest of his career and his first feature on the Waukegan asphalt. The win boosted Anzinger to 5th spot in the point standings just in front of Vern Browne of Waukegan who finished second.

Tom Jones of Northbrook finished in third position by one foot over Ray Young of Dolton as the sparks flew at the finish line. Lee Schuler of Lockport was running third in the final corner when he spun and was clipped by Jones allowing Young to almost take third.

A spectacular crash occurred in the 19th lap involving Jim Cossman of Waukegan and Bob May of Gurnee who were running second and third, respectively. Cossman spun in the third turn, and May, right behind, crashed into Cossman's driver's door and both cars jumped into the steel safety band above the concrete pit wall.

Three other cars spun momentarily at that point with the yellow flag making its first appearance. Cossman and May both pulled their cars off the wall almost immediately with Cossman returning to the race to finish 6th, but May retired with front end troubles and was awarded 17th.

May earlier had set fast time and run second to Young in both the trophy dash and the third and fastest heat race. May had passed Young in the 14th lap of the main and it looked as though he might score his first feature win until the crash.

YOUNG HAD WON five straight main events going into Saturday's program. Young held second spot from the 19th through the 23rd lap before Browne took over. Tom Jones took third away from Young in the 35th lap, but Schuler gained third in the 40th circuit.

In the final five laps there was a lot of contact between Browne, Schuler and Jones who were racing for second money. Schuler's spin in the third turn on the final lap led to the dash between Jones and Young for third spot.

Al Gutche was the only other driver to lead the feature race as he took the advantage from his outside starting berth at the green flag. Anzinger passed Jones in the second lap for second place and he was in the lead at the end of six laps.

The semi-feature race brought quite a crowd response as Rich Oertel of Palatine took the checkered flag after two cars, including leader Rich Davis of Waukegan, had spun off his bumper. Oertel's car was then turned over to Jones who had lost the transmission in a heat race. Jones started the feature according to his point standings.

Following the race there were several protests concerning Jones' car. Several drivers thought Jones should have been black flagged early in the race for throwing gasoline and Cossman contended that spillage led to his accident.

Also other drivers protested that both Cossman and Young passed cars while the race was under the caution flag. Although the race results stand final as posted, promoter Gordon Sill will meet with the drivers next Saturday night concerning this feature.

Young Rules Waukegan Circuit

Ray Young will be the 1970 Waukegan Speedway champion. The Dolton driver clinched his second consecutive title on the Waukegan asphalt with a 4th place finish in the 50 lap Labor Day race held Saturday. Sunday's races were cancelled by the rain.

While Young has the title in hand, Jim Cossman of Waukegan and Bob May of Gurnee still have at least five more programs to decide who will rank second. These two collided and ended up on top of the pit wall in the big race Saturday. Cossman recovered to finish 7th, but May was out after 19 laps and finished last.

Fourth place is still in question as Lee Schuler of Lockport, Bob Anzinger of McHenry and Vern Browne of Waukegan are separated by only 17 points. Anzinger turned in an impressive win over Browne in the 50 lapper with Schuler 6th.

The hobby division also has a close battle with rookie Tom Oliver of Zion holding a 19 point edge over last year's champion, Tom Reuss of Wildwood. Chuck Chadwick of Lake Zurich and Floyd Burdick of Racine now rank 5th and 7th after feature race wins on Friday and Saturday. George Kladis of Chicago won the special 40 lap U.A.R.A. midget race Friday as 41 cars representing five states were on hand.

Enjoyable Days

The most points scored in one game by one player in the National Football League last year was 24, achieved by two men. Ben Hawkins of the Philadelphia Eagles caught four touchdowns passes in a 41-24 victory over Pittsburgh Sept. 28 and Davey Williams of the St. Louis Cardinals did the same in a 51-42 loss to New Orleans Nov. 2.

In one day
we can make your new car last 5 years longer.

This year you bought a car that would save you money. But a car can't save you money until you first save the car. And that's what we're here for.

One day is how long it takes to Ziebart your car. When we're finished we'll give you a written guarantee that your car will be completely rust-proof for 5 years or 50,000 miles. And since it's rust, not mechanical wear, that ruins most cars—your new car will stay new that much longer.

At Ziebart, we get inside the unitized body with patented spray tools. We coat the metal with a special sealant that penetrates every corner, weld, and seam. In a few hours the coating toughens into a permanent, airtight, waterproof, corrosion-proof layer. Your car is absolutely rustproof. And up to 35 percent more soundproof. And squeakproof and rattelproof and dustproof and leakproof. And worth a lot more money when you finally decide to trade it in.

Ziebart. The rustproofing process that's guaranteed for 5 years or 50,000 miles. Wouldn't it be nice to be able to drive your new car that long?

Consider Options Of Insurance

What should you know about life insurance before you buy such a policy?

According to the Illinois State Bar Association, a life insurance policy is a contract between you and the insuring company, and the more you know about its provisions and their legal effect, the better.

Insurance companies offer many "options" governing the pay-out of proceeds, whether these benefits are to be paid to a beneficiary or to you, the policyholder, should you plan to benefit from the cash value of the policy as a reward for many years of premium payments.

Most important, at the time you buy life insurance, decide whether proceeds of the policy someday will be paid out in a lump sum, in regular income payments or a combination of both. Or, you may choose a so-called "settlement option" which permits you to decide later as to how proceeds will be paid. If you don't choose an option, your beneficiary may elect one before the money is paid.

One argument against lump pay-out of life insurance proceeds is that the beneficiary may spend or invest the money unwisely, thus nullifying or jeopardizing the financial security the insurance was intended to provide. For this reason, it is sometimes wise to appoint a trustee to handle the proceeds of a policy in the interest of the beneficiary, especially if the payment is substantial. A trustee, whether a trusted individual such as your lawyer, or a bank, often is used when the beneficiaries are children.

Here, briefly, are the major types of options with which you should be familiar:

INTEREST OPTION: The insurance company holds the proceeds but pays out a guaranteed rate of interest at specified intervals (monthly, quarterly, semi-annually or annually). Interest payments may run for a certain number of years or for life, depending upon the terms of the policy. This option usually permits withdrawals from the principal sum. Thus, it provides a reserve which can be tapped for emergencies or for a child's education.

INSTALLMENT OPTION: Installments are paid from the proceeds of the policy until the principal and accumulated interest are used up. Installments may be paid in equal amounts for a fixed period, or fixed installments may be paid out indefinitely—that is, as long as the principal and interest lasts.

LIFE ANNUITY OPTIONS: The many options in this category are designed to provide a life income for the policyholder, or for a widow, children or other dependents. In selecting a life annuity option in advance, the insurance buyer should be sure the income-payment arrangement will be the one most ideally suited to the needs of his survivors and that they will not be deprived of needed funds because the money is "tied up in the insurance policy."

OTHER OPTIONS: A policyholder or a beneficiary may wish to inquire into the availability of other options which are not specified in the policy. Some companies are currently offering other settlement options which are more suited to the beneficiary's or policyholder's needs and although not specified in older policies, could still be made available upon request.

Taxpayers Ask The IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) What should you do if you get a bill for taxes you've already paid?

A) If you have paid the tax recently you can disregard the notice. It was probably issued before the payment had been credited to your account.

However, if the payment was made more than four weeks ago return the notice, indicating when the payment was made and where it was sent.

Q) If you have a cancelled check for the payment also indicate any numbers stamped on the check by IRS. This will help trace the payment.

Q) Is it true that stock market losses are only partially deductible under the new tax law?

A) The new law does make changes in the handling of long-term capital losses. These losses can still be used to offset capital gains, but when long-term capital losses are greater than capital gains, each $1 of the loss can be used to offset only 50¢ of ordinary income.

Short-term capital losses continue to offset ordinary income dollar for dollar.

Q) I work two jobs and both employers are taking out Social Security. Can I do anything about it?

A) The law requires each employer to withhold Social Security tax on the first $7,800 of an employee's wages. If more than the maximum of $374.40 is withheld for Social Security tax in 1970 because you had more than one employer, you can claim a credit of the excess on your 1970 income tax return.

Q) I do a lot of traveling on my new job. What kind of records should I keep on my food and lodging costs?

A) A cancelled check together with a bill stamped paid can be used to establish the amount of your lodging and the date. A diary or similar record of your meal costs is acceptable if entries are made when the costs are incurred.

Rules on travel expenses are detailed in Publication 463, Travel, Entertainment and Gift Expenses. For a free copy write your District Director.

Q) Can a self-employed individual set up his own retirement plan?

A) Yes, if you are in business for yourself you may deduct your contributions to a self-employed retirement plan, provided that the contributions are based on earned income. Your business can be either full or part-time.

For details, send a post card to your District Director and ask for a copy of Publication 506, Questions and Answers on Retirement Plans for the Self-Employed. It's free.

Q) There have been some changes in my tax situation since I filled out my estimated return in April. Can I change it now?

A) Yes, recompute your estimated tax on the work-sheet included in your 1040 ES package before you make your third installment payment in September. The amended tax figure and the new payment amount should be shown on the voucher you send in with your payment.

Food Service Limited

Food service will be limited during the first week of classes at Schaumburg High School, according to Carl Weimer who serves as principal at Dist. 211's newest building.

Weimer said Thursday that installation of cooking and refrigeration equipment will not have been entirely completed when school starts Monday.

"We will be able to serve simple fare but a regular Class A hot meal will not be available until all equipment is in and operational which should be within the first week," he explained.

DOORS OF THE $4.5 million building, which has been constructed with interest free funds provided by the Illinois School Building Commission, will open to over 1,200 Schaumburg teen-agers Monday morning.

Although other Dist. 211 schools began classes Aug. 31 Schaumburg's official opening was delayed to Sept. 14 in order to house the student body in the new building.

Athletics practice has been held at Conant High School for the past two weeks and Weimer anticipates completion of football fields and track areas within about one month.

Landscaping and other exterior work is also scheduled for completion this fall although parking lots and driveways have been paved since late August.

Committee Proposes Several Teen Centers

by DON BRANNAN

The need for more than one facility in the Schaumburg Township area to serve as a gathering place for local teens was stressed at an Ad Hoc Committee meeting of government and organization representatives Wednesday in the township office, 105 S. Roselle Rd.

The meeting was requested by the Schaumburg Township Committee on Youth in order to discuss the needs and wants of area teens.

Because of the number of young people in the township, in Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, and Hanover Park, the consensus of the discussion Wednesday was that one "teen center" would not be able to serve all teens.

However, the representatives at the meeting agreed that "the teens want a place to call their own."

TRUSTEE MRS. Virginia Hayter of Hoffman Estates pointed out that there was a lack of physical space in schools and churches available for teen use, since they are already being used for other programs.

Russell Anslow, youth worker for the Committee on Youth in Schaumburg Township, was elected acting chairman of the Ad Hoc Committee Wednesday, and additional information concerning teen facilities will be compiled by him and other committee members. Another meeting has been scheduled at 8 p.m. Oct. 1 in the township office.

Attending Wednesday's meeting were village trustees of Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg; and representatives of the township committee on youth, the township board, the Hoffman Estates Park District, and the Twinbrook YMCA.

One suggestion proposed at the Wednesday meeting was that a temporary teen center — a metal frame structure could be possibly built on the Twinbrook YMCA site on Wise Road, east of Robert Frost Junior High, until the "Y" is ready to build a building. The cost of such a building was estimated at about $25,000.

THE CONSENSUS at Wednesday's meeting was that any "teen center" must be supervised with unorganized organization, with as few adults involved as possible.

"The teens want a place to get away from their parents for a while," commented Mrs. Anne Schuerings, acting park director in Hoffman Estates.

Mrs. Schuerings added that "many teens don't want anything as pretentious for a teen center that we adults want to give them."

"A teen center is not a panacea for all teen problems," stressed Jack Larsen Schaumburg Village trustee.

"We ought to be able to find a barn or an old house that could be used for a teen gathering place," said John Karstrom, a member of the Committee on Youth in the township.

"THERE'S A DEFINITE need for a place for teens, but I think it will take a long-range program to fill that need," declared Gordon Mullins, who also serves on Schaumburg's village board.

Participants in the Ad Hoc Committee surveying teen needs will do further investigation regarding facilities that could be used for teens before the Oct. 1 meeting.

On Duty In Scotland

Minister's Trade Parishes

by MARY HUTCHINGS

The Reverend Tom Truscott returned home from Glasgow, Scotland last week to his Hoffman Estates Church of the Cross with a new baby girl and a "wider scope of life."

His second daughter was born in July while he and his wife were exchanging jobs with The Rev. Ian Robertson of Glasgow, who spent the summer months as pastor of the area's United Presbyterian parish.

Truscott began plans for the four-month exchange over a year ago, through an advertisement in a London church newsletter. Robertson's was the only response to his ad, but the Truscotts found that life nine hours away by air was significantly different from their own suburban living.

As the two families exchanged manse, salary and car, the Truscotts found it more difficult to live by American standards in Scotland. "We wanted to exchange full salaries, however, because we thought we ought to do it in the way they live, not as glorified American tourists," Truscott said.

The Americans discovered that food was more expensive, and it was common for a lot of families to substitute eggs, starch and fish for meat.

TRUSCOTT FULFILLED the responsibilities of pastor of an old, urban church, where he learned that the Scottish people expect their minister to be much more of a scholar in contrast to Americans who expect their minister to be more practical.

The young American churchman hit the headlines in the Scottish Sunday Express after he delivered a sermon denouncing a children's march conducted by the conservative Protestant group Orange Lodge. The parade was in honor of William of Orange, known as King Billy, who defeated the Catholics in a battle of the 1800's.

Thousands of youngsters were "being taught to hate" according to Truscott, who saw the parade as a drunken brawl done in the name of Protestantism.

Following a sermon urging the people not to tolerate such displays, by either Protestants or Catholics, he received the endorsement of the session of the church when an elder presented the text of his remarks to the national newspaper.

THE SCOTCH church, is "sadly lacking in youth — people under 35. Although the church of Scotland is cognizant of the fact it is losing its young people by the thousands, it can't come up with any solutions to stem the tide," said Truscott.

Young people he met were interested in America, but not anxious to migrate, he reports. "They didn't look to America as the giver of all good things," Truscott said.

He found that young people in Scotland didn't have a cause, and in general the people were much less rushed than Americans. "They have a remarkable ability to take things as they come," he said, adding, "I moved so much faster than what they were used to."

The people throughout the country were genuinely kind and friendly, though misinformed about American life, according to the visitor.

"THEY MISS A LOT of what is going on here," Truscott said. "The British Press is very sensational, and that's all they hear from America." Interest in America runs high, though a group of elders at a wealthy suburban church where he did some guest preaching expressed to turn their concern about the "unsettled" aspects of American life. They exhibited a "who needs it?" attitude toward American values and mores, including some of the country's exports — especially the movies.

Truscott's only reply to them was to assure the Scots of America's awareness of its problems, and its attempts to solve them.

The exchange was "a good change of pace" for the minister, who would like to repeat the experience in another part of the world.

The trip raised some questions for the minister. He now wonders about the pace of American life. "Where are we running to?" he asks. "Having to cover so much ground, we miss much of the landscape of life."

REV. THOMAS TRUSCOTT

Conant Students March For Light Funds

Conant High School students will march through the township tomorrow starting at 8 a.m. to raise money to pay for lights at the school's football field. The light walk by students is sponsored by the Conant Cougar Booster Club.

The Conant Cougars open their football season on Sept. 19 against Lake Park High School on the Conant field.

The Conant Cougar Booster Club is attempting to raise $40,000 to pay for the football field lights and installation. Approximately $20,000 has been raised so far.

Jack Magnuson, past president of the Conant Cougar Booster Club, is serving as coordinator of fund-raising projects for lights at three high schools in Dist. 211 — Conant, Fremd, and Palatine.

CONANT'S FOOTBALL lights are to be ready for use by the end of September.

Conant students can walk either four, six, or nine miles tomorrow morning on the Light Walk. All routes will begin at Conant High School on East Thacker Street in Hoffman Estates.

Sponsored by friends, relatives, parents, and merchants, the students on the march will be paid for each mile walked with a pledged amount. There is no limit to the amount of money that a student can raise per mile.

ACCORDING TO Paul Cary, Conant's student activities director, no student will be permitted to walk over 20 miles tomorrow.

The walking students will start and finish at Conant High School tomorrow, completing one or more of the three routes covering four, six, and nine miles during the day.

All of the students will march south from the high school along Plum Grove Road and then west on Schaumburg Road. The four mile route will turn north at Roselle Road and walk to Arizona Boulevard, with a warming stop at the Schaumburg Transportation Company's garage on Roselle Road.

AT ARIZONA Boulevard, the four-mile group will proceed east to Ashland Street, south to Thacker Street, and back to Conant.

The six-mile group of marchers will continue on Schaumburg Road to Washington Blvd., walk north on Washington, to Pleasant Drive, west on Pleasant, and north on Westview and Western streets in Hoffman Estates to the warming house at Pinger Park. These students will then continue east and north to Flagstaff Lane, walking east across Roselle Road to Arizona Blvd., and returning to the school by the same route as the four mile group.

The nine mile group will proceed on Schaumburg Road to Springguth Road and then walk north. These students will follow Springguth to Bode Road and then walk west to Western, south to Flagstaff, and return to Conant on the same route as the other students.

Strong Winds Damage Wall

Strong winds in the Streamwood area Wednesday night toppled nearly 200 feet of wall at the 48 Industrial Park, 1547 E. Brandy Pkwy. Damage was estimated in the thousands of dollars by the company.

Hanover Park police reported they had not had any damage reports although gusty winds were prevalent.

In Hoffman Estates, Daniel Larson Administrative Assistant said he had received any reports of flooding problems in the village Wednesday night.

Four public works employees in Schaumburg were on the job Wednesday night to take care of any flooding problems, according to Mrs. Marge Medico at the Schaumburg Village Hall.

'Little Done' About Flood Problems

by MARY REIFSCHNEIDER

Very little has been accomplished by Hanover Park officials to alleviate flooding causes, Mrs. Jan Smith, flood committee chairman, charged Wednesday.

"What has the village board done to help with the flooding problem. We think nothing. The recommendations of this committee were not even ready at the last board meeting," Mrs. Smith said to Mayor Richard Baker.

Sunday's five-inch rain brought more problems than usual to the village. Mrs. Smith predicted the problems will increase because the village is allowing 3-H Builders to construct more homes while nothing is being done about the west branch of the DuPage river.

That small waterway is unable to handle the storm water drainage during rains.

BAKER SAID THAT during the 18 months he has been in office significant steps have been taken to stop the flooding.

He said the biggest problem now is getting the creek straightened and dredged in the Fischer Farm. The village is trying to prevent the Metropolitan Sanitary District from buying the 300-acre farm to use for oxidation ponds.

The flood committee met last month with Richard Lanyon, MSD supervising engineer of flood control. In an MSD memo, Lanyon said the village has not filed suit to intervene or oppose the MSD project of the Fischer Farm.

"I don't care what the MSD tells you. We're in court. Our injunction is to prevent oxidation ponds on the Fischer Farm," Baker said.

Baker said the village has been contacting Floyd Pulte of the Cook County board of commissioners, state representatives and state Sen. John Graham for help.

He said another meeting will take place shortly with the MSD. If no progress comes during that meeting, he wants Hanover Park residents to go en masse to MSD meetings.

VILLAGE ENGINEER Larry Grindel suggested residents start taking their fight for funds to Springfield.

Mrs. Smith said 3-H Builders does not have a unit of homes that doesn't have "a severe flood problem. What good is a 20,000 acre town that floods?"

Trustee David Hugh said building permits for 3-H should be stopped until something is done about the creek.

"I hope what we've said tonight opens some eyes," Mrs. Smith said.

Says Referendum Will Not Increase Taxes

This is the first of six stories dealing with the coming referendum for construction of two new schools in High School Dist. 211. A story will appear every day next week preceding the Sept. 19 referendum.

Why won't the Sept. 19 building referendum in High School Dist. 211 raise the tax rate in Palatine and Schaumburg Townships?

This was only one of the questions Dist. 211 officials answered at a press conference held yesterday at the administrative center.

Richard Kolze, superintendent; John O'Dell, assistant superintendent, and William Fremd, board member, were on hand to field the questions from reporters representing several area newspapers.

Why won't the tax rate be hiked? Because, Kolze said, an increase in assessed valuation (which is currently $303,000,000 and is growing at about $40,000,000 per year) will accordingly increase the district's bonding power, which cannot exceed five per cent of the total assessed valuation according to state law.

WHAT THIS means, however, is that the Dist. 211 residents will simply continue to pay approximately the current rate of $2.70 per $100 assessed valuation over a longer period of time, he said.

What is the referendum for and why? Kolze said voters will be asked to approve the construction of two more high schools, additions to two currently owned school sites, and an 8,000 square-foot addition to the existing administrative building on Roselle Road.

The added facilities are needed, he said, to keep pace with the present enrollment trends by providing facilities for the average increase in enrollment per year of 1,000 students.

In other words, the district's four high schools will be filled to capacity by 1973, when the total enrollment is expected to reach 10,000. The current enrollment is 7,340. Thus, the first building will be ready for occupancy by the fall of 1973, with the next school to be opened in the fall of 1974.

THE ADDITION to the administrative center is needed to house the added personnel which the increased enrollment will demand.

And the need for additions to the two land sites, one in Schaumburg Township, the other in Palatine Township, is based upon the recommendation of the Illinois School Administrators Association.

This group recommends that a school site for a building of a 2,500 capacity be approximately 60 acres. The district will ask that two 20 acre additions be added to two 40 acre sites to meet this recommendation.

What happens if the referendum fails?

First, Kolze said, the issue will be put to the people a second time for approval. If it continues to fail passage, the district's building schedule will be set back and overcrowded conditions and double shifting will result.

And when will the next referendum be held? John O'Dell said that if the Sept. 19 bond issue is successful it should enable the district to provide adequate educational facilities until 1978. Thus, allowing for a two year construction period the next referendum will be held no sooner than 1976.

Flooding Relief Promised

"We'll do all we can," Mayor Robert O. Atcher assured a group of Schaumburg residents whose homes have been plagued with flooding problems.

About 20 residents living in the vicinity of Cabot and Brewster Lanes attended Tuesday's board meeting to urge the village to take immediate action.

Sunday's five inch rain brought 17 inches of sewage to one home. The resident said he lost a washing machine, dryer, motor on a furnace, furniture and other miscellaneous items as a result.

He added that later in the evening the washing machine caught fire "and I nearly lost my family."

"We have to do something tomorrow. We can't wait any longer," he said to trustees.

THE VILLAGE HAS been working on the flooding problem at Cabot and Brewster. National Powerrodding made a television survey of the problem, but the results will not be given to the village until the end of this week, Public Works Director Edwin Denman said.

Part of the flooding problem is caused by illegal sump pump connections which are draining into the sanitary sewer lines.

Atcher said Sunday's rain caused more flooding problems than usual because it was five inches. He said the huge Wise Road sewer line interceptor was running full.

He said much of the blame can be put on the Metropolitan Sanitary District which hasn't expanded the Hanover Park sewage treatment plant from 2 million to six million gallon capacity a day.

"WE'RE IN A HELPLESS position until the MSD moves. I wish we could prevent the damage bills to the MSD," Atcher said.

Residents said even a one-inch rain causes street flooding. Sanitary as well as storm sewer lines spill over into the streets.

Trustees approved a motion for the public works department to have equipment ready to start work Monday on correcting problems in the lines. They authorized an emergency fund of $2,500 and asked the mayor to attend any other problems.

The village is also purchasing a four-inch pump that has a 300 gallon an hour capacity at cost of $1,226 and a two-inch pump that will cost about $300.

Teens Honored For Volunteer Service

Over 1,800 hours of volunteer work was put in this summer by eight Schaumburg Township teens servicing Northwest Community Hospital.

Lynne Rowan of Hoffman Estates leads the local teens in time volunteered. She put in 570 hours over the summer.

Debbie Shock of Schaumburg gave 200 hours of volunteer work. Other volunteers, all from Hoffman Estates, include Debbie Callen, 204 hours; Connie Dolan, 214 hours; Gail MacEachron, 223 hours; Kathy McCormack, 83 hours; Echo Tanhouser, 190 hours; and Mike Van Aken, 136 hours.

The teens will be recognized at a luncheon tomorrow at Northwest Community Hospital where they will receive Teen-Volunteer Awards.

Trash Pickups: Only One Now

Hoffman Estates residents are advised that twice a week garbage pick up has ended effective Aug. 31.

Some residents reportedly have been placing cans in front of their home for second pick-ups during September.

Village officials will put out bids for a new garbage pick up contract by Oct. 1, it was decided this week.

The contract for service under the new terms will be effective Jan. 1, and will include pick ups to apartments not served in the past through the village contract with Barrington Trucking.

A meeting will be held in the near future to work out specifications for bids with village officials, apartment owners and interested scavenger service companies.

Park, Pool Are Promised

Hanover Park residents will gain a community swimming pool and three acre park if J. R. Willens receives rezoning on a 19-acre parcel to build townhouses.

The property, now zoned single family, is bounded by Poplar, Sycamore, West Ave. and Streamwood.

Michael Gilitz, attorney for Willens and Builder Supply told the Zoning Board of Appeals Wednesday that there would be 81 two-bedroom units and 163 three-bedroom units.

The public swimming pool and park site total about six acres. It would be the second public pool in the village.

The townhouse project will have 50 per cent green or open space. Buildings will occupy 16 per cent of the land. Access to the project would be from West Avenue, Chestnut and Poplar.

Single family homeowners from the area attended the meeting to find out what will happen to other vacant land in the same vicinity.

Willens told them the land between Chestnut and Hemlock will be single family. He said if he does not build it as single family, he would be willing to donate to the village as a park site.

The developer also has plans for apartments, including a 13-story building, in the same area.

Zoning board Chairman Jack Magnuson asked that no action be taken on the townhouse proposal until the board sees plans for the apartments. The hearing was continued to Oct. 14.

Earlier in the evening the zoning board recommended approval for Larwin-Illinois Inc. to swap land usage for a 36-acre parcel from single family to multiple and a 40-acre parcel from multiple to single family.

Queen Contest Deadline Is Set

Deadline for entries in the Boys Club Homecoming Queen Pageant is Monday, Sept. 14, according to a spokesman for Hoffman Estates Jaycee Wives, sponsors of the event this year.

Requirements for participation in the contest stipulate that entrants must be between the ages of 11 and 13 years of age and attend Dist. 54 schools.

The pageant will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 26 at Golf-Rose Shopping Center. Entertainment will be provided by "White Flash" a local five-piece combo.

Judges include Genie Campbell, fashion editor of The Herald, as well as a member of Conant High School's guidance staff and a representative of Patricia Stevens Modeling Schools.

FIRST PRIZE is a $25 savings bond and other awards include hairstyling at Chez de Nour, five prizes donated by Paddock Restaurant and other donations by Jewel Tea Co.

Flowers for the pageant will be provided by Brass and Glass.

The queen and her court of four girls will be guests of honor at the Oct. 3 homecoming game and the group will also ride in the parade prior to the football game.

Each contestant will be interviewed by a panel of judges who will base their selection of queen on the personality and poise displayed by each entrant.

Contestants will be required to attend a "Get-Acquainted" party at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 15 at the Boys-Club Barn. Parents are asked to attend the party with their daughters and girls must present birth certificates at that time.

The preliminary contest will take place at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 22 at the barn. Questionnaires, which have been available at Dist. 54 schools, must be completed and sent to Mrs. Sue Ann Smith, 157 Aberdeen St., Hoffman Estates.

Drug Program Is Tomorrow

An all day program on how to combat drug abuse will be held tomorrow featuring Sen. Ralph Smith and Mitchell Ware, Illinois Bureau of Investigation superintendent.

The program begins at 9 a.m. at Conant High School, in Hoffman Estates and runs until 5 p.m. It is being sponsored by the Schaumburg Jaycees and High School Dist. 211.

Representatives from area organizations are to attend the program as the step off point for an all out campaign against drug abuse in the northwest suburbs.

Fraud Office's Ear Bent To 30

by JUDY MEHL

Close to 30 people have registered complaints with the Elk Grove Village branch of the consumer fraud bureau since it opened last month. And 12 of these people have had their problems solved.

The branch opened Aug. 15 in the village office behind the police station at 606 Landmeier Rd. It is under the direction of the Illinois Attorney General's Bureau of Consumer Fraud and Protection.

Some complaints which were settled involved delivery of slipcovers that were long overdue and carpeting which was cut the wrong way.

Approximately 12 cases have been settled locally with about 12 others sent to the Chicago office for processing, Tom King, head of the volunteers manning the office, said.

EACH SATURDAY several of the volunteers open up the conference room from 9 a.m. to noon to receive complaints from people in the Elk Grove Village area. Other local offices are located in Niles and Schaumburg.

People may walk in to fill out their complaint forms or ask questions and be confronted with a gracious smile and a desire to help from either a college student, housewife or a retired special agent for Naval Intelligence.

King, the retired special agent, has been aided by Mrs. Jeanne Seidlin, Mrs. Pat Peacock and Miss Kirsten Reeder. Two new volunteers have joined the forces. They are Mrs. Kay Lycette and Mrs. June Cronin.

All have volunteered because they believe too many people have been taken by unscrupulous businessmen or lose money because they are afraid to return to a company with complaints.

"We had to tell several people that we could do nothing and they should hire an attorney," he said.

"IF YOU'VE ALREADY accepted the merchandise after signing a contract or you buy a house and live in it a year and then complain that it's falling apart, we can't handle it," King said. "If it's fraud, we can handle it. Sometimes things can be straightened out by a phone call.

"When you come right down to it consumer fraud agencies can become a nuisance to companies and they are willing to go along with us rather than just an individual. When dealing with state or federal agencies they are a little more cautious. They don't want it to get around that such and such a company was a lousy one to do business with," King said.

ALTHOUGH THE office is located in Elk Grove Village, most of the people using it are from the surrounding communities. Only three people from Elk Grove have registered complaints according to King, while most of the others were from Itasca, Bensenville, Palatine and Mount Prospect.

Their complaints have been about clothes that didn't fit right or cheap jewelry or the stretch from industry, King said, naming Chicago Magnet Wire in Elk Grove Village as the industry one resident complained was a polluter.

"She bought the property with the understanding there was no pollution and then found there was. Too bad she bought the property without smelling we can't do anything about that," King said.

To Meet At YMCA

A Junior Leaders Club is being planned for the Elgin YMCA.

First meeting for the group will be at 3:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 18.

Junior Leaders provide volunteer service and help conduct program for younger members of the YMCA, said Howard Shaffer, YMCA youth program director.

Club members will make most of the decisions as to what they want their club to be and what goals they set for the club, Shaffer added.

For more information, contact the Elgin YMCA, 695-1100.

YMCA Schedules Fall Yoga Class

Six separate yoga classes to accommodate men, women and girls with varying degrees of skill, will be offered by the YMCA this fall, according to Carol Kubiak, health, physical education and recreation program director. All yoga classes will be taught by Mrs. Albert Stewart.

A yoga class for junior and senior high school girls will meet on Thursday from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. for eight weeks beginning Sept. 17. No previous experience is necessary for enrollment.

A women's beginner yoga class, which will meet on Tuesday from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. will include instruction in basic positions and proper breathing techniques. A women's intermediate yoga class will be held Tuesday from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. for those who have completed one or more previous sessions of instructions. Emphasis will be placed on learning the more difficult positions.

Advanced yoga for women who have had two or more previous sessions of instruction will be offered from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. on Tuesday. All three of these yoga classes, which will meet for eight weeks, beginning on Tuesday, Sept. 15.

Two adult yoga classes open to both men and women will meet on Thursday for eight weeks beginning Sept. 17. The

Boys' Judo Class Begins Sept. 17

Judo class for boys eight through 15 years of age will begin at the Elgin YMCA, 111 N. Channing St., Sept. 17 (Thursday). It will meet from 6:30 until 7:45 p.m. for 10 weeks.

Students will learn the basic fall and throws of judo, said James Klever, YMCA adult physical director, plus develop self confidence, poise, agility and a higher level of physical fitness.

Jack Turner, a native of England and holder of a first-degree black belt, will be starting his third year as judo instructor at the Elgin YMCA, 111 N. Channing St.

YMCA membership is not required for enrollment, but members may enroll at a reduced rate, Klever said.

For registration information, contact the Elgin YMCA, 695-1100.

Elgin Y Plans Guitar Classes

Beginning guitar classes for youth and adults will begin at the Elgin YMCA Thursday, Sept. 17, reports Howard Shaffer, YMCA youth program director.

They will meet each Thursday for eight weeks, ending, Nov. 5.

Students will learn the basic chords and how to play a few songs, Shaffer said, and learn whether they have an interest in guitar and how to best use the instrument.

The class for third through ninth-grade students will meet at 4 p.m., the class for seventh through ninth-grade students will meet at 5 p.m.; the adult class will meet at 7 p.m.

Enrollment is open to boys and girls and men and women. YMCA membership is not required for enrollment, but members may enroll at a reduced fee, Shaffer said.

Con Son Discussion Set

U. S. Rep. William Anderson, D-Tenn., will visit the 13th Congressional District today "to discuss Rep. Philip Crane's attempt to whitewash the Con Son prison report."

Anderson, one of two congressmen who visited the Con Son prison in Vietnam to report conditions there were inhumane, will hold a press conference in Glenview at 4 p.m. and also will speak at the Palatine Township Democratic Organization's dinner-dance at Rolling Green Country Club in Arlington Heights.

Following his visit, Crane, R-13th, also visited the prison and said reports of conditions there were "grossly exaggerated."

Anderson's visit was arranged by State Rep. Edward A. Warman, D-Skokie, who is challenging Crane for the 13th District seat in Congress in November. Crane beat Warman in last year's special Congressional election by 20,000 votes.

ANDERSON AND U. S. Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., were members of a congressional committee which visited South Vietnam, and one of the committee staff members who sold a story and pictures of the prison to Life magazine. The story told of mistreatment, malnutrition and generally unhealthy conditions there, and criticized the United States for supporting a government which allowed the conditions to exist.

Crane said he found none of the conditions described in the Life magazine articles and pictures and said conditions at Con Son were better than conditions in some Vietnamese homes, and also were better than conditions in many American prisons.

He accused Hawkins and his staff members of being "blind or deliberately misrepresenting what they found there." Crane's statements prompted a strong rebuttal on the floor of the House of Representatives by several congressmen who defended Hawkins and Anderson.

ANDERSON HAS BEEN a congressman since 1964. Prior to that, he was a Navy officer and commander of the atomic submarine Nautilus when it made its historic cruise under the North Pole.

Anderson will be joined at the Palatine Democrats' dinner tonight by Adlai E. Stevenson III, Democratic candidate for United States Senator.

Real Estate News & Views

YOU DON'T SELL A HOME -
YOU NEGOTIATE THE SALE

It is not always the case that a Real Estate Broker will sell a home for the exact listing price with no complications on mortgage or terms.

Often, there is necessary add-and-subtract between the buyer and the Real Estate Broker as the Real Estate Broker attempts to secure as fair a purchase as he can for the buyer while the interests of the owner are not compromised.

One of the greatest faults of home owners attempting to sell their own homes is inflexibility. Stating a price and terms and then stubbornly sticking to them regardless of the buyer's wants may seem to be a way of saving a lot of negotiating talk; however, it is also a way of losing many a buyer who would otherwise have been happy to purchase the property.

Perhaps the buyer's main concern is the down payment, or perhaps the arrangement of a completely new mortgage by the Real Estate Broker is necessary to resolve the deadlock. Sometimes the inclusion of extras such as drapes or air conditioning will create a solution beneficial to both parties.

An experienced Real Estate Broker is an expert in the give-and-take of property negotiation — a specialty that emphatically requires one;

Woman Escapes Armed Kidnapper

by TOM JACHIMIEC
Elk Grove Village and Chicago police yesterday were continuing an investigation into the kidnapping of an Illinois Institute of Technology professor Wednesday evening.

The professor, Miss Audrey Companion, 38, of Chicago, told police she was forced at gunpoint by a man to drive away in her car from a parking lot on Chicago's Southwest side.

She escaped her abductor when the car went out of control during a struggle at Tonne Road and Devon Avenue near Elk Grove Village.

THE CAR WENT into a gully near Hank's Service Station where Miss Companion leaped out of the car and ran for help. Her abductor then got behind the wheel and drove off.

"He hadn't really pulled out of drive and this woman came running up shouting for someone to call police," said Hank Sobieski, service station operator.

"There he was holding a gun in his left hand," he said. "I never did get to look at his face."

The man apparently left the car in the parking lot at St. Alexius Hospital, at Busner and Biesterfeld roads.

Police found the 1970 Cougar there later with its lights turned on.

The police combed the area searching for the blond-haired man, a white, about 30, five feet five inches tall, and dressed in a yellow shirt and dark pants.

"We knocked on doors in the area for about one hour after dark," said Det. Robert Salvatore, "but didn't find anything."

"HE EITHER HITCHHIKED or stole another car," he added.

Miss Companion, a professor of physics and chemistry at the university, was treated at the hospital for bruises on her legs sustained when she jumped from the car.

She told police the man approached her in the parking lot of a food store at 6649 W. Archer Ave. about 5:30 p.m. as she was attempting to open her car while carrying two bags of groceries.

She told police he jabbed a gun in her side and that he wanted a ride to Brookfield. Later, he changed his mind, she said, and decided to go to Elgin.

After driving around for about an hour he threatened to tie her up, she told police, and when they began to struggle she escaped.

Flood Relief Seen For Woodlawn Street

Hoffman Estates residents living on Woodlawn Street, Flagstaff Lane, and Washington Boulevard who are served by the Woodlawn sewer can expect relief of flooding problems in the near future.

A telescanning device, used by sending a television camera through sewers will be implemented to detect problem areas in the sewer line.

The sewer is supposed to be at capacity because of tie-ins from the Vavrus apartments on Bode Road. To alleviate overloading the line, the village board this week stopped any additional occupancy permits from being issued until the sewer problem is solved.

New Zoning Law Planned

A new zoning ordinance for Hoffman Estates will be written by Tee-Search, the village planning firm; Daniel Larson, administrative assistant in Hoffman Estates, and Village Atty Edward Hofert said Tuesday night.

First phase of the rewrite project will be done to more clearly define the village's industrial areas.

It is expected to be ready for a Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) public hearing in three months. The overall ordinance to include all residential and commercial districts should be completed in 1 1/2 years, Larson said yesterday.

The project is worth the time and money to be spent because of the lack of clarity and poor references in the current ordinance, Larson added.

The existing ordinance needs codification and much of the "double talk" has to be eliminated, he added.

"References of the ordinance for many areas is ambiguous. At this point it is difficult to administer and defend," Larson said.

Public hearings before the ZBA will be held for all aspects of the new ordinance. All pre-annexation agreements the village has with developers will be considered in the re-write, he added.

The project is to get underway in the immediate future.

'Healthful' Trade Made

A new health officer and a board of health member have been appointed in Hoffman Estates.

The new health officer is Rubin Weiner who will oversee the administration of health services and inspections in the village. He will be paid $50 a month. He is formerly a board of health member.

Mrs. Geraldine Degulone, former health officer, has been appointed to replace Weiner on the Board of Health. She resigned her position as health officer effective Sept. 5 to accept a full time nursing position at Schaumburg High School.

During her tenure Mrs. Degulone made all health inspections and did administrative work for the Hoffman Estates' health services.

To make inspections in the village, Environmental Health Sanitarians, Inc. (EHS) has been hired at a rate of $7,000 annually.

EHS will work in the village three days a week checking in and out with Daniel Larson, administrative assistant.

Weiner will keep account of inspections that need to be made and he'll keep records of inspections results.

YMCA Announces Women's Swimming

Women who want to learn to swim may enroll in a beginning swimming class at the Elgin YMCA, 111 N. Channing St.

The seven-week class will begin Monday and continue for seven Monday nights, said James Klever, YMCA adult physical director.

Enrollment is open to persons 15 years of age and older, Klever said.

"Instruction will include rotary breathing, proper arm stroke and kick, treading water and the class will help beginning swimmers build endurance and overcome any fear of water they might have," Klever said.

Maximum enrollment in the class will be 30 swimmers. YMCA membership is not required for enrollment, Klever said, but YMCA members may enroll at a reduced fee.

For registration information, contact the Elgin YMCA, 696-1100.

Youth Classes Set At 'Y'

"It is easy to say that young people should learn to overcome self-consciousness and express themselves effectively — helping them to do it is another matter," said Marlys Kvasager, YW youth program director.

Many adults have not mastered this skill. The first step in developing a program to enable boys and girls ages 8 to 14 to develop confidence and also learn the principals of drama, was to find a teacher who related well to this age group, said Miss Kvasager. Our choice, Fred Brehm, is a school teacher and was one of the most popular counselors at the YM-YW summer day camp.

Students will use readings and monologues to learn the use of gesture, projection, and audience effect. They will also gain dramatic experience by producing and acting in a play. The co-ed drama class will be on Saturday from 10 to 11 p.m. for eight weeks beginning Sept. 19.

ANOTHER YW youth class designed to encourage creative self-expression is the children's art workshop conducted by Barbara Curtis Learning and fun are combined when working with a variety of art media. Students learn the importance of texture, line, color and design.

Classes are held on Saturday. Children in grades 1-3 will attend from 9 to 10 a.m. and in grades 4-6 from 10:15 to 11:15 a.m. Art workshop classes will meet for eight weeks beginning Sept. 19.

A beginning course in French for boys and girls in grades 2-6 will be offered on Thursdays from 4 to 5 p.m. Vocabulary building exercises with emphasis on pronunciation will be included in the course taught by Julie Mack. Classes will meet for eight weeks beginning September 17.

Registrations are now being accepted for these classes which have limited enrollment. For further information, call the YW, 742-7930.

Two Chiefs Urge Traffic Study Here

Traffic through Wheeling and Buffalo Grove is increasing steadily. And two village police chiefs, M.O. Horcher of Wheeling and Harold Smith of Buffalo Grove, see the need for traffic surveys in both towns.

In Buffalo Grove, Smith said yesterday the village is planning to have a study done on village speed limits and streets. Smith said the village has advertised for bids for the study. No completion date has been set yet, however.

In Wheeling, no traffic study appears in the immediate future. A traffic study was included in the village budget this year, but was deleted from the final budget.

"We have a dire need for a complete traffic engineering study to determine our immediate and future needs, including the impact of future developments," Horcher said yesterday. He termed it "just plain ridiculous" that such a study has not been done.

SMITH SAID THAT a study of village speed limits and traffic should be done "before this becomes a problem."

Horcher, pointing out that routes 21, 46, 68, 83, as well as Wolf and Palatine roads are main arteries in Wheeling, said that the village is "centrally located."

"People living northwest, west, south and southwest of Wheeling who work in places such as Deerfield, Highland Park, Arlington Heights and Elk Grove have to go through Wheeling."

"Dundee Road is the most heavily traveled. About 27,000 vehicles use Dundee Road in a 24-hour period. The growth of Buffalo Grove, Long Grove and Mundelein has thrown about 10,000 more vehicles onto our roads," Horcher estimated.

HORCHER SAID a solution to the traffic problem would be to make Dundee Road a limited access highway and to improve other streets in town so that they could ease the Dundee Road traffic situation.

"Strong Street should be continued to connect with McHenry Road, and Ry Road should be continued to Wheeling Road and from there to Palatine Road."

"Reducing the speed limit on Dundee as has been suggested will only slow the traffic," he said.

Horcher said another problem is that "there are so many individual driveways that exit onto Dundee, especially between Route 83 and Wolf Road."

"And the few exits from the Hollywood Ridge subdivision onto Dundee are almost impassable in the evening hours." Horcher said that between 1963 and the first 10 months of 1969, 1,959 accidents took place in Wheeling. These resulted in 13 deaths, 728 injuries and 1,412 incidents of property damage.

HORCHER SAID THAT in monetary terms, this would amount to a loss of $2,560,920, based on estimates by the National Safety Council.

"We could do a lot of construction and engineering with that money. Those losses didn't have to happen."

"Professional traffic engineering could do so much."

Smith said that of all the roads in Buffalo Grove, the worst are Checker and Arlington Heights roads. Checker is unpaved and Arlington Heights is only two lanes wide in the village.

"Arlington Heights is the worst, along the whole stretch. Checker is in bad shape, although I can't support this with accident figures."

"Dundee is practically decaying. It definitely needs improvements," he added.

Smith said that both Arlington Heights Road and Dundee Road should be made four-lane highways.

Smith said that he doesn't feel the stretch of Route 83 in Buffalo Grove should be made a four-lane highway.

"I don't think it should be four-lane now, although I do think the speed limit should be lower. My proposal to lower the limit from 65 m.p.h. to 50 m.p.h. was just turned down by the state," he said.

Midshipman Trains With Atlantic Fleet

Midshipman Robert C. Carlson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Carlson of 1004 Valley Stream Dr., Wheeling, served with the Atlantic Fleet's Amphibious Force as part of his six-week summer at sea training program.

The midshipman received instruction in seamanship, engineering, weapons and operations.

Carlson is a member of the Class of 1973 at the U.S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md.

CROSSING GATES may replace the existing flashing lights at the Dundee Road crossing of the Soo Line R.R. tracks. The Illinois Commerce Commission will rule Wednesday on a request for increased crossing protection.

Girl Hospitalized With Fractured Leg

A four-year-old Wheeling girl was injured Wednesday evening when a commercial-type refuse container filled with concrete fell on her while she was playing.

Victoria Doyle of 87 N. Wolf Rd. was in good condition yesterday at Holy Family Hospital where she was taken after the accident. Wheeling police said the girl suffered a fractured leg and bruises in the accident.

ICC To Rule Wednesday On Dundee Road

The Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) will rule Wednesday on whether crossing gates or other increased protective devices will be installed at the intersection of Dundee Road and the Soo Line R.R. tracks in Wheeling.

The decision, which will be made by the four ICC commissioners and a chairman at a closed meeting in Chicago, will be based on a report of a hearing held last May 18.

The hearing, called by the ICC at the request of the village of Wheeling, was to present reasons for and against improving protection at the crossing.

At the hearing a Village policeman testified that three persons had been killed and six injured in seven accidents at the crossing since 1953. Videotapes showing hazards at the crossing, were also part of the village's presentation. A petition signed by more than 700 local residents asking for increased protection at the crossing was also submitted by the village.

OFFICIALS FROM both the Illinois Division of Highways and the Soo Line R.R. testified that the existing flashing lights at the crossing were adequate to protect motorists.

Grant Nordstedt, the ICC examiner who heard the testimony at the May hearing, said yesterday a decision on the crossing protection would be on the commission's agenda for its Sept. 16 meeting.

Nordstedt explained that the commission, at its closed session meeting, would consider a report on the hearing he had written along with his recommendations on the village's request for increased protection at the crossing. Nordstedt said neither his report nor his recommendations would be made public.

The commission is expected to rule not only on what type of increased protection should be installed at the crossing, if any, but also on how costs for new devices will be shared by the village, the railroad and the state.

AN ANNOUNCEMENT, of the commission's ruling on the village's petition will be made either following the meeting Wednesday or on Thursday morning, Nordstedt said.

Village Atty. Paul Hamer reported to the village board recently that ICC officials in Springfield have told him the village "can almost be assured" of some type of increased protection at the crossing.

Hamer contacted a commission inspector to tell him the village would prefer gates at the crossing rather than high intensity overhead lights, even if the village had to contribute to the cost of the gates.

Village funds used for the gates would come from state motor fuel tax rebates allocated to the village, Hamer said.

The final decision on what type of increased protection, if any, will be installed at the crossing remains with the ICC however.

EVEN IF THE commission rules in favor of installation of the crossing gates, village residents will probably have to wait another year for the increased protection to be installed, according to Hamer.

Hamer told the village board recently that ICC officials have said it would take a year to install more sophisticated circuits and the crossing gates themselves.

There have been three accidents involving cars and trains at the crossing so far this year with none of the drivers involved receiving serious injuries.

In the most recent accident two weeks ago a car driven by a Chicago man struck the side of a southbound train at the crossing. He was not injured in the accident. Damage to his car was estimated at $500. Wheeling police charged him with disobeying the existing flashing light signals at the crossing.

Youth Fined $25 in Court

Mark Morgan, 17, of Mount Prospect, was fined $25 Tuesday for contributing to the delinquency of a minor. The youth was fined by a judge in Arlington Heights district court for taking Wheeling High School students off school grounds during school hours in his car.

Wednesday Wheeling police arrested the youth again on another charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Police said the youth was driving four juvenile girls in his car when he was stopped by police. The girls, all students at Wheeling High School, were truant from school, police said.

Aw, Get A ...Donkey?

The donkeys weren't stubborn, but the truck was.

That's what happened to the Wheeling Veteran's of Foreign Wars Donkey Baseball game Wednesday night.

The game, which was to have been a rain date for the original Donkey baseball game July 19, was cancelled after one of the trucks used to haul the donkeys broke down, and the show could not be brought to Wheeling.

VFW COMMANDER Gene Hicks said yesterday the organization apologized to residents for the problems with this year's show. The show was to have been held, originally, July 19. However, rain that day forced the game to be postponed until Wednesday.

Hicks said that anyone wanting a refund of his $1 donation should mail his ticket along with his name and address to VFW Post 7178, P.O. Box 236, Wheeling, Ill. 60090.

Palatine-83 Accident Kills Man, 76

Richard Runge, 76, of 922 N. Dunton Ave. in Arlington Heights, was killed in a traffic accident Wednesday afternoon at the intersection of Palatine Road and Rte. 33 in Prospect Heights.

The accident occurred about 2:50 p.m. while Runge was driving west along the Palatine frontage road. At the intersection of Palatine Road and Rte. 83 he turned south, and then east, attempting to enter the eastbound Palatine frontage road.

According to Cook County Sheriff Policeman Dennis Baker, "Witnesses reported Runge drove through a red light when he turned onto the eastbound frontage road."

A SEMI-TRAILER truck collided with Runge's car on frontage road, forcing it into a traffic signal which he knocked over.

Runge was taken to Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines where he was pronounced dead on arrival. The body was removed to the Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home in Arlington Heights.

The truck driver, whose name was not released, did not require medical attention, according to Baker.

Three fire trucks from the Prospect Heights Fire Department arrived at the intersection, soon after to wash away spilled gasoline.

Traffic was held up at the intersection for about 25 minutes. Additional police from the county and Wheeling assisted in directing traffic.

Anderson To Talk About Con Son

U. S. Rep. William Anderson, D-Tenn., will visit the 13th Congressional District today "to discuss Rep. Philip Crane's attempt to whitewash the Con Son prison report."

Anderson, one of two congressmen who visited the Con Son prison in Vietnam to report conditions there were inhumane. will hold a press conference in Glenview at 4 p.m. and also will speak at the Palatine Township Democratic Organization's dinner-dance at Rolling Green Country Club in Arlington Heights.

Following his visit, Crane, R-13th, also visited the prison and said reports of conditions there were "grossly exaggerated."

Anderson's visit was arranged by State Rep. Edward A. Warman, D-Skokie, who is challenging Crane for the 13th District seat in Congress in November. Crane beat Warman in last year's special Congressional election by 20,000 votes.

ANDERSON AND U. S. Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., were members of a congressional committee which visited South Vietnam, and one of the committee staff members who sold a story and pictures of the prison to Life magazine. The story told of mistreatment, malnutrition and generally unhealthy conditions there, and criticized the United States for supporting a government which allowed the conditions to exist.

Crane said he found none of the conditions described in the Life magazine articles and pictures and said conditions at Con Son were better than conditions in some Vietnamese homes, and also were better than conditions in many American prisons.

He accused Hawkins and his staff members of being "blind or deliberately misrepresenting what they found there."

Crane's statements prompted a strong rebuttal on the floor of the House of Representatives by several congressmen who defended Hawkins and Anderson.

ANDERSON HAS BEEN a congressman since 1964. Prior to that, he was a Navy officer and commander of the atomic submarine Nautilus when it made its historic cruise under the North Pole.

Anderson will be joined at the Palatine Democrats' dinner tonight by Adlai E. Stevenson III, Democratic candidate for United States Senator.

Kidnapper Is Sought

by TOM JACHIMIEC

Elk Grove Village and Chicago police yesterday were continuing an investigation into the kidnapping of an Illinois Institute of Technology professor Wednesday evening.

The professor, Miss Audrey Companion, 36, of Chicago, told police she was forced at gunpoint by a man to drive away in her car from a parking lot on Chicago's Southwest side.

She escaped her abductor when the car went out of control during a struggle at Tonnie Road and Devon Avenue near Elk Grove Village.

THE CAR WENT into a gully near Hank's Service Station where Miss Companion leaped out of the car and ran for help. Her abductor then got behind the wheel and drove off.

"He hadn't really pulled out of drive and this woman came running out shouting for someone to call police," said Hank Sobieski, service station operator.

"There he was holding a gun in his left hand," he said. "I never did get to look at his face."

The man apparently left the car in the parking lot at St. Alexius Hospital, at Blsner and Biesterfeld roads.

Police found the 1970 Cougar there later with its lights turned on.

The police combed the area searching for the blond-haired man, a white, about 30, five feet five inches tall, and dressed in a yellow shirt and dark pants.

"We knocked on doors in the area for about one hour after dark," said Det. Robert Salvatore, "but didn't find anything."

"HE EITHER HITCHHIKED or stole another car," he added.

Miss Companion, a professor of physics and chemistry at the university, was treated at the hospital for bruises on her legs sustained when she jumped from the car.

She told police the man approached her in the parking lot of a food store at 6649 W. Archer Ave. about 5:30 p.m. as she was attempting to open her car while carrying two bags of groceries.

She told police he jabbed a gun in her side and that he wanted a ride to Brookfield. Later, he changed his mind, she said, and decided to go to Elgin.

After driving around for about an hour he threatened to tie her up, she told police, and when they began to struggle she escaped.

Lindstrom Back From Europe Tour

After returning from a 13-day tour of Europe and the Middle East this week, The Rev. Paul D. Lindstrom, national chairman of the "Remember the Pueblo Committee," said, "Many U.S. and German military personnel who served in the armed forces between the years 1944 and 1953 are now in Soviet Union slave labor camps."

Rev. Lindstrom, of Prospect Heights, said he made the trip to investigate reports he had received since the committee was formed in 1968 about U.S. and West German personnel in detention in the Soviet Union.

During the tour, Rev. Lindstrom said he was told in East Berlin by "highly reliable sources" that nine U.S. Air Force personnel whose plane was downed by Soviet jets over the Sea of Japan on July 29, 1953 are still being held in the Soviet Union.

This week, Rev. Lindstrom said messages were sent by the committee to West German Chancellor Willy Brandt and to Secretary of State William P. Rogers concerning this information.

Rev. Lindstrom is also pastor of the Church of Christian Liberty in Prospect Heights.

Young GOP Meet

James Peterson, Republican candidate for Cook County treasurer, will speak to the Wheeling Township Young Republicans at their regular monthly meeting tonight at the Arlington Inn, 43 E. Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights.

The 7:45 p.m. meeting is open to the public, according to Bill Holt, president of the Young Republicans, and a special invitation is extended to people between 18 and 35 years, he said.

Peterson, 39, is challenging Democrat Bernard J. Korzen for the county treasurer's post now held by Republican Edmund Kucharzski.

Peterson has been deputy county treasurer under Kucharzski since 1968 and claims credit for computerizing the treasurer's office.

The Chicagoan also is a state representative, representing the 28th District on Chicago's far south side. He is a member of the House executive and municipalities committees.

Peterson also is vice chairman of the executive committee of the Cook County Republican Organization and is committeeman of the 19th Ward.

Woman Seriously Burned

A 71-year-old Arlington Heights woman was seriously burned early yesterday morning when she was engulfed in flames during a fire in her apartment.

The woman, Anna L. Dowd, of 2420 Brandeberry Ct., reportedly telephoned the Arlington Heights fire department and reported her apartment was on fire. Upon arrival, firemen said, they had to kick down the door to the apartment to gain entry. They said they saw the woman, who is unable to walk by herself, sitting in a chair with her nightgown ablaze.

While firemen were extinguishing the flames an ambulance was called to transport Mrs. Dowd to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, where she was treated for burns of the right leg and the upper portion of her body.

Spokesmen at the hospital said Mrs. Dowd was seriously burned and transported her to the Cook County Hospital Burn Center for further treatment. A spokesman at the burn center later yesterday said the woman is listed in fair condition.

Police reports indicate the fire apparently started when a lighted cigarette fell onto the floor while the woman was asleep. The fire was contained primarily to the area immediately surrounding the chair in which she was seated.

Zoning Matter Is Postponed

Rezoning for an automatic carwash proposed on property bordering the realignment of Wheeling Road south of Dundee Road was postponed until Sept. 15 at a meeting Tuesday of the Wheeling Zoning Board of Appeals.

The zoning board members continued the hearing on the rezoning to allow the developer's time to send the village a letter concerning plans to recycle water used in the carwash for reuse.

The zoning board members continued with possible water shortages in the summer and the use of water by the carwash when residents must undergo lawn sprinkling bans.

The board also continued a hearing for rezoning of property north of St. Alphonsus Catholic School in Prospect Heights at the request of the developer.

The property is being considered for rezoning for a 48-acre multiple-family planned development.

Teacher's World Tours Spice Lectures

by TOM ROBB

For a boy from Waterloo, Iowa, Burt Showers has really been around.

When we listen to news reports on hijacked jets in the Jordanian desert, we try to imagine what's going on. Headlines of student riots in India conjure mental pictures of what it's like.

Burt Showers doesn't have to imagine. He's been there.

In fact, Showers has been a witness to most of the world history in the making for the last 20 years. After all, there are only two or three countries in the world on which he hasn't set foot.

And it couldn't be more appropriate, for Showers is a world history teacher at Forest View High School. He also specializes in Latin American and Russian history, and serves as the school's director of student activities.

WHEN SHOWERS STANDS in front of a classroom and points to a world map, students get the feeling that his finger isn't tracing only the boundaries of faraway lands, but memories of personal experiences.

At 45, Showers is one of few Americans who can say he has traveled around the world alone. This was his accomplishment this past summer.

And since 1950, when he was a teacher at Palatine High School, Showers has spent each summer logging hundreds of thousands of miles around the globe.

He has ridden the subways of Lenin-grad and Moscow, been swarmed by beggars on the streets of Calcutta, driven a jeep through the Andes Mountains and recently wandered through the backroads of Nepal where mountain bandits would have shot him on sight 10 years ago.

Hong Kong, Rangoon, the Nile River — the list can go on and on for a man who speaks Spanish, French, German, Italian and Portuguese.

IT ALL STARTED FOR Showers when his military unit was shipped from Iowa to the mountains of Oregon for basic training.

"It was then that I fell in love with the difference of strange places," he said. "It was then I decided I was going to see and learn and do as many things as I could."

Since then, he's lived up to that decision. And of all his travels, Showers said "the highlight was my trip to Russia."

Two summers ago he journeyed through 2 of the Soviet Union's 15 republics. He then went to Czechoslovakia.

Putting the two experiences together and adding a touch of his knowledge of world history, Showers said he "knew something was up." Two days after he checked out of his Czechoslovakian hotel, Russian troops seized the country.

He's had other close calls like this one, but he said worrying about them is not the mark of a good traveler.

STILL SINGLE — "which gives me a lot more freedom to take off and follow a whim" — Showers said next summer he wants to travel through central Africa, one of two places he hasn't visited yet. The other is Red China, "which is a little more difficult to get into."

But even to a world traveler like Showers, home is a good place to be. "I've always come back with a better appreciation of my own country. Not that I agree with all the nonsense that's going on. I've never been ashamed of my country, just its people."

It's thoughts like this Showers probably shares with his students. He also shares the thousands of slides on "the difference of strange places" with his young students, many of whom have never been outside of Illinois.

But maybe the item of most value Showers has to share with pupils and friends is a perception which many years and many miles have given to him.

Or as he put it: "I've learned this: there is one world and people are people. I'm not talking of governments. I'm talking of people, just like you, just like me."

Fraud Office's Ear Bent To 30

by JUDY MEHL

Close to 30 people have registered complaints with the Elk Grove Village branch of the consumer fraud bureau since it opened last month. And 12 of these people have had their problems solved.

The branch opened Aug. 15 in the village office behind the police station at 896 Landmeier Rd. It is under the direction of the Illinois Attorney General's Bureau of Consumer Fraud and Protection.

Some complaints which were settled involved delivery of slipcovers that were long overdue and carpeting which was cut the wrong way.

Approximately 12 cases have been settled locally with about 12 others sent to the Chicago office for processing, Tom King, head of the volunteers manning the office, said.

EACH SATURDAY several of the volunteers open up the conference room from 9 a.m. to noon to receive complaints from people in the Elk Grove Village area. Other local offices are located in Niles and Schaumburg.

Tom King

People may walk in to fill out their complaint forms or ask questions and be confronted with a gracious smile and a desire to help from either a college student, housewife or a retired special agent for Naval Intelligence.

King, the retired special agent, has been aided by Mrs. Jeanne Seidlin, Mrs. Pat Peacock and Miss Kirsten Reeder. Two new volunteers have joined the forces. They are Mrs. Kay Lycette and Mrs. June Cronin.

All have volunteered because they believe too many people have been taken by unscrupulous businessmen or lose money because they are afraid to return to a company with complaints.

"We had to tell several people that we could do nothing and they should hire an attorney," he said.

"IF YOU'VE ALREADY accepted the merchandise after signing a contract or you buy a house and live in it a year and then complain that it's falling apart, we can't handle it," King said.

"If it's fraud, we can handle it. Sometimes things can be straightened out by a phone call.

"When you come right down to it consumer fraud often can become a nuisance to companies and they are willing to go along with us rather than just an individual. When dealing with state or federal agencies they are a little more cautious. They don't want it to get around that such and such a company was a lousy one to do business with," King said.

ALTHOUGH THE office is located in Elk Grove Village, most of the people using it are from the surrounding communities. Only three people from Elk Grove have registered complaints according to King, while most of the others were from Itasca, Bensenville, Palatine and Mount Prospect.

Their complaints have been about clothes that didn't fit right or cheap jewelry or the stretch from industry, King said, naming Chicago Magnet Wire in Elk Grove Village as the industry one resident complained was a polluter.

"She bought the property with the understanding there was no pollution and then found there was. Too bad she bought the property without smelling. We can't do anything about that," King said.

YOU DON'T SELL A HOME -
YOU NEGOTIATE THE SALE

It is not always the case that a Real Estate Broker will sell a home for the exact listing price with no complications on mortgage or terms.

Often, there is necessary add-and-subtract between the buyer and the Real Estate Broker as the Real Estate Broker attempts to secure as fair a purchase as he can for the buyer while the interests of the owner are not compromised.

One of the greatest faults of home owners attempting to sell their own homes is inflexibility. Stating a price and terms and then stubbornly sticking to them regardless of the buyer's wants may seem to be a way of saving a lot of negotiating talk; however, it is also a way of losing many a buyer who would otherwise have been happy to purchase the property.

Perhaps the buyer's main concern is the down payment, or perhaps the arrangement of a completely new mortgage by the Real Estate Broker is necessary to resolve the deadlock. Sometimes the inclusion of extras such as drapes or air conditioning will create a solution beneficial to both parties.

An experienced Real Estate Broker is an expert in the give-and-take of property negotiation — a specialty that emphatically requires one.

NORTH POINT STATE BANK of Arlington Heights (IN ORGANIZATION)

The new North Point State Bank moved one step closer to reality last week with the approval of the bank by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

The bank, which had previously been approved for a permit to organize by the Illinois Commissioner of Banks and Trust Companies, now has clearance to complete its organization.

The bank is expected to open approximately October 1st, in temporary quarters in the North Point Shopping Center.

Shortly after the official opening of the temporary quarters of the North Point State Bank, ground will be broken for the bank's permanent headquarters to be located at the north end of the shopping center..

Approximately 10,000 shares are still available for purchase, and the sponsors of the bank have stated their intention to give local area residents first opportunity to share in the bank's ownership.

Persons desiring more information about the bank may call 825-5520, or fill in the coupon.

U.S. Creates, Destructs Five Germanys?

by JOAN HANNAUER
NEW YORK (UPI)—This month marks the 100th anniversary of the emergence of Germany as a world power—and for good or ill the United States, in the view of one historian, made it possible.

According to newspaperman-historian-teacher Alfred R. Tyrnauer-Tyrnauer, the interrelationship of Germany and the United States in world affairs dates from the American Civil War.

Tyrnauer, who teaches a course at the New School for Social Research in New York titled, "America's Rise to World Power and the Five Germanys," explained:

"The creation of these five Germanys, as well as their destruction, was mainly the work of the United States. It was not intentional.

Austrian-born Tyrnauer defined the five Germanys in an interview as the Hohenzollern reich of the Kaisers, the Weimar republic that followed World War I, Hitler's third reich, the two Germanys created by the Allies after World War II.

"I suppose this is a new way of looking at it," Tyrnauer said. "Usually historians treat modern western history as originating in Europe. America is still handled in the history books as a child of Europe. The fact is that the great energies concentrated and produced in America have, by the very fact that they existed, influenced European history.

"Modern Germany could not have been created by Bismarck as it was if the United States had not been reunited by the union in the Civil War."

HE EXPLAINED that the American which emerged from the Civil War, strengthened by a newly enhanced navy, forced France and Austria to withdraw the foothold they tried to establish on the American continent by setting up Maximilian, younger brother of the Austrian emperor, as ruler of Mexico.

But by the time France and its emperor Napoleon III abandoned the Mexican adventure, the emperor's treasury was depleted and the French army was weakened sufficiently to be defeated by Prussia in the Franco-Prussian War.

"Lincoln's navy had grown tremendously during the Civil War," Tyrnauer said. "Sending European troops to America violated the Monroe doctrine, of course, but President Lincoln wisely resisted those who urged him to declare war on France, saying, 'One war at a time is enough.'"

Instead, Tyrnauer said, Lincoln refused to recognize Maximilian as emperor of Mexico, never received his envoys, and warned the European powers that the United States would not tolerate foreign armies on its soil.

"THE ACTION of the French emperor in Mexico had been approved by several other European rulers who regarded the United States as a hotbed of revolution and republicanism," Tyrnauer said.

"It was the last attempt of the European empires to reestablish their rule in the New World and they failed."

While the others approved, Tyrnauer noted, it was France that footed the bill for the Maximilian affair, which ended when Benito Juarez—with U. S. help—defeated Maximilian who later was executed. The weakening of the French army and treasury allowed Bismarck and Prussia to move.

When the Franco-Prussian War erupted in 1870, President Ulysses S. Grant informed the French the United States would preserve strict neutrality but warned them to expect pro-Prussian sentiment.

"The American people have good memories," the French ambassador was told, "and they remember that while the Germans sympathized with the union and took its bonds freely during the (Civil) War the French had manifested no sympathy for the union but had negotiated a loan for the rebels. The French government had also sent an expedition into Mexico which had been construed by the American people as an act hostile to this country."

On Sept. 1, 1870, Prussia decisively defeated France at Sedan. Two days later Napoleon III was captured. Sept. 4 the new French republic was proclaimed in Paris and attempts were made to raise a new army to fight Prussia. But on Sept. 18 the Prussian siege of Paris was completed and, Tyrnauer said, "the siege of Paris sealed the fate of France."

"On Jan. 18, 1871," Tyrnauer continued, "Bismarck, Prussian prime minister and moving spirit of the war, proclaimed the new German reich (empire) with the king of Prussia as emperor of the new Germany. Bismarck thus unified the various German principalities into a world power."

It was this same reich that the United States helped defeat in World War I, less than 50 years after helping create it, albeit unintentionally.

As for the Weimar republic, Tyrnauer said, "Weimar Germany was supported financially by America but politically

America's new isolationism contributed to its weakening and the strengthening of the militarist and nationalist parties.

"Nazi Germany, which came into being in 1933, also was overthrown by a coalition led by the United States in World War II."

"And the two new Germanys, East and West, were the result of a compromise between the United States and Russia."

It is unlikely Bismarck could have dreamed of the role the United States was to play in Germany's future. He had no high respect for America, Tyrnauer said, and once even remarked to Carl Schurz, the great German liberal who emigrated to the United States.

Ho, Hum...Life Goes On In Koeta

KOETA, Colo. (UPI)—Except for the day the bank went broke there hasn't been much excitement in Koeta since a fellow named Butler was murdered and dumped into the town well. But that was 34 years ago.

"And that's how we intend to keep it," Clyde Stanley, 62, said as he adjusted the green eyeshade he used to reduce the glare in his cluttered, dimly lit general store on Roanoke Avenue.

"Sure, I liked Koeta better when we had 130, 140 folks living here. But I'd still take it this way over that city living. Why, according to the papers, they got four or five stickups every day in Denver."

dery dust by the blazing sun.

Only a stone front remains from the two-story Cottage Inn down the street, and the rail spur from Cheyenne, Wyo., to Sterling, Colo., is quiet now except for an infrequent special-order freight.

"We used to have five grocery stores, two blacksmiths and a livery stable before folks started drifting away," Stanley said. "Never did have a bar, though 'cause we figured it wouldn't do us any good."

The high school closed down in 1951 after graduating two students. The daily passenger rail service to Cheyenne ended before World War II. The last minister left the little white church 20 years ago.

"I went into Denver one day right before last Christmas," Stanley said. "First time in two years I been there and first time in lots of years there's no one tending Koeta."

"And you know, someone breaks into the store that day and steals a clock that's been hanging on the wall since 1925. So the city doesn't have all the problems."

Stanley admits there are a few disadvantages to living in such a small town. He says he misses a lot of good picture shows, the Denver newspapers is delivered a day or two late, and it is too expensive to even consider calling a doctor or plumber from Greeley, the nearest city, 40 miles away.

"And there's too many people coming around here these days," grumbled his sister, Faye Oran, as she pattered among the stacks of old candy boxes filled with memorabilia.

"We don't need them. Those people have no respect—for us or for what's ours. They're taking things and they're messing up our town. We'd just rather be left alone."

A short while later, the visitor headed out of town on the unmarked dirt road to Greeley. Koeta was at peace again—alone in the vastness of the Great Plains and secure in the vestiges of busier days.

These 'Activists' Lauded

by JEFFREY L. FIELD
GLOVERSVILLE, N.Y. (UPI)—Thanks, in good measure, to a dedicated group of high school activists, Bobby played basketball Tuesday morning.

His friends clapped and cheered when he sank the winning shot. Bobby clapped too. In the afternoon, Bobby and his friends played volleyball and tetherball.

At age 26, Bobby is what is called a "long term client" at the Lexington Training Center in this Mohawk Valley community. The privately operated center, financed 90 per cent with state funds, provides services to 60 persons, including the physically handicapped, the emotionally disturbed and the mentally retarded.

UNDER EXECUTIVE Director Paul Nigar and his staff of 11, the center represents the only sheltered workshop and rehabilitation center between the upstate New York cities of Schoenectady and Utica. It is housed in a 100-year-old brick building, a former school.

The involvement of high school "activists" began early this year when Nigra was contacted by Bill Kitchen, president of the senior class in neighboring Johnstown. Kitchen discussed the possibility of allowing the seniors to tour the facility as a class project.

Arrangements were made, and 250 pupils visited the center in groups of about 50. Nigra feels both sides benefited from the visits: The pupils became more familiar with what had been to most of them an unknown part of society—and the trainees received some much-needed contact with "outsiders."

After the initial series of visits, Kitchen and some fellow pupils began returning to the center to work with the trainees. Some supervised recreation, some helped tutor, and some helped in the workshop areas.

THE TEENAGED volunteers continued their involvement through the spring and into the summer months. Many attended the biweekly socials to dance with and talk to the trainees.

Johnstown High's class of 1970, nearing graduation, found it still had money in the class treasury—even after the traditional senior banquet. They could have sponsored a weekend beer blast or taken a trip somewhere, but they didn't. Instead, they donated money to the center to purchase paint. Then, they did the actual work—painting hallways, stairs and workshop areas.

Mark Hancher, the class valedictorian and son of a local painting contractor, arrived with a truck loaded with scaffolding, drop cloths, rollers and brushes.

Twenty-five teen-agers reported for volunteer paint duty at 7 p.m. By half past midnight, the job had been completed. Some returned later to replace furniture which had been moved aside.

Center's staff includes two placement specialists, four workshop supervisors and a psychologist. The center's trainees range in age from 16 to 65. Some are college graduates; some have an IQ of 30.

The reaction of the high schoolers to the trainees was hard to judge beforehand. Some thought they wouldn't like or understand each other.

"I never thought I'd be able to get along with them," said Stephanie Svolos of Johnstown. "But they make you feel tremendous. They're always happy."

STEPHANIE WAS NOT among the visiting high school seniors. She's only 16. Her sister, Sharon, 18, was a senior—and Stephanie drove over to the center with her sister one evening, "just for the ride."

Since that evening, both girls have helped supervise recreation programs—and both have been doing clerical work on a volunteer basis.

Janet Hansen, 18, was another senior who has returned time and again to volunteer her services.

"They are some of the friendliest people I've ever met," Janet said. "I thought I'd be depressed—but these people are happy, and they really make you happy. You don't leave depressed."

Kitchen, credited by others with organizing the volunteer force, used his own spare time to construct volleyball and tetherball courts. He installed the equipment and supervised instruction.

One of the trainees at the school, a 19-year-old emotionally disturbed girl, wrote a poem about her five months there. The girl, whose first name is Chris, has since left the center and entered college.

In the poem she described the people she met and the atmosphere within which they live. The title of the poem, "TLC," means Training at Lexington Center. It has a submeaning of Tender Loving Care.

OVERCROWDED CONDITIONS last spring at Kildeer School in Dist. 96 forced two fourth grades to use the school's multi-purpose room as a classroom. The school is even more crowded this fall, making it necessary for students in grades one through five to be put on double shifts.

Double Shift Works Well At Kildeer

The double shift arrangement which started this week at Kildeer School in Dist. 96 is "working very well, under the circumstances," according to Supt. William Hitzeman.

"We have had some problems with the bus routes and seeing that all the children are picked up on time and so forth, but I'm sure we are like many school districts in this respect. I can honestly say that the shifts have caused us no major problems," Hitzeman said.

The double-shift arrangement which started Monday will continue until the new Willow Grove School in Buffalo Grove is completed. Hitzeman said he hopes the district can begin using the school after the Christmas holidays.

The double shifts were made necessary because almost 800 students are enrolled. Kildeer School has a capacity of only about 550. Children in grades one through five are on the double shifts. They attend school four hours a day. Junior high school students are attending on a regular full-day basis.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION and music classes are being taught in the multi-purpose room. Additional music classes are not being taught in these areas as was the case last spring.

Although double shifts were not in effect at that time, the school was overcrowded and these areas were used as schoolrooms to alleviate crowding in the regular classrooms.

Hitzeman said that despite the crowded conditions none of the school programs have had to be eliminated this fall.

However, he added that art, music and physical education are not being offered to children in grades one through five as frequently as school officials would like.

"They are taught twice a week now. We would like to offer them more often," he said.

Seventeen new instructors were added to the Dist. 96 teaching staff this fall to handle the additional students. The influx of new students has come primarily from the Lake County part of the Strathmore subdivision in Buffalo Grove.

A COURT DATE has not yet been set for the retrial on the condemnation suit Dist. 96 filed last February against the building firm Levitt and Sons, Inc.

The district condemned 15 acres of land in the firm's Strathmore subdivision in Lake County Buffalo Grove. The district hopes to purchase the Levitt-owned land for a third school for the district.

The first trial concluded last month with the price of the land set at $350,000 by the jury. However a retrial was granted when the judge ruled that certain evidence introduced by the Levitt lawyer was inadmissible.

Traffic Study Urged Here

Traffic through Wheeling and Buffalo Grove is increasing steadily. And two village police chiefs, M.O. Horcher of Wheeling and Harold Smith of Buffalo Grove, see the need for traffic surveys in both towns.

In Buffalo Grove, Smith said yesterday the village is planning to have a study done on village speed limits and streets. Smith said the village has advertised for bids for the study. No completion date has been set yet, however.

In Wheeling, no traffic study appears in the immediate future. A traffic study was included in the village budget this year, but was deleted from the final budget.

"We have a dire need for a complete traffic engineering study to determine our immediate and future needs, including the impact of future developments," Horcher said yesterday. He termed it "just plain ridiculous" that such a study has not been done.

SMITH SAID THAT a study of village speed limits and traffic should be done "before this becomes a problem."

Horcher, pointing out that routes 21, 45, 88, 83, as well as Wolf and Palatine roads are main arteries in Wheeling, said that the village is "centrally located."

"People living northwest, west, south and southwest of Wheeling who work in places such as Deerfield, Highland Park, Arlington Heights and Elk Grove have to go through Wheeling."

"Dundee Road is the most heavily traveled. About 27,000 vehicles use Dundee Road in a 24-hour period. The growth of Buffalo Grove, Long Grove and Mundelein has thrown about 10,000 more vehicles onto our roads," Horcher estimated.

HORCHER SAID a solution to the traffic problem would be to make Dundee Road a limited access highway and to improve other streets in town so that they could ease the Dundee Road traffic situation.

"Strong Street should be continued to connect with McHenry Road, and Ry Road should be continued to Wheeling Road and from there to Palatine Road."

"Reducing the speed limit on Dundee as has been suggested will only slow the traffic," he said.

Horcher said another problem is that "there are so many individual driveways that exit onto Dundee, especially between Route 83 and Wolf Road."

"And the few exits from the Hollywood Ridge subdivision onto Dundee are almost impassable in the evening hours."

Horcher said that between 1963 and the first 10 months of 1969, 1,958 accidents took place in Wheeling. These resulted in 13 deaths, 728 injuries and 1,412 incidents of property damage.

HORCHER SAID THAT in monetary terms, this would amount to a loss of $2,500,920, based on estimates by the National Safety Council.

"We could do a lot of construction and engineering with that money. Those losses didn't have to happen."

"Professional traffic engineering could do so much."

Smith said that of all the roads in Buffalo Grove, the worst are Checker and Arlington Heights roads. Checker is unpaved and Arlington Heights is only two lanes wide in the village.

"Arlington Heights is the worst, along the whole stretch. Checker is in bad shape, although I can't support this with accident figures."

"Dundee is practically decaying. It definitely needs improvements," he added.

Smith said that both Arlington Heights Road and Dundee Road should be made four-lane highways.

Smith said that he doesn't feel the stretch of Route 83 in Buffalo Grove should be made a four-lane highway.

"I don't think it should be four-lane now, although I do think the speed limit should be lower. My proposal to lower the limit from 65 m.p.h. to 50 m.p.h. was just turned down by the state," he said.

Utility Suit Probe Resumes

A hearing on the suit brought by Buffalo Grove and a group of private citizens against the Buffalo Utility Co. is scheduled to resume Monday in Chicago.

The first hearing was held Aug. 6. At that time, the village and a group of residents filed a petition charging the privately-owned water company had been "derelict and negligent in the performance of service it is certified to perform" from 1967 to the present.

At the Aug. 6 hearing, testimony was submitted by John Yost, a professional engineer in the area served by the utility. Yost's findings showed that "wholly satisfactory conditions will not be provided simply by construction of the new reservoir well supply and booster pumps." The utility is currently building a new well and a reservoir.

The hearing was continued to give the ICC time to study the engineering report.

"They (the ICC) will consider the engineers report and take additional testimony concerning the suit," Richard Rayssa, Village Attorney said. "They will then take it under advisement and rule at a later date."

Palatine-83 Accident Kills Man, 76

Richard Runge, 76, of 922 N. Dunton Ave. in Arlington Heights, was killed in a traffic accident Wednesday afternoon at the intersection of Palatine Road and Rte. 83 in Prospect Heights.

The accident occurred about 2:50 p.m. while Runge was driving west along the Palatine frontage road. At the intersection of Palatine Road and Rte. 83 he turned south, and then east, attempting to enter the eastbound Palatine frontage road.

According to Cook County Sheriff Policeman Dennis Baker, "Witnesses reported Runge drove through a red light when he turned onto the eastbound frontage road."

A SEMI-TRAILER truck collided with Runge's car on frontage road, forcing it into a traffic signal which he knocked over.

Runge was taken to Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines where he was pronounced dead on arrival. The body was removed to the LaSalle and Oshler Funeral Home in Arlington Heights.

The truck driver, whose name was not released, did not require medical attention, according to Baker.

Three fire trucks from the Prospect Heights Fire Department arrived at the intersection, soon after to wash away spilled gasoline.

Traffic was held up at the intersection for about 25 minutes. Additional police from the county and Wheeling assisted in directing traffic.

Fertilizer Sale Set By Jaycees

by CRAIG GAARE

The Buffalo Grove Jaycees will hold their semi-annual fertilizer sale tomorrow and Sunday, according to David Tylnski, chairman of distribution.

About 70 Jaycees will canvass the village taking orders for delivery next weekend, Sept. 19 and 20.

Phone orders will also be taken all next week by calling 537-7072 or 537-3397.

"Agronomists have pointed out that the single most important time to fertilize lawns is in the fall to insure winter survival. The warm days and cool nights provide perfect conditions for seed germination," he said.

The sale is the principal fund raising project for the organization. Tylnski said some of the proceeds from this year's sale will be used to finance the mini-park project planned by the Jaycees. Part of the funds will also be used to conduct the Junior Sports Jamboree and the basketball clinic. Both projects are conducted by the Jaycees.

Aw, Get A Donkey?

The donkeys weren't stubborn, but the truck was.

That's what happened to the Wheeling Veteran's of Foreign Wars Donkey Baseball game Wednesday night.

The game, which was to have been a rain date for the original Donkey baseball game July 19, was cancelled after one of the trucks used to haul the donkeys broke down, and the show could not be brought to Wheeling.

VFW COMMANDER Gene Hicks said yesterday the organization apologized to residents for the problems with this year's show. The show was to have been held, originally, July 19. However, rain that day forced the game to be postponed until Wednesday.

Hicks said that anyone wanting a refund of his $1 donation should mail his ticket along with his name and address to VFW Post 7178, P.O. Box 235, Wheeling, Ill. 60090.

Supervisors Slate Talk to Homeowners

The supervisors for Vernon and Wheeling townships will speak at the Strathmore Homeowners association meeting tonight according to Dr. Alan Lauter, vice president.

Clarence Pontius, Vernon Township supervisor, and Mrs. Ethel Kolerus, Wheeling Township supervisor will highlight the meeting starting at 8 p.m. at Longfellow School.

The two supervisors will give brief presentations contrasting the two township governments and then hold a question and answer session, Lauter said.

Also on the agenda is a progress report concerning improvements on the 5.6-acre park site on Arlington Heights Road just north of Checker Road. The homeowners association is developing the site as a park.

CROSSING GATES may replace the flashing lights at the Dundee crossing of the Soo Line R.R. tracks. The Illinois Commerce Commission will rule Wednesday on a request for increased crossing protection.

Anderson To Talk About Con Son

U. S. Rep. William Anderson, D-Tenn., will visit the 13th Congressional District today "to discuss Rep. Philip Crane's attempt to whitewash the Con Son prison report."

Anderson, one of two congressmen who visited the Con Son prison in Vietnam to report conditions there were inhumane, will hold a press conference in Glenview at 4 p.m. and also will speak at the Palatine Township Democratic Organization's dinner-dance at Rolling Green Country Club in Arlington Heights.

Following his visit, Crane, R-13th, also visited the prison and said reports of conditions there were "grossly exaggerated."

Anderson's visit was arranged by State Rep. Edward A. Warman, D-Skokie, who is challenging Crane for the 13th District seat in Congress in November. Crane beat Warman in last year's special Congressional election by 20,000 votes.

ANDERSON AND U. S. Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., were members of a congressional committee which visited South Vietnam, and one of the committee staff members who sold a story and pictures of the prison to Life magazine. The story told of mistreatment, malnutrition and generally unhealthy conditions there, and criticized the United States for supporting a government which allowed the conditions to exist.

Crane said he found none of the conditions described in the Life magazine articles and pictures and said conditions at Con Son were better than conditions in some Vietnamese homes, and also were better than conditions in many American prisons.

He accused Hawkins and his staff members of being "blind or deliberately misrepresenting what they found there."

Crane's statements prompted a strong rebuttal on the floor of the House of Representatives by several congressmen who defended Hawkins and Anderson.

ANDERSON HAS BEEN a congressman since 1964. Prior to that, he was a Navy officer and commander of the atomic submarine Nautilus when it made its historic cruise under the North Pole.

Anderson will be joined at the Palatine Democrats' dinner-tonight by Adlai E. Stevenson III, Democratic candidate for United States Senator.

Kidnapper Is Sought

by TOM JACHIMIEC

Elk Grove Village and Chicago police yesterday were continuing an investigation into the kidnapping of an Illinois Institute of Technology professor Wednesday evening.

The professor, Miss Audrey Companion, 38, of Chicago, told police she was forced at gunpoint by a man to drive away in her car from a parking lot on Chicago's Southwest side.

She escaped her abductor when the car went out of control during a struggle at Tonne Road and Devon Avenue near Elk Grove Village.

THE CAR WENT into a gully near Hank's Service Station where Miss Companion leaped out of the car and ran for help. Her abductor then got behind the wheel and drove off.

"He hadn't really pulled out of drive and this woman came running up shouting for someone to call police," said Hank Sobieski, service station operator. "There he was holding a gun in his left hand," he said. "I never did get to look at his face."

The man apparently left the car in the parking lot at St. Alexis Hospital, at Bismar and Biesterfeld roads.

Police found the 1970 Cougar there later with its lights turned on.

The police combed the area searching for the blond-haired man, a white, about 30, five feet five inches tall, and dressed in a yellow shirt and dark pants.

"We knocked on doors in the area for about one hour after dark," said Det. Robert Salvatore, "but didn't find anything."

"HE EITHER HITCHHIKED or stole another car," he added.

Miss Companion, a professor of physics and chemistry at the university, was treated at the hospital for bruises on her legs sustained when she jumped from the car.

She told police the man approached her in the parking lot of a food store at 6649 W. Archer Ave. about 5:30 p.m. as she was attempting to open her car while carrying two bags of groceries.

She told police he jabbed a gun in her side and that he wanted a ride to Brookfield. Later, he changed his mind, she said, and decided to go to Elgin.

After driving around for about an hour he threatened to tie her up, she told police, and when they began to struggle she escaped.

Lindstrom Back From Europe Tour

After returning from a 13-day tour of Europe and the Middle East this week, The Rev. Paul D. Lindstrom, national chairman of the "Remember the Pueblo Committee," said, "Many U.S. and German military personnel who served in the armed forces between the years 1944 and 1953 are now in Soviet Union slave labor camps."

Rev. Lindstrom, of Prospect Heights, said he made the trip to investigate reports he had received since the committee was formed in 1968 about U.S. and West German personnel in detention in the Soviet Union.

During the tour, Rev. Lindstrom said he was told in East Berlin by "highly reliable sources" that nine U.S. Air Force personnel whose plane was downed by Soviet jets over the Sea of Japan on July 29, 1953 are still being held in the Soviet Union.

This week, Rev. Lindstrom said messages were sent by the committee to West German Chancellor Willy Brandt and to Secretary of State William P. Rogers concerning this information.

Rev. Lindstrom is also pastor of the Church of Christian Liberty in Prospect Heights.

James Peterson

Young GOP Meet

James Peterson, Republican candidate for Cook County treasurer, will speak to the Wheeling Township Young Republicans at their regular monthly meeting tonight at the Arlington Inn, 48 E. Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights.

The 7:45 p.m. meeting is open to the public, according to Bill Holt, president of the Young Republicans, and a special invitation is extended to people between 18 and 35 years, he said.

Peterson, 39, is challenging Democrat Bernard J. Korzen for the county treasurer's post now held by Republican Edmund Kucharski.

Peterson has been deputy county treasurer under Kucharski since 1966 and claims credit for computerizing the treasurer's office.

The Chicagoan also is a state representative, representing the 28th District on Chicago's far south side. He is a member of the House executive and municipal committees.

Peterson also is vice chairman of the executive committee of the Cook County Republican Organization and is committeeman of the 19th Ward.

Woman Seriously Burned

A 71-year-old Arlington Heights woman was seriously burned early yesterday morning when she was engulfed in flames during a fire in her apartment.

The woman, Anna L. Dowd, of 2420 Brandberry Ct., reportedly telephoned the Arlington Heights fire department and reported her apartment was on fire. Upon arrival, firemen said, they had to kick down the door to the apartment to gain entry. They said they saw the woman, who is unable to walk by herself, sitting in a chair with her nightgown ablaze.

While firemen were extinguishing the flames an ambulance was called to transport Mrs. Dowd to Northwest Centrality Hospital, Arlington Heights, where she was treated for burns of the right leg and the upper portion of her body.

Spokesmen at the hospital said Mrs. Dowd was seriously burned and transported her to the Cook County Hospital Burn Center for further treatment. A spokesman at the burn center later yesterday said the woman is listed in fair condition.

Police reports indicate the fire apparently started when a lighted cigarette fell onto the floor while the woman was asleep. The fire was confined primarily to the area immediately surrounding the chair in which she was seated.

Palatine, Fremd Open Grid Season

The 1970-71 high school football season will open when Palatine and Fremd High Schools hold their traditional intrasquad games tomorrow afternoon.

Freshmen through senior boys at Fremd will begin play at 1 p.m. at the school stadium. Tickets will be available at the gate at $1 per person.

Linda Miles, Miss Palatine 1970, will be on hand to participate in the halftime festivities, along with the Fremd High School band.

Members of the Palatine High School Very Interested Parents (VIP) Club also are making final preparations for tomorrow's traditional "Red and White" intrasquad football games.

Marshall Miller, club president said the game will begin at Oct Field at 12:30 p.m. with the freshman squad.

At 1:15 p.m. the sophomore game will begin, and at 2:15 p.m. the varsity squad will be divided and pitted against one another, he said.

FRED ZAJONC, president of the Hi-Lites Corp. (a subsidiary and nonprofit organization of the VIP's which is handling the football field lights project) said these games will help the football coaches make their final player choices for the season.

Tickets will be available at the gate at $1 for adults and 50 cents for students, he said. Proceeds of the game will go toward many VIP-sponsored events, including the light fund.

Originally, the VIP's and Fremd Booster Club had hoped to get the light poles installed in time for tomorrow's game. Due to production problems, however, they will not be ready for use until the second home game on Oct. 8.

The Red and White games are the first big fall event for the VIP's and Boosters whose purpose is to stimulate interest among parents in all school-sponsored extracurricular activities for students, Zajonc said.

New officers for the VIP's this year are Marshall Miller, president; Glenn Eberle, vice-president; Bill Davenport, treasurer; and Mary Lou St. John, secretary.

Zajonc said VIP members will be stationed at the stadium gate to recruit new members Saturday. Interested parents may also attend the VIP's first general meeting Sept. 17 at 8 p.m. at Palatine High.

LINDA MILES, Miss Palatine 1970, will be on hand at Fremd High's intrasquad football game tomorrow.

Mission Slates 1st Core Meet

The Prince of Peace Lutheran Mission of North Palatine will hold its first core group meeting at 8:30 p.m., Sept. 17 at the home of Rev. Norbert Kleidon, 207 W. Old Bridge Rd., Heatherlea.

The Prince of Peace Church, affiliated with the Missouri Synod, was recently founded in Palatine by Rev. Kleidon, who is using his home as a temporary meeting place for the small congregation, or core group.

Core group meetings will continue on this basis until a church is built on a site located at Hicks Rd. and Cunningham, he said.

The first meeting will be held to elect church officers, adopt a constitution and discuss plans for establishing the church building.

Kleidon said anyone interested should contact him or attend the meeting later this month.

Businessmen To Probe Downtown Mall Idea

A group of Palatine's downtown merchants decided Wednesday to take a survey of local businessmen to determine the interest in creating a mall for the central business district.

The survey will also determine if the merchants, along with downtown property owners are willing to pay for a study to determine the feasibility of creating a mall.

Ten merchants met at K's Wig Shop, W. Palatine Road, to discuss a proposal for the feasibility study submitted by William Vaughan, a local architect.

The committee, which will write a questionnaire to determine local interest in the mall, will be headed by Delvin Johnston, executive vice president of the 1st Bank and Trust Company.

IN HIS PROPOSAL for the $2,000 study, Vaughan said, "Because regional shopping centers and outlying highway business developments have the potential of draining off the economy of Palatine's Central Business District, some method must be provided to strengthen this area.

"Whether this can be accomplished best with expanded pedestrian uses of the streets, extended parking, altered traffic routes or some other system can only be ascertained after all knowledge of the structure of the area has been compiled, studied and programmed."

Vaughan said he will study the area bounded by Smith Street, Plum Grove Road and Johnson and Wood streets.

THE STUDY will consist of five parts, a parking inventory, parking duration survey, traffic counts, plans and a written report.

The proposal says a plan will be drawn showing how the central business district can be altered to benefit shoppers and businessmen, pedestrians, motorists and deliverymen. "This plan will not be concerned with individual property ownership, but will treat the central business district as a collective entity," the proposal says.

Village Trustee Clayton W. Brown told the merchants that Palatine's downtown situation was similar to that of Salisbury Md. That community, he said, is 230 years old and has a population of 17,000.

He said it constructed a mall, financing it by creating a downtown taxing district. Interest in the community revived because of the mall, he said, but the economic impact of the mall on downtown merchants has not been determined.

BROWN TOLD THE merchants, the village is now using its motor fuel tax funds for commercial areas not in the downtown business district. The impetus for improving the central business district must come from the merchants if they do not want to be by-passed, he said.

If the merchants did come up with constructive ideas for the area, he said, the village would cooperate in any way it could.

Johnston said he was not sold on the idea of a mall but felt that something must be done to revitalize the downtown area.

Brown pointed out that as the village grows there will be more commercial development in the village but not necessarily downtown and the area would have to compete with more shopping centers.

The problem with the downtown area was summarized by a long time village resident who was discussing the central business district yesterday.

"I don't like to go downtown because of the traffic and parking problem," he said, adding, "If there was a hardware store in the plaza I'd probably never go downtown."

What Can Be Done About Skyjackings?

by MARGE FERROLI

Faced virtually every day with the threat of injury from accidents on the nation's highways, the traveler is now faced with what seems to be an even more serious threat — airplane hijacking.

With nearly 200 innocent hostages held at an isolated airstrip in a Jordanian desert, citizens are becoming increasingly infuriated by the ease with which many people have been able to hijack planes.

To prevent more hijackings, or at least to reduce the number that occur, airlines should "search everyone," Mrs. James H. Howard Jr., 653 E. Baldwin, Palatine, said. "If people don't like being searched, then don't let them on the plane."

Mrs. Howard also has fears that the present hijacking situation may cause more serious problems later. "If the country takes sides with either the Arabs or the Israelis, it's liable to start a whole new war," she said. As a mother of two boys almost old enough to be drafted, she is extremely concerned over this added threat of violence.

"I DON'T FLY much, but I think there should definitely be some sort of detective device used to search people before they board a plane," Mrs. Howard P. Meek, of 3803 S. Jay Lane, Rolling Meadows, said.

"It's a ridiculous situation and unfair to the innocent people to keep them hostage," she said, and "individuals should not be punished in something that governments should be dealing with."

Rather than concentrating on how to prosecute hijackers, Mrs. Robert P. Kamm, 2106 Martin Lane, Rolling Meadows, thinks it's "more important to prevent the crime itself."

She agreed with most other area residents contacted that travelers should be checked for weapons before they board airplanes and "those that object should find another way to travel."

Martia R. Gilmore, 605 S. Benton St., Palatine, says he has been following the hijacking situation "very closely" and he views it as possibly developing into something "worse than World War I or II."

"IF THE INNOCENT hostages are killed, it would enflame the passions of Americans tremendously," he said. "You can push Americans so far and public opinion will rise against it."

Although Gilmore said he would personally welcome the searching of passengers before boarding airplanes, "some people would find it objectionable." The only thing airlines can do, he said, is "set up electronic gadgets to detect metal objects carried by people as they board a plane or walk past a gate."

However, with all the objections being raised against the rash of hijackings and the threat of danger, Gilmore is optimistic a solution will be found to the problem.

"This is a great country and there's always someone somewhere who is sitting around thinking of an idea that will stop the hijackings. If our technology can send a man to the moon, we can find an answer to this."

No Tax Hike Is Predicted

This is the first of six stories dealing with the coming referendum for construction of two new schools in High School Dist. 211. A story will appear every day next week preceding the Sept. 19 referendum.

Why won't the Sept. 19 building referendum in High School Dist. 211 raise the tax rate in Palatine and Schaumburg Townships?

This was only one of the questions Dist. 211 officials answered at a press conference held yesterday at the administrative center.

Richard Kolze, superintendent; John O'Dell, assistant superintendent, and William Fremd, board member, were on hand to field the questions from reporters representing several area newspapers.

Why won't the tax rate be hiked? Because, Kolze said, an increase in assessed valuation (which is currently $303,000,000 and is growing at about $40,000,000 per year) will accordingly increase the district's bonding power, which cannot exceed five per cent of the total assessed valuation according to state law.

WHAT THIS means, however, is that the Dist. 211 residents will simply continue to pay approximately the current rate of $2.70 per $100 assessed valuation over a longer period of time, he said.

What is the referendum for and why? Kolze said voters will be asked to approve the construction of two more high schools, additions to two currently owned school sites, and an 8,000 square-foot addition to the existing administrative building on Roselle Road.

The added facilities are needed, he said, to keep pace with the present enrollment trends by providing facilities for the average increase in enrollment per year of 1,000 students.

In other words, the district's four high schools will be filled to capacity by 1973, when the total enrollment is expected to reach 10,000. The current enrollment is 7,340. Thus, the first building will be ready for occupancy by the fall of 1973, with the next school to be opened in the fall of 1974.

THE ADDITION to the administrative center is needed to house the added personnel which the increased enrollment will demand.

And the need for additions to the two land sites, one in Schaumburg Township, the other in Palatine Township, is based upon the recommendation of the Illinois School Administrators Association.

This group recommends that a school site for a building of a 2,500 capacity be approximately 60 acres. The district will ask that two 20 acre additions be added to two 40 acre sites to meet this recommendation.

What happens if the referendum fails? First, Kolze said, the issue will be put to the people a second time for approval. If it continues to fail passage, the district's building schedule will be set back and overcrowded conditions and double shifting will result.

And when will the next referendum be held? John O'Dell said that if the Sept. 19 bond issue is successful it should enable the district to provide adequate educational facilities until 1978. Thus, allowing for a two year construction period the next referendum will be held no sooner than 1976.

Severed Cable Causes Cut In Phone Service

Telephone service for more than 800 residents was cut off yesterday when a soil testing crew severed a major underground cable yesterday in northern Palatine.

About 2 p.m., a soil sampling crew cut through a cable at Northwest Highway and Hicks Road, said Henry Siefken, public relations manager for Illinois Bell Telephone Co.

Siefken said IBT was uncertain as to what agency the soil testing crew represented. He said the phone company will investigate, but that "our main concern at this time is to get the phones back in order."

The accident caused residential telephones within a one mile radius of the site to go dead. This includes most of the Heatherlea subdivision on north Hicks Road.

At the Herald's press time the cable was expected to be repaired. Siefken said "the maximum deadline is midnight."

We'll probably have them back in order before then."

IN ADDITION to IBT construction crews on the scene, two mobile telephone units were sent to the area to handle any emergency calls for residents.

Special cars with public address systems patrolled the streets of the area broadcasting information concerning how residents could use the mobile telephone units on hand in case of an emergency.

Residential lines were the only ones damaged by the mishap, Siefken said. The cable which was cut served about 1,200 telephones, which are used by the 800 or so residents in the immediate area.

No emergency lines leading to hospitals, police stations or fire departments were damaged, however, he said.

Siefken described the cable as "a major one." He said most accidents of this sort involved smaller and harder to detect underground cables.

Anderson Talks About Con Son

U. S. Rep. William Anderson, D-Tenn., will visit the 13th Congressional District today "to discuss Rep. Philip Crane's attempt to whitewash the Con Son prison report."

Anderson, one of two congressmen who visited the Con Son prison in Vietnam to report conditions there were inhumane, will hold a press conference in Glenview at 4 p.m. and also will speak at the Palatine Township Democratic Organization's dinner-dance at Rolling Green Country Club in Arlington Heights.

Following his visit, Crane, R-13th, also visited the prison and said reports of conditions there were "grossly exaggerated."

Anderson's visit was arranged by State Rep. Edward A. Warman, D-Skokie, who is challenging Crane for the 13th District seat in Congress in November. Crane beat Warman in last year's special congressional election by 30,000 votes.

ANDERSON AND U. S. Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., were members of a congressional committee which visited South Vietnam, and one of the committee staff members who sold a story and pictures of the prison to Life magazine. The story told of mistreatment, malnutrition and generally unhealthy conditions there, and criticized the United States for supporting a government which allowed the conditions to exist.

Crane said he found none of the conditions described in the Life magazine articles and pictures and said conditions at Con Son were better than conditions in some Vietnamese homes, and also were better than conditions in many American prisons.

He accused Hawkins and his staff members of being "blind or deliberately misrepresenting what they found there."

Crane's statements prompted a strong rebuttal on the floor of the House of Representatives by several congressmen who defended Hawkins and Anderson.

PTA Notes

Discussion will center around the theme "It's time to care; Let's face the issues" at the first meeting of the Cardinal Drive PTA at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the school gymnasium.

Parents will be asked to participate in a discussion of school behavioral and disciplinary problems.

Michael Zawacke, Cardinal Drive principal, will introduce this year's teaching staff at the meeting. PTA president Keith Smith will introduce the PTA board members and Mrs. Frank Hummel, room representative, will present the room mothers.

A Fun Fair featuring candy, popcorn, games and prizes will be held from noon to 4 p.m. Saturday in the gymnasium of the Winston Churchill School for the school children.

The fair is sponsored by the Churchill and Winston Park School PTAs.

Plight Of Parochial Schools Discussed

Financial situations of the three parochial elementary schools in Palatine—Rolling Meadows and a possible need for closing the schools in the future will be considered at a special meeting Sept. 22 of representatives of the parochial schools and Elementary School Dist. 15.

In response to a letter sent last month from the Joint Parish Council representing the three schools requesting that a meeting be set up before Oct. 1 to discuss the situation, the Dist. 15 board approved the Sept. 22 date at its meeting Wednesday night.

Members of the board's Public and Professional Relations Committee will meet with representatives of St. Colette, St. Theresa and St. Thomas of Villanova Schools. The purpose of the meeting will be only to provide information about the financial situation and not to make definite commitments for the solution of the problem.

IF THE PAROCHIAL schools are forced to close, Dist. 15 would be legally bound to take over the education of the almost 1,700 students currently enrolled in parochial schools.

Since the first letter was sent, the two groups have been corresponding and financial statistics of the three parochial schools have been provided as a basis for discussion.

All three parochial schools have opened their doors for the current school year and have no immediate plans for closing them during the year.

A resolution calling for a study of the drug abuse situation within the area and possible action that might be taken by Dist. 15 schools was also approved at Wednesday's meeting. The study will not provide a definite program for classroom work but will "re-examine the drug and alcohol problem as it affects the children in the district."

VIRGINIA TOLK, Title I coordinator for Dist. 15, also made a slide presentation to the board on the summer migrant child program held this year at the Sanborn School, a program Miss Tolk headed.

Although the migrant program this summer began with an enrollment of 50 children, it expanded during the summer to include more than 90 by the last day of the session.

Language development was the major activity of the program, Miss Tolk said, and the children were divided into two age groups in order to facilitate teaching.

Free physical examinations, tuberculosis skin tests and dental checkups were offered to the children, as well as a daily hot lunch and cereal breakfast.

The board congratulated Miss Tolk on the success of the migrant program, which began in Dist. 15 last summer. Special language development courses and reading instruction sessions were held for the children during the last regular school year and will be expanded this year.

The Rolling Meadows Police Dept. also made a radio transmission to the board at the meeting through the Alert Monitor Unit to demonstrate how the unit works and how it will be used in each of the 17 Dist. 15 schools this year. Civil defense and emergency messages will be sent through the unit to each of the schools to alert them to particular situations so that measures can be taken for the safety of the children.

Each of the units cost $239 and the state and federal governments will split the cost with Dist. 15.

Board members also agreed to visit the River Trails School Wednesday to observe a hot lunch satellite program for feeding the children used at that school. Because the current lunch program of Dist. 15 is operating in the red the board is looking into other, less expensive methods of feeding the students.

WHETHER IT'S THE beginning or the end of the season, golfers want to improve their swing and game.

Hospital Teens To Be Honored

Teen volunteers who work at North-west Community Hospital are responsible for delivering the mail to patients, filling ice water containers, filing, running errands, talking to patients and many of the other odd jobs that make a stay in the hospital more pleasant.

Tomorrow afternoon, 92 teens will be honored for the number of hours they have worked. Julie Williams, 3604 Brookmeade Dr., Rolling Meadows will be one of the six teen-agers receiving an award for more than 500 hours work.

During the past three years, Julie has obtained 566 hours. She is captain of the day group of teen volunteers. As an eighth grader, Julie began working at the hospital because, as she says, "I had nothing else to do." Now, as a senior in high school, Julie is planning to go into nursing and is hoping to go to nursing school at St. Anthony's in Rockford.

CLAUDIA SCHOLLZ, 932 S. Benton, Palatine, also will receive an award for more than 500 hours of work. Though she is not working at the hospital now, she has earned 502 volunteer hours and also has been a day captain.

"I was feeling sorry for myself because I wore a brace," Claudia said. "My Dad suggested I work in the hospital, so I did. I'm glad I did. I got to work on all floors and learn about how hospitals operate."

Seventeen other Rolling Meadows students also will be honored for their volunteer work at the hospital. Debbie Allen will receive an award for 213 hours' service; Carolyn Curtis, 165; Kerry Donovan, 106; Mary Eschenbrenner, 138; Alveda Janis, 165; Diane Johnson, 163; Sherry Kruser, 150; Gail Kuthe, 114; Coral Landreth, 195; Sue Lumley, 144; Linda Mayerle, 139; Phyllis McCarty, 242; Sharon Olson, 109; Pam Schmalbeck, 227; Pam Spiliotis, 109; Nancy Stollus, 121; and Charlene Vallot, 198.

Twelve Palatine students will be honored: Andrea Amato, 249; Debbie Chase, 269; Wendy Drastall, 100; Laura Gillette, 95; Wendy Greenwald, 256; Cindy Halada, 107; Linda Kamphouse, 248; Cindy Maly, 239; Laura Rehfeldt, 103; Nancy Roman, 90; Linda Staab, 148; and Kathy Inger, 187.

Budget Report Is Lead Item In Newsletter

Palatine residents will soon be receiving the latest edition of the Palatine Village Newsletter.

The top story in the four-page newsletter is the adoption of the 1970-71 budget amounting to $1.38 million.

"While budgets over the past several years have showed increases in numbers of village employees to meet the service demands of a community growing at the rate of approximately 2,000 persons per year, the new budget provides for no additional full-time personnel," the article says.

It also is explained that the new budget shows an increase in expenditures of about $150,000 over the preceding fiscal year, with 2/3 of the increase due to salary increases and more insurance benefits for village employees.

The newsletter also presents a chart of expenditures showing that 43.6 per cent of village expenditures go to the police department while public works accounts for 19.1 per cent of the expenditures.

The newsletter includes stories about the ground breaking for the new train depot, the village's antipollution activities, new data processing equipment, tree-maintenance policies and the village's tree-planting program.

The newsletter was edited by Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun along with village trustees Thomas C. Kearns, John R. Hughes and Wendell E. Jones.

Woman Escapes Armed Kidnapper

by TOM JACHIMIEC

Elk Grove Village and Chicago police yesterday were continuing an investigation into the kidnapping of an Illinois Institute of Technology professor Wednesday evening.

The professor, Miss Audrey Companion, 38, of Chicago, told police she was forced at gunpoint by a man to drive away in her car from a parking lot on Chicago's Southwest side.

She escaped her abductor when the car went out of control during a struggle at Tonne Road and Devon Avenue near Elk Grove Village.

THE CAR WENT into a gully near Hank's Service Station where Miss Companion leaped out of the car and ran for help. Her abductor then got behind the wheel and drove off.

"He hadn't really pulled out of drive and this woman came running up shouting for someone to call police," said Hank Sobieski, service station operator.

"There he was holding a gun in his left hand," he said. "I never did get to look at his face."

The man apparently left the car in the parking lot at St. Alexius Hospital, at Bisner and Biesterfeld roads.

Police found the 1970 Cougar there later with its lights turned on.

The police combed the area searching for the blond-haired man, a white, about 30, five feet five inches tall, and dressed in a yellow shirt and dark pants.

"We knocked on doors in the area for about one hour after dark," said Det. Robert Salvatore, "but didn't find anything."

"HE EITHER HITCHHIKED or stole another car," he added.

Miss Companion, a professor of physics and chemistry at the university, was treated at the hospital for bruises on her legs sustained when she jumped from the car.

She told police the man approached her in the parking lot of a food store at 6649 W. Archer Ave. about 5:30 p.m. as she was attempting to open her car while carrying two bags of groceries.

She told police he jabbed a gun in her side and that he wanted a ride to Brookfield. Later, he changed his mind, she said, and decided to go to Elgin.

After driving around for about an hour he threatened to tie her up, she told police, and when they began to struggle she

Woman Seriously Burned

A 71-year-old Arlington Heights woman was seriously burned early yesterday morning when she was engulfed in flames during a fire in her apartment.

The woman, Anna L. Dowd, of 2420 Brandberry Ct., reportedly telephoned the Arlington Heights fire department and reported her apartment was on fire. Upon arrival, firemen said, they had to kick down the door to the apartment to gain entry. They said they saw the woman, who is unable to walk by herself, sitting in a chair with her nightgown ablaze.

While firemen were extinguishing the flames an ambulance was called to transport Mrs. Dowd to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, where she was treated for burns of the right leg and the upper portion of her body.

Spokesmen at the hospital said Mrs. Dowd was seriously burned and transported her to the Cook County Hospital Burn Center for further treatment. A spokesman at the burn center later yesterday said the woman is listed in fair condition.

Police reports indicate the fire apparently started when a lighted cigarette fell onto the floor while the woman was asleep. The fire was confined primarily to the area immediately surrounding the chair in which she was seated.

Soldier Excels On Battlefield

Spec. 4 Bruce J. Jetseck, 21, of 3603 Finch Ct., Rolling Meadows, recently received his third award of the Army Commendation Medal for "bravery and devotion to duty" while on a reconnaissance operation in Cambodia.

According to a special citation issued by the U.S. Army, Jetseck "came under intense fire from a large enemy force" and "with complete disregard for his own safety . . . maneuvered his armored personnel carrier in order that devastating suppressive fire could be placed on the aggressors" which "contributed immeasurably to the success of the mission."

Jetseck's actions were accomplished on May 8 while serving as a tracked-vehicle driver in Company D, second battalion of the 25th Infantry Division's 34th Armor.

He entered the Army in February 1969 and also holds the Bronze Star Medal for his actions in duty.

Seek Used Newspaper Box Here

Steps are now being taken to set up a used newspaper collection box in Palatine.

The effort is being spearheaded by Mrs. Clayton Brown, chairman of the Palatine-based Pollution and Environmental Problems (PEP) group.

Mrs. Brown is working in conjunction with the Westside Community Stock Paper Corporation, a Black community owned and operated corporation which recycles used paper products.

She said her organization is very interested in the recycling process of many products, including paper, as a means of cutting back of environmental destruction and the depletion of natural resources.

If PEP can find a spot in Palatine for the collection box, Westside Corporation will furnish them with a large metal bin capable of holding 11 tons of discarded newspapers.

"Palatine Township residents discard roughly 64 tons of newspaper per week," Mrs. Brown said.

The establishment and use of a collection bin would reduce the need to cut down more trees to replenish paper manufacturers.

She said a bin was installed in Palatine Plaza not too long ago, but was removed by the company when residents failed to use it.

Currently, she is approaching various community agencies with her recommendation. Last Tuesday she asked the Palatine Park District Board of Commissioners to consider placing the collection bin in a local park.

The board told Mrs. Brown that they were basically in favor of the idea, but that she should check into several details concerning Westside Corporation and report back to them.

—A local merchant charged that the Chamber of Commerce is making too much of a profit on the plastic garbage bags merchants are selling and asked that the Chamber take a smaller piece of the action.

—The Palatine Township Youth Organization is considering renting a facility near the industrial part of downtown Palatine to see if teens would support a PTYO-sponsored club.

—A disagreement between a Los Angeles company and the Village of Palatine over the construction of the new post office has delayed the start of the building for more than a year. After examining the plans, the building department found they were not in compliance with local building codes. It has taken almost a year to get things squared away.

—The Palatine Park District has spent about $600 to repair damage done by vandals from June through September. The biggest trouble spots have been Community Park, Maple Park and the Palatine Hills golf course. Some of the vandalism in Community Park has included broken wine bottles and hub caps being thrown into the swimming pool, the breaking of park benches and tables and loosening bolts on playground equipment. At least 20 bikes have been stolen this summer from the park.

—The Palatine Police Department has taken measures to place an additional crossing guard on the corner of Plum Grove Road and Washington Street in response to complaints of several families in the area whose children attend Paddock School. Because of a change in the busing schedule of School Dist. 15 for some pupils of the Paddock School, these children now cross the Plum Grove-Washington intersection as they walk to school.

—Charles H. Sweeney Jr., a Palatine resident, has been appointed consultant in data processing to the office of Robert P. Hanrahan, Cook County superintendent of schools.

—No progress was made over the Labor Day weekend on moving toward a salary settlement in High School Dist. 211.

—The Palatine Central League, a boys baseball program, has requested that it be allowed to use fire hydrants to water baseball fields it plans to build behind St. Theresa's School, west of the Palatine Plaza.

—Park district board members expect that a referendum will be called in about a year in order to authorize funds for another swimming pool, more skating facilities and more park sites in the south and southeast end of the village.

—Residents of Palatine and Schaumburg Townships will be provided with an opportunity Monday to ask High School Dist. 211 officials questions about the district's upcoming building referendum on Sept. 19.

Double Shift Works Well In Dist. 96

The double shift arrangement which started this week at Kildeer School in Dist. 96 is "working very well, under the circumstances," according to Supt. William Hitzeman.

Scherer Graduates From Purdue U.

Gordon F. Scherer, 890 Margaret St., Des Plaines, last month received a master's degree in industrial administration from Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana. He was among 900 students graduating during the university's summer session.

He's In Vietnam

Private Rudolph Gonzalez, son of Rudolph Gonzalez, Palatine, arrived in Vietnam last month for his tour of duty.

The 20-year old soldier was stationed at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., prior to departure for Vietnam.

He is serving with the 79th Engineer Company at Long Binh as a truck driver in the transportation section.

"We have had some problems with the bus routes and seeing that all the children are picked up on time and so forth, but I'm sure we are like many school districts in this respect. I can honestly say that the shifts have caused us no major problems," Hitzeman said.

The double-shift arrangement which started Monday will continue until the new Willow Grove School in Buffalo Grove is completed. Hitzeman said he hopes the district can begin using the school after the Christmas holidays.

The double shifts were made necessary because almost 800 students are enrolled. Kildeer School has a capacity of only about 550. Children in grades one through five are on the double shifts. They attend school four hours a day. Junior high school students are attending on a regular full-day basis.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION and music classes are being taught in the multi-purpose room. Additional music classes are not being taught in these areas as was the case last spring.

Although double shifts were not in effect at that time, the school was overcrowded and these areas were used as schoolrooms to alleviate crowding in the regular classrooms.

Hitzeman said that despite the crowded conditions none of the school programs have had to be eliminated this fall.

However, he added that art, music and physical education are not being offered to children in grades one through five as frequently as school officials would like. "They are taught twice a week now. We would like to offer them more often," he said.

Seventeen new instructors were added to the Dist. 96 teaching staff this fall to handle the additional students. The influx of new students has come primarily from the Lake County part of the Strathmore subdivision in Buffalo Grove.

A COURT DATE has not yet been set for the retrial on the condemnation suit Dist. 96 filed last February against the building firm Levitt and Sons, Inc.

The district condemned 15 acres of land in the firm's Strathmore subdivision in Lake County Buffalo Grove. The district hopes to purchase the Levitt-owned land for a third school for the district.

The first trial concluded last month with the price of the land set at $350,000 by the jury. However a retrial was granted when the judge ruled that certain evidence introduced by the Levitt lawyer was inadmissible.

Palatine-83 Accident Kills Man, 76

Richard Runge, 76, of 922 N. Dunton Ave. in Arlington Heights, was killed in a traffic accident Wednesday afternoon at the intersection of Palatine Road and Rte. 83 in Prospect Heights.

The accident occurred about 2:50 p.m. while Runge was driving west along the Palatine frontage road. At the intersection of Palatine Road and Rte. 83 he turned south, and then east, attempting to enter the eastbound Palatine frontage road.

According to Cook County Sheriff Policeman Dennis Baker, "Witnesses reported Runge drove through a red light when he turned onto the eastbound frontage road."

A SEMI-TRAILER truck collided with Runge's car on frontage road, forcing it into a traffic signal which he knocked over.

Runge was taken to Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines where he was pronounced dead on arrival. The body was being directed traffic removed to the Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home in Arlington Heights.

The truck driver, whose name was not released, did not require medical attention, according to Baker.

Three fire trucks from the Prospect Heights Fire Department arrived at the intersection, soon after to wash away spilled gasoline.

Traffic was held up at the intersection for about 25 minutes. Additional police from the county and Wheeling assisted in

Fraud Office's Ear Bent To 30

by JUDY MEHL

Close to 30 people have registered complaints with the Elk Grove Village branch of the consumer fraud bureau since it opened last month. And 12 of these people have had their problems solved.

The branch opened Aug. 15 in the village office behind the police station at 666 Landmeier Rd. It is under the direction of the Illinois Attorney General's Bureau of Consumer Fraud and Protection.

Some complaints which were settled involved delivery of slipcovers that were long overdue and carpeting which was cut the wrong way.

Approximately 12 cases have been settled locally with about 12 others sent to the Chicago office for processing. Tom King, head of the volunteers manning the office, said.

EACH SATURDAY several of the volunteers open up the conference room from 9 a.m. to noon to receive complaints from people in the Elk Grove Village area. Other local offices are located in Niles and Schaumburg.

People may walk in to fill out their complaint forms or ask questions and be confronted with a gracious smile and a desire to help from either a college student, housewife or a retired special agent for Naval Intelligence.

King, the retired special agent, has been aided by Mrs. Jeanne Seideln, Mrs. Pat Peacock and Miss Kirsten Reeder. Two new volunteers have joined the forces. They are Mrs. Kay Lyette and Mrs. June Cronin.

All have volunteered because they believe too many people have been taken by unscrupulous businessmen or lose money because they are afraid to return to a company with complaints.

"We had to tell several people that we could do nothing and they should hire an attorney," he said.

"IF YOU'VE ALREADY accepted the merchandise after signing a contract or you buy a house and live in it a year and then complain that it's falling apart, we can't handle it," King said.

"If it's fraud, we can handle it. Sometimes things can be straightened out by a phone call.

"When you come right down to it consumer fraud agencies can become a nuisance to companies and they are willing to go along with us rather than just an individual. When dealing with state or federal agencies they are a little more cautious. They don't want it to get around that such and such a company was a lousy one to do business with," King said.

ALTHOUGH THE office is located in Elk Grove Village, most of the people using it are from the surrounding communities. Only three people from Elk Grove have registered complaints according to King, while most of the others were from Itasca, Bensenville, Palatine and Mount Prospect.

Their complaints have been about clothes that didn't fit right or cheap jewelry or the stretch from industry, King said, naming Chicago Magnet Wire in Elk Grove Village as the industry one resident complained was a polluter.

"She bought the property with the understanding there was no pollution and then found there was. Too bad she bought the property without smelling. We can't do anything about that," King said.

Real Estate News & Views

YOU DON'T SELL A HOME -
YOU NEGOTIATE THE SALE

It is not always the case that a Real Estate Broker will sell a home for the exact listing price with no complications on mortgage or terms.

Often, there is necessary add-and-subtract between the buyer and the Real Estate Broker as the Real Estate Broker attempts to secure as fair a purchase as he can for the buyer while the interests of the owner are not compromised.

One of the greatest faults of home owners attempting to sell their own homes is inflexibility. Stating a price and terms and then stubbornly sticking to them regardless of the buyer's wants may seem to be a way of saving a lot of negotiating talk; however, it is also a way of losing many a buyer who would otherwise have been happy to purchase the property.

Perhaps the buyer's main concern is the down payment, or perhaps the arrangement of a completely new mortgage by the Real Estate Broker is necessary to resolve the deadlock. Sometimes the inclusion of extras such as drapes or air conditioning will create a solution beneficial to both parties.

An experienced Real Estate Broker is an expert in the give-and-take of property negotiation — a specialty that emphatically requires one.

Council Panel To Ask $30,000 To Aid Library

City funds may help the Rolling Meadows Public Library purchase high school and higher level books.

The City Council's Finance and Purchasing Committee will recommend at the Sept. 15 council meeting that $30,000 be allocated from city money to subsidize purchase of books for the library.

The amount, if approved by the council, will be given in $10,000 amounts on Oct. 1, Jan. 1, and April 1.

The money is needed to help increase the quality of the book selection in the library to the minimum standard suggested by the American Library Association.

John Lund, library board president, told the council Tuesday night $167,022 is needed to buy books, furniture shelving, and remodel the library to add an estimated 17,000 books to the collection bringing it up to minimum standards of 2 to 3 books per cardholder.

THE FINANCE committee is suggesting at least high school level books be purchased with the city funds. "About the time the books will be on the shelves, a high school will be opening in Rolling Meadows," Ald. Kenneth Retzke, chairman of the finance committee, said. "At that time, there will be an important demand for high school level and higher level books."

The Rolling Meadows Library is part of the City of Rolling Meadows, but it has a separate tax rate. The library board is appointed by the mayor with the consent of the city council and the council must approve the library budget.

The library budget this year is $107,575. Of that, about $21,000 will be spent on books, $36,000 on salaries, $20,000 on interest, and $30,000 for maintenance and supplies.

Retzke said his committee will also recommend that the library board raise its tax rate from 12-cents per $100 assessed valuation to the maximum 15-cents. "If the library is as far behind as John Lund told us it was, then it should use its maximum tax rate," Retzke said.

THE LIBRARY tax rate was raised from 12 to 15 this spring by the state legislature. Rolling Meadows Library will not receive any of the tax receipts from an increase in the levy until 1972. The levy cannot be changed now because the budget and tax rate for the coming year were established in May.

Rolling Meadows has the smallest book collection in the area besides being under the standards suggested by the American Library Association.

"The finance committee is requesting that the major portion of the city funds be used to buy high school level books and not for construction," Retzke said.

In his report to the council outlining the needs of the library, Lund listed moving the reference room, installing additional telephone lines, and partitioning off the basement as necessary to the expansion of the book collection.

Berg, Kral Are Named To Chamber Board

Two Rolling Meadows businessmen were appointed to the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors at their September meeting this week.

E. A. Berg of E. A. Berg Insurance and William Kral, manager of the Meadow Trace Apartments, were named to the board by Ted Small, president of the Chamber.

A campaign to increase the membership in the Rolling Meadows Chamber of Commerce and develop new chamber projects is being considered by the board of directors for this fall.

Teacher Utilizes Travel

by TOM ROBB

For a boy from Waterloo, Iowa, Burt Showers has really been around.

When we listen to news reports on hijacked jets in the Jordanian desert, we try to imagine what's going on. Headlines of student riots in India conjure mental pictures of what it's like.

Burt Showers doesn't have to imagine. He's been there.

In fact, Showers has been a witness to most of the world history in the making for the last 20 years. After all, there are only two or three countries in the world on which he hasn't set foot.

And it couldn't be more appropriate, for Showers is a world history teacher at Forest View High School. He also specializes in Latin American and Russian history, and serves as the school's director of student activities.

WHEN SHOWERS STANDS in front of a classroom and points to a world map, students get the feeling that his finger isn't tracing only the boundaries of far-

WHEN BURT SHOWERS looks at a globe, he sees more than a mass of lines. He remembers scenes of people, places and things of a world he has come to know well.

way lands, but memories of personal experiences.

At 45, Showers is one of few Americans who can say he has traveled around the world alone. This was his accomplishment this past summer.

And since 1950, when he was a teacher at Palatine High School, Showers has spent each summer logging hundreds of thousands of miles around the globe.

He has ridden the subways of Leningrad and Moscow, been swarmed by beggars on the streets of Calcutta, driven a jeep through the Andes Mountains and recently wandered through the backroads of Nepal where mountain bandits would have shot him on sight 10 years ago.

Hong Kong, Rangoon, the Nile River — the list can go on and on for a man who speaks Spanish, French, German, Italian and Portuguese.

IT ALL STARTED FOR Showers when his military unit was shipped from Iowa to the mountains of Oregon for basic training.

"It was then that I fell in love with the difference of strange places," he said. "It was then I decided I was going to see and learn and do as many things as I could."

Since then, he's lived up to that decision. And of all his travels, Showers said "the highlight was my trip to Russia."

Two summers ago he journeyed through 8 of the Soviet Union's 15 republics. He then went to Czechoslovakia. Putting the two experiences together and adding a touch of his knowledge of world history, Showers said he "knew something was up." Two days after he checked out of his Czechoslovakian hotel, Russian troops seized the country.

He's had other close calls like this one, but he said worrying about them is not the mark of a good traveler.

STILL SINGLE — "which gives me a lot more freedom to take off and follow a whim" — Showers said next summer he wants to travel through central Africa, one of two places he hasn't visited yet. The other is Red China, "which is a little more difficult to get into."

But even to a world traveler like Showers, home is a good place to be. "I've always come back with a better appreciation of my own country. Not that I agree with all the nonsense that's going on. I've never been ashamed of my country, just its people."

It's thoughts like this Showers probably shares with his students. He also shares the thousands of slides on "the difference of strange places" with his young students, many of whom have never been outside of Illinois.

But maybe the item of most value Showers has to share with pupils and friends is a perception which many years and many miles has given to him.

Or as he put it: "I've learned this: there is one world and people are people. I'm not talking of governments. I'm talking of people, just like you, just like me."

Speak Out

What Can Be Done About Skyjackings?

by MARGE FERROLI

Faced virtually every day with the threat of injury from accidents on the nation's highways, the traveler is now faced with what seems to be an even more serious threat — airplane hijacking.

With nearly 200 innocent hostages held at an isolated airstrip in a Jordanian desert, citizens are becoming increasingly infuriated by the ease with which many people have been able to hijack planes.

To prevent more hijackings, or at least to reduce the number that occur, airlines should "search everyone," Mrs. James H. Howard Jr., 653 E. Baldwin, Palatine, said. "If people don't like being searched, then don't let them on the plane."

Mrs. Howard also has fears that the present hijacking situation may cause more serious problems later. "If the country takes sides with either the Arabs or the Israelis, it's liable to start a whole new war," she said. As a mother of two boys almost old enough to be drafted, she is extremely concerned over this added threat of violence.

"I DON'T FLY much, but I think there should definitely be some sort of detective device used to search people before they board a plane," Mrs. Howard P. Mack, of 3803 S. Jay Lane, Rolling Meadows, said.

"It's a ridiculous situation and unfair to the innocent people to keep them hostage," she said, and "individuals should not be punished in something that governments should be dealing with."

Rather than concentrating on how to prosecute hijackers, Mrs. Robert P. Kamen, 2105 Martin Lane, Rolling Meadows, thinks it's "more important to prevent the crime itself."

She agreed with most other area residents contacted that travelers should be checked for weapons before they board airplanes and "those that object should find another way to travel."

Martin A. Gilmore, 606 S. Benton St., Palatine, says he has been following the hijacking situation "very closely" and he views it as possibly developing into something "worse than World War I or II."

"IF THE INNOCENT hostages are killed, it would enflame the passions of Americans tremendously," he said. "You can push Americans so far and public opinion will rise against it."

Although Gilmore said he would personally welcome the searching of passengers before boarding airplanes, "some people would find it objectionable." The only thing airlines can do, he said, is to "set up electronic gadgets to detect metal objects carried by people as they board a plane or walk past a gate."

However, with all the objections being raised against the rash of hijackings and the threat of danger, Gilmore is optimistic a solution will be found to the problem.

"This is a great country and there's always someone somewhere who is sitting around thinking of an idea that will stop the hijackings. If our technology can send a man to the moon, we can find an answer to this."

Anderson To Talk About Con Son

U S Rep. William Anderson, D-Tenn., will visit the 13th Congressional District today "to discuss Rep. Philip Crane's attempt to whitewash the Con Son prison report."

Anderson, one of two congressmen who visited the Con Son prison in Vietnam to report conditions there were inhumane, will hold a press conference in Glenview at 4 p.m. and also will speak at the Palestine Township Democratic Organization's dinner-dance at Rolling Green Country Club in Arlington Heights.

Following his visit, Crane, R-13th, also visited the prison and said reports of conditions there were "grossly exaggerated."

Anderson's visit was arranged by State Rep. Edward A. Warman, D-Skokie, who is challenging Crane for the 13th District seat in Congress in November. Crane beat Warman in last year's special Congressional election by 20,000 votes.

ANDERSON AND U. S. Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., were members of a congressional committee which visited South Vietnam, and one of the committee staff members who sold a story and pictures of the prison to Life magazine. The story told of mistreatment, malnutrition and generally unhealthy conditions there, and criticized the United States for supporting a government which allowed the conditions to exist.

Crane said he found none of the conditions described in the Life magazine articles and pictures and said conditions at Con Son were better than conditions in some Vietnamese homes, and also were better than conditions in many American prisons.

He accused Hawkins and his staff members of being "blind or deliberately misrepresenting what they found there."

Crane's statements prompted a strong rebuttal on the floor of the House of Representatives by several congressmen who defended Hawkins and Anderson.

ANDERSON HAS BEEN a congressman since 1964. Prior to that, he was a Navy officer and commander of the atomic submarine Nautilus when it made its historic cruise under the North Pole.

Anderson will be joined at the Palestine Democrats' dinner tonight by Adlai E. Stevenson III, Democratic candidate for United States Senator.

Ambulance Funds Sought

The City of Rolling Meadows is applying for matching funds from the state to purchase an emergency ambulance for the fire protection district.

The city will contribute about $3,750 toward the purchase of a $13,000 ambulance, the fire district has allocated $3,000, and the state, through the Safe Streets Act of the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, will be asked to provide about $6,250, or half the money.

"The city will have to own the ambulance," City Manager James Watson said. "That is the only way we can get state matching funds to purchase the vehicle."

THE CITY WILL rent the ambulance to the fire protection district. Firemen, who are on duty 24-hours a day, will operate the vehicle. All Rolling Meadows full-time and paid-on-call men have had advanced emergency first aid training.

"We are submitting the specifications to the state and hope to get the matching funds," Watson said. The city hopes to purchase a 1971 Pontiac ambulance.

"Having our own ambulance for emergency situations will give Rolling Meadows residents better emergency service," Watson said. The fire protection district has an emergency vehicle carrying first aid equipment, but the district is not presently equipped or insured to transport injured persons.

Corps Drill Set

The Guardsmen Drum and Bugle Corps of Mount Prospect will stage its final performance Sept. 20 in a parade at Monroe, Wis. The parade Sept. 20 will follow field drill competition Sept. 19 at Monroe.

During the Labor Day weekend the corps, which includes members from several villages in the Northwest suburbs, participated in two field competitions and parades.

At Lowell, Ind., the Guardsmen captured first-place honors in field competition Sunday night. The corps marched in a parade there Monday.

Any Library Books In Moving Van?

If you're thinking of moving or leaving the area for an indefinite period of time, don't take your library books with you.

Although the Rolling Meadows Library annually buys about 2,000 new volumes of books, it suffers a deduction of some 800 books each year due primarily to transient cardholders. Because of this regular book loss, which happens to every library, the book collection at the Rolling Meadows Library is not being built up as Virginia Connell, the librarian, would like.

Book damage also contributes to the annual shortage, Miss Connell said.

Fires, such as the one at Three Fountains Apartments in May, help to diminish the book supply.

Besides loss due to fire and moving away, many books are misplaced. Student assignment books are the most heavily lost, particularly the small and thin children's books, called flats.

"IT'S EASY TO GET them mixed up with magazines and newspapers at home and not find them again until months later," Miss Connell said.

A few cardholders insist they don't have possession of a particular book when the library records show that they do, Miss Connell said. One child's book was missing over a year because it was mistakenly stored away with a boxful of Christmas decorations and not dragged out until it was time to again start the seasonal celebration, she explained.

The mother, who had refused to pay overdue fines because she thought she had returned the book, brought the missing volume in "rather sheepishly," Miss Connell said.

Many of the books lost or damaged during a year cannot be replaced because publication is discontinued, Miss Connell said. This makes the yearly loss greater than the numbers show.

One family who left town took almost $100 worth of books with them. "I traced them as far as California, and then I lost them," Miss Connell said.

She tries to keep close tabs on the books because "they are city property and we're responsible for it." But a certain loss each year is unavoidable, no matter how hard she may try, because there is always someone who may one day set an armful of library books on the back of a parked truck to tie a shoe and the next minute look up to find the truck, and the books, gone.

Plight Of Parochial Schools Discussed

Financial situations of the three parochial elementary schools in Palatine—Rolling Meadows and a possible need for closing the schools in the future will be considered at a special meeting Sept. 22 of representatives of the parochial schools and Elementary School Dist. 15.

In response to a letter sent last month from the Joint Parish Council representing the three schools requesting that a meeting be set up before Oct. 1 to discuss the situation, the Dist. 15 board approved the Sept. 22 date at its meeting Wednesday night.

Members of the board's Public and Professional Relations Committee will meet with representatives of St. Colette, St. Theresa and St. Thomas of Villanova Schools. The purpose of the meeting will be only to provide information about the financial situation and not to make definite commitments for the solution of the problem.

IF THE PAROCHIAL schools are forced to close, Dist. 15 would be legally bound to take over the education of the almost 1,700 students currently enrolled in parochial schools.

Since the first letter was sent, the two groups have been corresponding and financial statistics of the three parochial schools have been provided as a basis for discussion.

All three parochial schools have opened their doors for the current school year and have no immediate plans for closing them during the year.

A resolution calling for a study of the drug abuse situation within the area and possible action that might be taken by Dist. 15 schools was also approved at Wednesday's meeting. The study will not provide a definite program for classroom work but will "re-examine the drug and alcohol problem as it affects the children in the district."

VIRGINIA TOLK, Title I coordinator for Dist. 15, also made a slide presentation to the board on the summer migrant child program held this year at the Sanborn School, a program Miss Tolk headed.

Although the migrant program this summer began with an enrollment of 50 children, it expanded during the summer to include more than 90 by the last day of the session.

Language development was the major activity of the program, Miss Tolk said, and the children were divided into two age groups in order to facilitate teaching.

Free physical examinations, tuberculosis skin tests and dental checkups were offered to the children, as well as a daily hot lunch and cereal breakfast.

The board congratulated Miss Tolk on the success of the migrant program, which began in Dist. 15 last summer. Special language development courses and reading instruction sessions were held for the children during the last regular school year and will be expanded this year.

The Rolling Meadows Police Dept. also made a radio transmission to the board at the meeting through the Alert Monitor Unit to demonstrate how the unit works and how it will be used in each of the 17 Dist. 15 schools this year. Civil defense and emergency messages will be sent through the unit to each of the schools to alert them to particular situations so that measures can be taken for the safety of the children.

Each of the units cost $239 and the state and federal governments will split the cost with Dist. 15.

Board members also agreed to visit the River Trails School Wednesday to observe a hot lunch satellite program for feeding the children used at that school. Because the current lunch program of Dist. 15 is operating in the red the board is looking into other, less expensive methods of feeding the students.

Woman Escapes Armed Kidnapper

by TOM JACHIMIEC

Elk Grove Village and Chicago police yesterday were continuing an investigation into the kidnapping of an Illinois Institute of Technology professor Wednesday evening.

The professor, Miss Audrey Companion, 38, of Chicago, told police she was forced at gunpoint by a man to drive away in her car from a parking lot on Chicago's Southwest side.

She escaped her abductor when the car went out of control during a struggle at Tonne Road and Devon Avenue near Elk Grove Village.

THE CAR WENT into a gully near Hank's Service Station where Miss Companion leaped out of the car and ran for help. Her abductor then got behind the wheel and drove off.

"He hadn't really pulled out of drive and this woman came running up shouting for someone to call police," said Hank Sobieski, service station operator.

"There he was holding a gun in his left hand," he said. "I never did get to look at his face."

The man apparently left the car in the parking lot at St. Alexius Hospital, at Bismar and Biesterfeld roads.

Police found the 1970 Cougar there later with its lights turned on.

The police combed the area searching for the blond-haired man, a white, about 30, five feet five inches tall, and dressed in a yellow shirt and dark pants.

"We knocked on doors in the area for about one hour after dark," said Det. Robert Salvatore, "but didn't find anything."

"HE EITHER HITCHHIKED or stole another car," he added.

Miss Companion, a professor of phys-escapes ics and chemistry at the university, was treated at the hospital for bruises on her legs sustained when she jumped from the car.

She told police the man approached her in the parking lot of a food store at 6649 W. Archer Ave. about 5:30 p.m., as she was attempting to open her car while carrying two bags of groceries.

She told police he jabbed a gun in her side and that he wanted a ride to Brookfield. Later, he changed his mind, she said, and decided to go to Elgin.

After driving around for about an hour he threatened to tie her up, she told police, and when they began to struggle she

Seek Used Newspaper Box Here

Steps are now being taken to set up a used newspaper collection box in Palatine.

The effort is being spearheaded by Mrs. Clayton Brown, chairman of the Palatine-based Pollution and Environmental Problems (PEP) group.

Mrs. Brown is working in conjunction with the Westside Community Stock Paper Corporation, a Black community owned and operated corporation which recycles used paper products.

She said her organization is very interested in the recycling process of many products, including paper, as a means of cutting back of environmental destruction and the depletion of natural resources.

If PEP can find a spot in Palatine for the collection box, Westside Corporation will furnish them with a large metal bin capable of holding 11 tons of discarded newspapers.

"Palatine Township residents discard roughly 64 tons of newspaper per week," Mrs. Brown said.

The establishment and use of a collection bin would reduce the need to cut down more trees to replenish paper manufacturers.

She said a bin was installed in Palatine Plaza not too long ago, but was removed by the company when residents failed to use it.

Currently, she is approaching various community agencies with her recommendation. Last Tuesday she asked the Palatine Park District Board of Commissioners to consider placing the collection bin in a local park.

The board told Mrs. Brown that they were basically in favor of the idea, but that she should check into several details concerning Westside Corporation and report back to them.

Keeping Up

This column is a wrap-up of the news in Des Plaines for their first game Sept. 19 and the Forest View Falcons will play Maine East at home on Sept. 19.

A "ONE-STEP" DISCOUNT store owned by the J. C. Penney Co. may be built on the south side of Algonquin Road just west of the Algonquin and Golf Road intersection. The city council has said the Penney Co. must buy a corner piece of the intersection in order to put a gas station in with their store. The Penney real estate board must decide if the site is worth the additional purchase.

A HOME ON 4202 Linden Ln. has been declared a health hazard by the city council. Rolling Meadows will go to court to get the house either improved or torn down. According to city officials, the house has been a problem for several years.

THE LIBRARY is asking the city council for money to help improve the book collection. Library Board President John Lund said the library is below the minimum standards of the American Library Association for a library in a city like Rolling Meadows.

THE CITY IS asking residents who have transportation troubles in Rolling Meadows to answer a questionnaire. From reports industry and commercial areas in the city have submitted, the city's transportation committee has so far found that there is no transportation problem in Rolling Meadows.

Beer, soda pop, ice cream, games and prizes will be provided at the Rolling Meadows city employee picnic Sunday at Buse Woods. Employees and their families will meet from 1 to 5 p.m. in Grove 68 for games, activities and picnicking. Butch Meyer, general foreman in the public works department, is chairman of the annual event.

Woman Seriously Burned

A 71-year-old Arlington Heights woman was seriously burned early yesterday morning when she was engulfed in flames during a fire in her apartment.

The woman, Anna L. Dowd, of 2420 Brandenberry Ct., reportedly telephoned the Arlington Heights fire department and reported her apartment was on fire. Upon arrival, firemen said, they had to kick down the door to the apartment to gain entry. They said they saw the woman, who is unable to walk by herself, sitting in a chair with her nightgown ablaze.

While firemen were extinguishing the flames an ambulance was called to transport Mrs. Dowd to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, where she was treated for burns of the right leg and the upper portion of her body.

Spokesmen at the hospital said Mrs. Dowd was seriously burned and transported her to the Cook County Hospital Burn Center for further treatment. A spokesman at the burn center later yesterday said the woman is listed in fair condition.

Police reports indicate the fire apparently started when a lighted cigarette fell onto the floor while the woman was asleep. The fire was confined primarily to the area immediately surrounding the chair in which she was seated.

Soldier Excels On Battlefield

Spec. 4 Bruce J. Jetseck, 21, of 3603 Finch Ct., Rolling Meadows, recently received his third award of the Army Commendation Medal for "bravery and devotion to duty" while on a reconnaissance operation in Cambodia.

According to a special citation issued by the U.S. Army, Jetseck "came under intense fire from a large enemy force" and "with complete disregard for his own safety . . . maneuvered his armored personnel carrier in order that devastating suppressive fire could be placed on the aggressors" which "contributed immeasurably to the success of the mission."

Jetseck's actions were accomplished on May 8 while serving as a tracked-vehicle driver in Company D, second battalion of the 25th Infantry Division's 34th Armor.

He entered the Army in February 1969 and also holds the Bronze Star Medal for his actions in duty.

Hospital Teens To Be Honored

Teen volunteers who work at Northwest Community Hospital are responsible for delivering the mail to patients, filling ice water containers, filing, running errands, talking to patients and many of the other odd jobs that make a stay in the hospital more pleasant.

Tomorrow afternoon, 92 teens will be honored for the number of hours they have worked. Julie Williams, 3604 Brookmeade Dr., Rolling Meadows will be one of the six teen-agers receiving an award for more than 500 hours work.

During the past three years, Julie has obtained 566 hours. She is captain of the day group of teen volunteers. As an eighth grader, Julie began working at the hospital because, as she says, "I had nothing else to do." Now, as a senior in high school, Julie is planning to go into nursing and is hoping to go to nursing school at St. Anthony's in Rockford.

CLAUDIA SCHOLLZ, 932 S. Benton, Palatine, also will receive an award for more than 500 hours of work. Though she is not working at the hospital now, she has earned 502 volunteer hours and also has been a day captain.

"I was feeling sorry for myself because I wore a brace," Claudia said. "My Dad suggested I work in the hospital, so I did. I'm glad I did. I got to work on all floors and learn about how hospitals operate."

Seventeen other Rolling Meadows students also will be honored for their volunteer work at the hospital. Debbie Allen will receive an award for 213 hours' service; Carolyn Curtis, 165; Kerry Donovan, 106; Mary Eschenbrenner, 158; Alveda Janis, 165; Diane Johnson, 163; Sherry Kruser, 150; Gail Kuthe, 114; Coral Landreth, 195; Sue Lumley, 144; Linda Mayerle, 139; Phyllis McCarty, 242; Sharon Olson, 199; Pam Schmalbeck, 227; Pam Spilios, 109; Nancy Stollfus, 121; and Charlene Vallet, 198.

Twelve Palatine students will be honored: Andrea Amato, 249; Debbie Chase, 269; Wendy Drastall, 100; Laura Gillette, 95; Wendy Greenwald, 256; Cindy Halada, 107; Linda Kamphouse, 248; Cindy Maly, 239; Laura Rehfeldt, 103; Nancy Roman, 90; Linda Staab, 148; and Kathy Inger, 187.

Budget Report Is Lead Item In Newsletter

Palatine residents will soon be receiving the latest edition of the Palatine Village Newsletter.

The top story in the four-page newsletter is the adoption of the 1970-71 budget amounting to $1.38 million.

"While budgets over the past several years have showed increases in numbers of village employees to meet the service demands of a community growing at the rate of approximately 2,000 persons per year, the new budget provides for no additional full-time personnel," the article says.

It also is explained that the new budget shows an increase in expenditures of about $150,000 over the preceding fiscal year, with 2/3 of the increase due to salary increases and more insurance benefits for village employees.

The newsletter also presents a chart of expenditures showing that 43.6 per cent of village expenditures go to the police department while public works accounts for 19.1 per cent of the expenditures.

The newsletter includes stories about the ground breaking for the new train depot, the village's antipollution activities, new data processing equipment, tree-maintenance policies and the village's tree-planting program.

The newsletter was edited by Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun along with village trustees Thomas C. Kearns, John R. Hughes and Wendell E. Jones.

DUFFERS PRACTICE their golfing at what has become a controversial driving range, the Rob Roy facility on Euclid Avenue east of Wheeling Road in Prospect Heights. The driving range is the subject of an annexation and rezoning proposal currently before the Mount Prospect Village Board.

Several homeowners associations oppose the proposal.

Watermann Residents Ask Speeding Help

Residents living along Watermann Avenue in Prospect Heights are soliciting the help of local agencies to stop drivers who they claim are disobeying the speed limit along their street.

Watermann Avenue runs between Thomas Avenue (Old Willow Road) and Rand Road, just east of Hersey High School. Before the Brandenburg Court apartments were built near Rand and Camp McDonald roads, Watermann Avenue was a dead-end street. During construction of the development in 1968, Watermann Avenue was continued south past Olive Avenue to Rand Road.

The speed limit on Watermann Avenue is 20 miles per hour. According to Kenneth Voss, a resident on the street, "many drivers are disobeying the speed limit and driving 45 miles per hour."

Voss, along with other residents on the street, prefer the "old days" when Watermann Avenue was a quiet, residential street with virtually no traffic except for the local motorists.

"THERE ARE A LOT of young children on the street who are continually visiting each other back and forth across the street," said Mrs. Cornelius Snelten.

"When classes begin and end each day at Hersey High School, the traffic is unbelievable," said Mrs. Snelten.

Last week Mrs. Snelten's seven-year-old son, Kris, was struck by a car on Watermann Avenue. He has been playing with his friends in the street and, when one boy began to chase him, he turned his bike and struck a passing car. Kris' bike was damaged, but he escaped injury.

Many of the residents on Watermann Avenue feel discouraged about finding a solution to the traffic problem. Voss said, "It looks like the problem won't be corrected until a child is seriously hurt."

VOSS SAID HE contacted the Arlington Heights police, but they could offer no help because the street is in unincorporated Prospect Heights and out of their jurisdiction.

Officials at Hersey High School were also contacted by the residents. According to Principal Roland Gons, "We told the residents we would discourage the students from speeding. And if they give us the license plate numbers of the speeding cars we will trace them."

"Wednesday the residents reported five license plate numbers to us, but only one of them belonged to a student's car," said Gons. "We will have a conference with the parents of any student reported speeding."

Wednesday Ron Giddings visited the Cook County Sheriff's Police Department headquarters in Chicago seeking assistance. Later that day a police patrol car was stationed in Giddings' driveway to apprehend speeders.

"There is not much we can do about this problem," said Officer Roger Holt at the county police station in Niles. "We have only one patrol car for the entire northwest unincorporated area."

"I suggested to the residents that they ask the highway department to restrict the street to one-way north bound traffic," said Holt. "And I suggested they contact their local school officials."

Complex To Be Discussed

The Mount Prospect Village Board will meet in executive session Tuesday at the request of Trustee George Reiter to discuss the development of the Old Orchard Country Club.

Only last week, the board unanimously approved an agreement which will pave the way for a multi-million-dollar apartment, office and hotel complex on the 205-acre site.

As a result of this agreement between the village and the owner of the property, Albert Newman, a consent decree outlining the details of the development will be filed in court.

Reiter however asked the board not to submit the consent decree to the judge for final approval until the board met again in executive session to discuss the issue. Reiter gave no reason for requesting the meeting.

The decree calls for the development of 13 12-story buildings. Two office buildings, 10 apartment buildings and a hotel have been proposed for the 205-acre site. The decree also provides for the preservation of the golf course portion of the site for 50 years.

Once the consent decree is approved in court, the village will be required to allow construction of the development as outlined in the consent decree. Village Atty. John Zimmermann told the board Tuesday it would be about two weeks to one month before the case could be submitted in court.

Newman, owner of the property, has also agreed to turn over about two acres of land to the village for the construction of a two-million gallon reservoir and pump station and a fire station.

Mayor Robert Teichert said the resolution of the Old Orchard property will end "one, big nagging problem for everyone involved in the negotiations." Plans for the development of the country club site have been on the drawing boards since 1963, when Newman petitioned for annexation and rezoning by the village.

Several years ago, in an effort to annex the 205-acre site, the village board approved a new planned recreational open space ordinance. The ordinance permitted construction of 27-story buildings and preservation of the golf course for 15 years.

Despite a vote of 7 to 0 by the village's zoning board against the Old Orchard development proposal, the village board approved the annexation and development of the country club site in 1964.

The controversy over the country club proved to be one of the key issues in the 1968 village elections when C. O. Schlaver ran for re-election as village president.

One of the most vocal opponents of the Old Orchard development was Daniel Congreve. Congreve, who had previously

Lindstrom Back From Europe Tour

After returning from a 13-day tour of Europe and the Middle East this week, The Rev. Paul D. Lindstrom, national chairman of the "Remember the Pueblo Committee," said, "Many U.S. and German military personnel who served in the armed forces between the years 1944 and 1963 are now in Soviet Union slave labor camps."

Rev. Lindstrom, of Prospect Heights, said he made the trip to investigate reports he had received since the committee was formed in 1968 about U.S. and West German personnel in detention in the Soviet Union.

During the tour, Rev. Lindstrom said he was told in East Berlin by "highly reliable sources" that nine U.S. Air Force personnel whose plane was downed by Soviet jets over the Sea of Japan on July 29, 1963 are still being held in the Soviet Union.

This week, Rev. Lindstrom said messages were sent by the committee to West German Chancellor Willy Brandt and to Secretary of State William P. Rogers concerning this information.

Rev. Lindstrom is also pastor of the Church of Christian Liberty in Prospect Heights.

Park District To Hold Dance Lessons

Tap and ballet dancing lessons will be sponsored by the Prospect Heights Park District this fall.

Parents may enroll their children in the program tomorrow from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. at Hersey High School. According to park director Ron Greenberg, the classes are limited so parents should enroll their children early.

Classes, instructed by the Lyric School of Dance, will begin Sept. 19 and be held in the Hersey dance rooms. Dancers will take lessons one hour a week on Saturday between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. or Monday between 5 p.m. and 9 p.m.

Lessons will be taught on three different levels: grammar school, high school and pre-school. Fee for the lessons have not yet been announced.

supported Schlaver, severed all ties with his administration over the Old Orchard issue and waged his own campaign for mayor on the promise to revoke any rezoning classification for the country club site.

Congreve defeated Schlaver in April 1965 and the ordinance for the development was repealed and the property rezoned for single-family residential development.

NEWMAN THEN filed suit against the village for violation of the pre-annexation agreement. He sought court action to regain apartment zoning on the land, and if not, to then disannex from the village.

Palatine-83 Accident Kills Man, 76

Richard Runge, 76, of 822 N. Dunton Ave. in Arlington Heights, was killed in a traffic accident Wednesday afternoon at the intersection of Palatine Road and Rte. 83 in Prospect Heights.

The accident occurred about 2:50 p.m. while Runge was driving west along the Palatine frontage road. At the intersection of Palatine Road and Rte. 83, he turned south, and then east, attempting to enter the eastbound Palatine frontage road.

According to Cook County Sheriff Policeman Dennis Baker, "Witnesses reported Runge drove through a red light when he turned onto the eastbound frontage road."

A SEMI-TRAILER truck collided with Runge's car on frontage road, forcing it into a traffic signal which he knocked over.

Runge was taken to Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines where he was pronounced dead on arrival. The body was removed to the Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home in Arlington Heights.

The truck driver, whose name was not released, did not require medical attention, according to Baker.

Three fire trucks from the Prospect Heights Fire Department arrived at the intersection, soon after to wash away spilled gasoline.

Traffic was held up at the intersection for about 35 minutes. Additional police from the county and Wheeling assisted in directing traffic.

This launched the beginning of more than five years of litigation and controversy over the annexation and development of the site. The consent decree is the result of almost 1½ years of negotiations between the village board and Newman. The negotiations were reactivated after Teichert was elected in 1969.

"Congreve opposed every compromise for the development of the property, and there was no other way than to negotiate, except all-out litigation. Five years ago, an elected official would lose votes unless he was opposed to apartment complexes and commercial developments. But residents don't realize it's impossible to have all single-family developments in the village and low taxes, too," Teichert said.

"It would be disastrous if Old Orchard were developed with all single-family residences because this puts a burden on the community without the development contributing anything to the village. It puts a burden on maintenance of the subdivision as well as the provision of police and fire protection."

Church Launches Fund-raising Plan

"Mission Possible," a three-year fund program to raise $125,000 for the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd in Prospect Heights, has been launched by the Rev. Dennis Anderson, pastor.

Members of the congregation are now preparing for a visitation program which will run from Sept. 20 to Oct. 4. In order to reach the goal, Pastor Anderson and his visitation team are requesting each family to contribute $4 a week.

Part of the funds collected will be used to pay off a debt of $285,000, assumed when construction began on a new education and worship facility at the present church site at 1111 N. Elmhurst Rd.

Resident Attends NIU Conference

Thomas Ratcliffe, of Prospect Heights, was one of 34 students selected to attend a conference last month sponsored by the Northern Illinois University to investigate means to deter mob violence.

The university was the scene of student violence last May following the sending of U.S. troops into Cambodia and the killing of four Kent State University students during a confrontation with National Guardsmen.

Opposition To Rob Roy Heard

Opposition to the proposed annexation and development of the Rob Roy Driving Range was registered by more than 200 residents at a public hearing last night.

The case was heard before the judiciary committee of the Mt. Prospect Village board after the case was referred to committee by the village board Tuesday.

Residents charged that the $27,000,000 planned pit development by Kenroy Builders Inc. would overburden the school and park districts, encourage high-density housing in an area which is mostly residential and destroy open space.

"If this annexation is approved, I will strongly recommend to my clients that the case be brought to the courts," challenged Attorney Donald Barliant, who represents the Camelot Sycamore Square Citizen's Association in its fight against the development.

Barliant told the judiciary committee he will contest the case on two legal points—the restrictive covenant on the parcel of property zoned B-5 (business use), and strip annexation.

Patrick Link, an attorney for the Woodview Civic Association, challenged the judiciary committee as well as the village board to discuss with the county zoning board the possibilities for developing the property and maintaining it under any circumstances for open space.

"Why efforts haven't been put forth by the village board to explore the avenues for preserving open spaces in this area, I don't know," Link told the committee.

Residents opposing the development questioned the zoning on the site and the possibility that Kenroy could build other developments under the county zoning.

Opposition was also registered by former village trustee Earl Lewis, "I implore you not to permit the development because it will add to the serious problem of pollution in this area. We already have problems with supplying enough electrical power and we don't need to have that compounded. With the development of high-rise apartments, we will add most definitely to the problems of pollution and power supply."

Roy Gottlieb, and John Bickley of Kenroy, defended their position on the development of the Rob Roy site. Gottlieb said, "The plan would have no adverse affect on the community, it would be an economic tax benefit as well as advantageous to the community."

During the Labor Day weekend the corps, which includes members from several villages in the Northwest suburbs, participated in two field competitions and parades.

At Lowell, Ind., the Guardsmen captured first-place honors in field competition Sunday night. The corps marched in a parade there Monday.

At Kewanee the group participated in a Labor Day Festival parade Saturday morning. That night the group competed in a field competition, placing fourth.

Edith Freund

Hail and farewell to the young adults in the household of Jean and Jim DeMar, 106 Prospect Manor.

Philip, 24, returned recently after 10½ months in Vietnam as a medical technician with the Army Medical Corps. Philip served with the Army for two years after he finished his college work. At the present time his plans are indefinite, his mother reports.

But just as Phil gets settled in, Jane, 19, a college junior, leaves for Schiller University in Heidelberg for a year's work on her political science major. Her Mount Prospect friends are wondering and worrying, but not Jane.

Jane, who speaks little German, has taken a plane for Luxembourg and then faces a 22-hour delay before her train leaves for Heidelberg. How will she get anything to eat? Where will she stay? Will she find the train station in time? Sounds like a Deutschland soap opera.

But Jane's supreme confidence may be because she has the classic asset of the soap opera heroine on her side—she is a very pretty girl.

September 15 is the time when the good news will be posted at the Mount Prospect Public Library. That's when earnest members of the summer reading club will learn if they have earned tickets to "The Thwarting of Baron Bolligrew", a Goodman Touring Theater offering.

Librarians also remind us that there is a Thursday morning story hour for preschoolers between 10:30 and 11.

Clint and Ruby Meyer, 115 S. Elm, leave soon for a seven-month stay in Yuma, Ariz., where Clint will take treatment for a bad back. He has had surgery several times, but now doctors recommend hydrotherapy. We hope everything goes well for the Meyers. Send cheer.

Also ailing is Dorothy Arms of the Mount Prospect Book Nook. She is hospitalized at Lutheran General in Park Ridge—room 308. She'll be there a while, so communicate.

Scouts Complete Two-Week Trip

Boy Scout Troop 23 of Mount Prospect completed a two-week trip recently to Camp Napawon near Wild Rose, Wis. The troop received 32 merit badges during the trip.

Seven boys received the Paul Bunyan Award for using an ax. A total of 16 passed the mile swim, and two became Scout lifeguards.

The camp included three swimming outings, two shooting contests and an all-day canoe trip for 15 miles on the Wau-paca River.

Leaders on the trip were: Jack Dawson, Lowell Ackmann, Jim Scott, Gil Spencer, Archie Hampton, Floyd Bethell and George Winterstein.

On Sept. 25 Yomarcos will hold its annual thing in the forest preserve when it kicks off its year. More about this cryptic remark later. All you Yomarcos folks, you know who you are. Call Midge French and say you are coming.

Sept. 27 the Historical Society will hold an open house at 2 p.m. for the new members. Members of the society will display "old things" according to president, Jack Weber.

By "old things" Jack did not mean the husbands and wives of members, but cherished artifacts from their own homes and families. Since many of the members grew up in Mount Prospect, that means that these display items were part of early days right here in town. We know you will want to see this unique hometown exhibit.

There will also be a display of pressed glass, antique primitives and pharmaceutical antiques. No items will be for sale.

The $1 entrance fee will be applied toward society membership. Individual membership is $5, student $1 (the entire entrance fee) and family memberships are $10.

We don't know who Arnold Gorza is, but we have no doubt he will leave his mark on the world. He already has. When the library put a much-needed cement short-out on the east side of their building recently, Arnold felt called upon to leave his name and the year. Engraved in cement. Hello, Arnold Gorza, wherever you are. Go read a good book, Arnold.

Fraud Office's Ear Bent To 30

by JUDY MEHL

Close to 30 people have registered complaints with the Elk Grove Village branch of the consumer fraud bureau since it opened last month. And 12 of these people have had their problems solved.

The branch opened Aug. 15 in the village office behind the police station at 600 Landmeier Rd. It is under the direction of the Illinois Attorney General's Bureau of Consumer Fraud and Protection.

Some complaints which were settled involved delivery of slipcovers that were long overdue and carpeting which was cut the wrong way.

Approximately 12 cases have been settled locally with about 12 others sent to the Chicago office for processing, Tom

King, head of the volunteers manning the office, said.

EACH SATURDAY several of the volunteers open up the conference room from 9 a.m. to noon to receive complaints from people in the Elk Grove Village area. Other local offices are located in Niles and Schaumburg.

People may walk in to fill out their complaint forms or ask questions and be confronted with a gracious smile and a desire to help from either a college student, housewife or a retired special agent for Naval Intelligence.

King, the retired special agent, has been aided by Mrs. Jeanne Seidlein, Mrs. Pat Peacock and Miss Kirsten Reeder. Two new volunteers have joined the forces. They are Mrs. Kay Lycette and

Mrs. June Cronin.

All have volunteered because they believe too many people have been taken by unscrupulous businessmen or lose money because they are afraid to return to a company with complaints.

"We had to tell several people that we could do nothing and they should hire an attorney," he said.

"IF YOU'VE ALREADY accepted the merchandise after signing a contract or you buy a house and live in it a year and then complain that it's falling apart, we can't handle it," King said.

"If it's fraud, we can handle it. Sometimes things can be straightened out by a phone call.

"When you come right down to it consumer fraud agencies can become a nuisance to companies and they are willing to go along with us rather than just an individual. When dealing with state or federal agencies they are a little more cautious. They don't want it to get around that such and such a company was a lousy one to do business with," King said.

ALTHOUGH THE office is located in Elk Grove Village, most of the people using it are from the surrounding communities. Only three people from Elk Grove have registered complaints according to King, while most of the others were from Itasca, Bensenville, Palatine and Mount Prospect.

Their complaints have been about clothes that didn't fit right or cheap jewelry or the stretch from industry. King said, naming Chicago Magnet Wire in Elk Grove Village as the industry one resident complained was a polluter.

"She bought the property with the understanding there was no pollution and then found there was. Too bad she bought the property without smelling. We can't do anything about that," King said.

Students Serve As Volunteer Leaders

Six Mount Prospect students are serving as volunteer leaders at the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana during New Student Week this week.

Each of the 400 volunteers will help a dozen or two new students learn their way around the campus and also assist them in the registration process.

The students are: Laurel Batka, 608 S. Edward St.; Len Johnson, 510 S. Louis St.; Patti Laugel, 14 W. Lonnquist Blvd.; Mark MacRae, 109 N. Fairview St.; Jim Phelan, 302 N. Wille St.; and Paula Val-lari, 1607 Barbary Ln.

Anderson To Discuss Con Son

U. S. Rep. William Anderson, D-Tenn., will visit the 13th Congressional District today "to discuss Rep. Philip Crane's attempt to whitewash the Con Son prison report."

Anderson, one of two congressmen who visited the Con Son prison in Vietnam to report conditions there were inhumane, will hold a press conference in Glenview at 4 p.m. and also will speak at the Palatine Township Democratic Organization's dinner-dance at Rolling Green Country Club in Arlington Heights.

Following his visit, Crane, R-13th, also visited the prison and said reports of conditions there were "grossly exaggerated."

Anderson's visit was arranged by State Rep. Edward A. Warman, D-Skokie, who is challenging Crane for the 13th District seat in Congress in November. Crane beat Warman in last year's special Congressional election by 20,000 votes.

ANDERSON AND U. S. Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., were members of a congressional committee which visited South Vietnam, and one of the committee staff members who sold a story and pictures of the prison to Life magazine. The story told of mistreatment, malnutrition and generally unhealthy conditions there, and criticized the United States for supporting a government which allowed the conditions to exist.

Crane said he found none of the conditions described in the Life magazine articles and pictures and said conditions at Con Son were better than conditions in some Vietnamese homes, and also were better than conditions in many American prisons.

He accused Hawkins and his staff members of being "blind or deliberately misrepresenting what they found there."

Crane's statements prompted a strong rebuttal on the floor of the House of Representatives by several congressmen who defended Hawkins and Anderson.

ANDERSON HAS BEEN a congressman since 1964. Prior to that, he was a Navy officer and commander of the atomic submarine Nautilus when it made its historic cruise under the North Pole.

Anderson will be joined at the Palatine Democrats' dinner tonight by Adlai E. Stevenson III, Democratic candidate for United States Senator.

O'Hare Action Probed

A special Illinois Senate subcommittee will hold hearings Monday into allegations that the City of Chicago has planned expansion of O'Hare Airport without notifying nearby suburbs.

State Sen. Howard R. Mohr (R-5th), chairman of the subcommittee, said the committee will hear testimony from some O'Hare area mayors and state legislators on airport expansion and the problems of air and noise pollution in communities near the airport.

"There have been some charges that O'Hare expansion has moved ahead without proper notice to the neighboring communities of such changes," Mohr said.

"We're going to look into that and we're also very concerned about the problems of air pollution and noise pollution," said Mohr.

The hearing will be held at 10 a.m. Monday at the Schiller Park Village Hall, 8526 Irving Park Rd.

Des Plaines Mayor Herbert H. Behrel yesterday said he will attend the hearing of the subcommittee, which was named by State Sen. Arthur R. Swanson (R-28th), chairman of the Senate Municipal Corporations Committee.

According to a statement released this week by State Sen. Arthur Bidwell (R-2nd) and State Rep. Edward Bluthardt (R-Schiller Park), a 1969 state law requiring Chicago's airport authority to notify surrounding communities of expansion plans "is not operating properly."

"When it became apparent the law I sponsored was not proving effective, Sen. Bidwell and I asked Sen. Swanson to conduct an inquiry," said Bluthardt. "I believe they will fully examine the problems and be receptive to suggestions to improve the situation."

He said the law in question requires that notice be given and public hearings held to give communities surrounding O'Hare an opportunity to comment on expansion proposals.

Kidnapper Is Sought

by TOM JACHIMIEC

Elk Grove Village and Chicago police yesterday were continuing an investigation into the kidnapping of an Illinois Institute of Technology professor Wednesday evening.

The professor, Miss Audrey Compagnon, 38, of Chicago, told police she was forced at gunpoint by a man to drive away in her car from a parking lot on Chicago's Southwest side.

She escaped her abductor when the car went out of control during a struggle at Tonne Road and Devon Avenue near Elk Grove Village.

THE CAR WENT into a gully near Hank's Service Station where Miss Compagnon leaped out of the car and ran for help. Her abductor then got behind the wheel and drove off.

"He hadn't really pulled out of drive and this woman came running up shouting for someone to call police," said Hank Sobieski, service station operator.

"There he was holding a gun in his left hand," he said. "I never did get to look at his face."

The man apparently left the car in the parking lot at St. Alexis Hospital, at Bisner and Biesterfield roads.

Police found the 1970 Cougar there later with its lights turned on.

The police combed the area searching for the blond-haired man, a white, about 30, five feet five inches tall, and dressed in a yellow shirt and dark pants.

"We knocked on doors in the area for about one hour after dark," said Det. Robert Salvatore, "but didn't find anything."

"HE EITHER HITCHHIKED or stole another car," he added.

Miss Compagnon, a professor of physics and chemistry at the university, was treated at the hospital for bruises on her legs sustained when she jumped from the car.

She told police the man approached her in the parking lot of a food store at 6649 W. Archer Ave. about 5:30 p.m. as she was attempting to open her car while carrying two bags of groceries.

She told police he jabbed a gun in her side and that he wanted a ride to Brookfield. Later, he changed his mind, she said, and decided to go to Elgin.

After driving around for about an hour he threatened to tie her up, she told police, and when they began to struggle she escaped.

Young GOP Meet

James Peterson, Republican candidate for Cook County treasurer, will speak to the Wheeling Township Young Republicans at their regular monthly meeting tonight at the Arlington Inn, 48 E. Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights.

The 7:45 p.m. meeting is open to the public, according to Bill Holt, president of the Young Republicans, and a special invitation is extended to people between 18 and 35 years, he said.

Peterson, 39, is challenging Democrat Bernard J. Korzen for the county treasurer's post now held by Republican Edmund Kucharski.

Peterson has been deputy county treasurer under Kucharski since 1966 and claims credit for computerizing the treasurer's office.

The Chicagoan also is a state representative, representing the 28th District on Chicago's far south side. He is a member of the House executive and municipalities committees.

Peterson also is vice chairman of the executive committee of the Cook County Republican Organization and is committeeman of the 18th Ward.

Burglary Foiled

A burglary at an Arlington Heights gas station was interrupted in progress late Wednesday night by Arlington Heights police, acting on a tip from two area teenagers.

Police said they arrested John A. Miller, 21, of 640 Sussex, Crystal Lake, after he allegedly broke into Jack's Marathon Service Station, 300 W. Northwest Hwy.

According to police reports an 18-year-old Prospect Heights youth and a 19-year-old Mount Prospect youth, who prefer to remain unidentified, were responsible for preventing the burglary. The youths reportedly approached an Arlington Heights policeman and reported they had seen someone breaking a window in the service station.

According to the police, several police cars converged on the scene and chased Miller, who fled on foot, west on Northwest Highway and then north through vacant lots. Police said they found the suspect hiding under a parked car on Fremont Street.

Real Estate News & Views

YOU DON'T SELL A HOME -
YOU NEGOTIATE THE SALE

It is not always the case that a Real Estate Broker will sell a home for the exact listing price with no complications on mortgage or terms.

Often, there is necessary add-and-subtract between the buyer and the Real Estate Broker as the Real Estate Broker attempts to secure as fair a purchase as he can for the buyer while the interests of the owner are not compromised.

One of the greatest faults of home owners attempting to sell their own homes is inflexibility. Stating a price and terms and then stubbornly sticking to them regardless of the buyer's wants may seem to be a way of saving a lot of negotiating talk; however, it is also a way of losing many a buyer who would otherwise have been happy to purchase the property.

Perhaps the buyer's main concern is the down payment, or perhaps the arrangement of a completely new mortgage by the Real Estate Broker is necessary to resolve the deadlock. Sometimes the inclusion of extras such as drapes or air conditioning will create a solution beneficial to both parties.

An experienced Real Estate Broker is an expert in the give-and-take of property negotiation — a specialty that emphatically requires one.

NORTH POINT STATE BANK of Arlington Heights (IN ORGANIZATION)

The new North Point State Bank moved one step closer to reality last week with the approval of the bank by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

The bank, which had previously been approved for a permit to organize by the Illinois Commissioner of Banks and Trust Companies, now has clearance to complete its organization.

The bank is expected to open approximately October 1st, in temporary quarters in the North Point Shopping Center.

Shortly after the official opening of the temporary quarters of the North Point State Bank, ground will be broken for the bank's permanent headquarters to be located at the north end of the shopping center.

Approximately 10,000 shares are still available for purchase, and the sponsors of the bank have stated their intention to give local area residents first opportunity to share in the bank's ownership.

Persons desiring more information about the bank may call 825-5520, or fill in the coupon.

DUFFERS PRACTICE their golfing at what has become a controversial driving range, the Rob Roy facility on Euclid Avenue east of Wheeling Road in Prospect Heights. The driving range is the subject of an annexation and rezoning proposal currently before the Mount Prospect Village Board.

Several homeowners associations oppose the proposal.

Old Orchard Development To Be Aired

The Mount Prospect Village Board will meet in executive session Tuesday at the request of Trustee George Reiter to discuss the development of the Old Orchard Country Club.

Only last week, the board unanimously approved an agreement which will pave the way for a multi-million-dollar apartment, office and hotel complex on the 205-acre site.

As a result of this agreement between the village and the owner of the property, Albert Newman, a consent decree outlining the details of the development will be filed in court.

Reiter however asked the board not to submit the consent decree to the judge for final approval until the board met again in executive session to discuss the issue. Reiter gave no reason for requesting the meeting.

The decree calls for the development of 13 12-story buildings. Two office buildings, 10 apartment buildings and a hotel have been proposed for the 205-acre site. The decree also provides for the preservation of the golf course portion of the site for 50 years.

Once the consent decree is approved in court, the village will be required to allow construction of the development as outlined in the consent decree. Village Atty. John Zimmermann told the board Tuesday it would be about two weeks to one month before the case could be submitted in court.

Newman, owner of the property, has also agreed to turn over about two acres of land to the village for the construction of a two-million gallon reservoir and pump station and a fire station.

Mayor Robert Teichert said the resolution of the Old Orchard property will end "one, big nagging problem for everyone involved in the negotiations." Plans for the development of the country club site have been on the drawing boards since 1963, when Newman petitioned for annexation and rezoning by the village.

Several years ago, in an effort to annex the 205-acre site, the village board approved a new planned recreational open space ordinance. The ordinance permitted construction of 27-story buildings.

On Dean's List

Paul W. Hoffman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoffman, 218 N. Pine St., Mount Prospect, has been placed on the dean's honor list for the spring term at Concordia Senior College, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Students whose grade point average is 3.5 or better on a scale where A is 4, and B is 3, are recognized in this way. Hoffman is a graduate of Concordia College, Ann Arbor, Mich., and is enrolled in the pre-theological program at Concordia Senior College.

ings and preservation of the golf course for 15 years.

Despite a vote of 7 to 0 by the village's zoning board against the Old Orchard development proposal, the village board approved the annexation and development of the country club site in 1964.

The controversy over the country club, proved to be one of the key issues in the 1965 village elections when C. O. Schlaver ran for re-election as village president.

One of the most vocal opponents of the Old Orchard development was Daniel Congreve. Congreve, who had previously supported Schlaver, severed all ties with his administration over the Old Orchard issue and waged his own campaign for mayor on the promise to revoke any rezoning classification for the country club site.

Congreve defeated Schlaver in April 1965 and the ordinance for the development was repealed and the property rezoned for single-family residential development.

NEWMAN THEN filed suit against the village for violation of the pre-annexation agreement. He sought court action to regain apartment zoning on the land, and if not, to then disannex from the village.

This launched the beginning of more than five years of litigation and controversy over the annexation and development of the site. The consent decree is the result of almost 1½ years of negotiations between the village board and Newman. The negotiations were reactivated after Teichert was elected in 1968.

"Congreve opposed every compromise for the development of the property, and there was no other way than to negotiate, except all-out litigation. Five years ago, an elected official would lose votes unless he was opposed to apartment complexes and commercial developments. But residents don't realize it's impossible to have all single-family developments in the village and low taxes, too," Teichert said.

"It would be disastrous if Old Orchard were developed with all single-family residences because this puts a burden on the community without the development contributing anything to the village. It puts a burden on maintenance of the subdivision as well as the provision of police and fire protection."

Church Launches Fund-raising Plan

"Mission Possible," a three-year fund program to raise $125,000 for the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd in Prospect Heights, has been launched by the Rev. Dennis Anderson, pastor.

Members of the congregation are now preparing for a visitation program which will run from Sept. 20 to Oct. 4. In order to reach the goal, Pastor Anderson and his visitation team are requesting each family to contribute $4 a week.

Part of the funds collected will be used to pay off a debt of $225,000, assumed when construction began on a new education and worship facility at the present church site at 1111 N. Elmhurst Rd.

Funds Appropriated For School Projects

A resolution appropriating $70,622 toward the completion of Illinois Life-Safety Code construction work at the seven Dist. 57 schools was approved by the board Tuesday.

Funds voted on Tuesday will cover remodeling work currently going on at Lincoln Junior High School and Busse and Fairview elementary schools.

Work on the four other schools in the district was completed earlier. A provision in the resolution allows a tax to be levied to pay the difference between the estimated costs and the actual cost. The final cost of the remodeling work was about $14,000 over the initial estimate.

Opposition To Rob Roy Heard

Opposition to the proposed annexation and development of the Rob Roy Driving Range was registered by more than 200 residents at a public hearing last night.

The case was heard before the judiciary committee of the Mt. Prospect Village board after the case was referred to committee by the village board Tuesday.

Residents charged that the $27,000,000 planned pit development by Kenroy Builders Inc. would overburden the school and park districts, encourage high-density housing in an area which is mostly residential and destroy open space.

"If this annexation is approved, I will strongly recommend to my clients that the case be brought to the courts," challenged Attorney Donald Barilant, who represents the Camelot Sycamore Square Citizen's Association in its fight against the development.

Barilant told the judiciary committee he will contest the case on two legal points—the restrictive covenant on the parcel of property zoned B-5 (business use); and strip annexation.

Patrick Link, an attorney for the Woodview Civic Association, challenged the judiciary committee as well as the village board to discuss with the county zoning board the possibilities for developing the property and maintaining it under any circumstances for open space.

"Why efforts haven't been put forth by the village board to explore the avenues for preserving open spaces in this area, I don't know," Link told the committee.

Residents opposing the development questioned the zoning on the site and the possibility that Kenroy could build other developments under the county zoning.

Opposition was also registered by former village trustee Earl Lewis, "I implore you not to permit the development because it will add to the serious problem of pollution in this area. We already have problems with supplying enough electrical power and we don't need to have that compounded. With the development of high-rise apartments, we will add most definitely to the problems of pollution and power supply."

Roy Gottlieb, and John Bickley of Kenroy, defended their position on the development of the Rob Roy site. Gottlieb said, "The plan would have no adverse affect on the community, it would be an economic tax benefit as well as advantageous to the community."

Unveil Plan For Creek

The new plan for the widening of Well Creek in Mount Prospect will be unveiled at a meeting next week.

Presentation of the plan by officials of the Illinois Division of Waterways (IDW) had been scheduled, tentatively for sometime this week. However, according to State Rep. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, the meeting has now been set for 2 p.m. next Thursday in the village hall.

Regner said that John Guillou, chief engineer for the IDW, would be at next week's meeting to present the new plan for the project.

Also expected to be at the meeting are several village officials including members of the village's drainage and clean streams commission.

The project is part of a plan to widen the creek in Des Plaines and Mount Prospect and thus increase its capacity.

State officials hope to start work on the Mount Prospect portion next spring.

An earlier plan for the widening was found to be unacceptable by village officials. That plan showed temporary easements along the creek, greater than what had been anticipated by village officials. It is the village's task to secure those easements from homeowners.

Another village objection to the original plans resulted because the plans showed a permanent easement along the creek. This too had not been expected.

ONCE THE PLANS are accepted by the village, the necessary easements will be sought. About 90 homeowners living along the creek between Mount Prospect Road and Highway 51 are involved.

Robert Klovstad, chairman of the clean streams commission said last week that, as a result of the new plan, he was more hopeful that the easements could be secured by November 1.

Klovstad said that at the meeting, "We will evaluate the new plan from all aspects."

Total cost of the project is about $375,000 according to Regner. A bill calling for the appropriation of about $120,000 for the project was approved by the General Assembly and signed by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie earlier this summer.

Future bills to fund the remainder of the costs will be proposed later.

Teachers Rap Ronchetto

David Metzler, chairman of the Mount Prospect Education Association's (MPEA) negotiating team, and Bob Fasick, president of the teacher's organization, refuted statements made by school board member Jack Ronchetto during Tuesday night's meeting.

Ronchetto expressed dissatisfaction with negotiations that led to the salary and fringe benefit package agreed to over the weekend after teachers walked out of a workshop Friday. He said the package was "liberal and expensive."

Ronchetto, chairman of the school board's negotiating team, said the agreement was "arrived at with a gun at the board's head." He accused the MPEA of violating an agreement not to release any information during the negotiations until a settlement was reached.

"Statements that we held a gun to the school board's head simply aren't true. During the final two days of negotiations there was no pressure on either side. Never once was it mentioned that we were using pressure tactics," said Metzler.

"WHEN THE BOARD first gave us an offer, they indicated it was the final offer. We termed this as the end of the (secrecy) agreement as we were then asked to present it to the teachers to vote on," he said.

"Eight weeks prior to the beginning of school we invited Mr. Ronchetto to attend the meeting Friday and present the school board's side of the issue. If there was any one-sidedness it came from the board's (failure) to present their side."

Some board members also expressed disagreement with an amnesty clause in the final agreement which stated no reprisals would be taken against teachers who walked out of Friday's workshop.

Metzler said the teachers merely "continued the workshop at a different location." The teachers adjourned the meeting Friday to the Mount Prospect Country Club.

AT THE COUNTRY club the teachers divided themselves into groups and discussed curriculum planning the remainder of the afternoon.

"The teachers felt it was the finest workshop they'd ever attended," said Metzler. "They got a lot accomplished working on their own and were extremely prepared to start school. There was not one teacher absent that first day (of school)."

"There seemed to have been more emphasis on money than education during the negotiations. We simply wanted to be competitive with our neighboring districts."

"If we would fall too far behind them we would lose many of our fine teachers. Only in remaining close to our two neighboring districts — Arlington Heights and Elk Grove — can we assure the community the cream of the crop in the educational field and maintain the fine educational program we have now."

Guardsmen Drill Set

The Guardsmen Drum and Bugle Corps of Mount Prospect will stage its final performance Sept. 29 in a parade at Monroe, Wis. The parade Sept. 20 will follow field drill competition Sept. 19 at Monroe.

During the Labor Day weekend the corps, which includes members from several villages in the Northwest suburbs, participated in two field competitions and parades.

At Lowell, Ind., the Guardsmen captured first-place honors in field competition in a parade there Monday.

At Kewanee the group participated in a Labor Day Festival parade Saturday morning. That night the group competed in a field competition, placing fourth.

Hail and farewell to the young adults in the household of Jean and Jim DeMar, 100 Prospect Manor.

Philip, 24, returned recently after 10½ months in Vietnam as a medical technician with the Army Medical Corps. Philip served with the Army for two years after he finished his college work. At the present time his plans are indefinite, his mother reports.

But just as Phil gets settled in, Jane, 19, a college junior, leaves for Schiller University in Heidelberg for a year's work on her political science major. Her Mount Prospect friends are wondering and worrying, but not Jane.

Jane, who speaks little German, has taken a plane for Luxembourg and then faces a 22-hour delay before her train leaves for Heidelberg. How will she get anything to eat? Where will she stay? Will she find the train station in time? Sounds like a Deutschland soap opera.

But Jane's supreme confidence may be because she has the classic asset of the soap opera heroine on her side—she is a very pretty girl.

September 15 is the time when the good news will be posted at the Mount Prospect Public Library. That's when earnest members of the summer reading club will learn if they have earned tickets to "The Thwarting of Baron Bolligrew," a Goodman Touring Theater offering.

Librarians also remind us that there is a Thursday morning story hour for preschoolers between 10:30 and 11.

Clint and Ruby Meyer, 118 S. Elm, leave soon for a seven-month stay in Yuma, Ariz., where Clint will take treatment for a bad back. He has had surgery several times, but now doctors recommend hydrotherapy. We hope everything goes well for the Meyers. Send cheer.

Also ailing is Dorothy Arns of the Mount Prospect Book Nook. She is hospitalized at Lutheran General in Park Ridge—room 308. She'll be there a while, so communicate.

Scouts Complete Two-Week Trip

Boy Scout Troop 23 of Mount Prospect completed a two-week trip recently to Camp Napawoo near Wild Rose, Wis.

The troop received 32 merit badges during the trip.

Seven boys received the Paul Bunyan Award for using an ax. A total of 16 passed the mile swim, and two became Scout lifeguards.

The camp included three swimming outings, two shooting contests and an all-day canoe trip for 15 miles on the Wau-paca River.

Leaders on the trip were: Jack Dawson, Lowell Ackmann, Jim Scott, Gil Spencer, Archie Hampton, Floyd Bethell and George Winterstein.

On Sept. 25 Yomarcos will hold its annual thing in the forest preserve when it kicks off its year. More about this cryptic remark later. All you Yomarcos folks, you know who you are. Call Midge French and say you are coming.

Sept 27 the Historical Society will hold an open house at 2 p.m. for the new members. Members of the society will display "old things" according to president, Jack Weber.

By "old things" Jack did not mean the husbands and wives of members, but cherished artifacts from their own homes and families. Since many of the members grew up in Mount Prospect, that means that these display items were part of early days right here in town. We know you will want to see this unique hometown exhibit.

There will also be a display of pressed glass, antique primitives and pharmaceutical antiques. No items will be for sale.

The $1 entrance fee will be applied toward society membership. Individual membership is $5, student $1 (the entire entrance fee) and family memberships are $10.

We don't know who Arnold Gorza is, but we have no doubt he will leave his mark on the world. He already has. When the library put a much-needed cement short-cut on the east side of their building recently, Arnold felt called upon to leave his name and the year. Engraved in cement. Hello, Arnold Gorza, wherever you are. Go read a good book, Arnold.

Fraud Office's Ear Bent To 30

by JUDY MEHL

Close to 30 people have registered complaints with the Elk Grove Village branch of the consumer fraud bureau since it opened last month. And 12 of these people have had their problems solved.

The branch opened Aug. 15 in the village office behind the police station at 666 Landmeier Rd. It is under the direction of the Illinois Attorney General's Bureau of Consumer Fraud and Protection.

Some complaints which were settled involved delivery of slipcovers that were long overdue and carpeting which was cut the wrong way.

Approximately 12 cases have been settled locally with about 12 others sent to the Chicago office for processing, Tom

King, head of the volunteers manning the office, said.

EACH SATURDAY several of the volunteers open up the conference room from 9 a.m. to noon to receive complaints from people in the Elk Grove Village area. Other local offices are located in Niles and Schaumburg.

People may walk in to fill out their complaint forms or ask questions and be confronted with a gracious smile and a desire to help from either a college student, housewife or a retired special agent for Naval Intelligence.

King, the retired special agent, has been aided by Mrs. Jeanne Seidlein, Mrs. Pat Peacock and Miss Kirsten Reeder. Two new volunteers have joined the forces. They are Mrs. Kay Lycette and

Mrs. June Cronin.

All have volunteered because they believe too many people have been taken by unscrupulous businessmen or lose money because they are afraid to return to a company with complaints.

"We had to tell several people that we could do nothing and they should hire an attorney," he said.

"IF YOU'VE ALREADY accepted the merchandise after signing a contract or you buy a house and live in it a year and then complain that it's falling apart, we can't handle it," King said.

"If it's fraud, we can handle it. Sometimes things can be straightened out by a phone call.

"When you come right down to it consumer fraud agencies can become a nuisance to companies and they are willing to go along with us rather than just an individual. When dealing with state or federal agencies they are a little more cautious. They don't want it to get around that such and such a company was a lousy one to do business with," King said.

ALTHOUGH THE office is located in Elk Grove Village, most of the people using it are from the surrounding communities. Only three people from Elk Grove have registered complaints according to King, while most of the others were from Itasca, Bensenville, Palatine and Mount Prospect.

Their complaints have been about clothes that didn't fit right or cheap jewelry or the stretch from industry. King said, naming Chicago Magnet Wire in Elk Grove Village as the industry one resident complained was a polluter.

"She bought the property with the understanding there was no pollution and then found there was. Too bad she bought the property without smelling. We can't do anything about that," King said.

Students Serve As Volunteer Leaders

Six Mount Prospect students are serving as volunteer leaders at the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana during New Student Week this week.

Each of the 400 volunteers will help a dozen or two new students learn their way around the campus and also assist them in the registration process.

The students are: Laurel Balka, 606 S. Edward St.; Len Johnson, 510 S. Louis St.; Patti Laugel, 14 W. Lonnquist Blvd.; Mark MacRae, 109 N. Fairview St.; Jim Phelan, 302 N. Wille St.; and Paula Val-lari, 1807 Barberrry Ln.

NSLS Books Are Coming

The first education books purchased in cooperation with the North Suburban Library Service (NSLS) will appear on the shelves at Arlington Heights Memorial Library sometime next week.

The books are the first in a collection to be purchased with up to $30,000 made available in the next 18 months by the NSLS in a coordinated acquisitions program.

The NSLS is a state funded agency which serves libraries in the Northwest suburbs.

Under the coordinated acquisitions contract the library will be able to spend up to $10,000 each six months for books on education, Robert McClarren, director of NSLS, said.

The Arlington Heights Library is the fourth library to become a partner in a coordinated acquisitions program, he said.

Libraries are selected for coordinated acquisition programs if they have strong collections in the subject area, a strong staff and a willingness to enter the agreement, he said.

"THE NSLS TRIES 'to build on strength in collections,'" McClarren added.

Subject areas are determined by surveys of libraries in the area to find subject areas with a significant demand, McClarren said.

Harold Ard, Arlington Heights executive librarian, said the library will use the program to acquire books on child psychology, history of education and books to help parents teach their children.

"We are very happy to have this collection because it will make more books available to our patrons," he said.

The books will technically be owned by the NSLS but will be shelved and checked out like any other book in the library, Ard said.

All book selection will be done by the staff at the local library, he added. After the 18 month contract is up the library, the NSLS may decide to extend it.

Also, Ard said, "we are hoping that other coordinated acquisitions collections in other subject areas can be housed here."

KIDS ARE PEOPLE? At a meeting last weekend about the United Motor Coach Co. held in Des Plaines, officials heard that the company was losing $12,000 a month. The company hauls local school children for several school districts. The kids don't cost the company money, officials reported, or, as one mayor phrased it, "The loss is mainly based on transporting people — not children."

WORD, WORDS . . . The little girls' restroom at Arlington Heights Memorial Library is being repainted to get rid of the many messages that users have put there. Executive librarian Harold Ard told the Library Board, "The little girls know more words than the big girls . . ."

BUBBLEGUM IS ALSO causing a problem in the library rest rooms, according to a janitor cleaning the building Tuesday night. Some people, he said, put a large wad of gum at the top of the stall and stretch it as far down the wall as they can — leaving him to roll it back up.

VOLUNTEERS, ANYONE? Members of the Board of Health were trying to decide which doctor-member should give flu shots to village employees this fall. Cheerfully, board members moved that one of the two absent members get the job. Board chairman Dr. John Detweiler quipped, "That's the way it works. I missed a meeting of this committee and was elected chairman."

FOR LACK OF AN "E" . . . The August Health Service report of Arlington Heights indicated that there have been no reported cases of "venereal" disease in the village this year. Of course, the report didn't mention venereal disease . . .

ACCIDENTAL ACRONYM? Village Pres. Jack Walsh questioned the letter designation applied to the village's new liquor licenses. "I find it rather ironic that the board chose to term the new late-night license AA," Walsh quipped.

COMMUTERS have probably noticed the new sign plastered over broken windows on the Chicago and North Western R.R. trains. In part, the sign states, "This broken window is brought to you discourtesy of vandals."

Woman Seriously Burned

A 71-year-old Arlington Heights woman was seriously burned early yesterday morning when she was engulfed in flames during a fire in her apartment.

The woman, Anna L. Dowd, of 2420 Brandenberry Ct., reportedly telephoned the Arlington Heights fire department and reported her apartment was on fire. Upon arrival, firemen said, they had to kick down the door to the apartment to gain entry. They said they saw the woman, who is unable to walk by herself, sitting in a chair with her nightgown ablaze.

While firemen were extinguishing the flames an ambulance was called to transport Mrs. Dowd to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, where she was treated for burns of the right leg and the upper portion of her body.

Spokesmen at the hospital said Mrs. Dowd was seriously burned and transported her to the Cook County Hospital Burn Center for further treatment. A spokesman at the burn center later yesterday said the woman is listed in fair condition.

Police reports indicate the fire apparently started when a lighted cigarette fell onto the floor while the woman was asleep. The fire was confined primarily to the area immediately surrounding the chair in which she was seated.

Driving along Schaumburg Road in a merry old mobile, a youth enjoys the open air on a fall day.

Learn To Swim Classes To Begin

Swimming classes offered by the Arlington Heights Park District will begin tomorrow with less than full capacity crowds, as of late yesterday.

Jack Peleck, recreation supervisor for the park district, said the classes still have openings. Most classes are held Saturdays at the park district's indoor swimming pool, Olympic Park, 660 N. Ridge Ave.

The classes have not been filled because the district's fall program brochure is still being printed and thus no brochures have been mailed to residents' homes, Peleck said.

Residents may register for the classes at the park district's administration offices in Olympic Park's building today or next week.

UNDER A NEW program, swimmers who miss a class during the 10-week sessions will be allowed to pick up that lesson during another session. Swim instructors for the park district teach with the "station method," which allows each individual to be placed with students in his ability group.

Classes which will begin tomorrow include a pre-school course designed to teach parents how to instruct their own children in water survival. Participants should include one parent with one child. Classes are held Saturdays from 11 a.m. to noon.

A beginners swimming class open to children 7-year-old and older will teach children elementary swimming strokes. One-hour classes begin at 9 a.m., 10 a.m. and noon.

For swimmers who have progressed beyond the beginner stage, the park district offers an advanced beginner course. Classes begin at 9 a.m., 10 a.m. and noon.

INTERMEDIATE swimming classes open to persons who have completed the advanced beginner course will begin at 11 a.m. and noon.

Swimmers' classes designed to teach the fine points of basic swimming strokes will meet from 11 a.m. to noon.

The advanced swimmer classes will meet from 11 a.m. to noon. Diving classes for persons who have passed the intermediate swimming course will be given at the same time.

For the Saturday classes, swimmers must be at least 7-years old, four feet tall and not older than 15 years. The fees for the classes are $3 for 10 lessons. Six year olds may take swimming lessons if they have completed the first grade and are four feet tall.

ADULT SWIMMING instruction classes will meet Mondays from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. The course is designed to teach beginning and intermediate swimming. Swimmers should be 16-years-old or older.

The fees for all the classes will be $3 for 10-lessons. Season pool passes are not required for persons registering for swimming lessons.

Accident Kills Man, 76 Palatine-83

Richard Runge, 76, of 922 N. Dunton Ave. in Arlington Heights, was killed in a traffic accident Wednesday afternoon at the intersection of Palatine Road and Rte. 83 in Prospect Heights.

The accident occurred about 2:50 p.m. while Runge was driving west along the Palatine frontage road. At the intersection of Palatine Road and Rte. 83 he turned south, and then east, attempting to enter the eastbound Palatine frontage road.

According to Cook County Sheriff Policeman Dennis Baker, "Witnesses reported Runge drove through a red light when he turned onto the eastbound frontage road."

A SEMI-TRAILER truck collided with Runge's car on frontage road, forcing it into a traffic signal which he knocked over.

Runge was taken to Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines where he was pronounced dead on arrival. The body was removed to the Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home in Arlington Heights.

The truck driver, whose name was not released, did not require medical attention, according to Baker.

Three fire trucks from the Prospect Heights Fire Department arrived at the intersection, soon after to wash away spilled gasoline.

Traffic was held up at the intersection for about 25 minutes. Additional police from the county and Wheeling assisted in directing traffic.

Guardsmen Drill Set

The Guardsmen Drum and Bugle Corps of Mount Prospect will stage its final performance Sept. 20 in a parade at Monroe, Wis. The parade Sept. 20 will follow field drill competition Sept. 19 at Monroe.

During the Labor Day weekend the corps, which includes members from several villages in the Northwest suburbs, participated in two field competitions and parades.

At Lowell, Ind., the Guardsmen captured first-place honors in field competition Sunday night. The corps marched in a parade there Monday.

At Kewanee the group participated in a Labor Day Festival parade Saturday morning. That night the group competed in a field competition, placing fourth.

Joins Honorary Unit

Richard D. Schoonmaker, 809 W. Lynwood, Arlington Heights, was initiated into the Beta Gamma Sigma national scholastic honorary at Michigan State University, East Lansing, Mich.

Election to Beta Gamma Sigma is the highest scholastic honor that a student in business administration can win. Only the top ten per cent of those graduating are eligible for selection.

James Peterson, Republican candidate for Cook County treasurer, will speak to the Wheeling Township Young Republicans at their regular monthly meeting tonight at the Arlington Inn, 48 E. Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights.

The 7:45 p.m. meeting is open to the public, according to Bill Holt, president of the Young Republicans, and a special invitation is extended to people between 18 and 35 years, he said.

Peterson, 39, is challenging Democrat Bernard J. Korzen for the county treasurer's post now held by Republican Edmund Kucharski.

Peterson has been deputy county treasurer under Kucharski since 1966 and claims credit for computerizing the treasurer's office.

The Chicagoan also is a state representative, representing the 26th District on Chicago's far south side. He is a member of the House executive and municipalities committees.

Costs Delaying Berkley Completion

Rising construction costs have put a damper on plans to complete Berkley Grade School, 2501 N. Chestnut Ave.

The Board of Education of Dist. 28, meeting in the new addition to Olive School, 308 E. Olive St., last night heard the costs to complete the second phase of the new building has increased 23 per cent over original estimates.

Leonard Wicklund, of the architectural firm of O'Donnell, Pignesi and Wicklund, said that, based on his recent experience with another project and discussions with contractors, he thought the cost of completing Berkley School would range between $200,000 and $220,000.

The original budget had called for $153,000 for completion of the school.

On the basis of these figures, superintendent Donald Strong recommended that the board put the original plans for Berkley out for bids. While bidding proceeded, the staff could work with the architects on possible revisions of plans in the event that bids were too high, Strong said.

The board approved Strong's recommendation after hearing reports that the 12 classrooms of completed Berkley School could reach full projected enrollment by September of 1972. Also, according to staff recommendations, construction of an addition at Ivy Hill School will be delayed. The completion of Berkley is expected to take pressure off enrollment at Ivy Hill.

Earlier in the meeting, the faculty members at Olive School presented a report on the multi-age classes being held there. Last year the school had one classroom with six, seven and eight year olds.

This year the program has been expanded to six classrooms with multi-age groups, Olive School Principal Mary Stitt said.

Dist. 59 Classroom Proven Safe

by JUDY MEHL

Preliminary investigation of a Dist. 59 classroom which one teacher said was a potential fire hazard showed that a problem apparently does not exist.

The classroom, an art room at Grove Junior High School in Elk Grove Village, was investigated yesterday by the Elk Grove Village Fire Department, according to Fire Chief Allen Hulett.

He said the room had two exits, which is all that is required by law and the village fire ordinance. He said the investigation also would include inspection of the room for proper ventilation.

The complaint about the condition of the classroom was made by an art teacher who did not wish to disclose her name. It was made at a board meeting Tuesday night, when she was expressing concern about the size of the class.

She had said the class had an average of 40 students and that she had to put in two extra tables to accommodate them. She then said she was concerned that the room might be a potential fire hazard since it also had no windows or ventilation.

DAVE ROBERT, Teacher's Council negotiation chairman, who also teaches at Grove, said that although the room was safe, it was less than desirable from an educational standpoint because of the number of students.

Teachers in Dist. 59, especially junior high teachers, claim that classes have too many students per teacher and that in many of the classrooms desks or work tables had to be added to accommodate the additional students, causing overcrowding.

Although a new junior high school has been proposed for opening in September, 1972, with completion in 1974, the teachers are seeking an immediate solution.

They want more teachers to be hired by the district, with a lowering of class sizes.

The district last year had 503 teachers and the board of education approved the hiring of an additional 25 to maintain the class size level of last year. Most of the 25 have been hired.

However, the teachers have been delaying ratification of a contract until the contract includes lowering of class size. They are also supporting a professional sanction of the district, which means they are not performing any lunchroom supervision or extra duty teaching in the areas of sports or other extra-curricular subjects.

WHEN THEY confronted the board with a request to lower class size they were told that the board would take no action until the sixth-day enrollment figures were received on Tuesday.

The teachers will wait until the sixth-day enrollment figures are in before they take any further action on the contracts, Robert said.

No further negotiation meetings have been scheduled between the two teams.

Board OKs Restaurant's New Coop

Chicken Unlimited was un-limited Wednesday night by the Arlington Heights Plan Commission.

The commission voted at a continued hearing to recommend that the board of trustees approve a B-1 special use request for the franchise food operation. The building is planned for Dundee Road, just east of Arlington Heights Road.

The commission first considered the matter July 1, but continued the hearing so that the petitioner could provide more information. Commissioners originally objected to the lack of some type of a driveway behind the proposed restaurant.

Wednesday night, Robert Kent, representative of Chicken Unlimited, told the commission the company would agree to dedicate a street to run behind the property. The commissioners then recommended approval of the special use request.

EARLIER IN THE evening the commission voted to recommend to the village trustees that they deny a request for a planned development for a doctor's building at 2010 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

After a discussion arose over the possible alignment of access roads to the development and Seeger Road, a motion was made to continue the hearing until Dec. 9. Eugene Schlickman, attorney for the petitioner, said his clients would not favor a continuance and asked that the matter be voted upon. The commission then voted to recommend denial of the request.

For a boy from Waterloo, Iowa, Burt Showers has really been around.

When we listen to news reports on hijacked jets in the Jordanian desert, we try to imagine what's going on. Headlines of student riots in India conjure mental pictures of what it's like.

Burt Showers doesn't have to imagine. He's been there.

In fact, Showers has been a witness to most of the world history in the making for the last 20 years. After all, there are only two or three countries in the world on which he hasn't set foot.

And it couldn't be more appropriate, for Showers is a world history teacher at Forest View High School. He also specializes in Latin American and Russian history, and serves as the school's director of student activities.

WHEN SHOWERS STANDS in front of a classroom and points to a world map, students get the feeling that his finger isn't tracing only the boundaries of faraway lands, but memories of personal experiences.

At 45, Showers is one of few Americans who can say he has traveled around the world alone. This was his accomplishment this past summer.

And since 1950, when he was a teacher at Palatine High School, Showers has spent each summer logging hundreds of thousands of miles around the globe.

He has ridden the subways of Leningrad and Moscow, been swarmed by beggars on the streets of Calcutta, driven a jeep through the Andes Mountains and recently wandered through the backroads of Nepal where mountain bandits would have shot him on sight 10 years ago.

Hong Kong, Rangoon, the Nile River — the list can go on and on for a man who speaks Spanish, French, German, Italian and Portuguese.

IT ALL STARTED FOR Showers when his military unit was shipped from Iowa to the mountains of Oregon for basic training.

"It was then that I fell in love with the difference of strange places," he said. "It was then I decided I was going to see and learn and do as many things as I could."

Since then, he's lived up to that decision. And of all his travels, Showers said "the highlight was my trip to Russia."

Two summers ago he journeyed through 8 of the Soviet Union's 15 republics. He then went to Czechoslovakia. Putting the two experiences together and adding a touch of his knowledge of world history, Showers said he "knew something was up." Two days after he checked out of his Czechoslovakian hotel, Russian troops seized the country.

He's had other close calls like this one, but he said worrying about them is not the mark of a good traveler.

STILL SINGLE — "which gives me a lot more freedom to take off and follow a whim" — Showers said next summer he wants to travel through central Africa, one of two places he hasn't visited yet. The other is Red China, "which is a little more difficult to get into."

But even to a world traveler like Showers, home is a good place to be. "I've always come back with a better appreciation of my own country. Not that I agree with all the nonsense that's going on. I've never been ashamed of my country, just its people."

It's thoughts like this Showers probably shares with his students. He also shares the thousands of slides on "the difference of strange places" with his young students, many of whom have never been outside of Illinois.

But maybe the item of most value Showers has to share with pupils and friends is a perception which many years and many miles has given to him.

Or as he put it: "I've learned this: there is one world and people are people. I'm not talking of governments. I'm talking of people, just like you, just like me."

BOLI Talks Over Projects

Watch out, residents, here comes BOLI. The four initials strike fear into the hearts of residents who have been involved in special assessments projects by the Board of Local Improvements (BOLI).

And during a meeting last night, BOLI members discussed one new project they wanted to tackle.

Board member David Patterson pointed out that an area just south of Rand Road and west of Kennicott Drive has only a gravel lane. The street, called Greenwood Court, is in an area which was annexed to the village more than a year ago.

The board's engineering firm was instructed to prepare strip maps in preparation for starting proceedings for paving of the street. The new avenue would have to be aligned with Verde Drive which is presently a dead end street on the north end.

The area is just north of Greenbrier Park and Greenbrier School. The project would mean a possible cut through a small portion of the park to make Verde align with the new street which would then provide direct access to Rand Road.

If the board decides to go ahead with the project, then it can begin special assessment proceedings and legally force people to pay for the project.

Another project mentioned was the paving of Kaspar Avenue from Campbell Street south to Sigwalt Street. Presently, Kaspar is only a half-street for that block.

Arlington Man Is Charged In Crash

A 27-year-old Arlington Heights man was charged with driving while intoxicated late Tuesday night after he was involved in a traffic accident on Hickory Avenue, just north of Kensington Road.

Police said Signey M. Larson, of 837 N. Hickory Ave., was charged after his car struck head-on an auto driven by Dennis W. Waage, 19, of 1119 Greenbrier Ct., Arlington Heights. Waage reportedly had backed out of a driveway and was heading south on Hickory when his car was struck.

Fraud Office's Ear Bent To 30

by JUDY MEHL

Close to 30 people have registered complaints with the Elk Grove Village branch of the consumer fraud bureau since it opened last month. And 12 of these people have had their problems solved.

The branch opened Aug. 15 in the village office behind the police station at 666 Landmeier Rd. It is under the direction of the Illinois Attorney General's Bureau of Consumer Fraud and Protection.

Some complaints were settled involved delivery of slipcovers that were long overdue and carpeting which was cut the wrong way.

Approximately 12 cases have been settled locally with about 12 others sent to the Chicago office for processing, Tom King, head of the volunteers manning the office, said.

EACH SATURDAY several of the volunteers open up the conference room from 9 a.m. to noon to receive complaints from people in the Elk Grove Village area. Other local offices are located in Niles and Schaumburg.

People may walk in to fill out their complaint forms or ask questions and be confronted with a gracious smile and a desire to help from either a college student, housewife or a retired special agent for Naval Intelligence.

King, the retired special agent, has been aided by Mrs. Jeanne Seidlin, Mrs. Pat Peacock and Miss Kirsten Reeder. Two new volunteers have joined the forces. They are Mrs. Kay Lyette and Mrs. June Cronin.

All have volunteered because they believe too many people have been taken by unscrupulous businessmen or lose money because they are afraid to return to a company with complaints.

"We had to tell several people that we could do nothing and they should hire an attorney," he said.

"IF YOU'VE ALREADY accepted the merchandise after signing a contract or you buy a house and live in it a year and then complain that it's falling apart, we can't handle it," King said.

"If it's fraud, we can handle it. Sometimes things can be straightened out by a phone call.

"When you come right down to it consumer fraud agencies can become a nuisance to companies and they are willing to go along with us rather than just an individual. When dealing with state or federal agencies they are a little more cautious. They don't want it to get around that such and such a company was a lousy one to do business with," King said.

ALTHOUGH THE office is located in Elk Grove Village, most of the people using it are from the surrounding communities. Only three people from Elk Grove have registered complaints according to King, while most of the others were from Itasca, Bensenville, Palatine and Mount Prospect.

Their complaints have been about clothes that didn't fit right or cheap jewelry or the stretch from industry, King said, naming Chicago Magnet Wire in Elk Grove Village as the industry one resident complained was a polluter.

"She bought the property with the understanding there was no pollution and then found there was. Two bad she bought the property without smelling. We can't do anything about that," King said.

When a couple enjoys the same hobby, they can comprehend one another's enthusiasm, time spent on the activity is understood and results and progress can be knowledgeably discussed. Such is the case with Kay and Bob Korte, 1011 N. Princeton Ave., who play bridge together once a week and then take turns babysitting so each can have another turn at the bridge table with friends.

Kay points out that there is a duplicate bridge game somewhere in the area every night which any resident may attend without a reservation. Persons arriving alone are paired off either with one another or with extra players who are on hand to fill in the gaps. If it turns out that there is an extra pair, games are arranged so that one couple sits out each round.

On Wednesday, Friday and Sunday evenings and on Thursday afternoons duplicate bridge games take place at Randhurst under the direction of Claire and Kemp Blackwell, 518 S. Dryden Pl., Arlington Heights. On Monday evenings there are games at the Glenview Country Club and on Tuesdays the Highland Park Bridge Club sponsors duplicate bridge at the Strike and Spare Bowling Alley in Northbrook. The Northbrook YMCA hosts a game Thursday evening and on Saturday evening area residents may go to the Park Ridge YMCA.

Kay says the duplicate bridge sessions are mentally stimulating, "especially if you like math." She also points out that the games are inexpensive as there is no equipment to buy and that "you can meet interesting people from every cross walk of life."

LAST SPRING the students in Ridge School were encouraged to join their mothers in making cakes and pastries for the PTA bake sale. They will soon enjoy the results of their endeavors. Thirteen film strip previewers, bought with the Bake Sale proceeds, are expected to reach Ridge this fall. The school has ordered 11 additional previewers to that each lower grade classroom will have one and each upper grade room will have two. The PTA will also purchase film strips to be used with the new equipment.

SAVE THE Children Federation is an international child welfare organization which provides funds for clothing, school supplies and other necessities so that youngsters may take part in school activities. Joe is a 13-year-old American Indian boy, a member of the Navajo tribe.

The Stephen Seales, 2734 N. Kennicott Ave., are an Arlington Heights couple who recently made the decision to sponsor Joe and to help him complete his studies. Anne Cunningham of the Federation office said that part of the contributions made by the Seales will be pooled with other funds to help members of the tribe accomplish self-help projects of their own choosing. Sponsorship funds also are used to support programs where youngsters learn vocational skills while they earn money for school supplies.

SIGNING THE guest book at the Ringling Museums in Sarasota, Florida during late summer vacations were the Tom Jones' and their daughter Dawn, 738 S. Cleveland, and Jeannette Hassil, 350 S. Walnut St. The Arlington Heights visitors trekked through the palm trees to view Baroque Art collections, the Asolo Theater (an 18th Century Italian theater) and the Ringling Museum of the Circus.

Voter Sign-Up Extended

Voter registration hours are again being extended by the Arlington Heights Village Clerk's office to allow residents to sign up before the local closing date, Sept. 21.

If voters wish to register at the local office, they must register by the deadline to be eligible to vote in the Nov. 3 elections. Registration is taken in the village clerk's office in the Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

In addition to the Monday through Friday hours of 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., registration will be taken from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. tomorrow and Sept. 19, until 7:30 p.m. on Sept. 18, and until 9 p.m. on Sept. 21.

Although Sept. 21 is the last day that the village clerk will accept registrations, the Wheeling Township Clerk will continue to accept them through Oct. 3 as authorized by state statute.

Requirements for registration include being a resident of Illinois for a year, the county for 90 days and the precinct for 30 days by the date of the election.

Teachers Wait For Library Cards

Teachers in Dist. 25 who live outside Arlington Heights will not get cards to the Arlington Heights Memorial Library, at least for a while.

The library's board of directors decided at this week's meeting to ask for more information before taking final action on a request from Donald Strong, district superintendent.

In a letter to the board, Strong asked that out-of-town teachers working in the district be issued special library cards so they could check out books for teaching purposes.

Board members said they were afraid such action might discriminate against other nonresidents who are charged $20 for a library card.

Also, Mrs. Clarence Hendrickson and other board members said it was possible teachers would use the cards to check out books for their families and for personal use.

Executive Librarian Harold Ard said the cards would present a policing problem and added nonresidents can get books from the Arlington library through inter-library loans to their own libraries or by paying a deposit of the price of the book.

Board members agreed that they needed to know how many teachers live outside Arlington Heights and decided to postpone action until that information was available.

Anderson To Discuss Con Son

U. S. Rep. William Anderson, D-Tenn., will visit the 13th Congressional District today "to discuss Rep. Philip Crane's attempt to whitewash the Con Son prison report."

Anderson, one of two congressmen who visited the Con Son prison in Vietnam to report conditions there were inhumane, will hold a press conference in Glenview at 4 p.m. and also will speak at the Palatine Township Democratic Organization's dinner-dance at Rolling Green Country Club in Arlington Heights.

Following his visit, Crane, R-13th, also visited the prison and said reports of conditions there were "grossly exaggerated."

Anderson's visit was arranged by State Rep. Edward A. Warman, D-Skokie, who is challenging Crane for the 13th District seat in Congress in November. Crane beat Warman in last year's special Congressional election by 28,000 votes.

ANDERSON AND U. S. Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., were members of a congressional committee which visited South Vietnam, and one of the committee staff members who sold a story and pictures of the prison to Life magazine. The story told of mistreatment, malnutrition and generally unhealthy conditions there, and criticized the United States for supporting a government which allowed the conditions to exist.

Crane said he found none of the conditions described in the Life magazine articles and pictures and said conditions at Con Son were better than conditions in some Vietnamese homes, and also were better than conditions in many American prisons.

He accused Hawkins and his staff members of being "blind or deliberately misrepresenting what they found there."

Crane's statements prompted a strong rebuttal on the floor of the House of Representatives by several congressmen who defended Hawkins and Anderson.

ANDERSON HAS BEEN a congressman since 1964. Prior to that, he was a Navy officer and commander of the atomic submarine Nautilus when it made its historic cruise under the North Pole.

Anderson will be joined at the Palatine Democrats' dinner tonight by Adlai E. Stevenson III, Democratic candidate for United States Senator.

Western Electric Is Moving Here

Western Electric, manufacturing and supply unit for the Bell Telephone System, will be moving into Arlington Heights next month.

On Oct. 1, Western Electric employees will begin moving into leased space in the Arlington Office Park which will eventually be a six-building complex near the corner of Wilke Road and Campbell Street. The site is just south of the Westgate Shopping Center.

The expansion came as a result of increasing space problems at the headquarters building in Rolling Meadows, according to William Opdyke, central region general manager.

When that building was constructed in 1967, capacity population was set at 2,000 employees. Growth forecasts for 1971 put the local Western Electric payroll at 2,270. By 1975, the total will swell to about 2,628.

THE NEW LEASE space, totaling 25,000 gross square feet, will be a temporary solution for the space problem. The lease will be signed to cover 18 months, with an option to extend for six additional months.

Starting Oct. 1 and until the end of the year, 102 employees will transfer to the new Arlington Heights location. Movement of personnel will depend upon the completion of internal construction.

Those employees leaving the headquarters facility are in the plant, service center, installation engineering, management and technical training and public relations departments.

The main office headquarters governs Western Electric's operation in the four state area which covers Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Fluoride Level Good: Dentist

The level of fluoride in the Arlington Heights water supply falls within the amount most desired by dentists, according to a report presented at Wednesday's meeting of the Board of Health.

Dr. Frank Schroeder, dentist and member of the village Board of Health, said the reported amount of the chemical is within the standards considered ideal.

Board members also heard a report that the village fire department's ambulance service has been functioning well from Fire Chief Harvey Carothers.

Also village nurse Joan Hoch reported that the case-load for the village home care program has not increased over last year.

Mrs. Hoch said she was trying to find ways to make physicians more aware of the service.

Youth Lacerated

A 3-year-old Arlington Heights boy received a severe laceration of the left forearm when he reportedly fell through a door window pane at his home Tuesday evening.

A spokesman at Northwest Community Hospital said the boy, Todd Barrett, of 2502 N. Raleigh St., was released after the cut was sutured.

The boy was taken to the hospital by Arlington Heights policeman Eugene Korn. Korn reported the boy's father, Thomas Barrett, stopped him and asked for assistance in transporting the boy to the hospital through heavy traffic.

Real Estate News & Views

YOU DON'T SELL A HOME -
YOU NEGOTIATE THE SALE

It is not always the case that a Real Estate Broker will sell a home for the exact listing price with no complications on mortgage or terms.

Often, there is necessary add-and-subtract between the buyer and the Real Estate Broker as the Real Estate Broker attempts to secure as fair a purchase as he can for the buyer while the interests of the owner are not compromised.

One of the greatest faults of home owners attempting to sell their own homes is inflexibility. Stating a price and terms and then stubbornly sticking to them regardless of the buyer's wants may seem to be a way of saving a lot of negotiating talk; however, it is also a way of losing many a buyer who would otherwise have been happy to purchase the property.

Perhaps the buyer's main concern is the down payment, or perhaps the arrangement of a completely new mortgage by the Real Estate Broker is necessary to resolve the deadlock. Sometimes the inclusion of extras such as drapes or air conditioning will create a solution beneficial to both parties.

An experienced Real Estate Broker is an expert in the give-and-take of property negotiation — a specialty that emphatically requires one.

NORTH POINT STATE BANK of Arlington Heights (IN ORGANIZATION)

The new North Point State Bank moved one step closer to reality last week with the approval of the bank by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

The bank, which had previously been approved for a permit to organize by the Illinois Commissioner of Banks and Trust Companies, now has clearance to complete its organization.

The bank is expected to open approximately October 1st, in temporary quarters in the North Point Shopping Center.

Shortly after the official opening of the temporary quarters of the North Point State Bank, ground will be broken for the bank's permanent headquarters to be located at the north end of the shopping center.

Approximately 10,000 shares are still available for purchase, and the sponsors of the bank have stated their intention to give local area residents first opportunity to share in the bank's ownership.

Persons desiring more information about the bank may call 825-5520, or fill in the coupon.

Burglary Foiled

A burglary at an Arlington Heights gas station was interrupted in progress late Wednesday night by Arlington Heights police, acting on a tip from two area teenagers.

Police said they arrested John A. Miller, 21, of 649 Sussex, Crystal Lake, after he allegedly broke into Jack's Marathon Service Station, 300 W. Northwest Hwy.

According to police reports an 18-year-old Prospect Heights youth and a 19-year-old Mount Prospect youth, who prefer to remain unidentified, were responsible for preventing the burglary. The youths reportedly approached an Arlington Heights policeman and reported they had seen someone breaking a window in the service station.

According to the police, several police cars converged on the scene and chased Miller, who fled on foot, west on Northwest Highway and then north through vacant lots. Police said they found the suspect hiding under a parked car on Fremont Street.

Woman Escapes Armed Kidnapper

by TOM JACHIMEC
Elk Grove Village and Chicago police yesterday were continuing an investigation into the kidnapping of an Illinois Institute of Technology professor Wednesday evening.

The professor, Miss Audrey Companion, 38, of Chicago, told police she was forced at gunpoint by a man to drive away in her car from a parking lot on Chicago's Southwest side.

She escaped her abductor when the car went out of control during a struggle at Tonne Road and Devon Avenue near Elk Grove Village.

THE CAR WENT into a gully near Hank's Service Station where Miss Companion leaped out of the car and ran for help. Her abductor then got behind the wheel and drove off.

"He hadn't really pulled out of drive and this woman came running up shouting for someone to call police," said Hank Sobieski, service station operator.

"There he was holding a gun in his left hand," he said. "I never did get to look at his face."

The man apparently left the car in the parking lot at St. Alexius Hospital, at Bisner and Biesterfeld roads.

Police found the 1970 Cougar there later with its lights turned on.

The police combed the area searching for the blond-haired man, a white, about 30, five feet five inches tall, and dressed in a yellow shirt and dark pants.

"We knocked on doors in the area for about one hour after dark," said Det. Robert Salvatore, "but didn't find anything."

"HE EITHER HITCHHIKED or stole another car," he added.

Miss Companion, a professor of physics and chemistry at the university, was treated at the hospital for bruises on her legs sustained when she jumped from the car.

She told police the man approached her in the parking lot of a food store at 6640 W. Archer Ave. about 5:30 p.m. as she was attempting to open her car while carrying two bags of groceries.

She told police he jabbed a gun in her side and that he wanted a ride to Brookfield. Later, he changed his mind, she said, and decided to go to Elgin.

After driving around for about an hour he threatened to tie her up, she told police, and when they began to struggle she escaped.

Wayside Church Picnic Set Sunday

The annual parish picnic of Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic Church, Arlington Heights, will be held Sunday.

The event is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m., Busse Woods, Elk Grove Village, and end about 6 p.m.

A father-son softball game is scheduled to begin at 1:30, followed by a mother-daughter game. Games for children of all age groups and events for adults are scheduled to begin at 3 p.m.

Families may bring their picnic baskets or purchase refreshments during the picnic. Hot dogs, soft drinks and coffee will be available.

The event is open to members of the parish.

O'Hare Action Probed

A special Illinois Senate subcommittee will hold hearings Monday into allegations that the City of Chicago has planned expansion of O'Hare Airport without notifying nearby suburbs.

State Sen. Howard R. Mohr (R-8th), chairman of the subcommittee, said the committee will hear testimony from some O'Hare area mayors and state legislators on airport expansion and the problems of air and noise pollution in communities near the airport.

"There have been some charges that O'Hare expansion has moved ahead without proper notice to the neighboring communities of such changes," Mohr said.

"We're going to look into that and we're also very concerned about the problems of air pollution and noise pollution," said Mohr.

The hearing will be held at 10 a.m. Monday at the Schiller Park Village Hall, 9626 Irving Park Rd.

Des Plaines Mayor Herbert H. Behrel yesterday said he will attend the hearing of the subcommittee, which was named by State Sen. Arthur R. Swanson (R-28th), chairman of the Senate Municipal Corporations Committee.

According to a statement released this week by State Sen. Arthur Bidwell (R-2nd) and State Rep. Edward Bluthardt (R-Schiller Park), a 1968 state law requiring Chicago's airport authority to notify surrounding communities of expansion plans "is not operating properly."

"When it became apparent the law I sponsored was not proving effective, Sen. Bidwell and I asked Sen. Swanson to conduct an inquiry," said Bluthardt. "I believe they will fully examine the problems and be receptive to suggestions to improve the situation."

He said the law in question requires that notices be given and public hearings held to give communities surrounding O'Hare an opportunity to comment on expansion proposals.

Bluthardt said Chicago has not given public notice of its plans and not followed the law in the manner intended by the General Assembly.

"The very least the people being constantly bombarded by jet noise and drenched by falling jet fuel deserve is a voice in the expansion of O'Hare," he said.

Police Given Drug Display

Two representatives from Jewel-Osco presented the Arlington Heights Police Department with framed displays of dangerous drugs and drug user's equipment this week.

Denise O'Connell and Bill Newman, representing Jewel-Osco, made the presentation which included one display of 128 types of dangerous drugs that are most frequently used.

O'Connell explained that the pills in the case are ones manufactured legally for legitimate purposes.

The second display depicted equipment commonly used by the drug abuser, including syringes, pipes used for smoking marijuana, hypodermic needles and different strains of powdered heroin.

O'Connell said the presentation is part of the drug company's continuing effort to aid the police in training and identification of dangerous drugs.

WORK IS PROGRESSING on the roof of the swimming pool, at the Northwest Suburban YMCA on Northwest Highway in Des Plaines. The building serves more people than any other nonresidence YMCA in the United States. The fall schedule is in full swing, but there are many programs residents can register for.

City's Art Fair To Be Held Sunday

Artists from throughout the northwest and western suburbs are making final preparations today for the Des Plaines Art Fair to be held this Sunday.

More than 130 artists will display their wares from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Ellinwood Street between Lee Street and Graceland Avenue in downtown Des Plaines.

Exhibits will also be set up in the parking lot of the Des Plaines National Bank along the Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks.

In case of rain, the fair will be rescheduled for the same time and place Sept. 20.

Displays including paintings, ceramics, sculpture and special crafts will be on sale all day. Cash prizes and ribbons will be presented in oil, watercolor and mixed media competition. Original paintings by Christl Hansen of Mount Prospect, and Milvi Wheeling will be awarded as attendance prizes.

Admission is free to the fair and refreshments will be available, according to Gerd Renner, 332 N. Wolf Rd., Des Plaines, president of the Des Plaines Art Guild, sponsors of the 15th annual show.

Arrangements for this year's fair were made by a committee consisting of Irene Partridge of Arlington Heights, Dottie Roel, Peggy Wetter, Carol Venture, all of Des Plaines, and the executive board of the guild.

Des Plaines artists exhibiting their works at the fair are:

Mrs. LeRoy Armstrong, Mrs. George Beer, Robert Allan Blue, Mrs. Burton Bruhn, Mrs. Erwin Campbell, Virginia Caldwell Close, Mrs. Nicholas Bialiani, Donald F. Ellwanger, Mrs. George Halgren.

Also Mrs. D. H. Jacobsen, Mrs. Calmer Johnson, Mrs. Arthur R. Johnson, Mrs. Wayne A. Kester, Mrs. Fred Kramer, Henry L. McAlevy, Mrs. Thomas E. Maltese, Mrs. Arthur Nyberg, Mrs. Joseph Lucas, Mrs. Frank Rivara, Mrs. Jim Roel, Mrs. Roman Ryndak, Maxine Salfisberg, Bruce Schelin, and Ross Utter.

Also planning to participate in the fair are: Arlington Heights residents Mrs. Richard Anderson, Mrs. Thomas Bouffard, Barbara R. H. Gecan, Mildred Hamrin, John and Eleanor Hudson, Mrs. Kenneth Noesen, Mrs. John Rogers, Mrs.

James S. Partridge, now of Barrington; Mrs. James H. Christensen, Mrs. Robert E. Guttery, and Mrs. Ronald Formier, all of Elk Grove Village, will be displaying oil paintings.

Four Mt. Prospect artists participating are Mrs. Carl R. Hansen, Marlene S.

Hunt, Mrs. Warren Smith, and Mrs. L. B. Vlasak.

Mrs. Conrad Kruse and Mrs. Robert W. Ziegler of Palatine are among the exhibitors, along with Sylvia and Richard Westgard of Buffalo Grove, and Mrs. John Kenny, of Wheeling.

Transit District: Here's Why, How

by BOB CASEY
A News Analysis

Formation of a mass transit district, a plan that would allow Des Plaines and other northwest suburbs to subsidize the ailing United Motor Coach Co., is a means of attacking mass transportation problems already being used in other parts of the Chicago suburban area.

Such a district, which could only get taxing powers through a voter referendum, would provide a way for suburbs within the district boundaries to funnel motor fuel tax funds to the bus company, which is losing about $12,000 a month on its service to this area.

In the Chicago suburbs, three similar districts have been formed so far and a fourth is being born right now along the Milwaukee Road's Chicago-Elgin commuter line. The other districts are the Chicago South Suburban Mass Transit District, along the Illinois Central commuter line, the West Suburban Mass Transit District, on the Burlington-Northern's commuter line and the Skokie Mass Transit District, which has the same boundaries as the Village of Skokie.

THOUGH THE commuter line transit districts have focused on obtaining federal funds for railroad cars and the Skokie district has to date been inactive, they all have the power to subsidize or purchase faltering mass transit systems within their boundaries.

In Des Plaines, City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi is researching the transit district concept and is expected to recommend soon what the best course of action will be for the city.

One way of moving relatively quickly would be to follow the example of Skokie by setting up a transit district with the same boundaries as the city. Under Illinois law, a single-city district can be formed by vote of the city council, which would then appoint three trustees to run it.

The district could subsidize local mass transportation, such as United Motor Coach, and would also have authority to buy, lease and operate equipment, to accept county, state or federal subsidies and to issue bonds.

If approved by a voter referendum, the district could also levy a tax at a rate not to exceed five cents per $100 assessed valuation.

ACCORDING TO Edwin J. Simon, chairman of the Skokie district's board of trustees, the single-village district was formed in February, 1969 and its trustees appointed early this year. So far, Simon said, the district has received a $50,000 grant from Skokie and is in the process of determining what direction it should take.

Though Skokie has moved ahead by setting up its own district, Simon said that larger transit districts or at least close cooperation between smaller ones are needed to solve area-wide transportation problems.

"Our attitude would be that it is entirely essential for us to be part of a larger district as far as inter-village transit is concerned," he said. "Whether that means 25 little ones all working together or one big one, I'd say that one small district can't go it alone."

ONE PROBLEM facing a district that does not cover a wide enough area, Simon said, is the difficulty in obtaining federal funds, which are only allocated on an area-wide basis.

Large vs. individual transit districts is

Teen Coffeehouse Is Planned

Plans are being formed to start a Friday night teen-age coffeehouse in the upper west room of the Rand Park fieldhouse.

The Place For People (PFP) committee, which sponsors the Des Plaines Drop-in Center at the Rand Park Fieldhouse, Wednesday approved the idea of having a Friday night coffeehouse at the Drop-in center.

PFP committee member the Rev. David Russel will speak to Des Plaines Park District officials to examine what steps must be taken.

"It may require park board approval, or an executive decision by Robert Kunkel, director of Parks and Recreation, might be sufficient," said Russel, who is youth minister at the First Congregational Church, Graceland and Marion.

Russel doesn't think there will be a problem gaining park district approval, if there is proper supervision.

HE SAYS THE proposed coffeehouse would provide area youth with some place to go on Saturday night, and it also would provide extra income for the center.

Members of the youth steering committee of the Drop-in center will meet Tuesday to talk about the coffeehouse, and to work out details about entertainment, admission charges, and food, he said.

Tables for the coffeehouse will be donated by the First Congregational church, he said.

The proposed coffeehouse would take the place of a recently closed coffeehouse at the First Congregational, Russel said. It was closed because of lack of volunteer staff members, he said.

Entertainment at the First Congregational coffeehouse included folk music and blues, and various forms of theater, including skits by the teens or college groups.

Food at the coffeehouse, included doughnuts, candy and an occasional frozen pizza, he said. About 100 teenagers attended each weekend.

IN OTHER MATTERS at the PFP committee meeting, a report was given that there would be no difficulty in getting seminary students to act as directors of the Drop-in Center this fall, when present director Greg Morgan returns to school, according to seminary officials. Two directors would alternate shifts at the center, Russel said.

Dance Classes Held At YMCA

Twelve dance classes for adults and teens are being held today and Monday at the Northwest Suburban YMCA, 300 E. Northwest Hwy., Des Plaines.

Courses are conducted on beginner, intermediate and advanced levels. There are also classes for junior high and high school students in the basic ballroom and latest fad dances. The popular adult discotheque class, featuring the Funkey Chicken, Strictly Downtown and many other fad dances was held last night.

Registration is open to everyone and YMCA membership is not required. For further information, call the Northwest Suburban YMCA at 295-3376.

Adult volunteers now available during the afternoon and evening hours of the center, could also supervise during the coffeehouse on Friday evenings, he said.

Fund-raising projects are being planned by the youth steering committee.

O'Hare Action Probed

A special Illinois Senate subcommittee will hold hearings Monday into allegations that the City of Chicago has planned expansion of O'Hare Airport without notifying nearby suburbs.

State Sen. Howard R. Mohr (R-5th), chairman of the subcommittee, said the committee will hear testimony from some O'Hare area mayors and state legislators on airport expansion and the problems of air and noise pollution in communities near the airport.

"There have been some charges that O'Hare expansion has moved ahead without proper notice to the neighboring communities of such changes," Mohr said. "We're going to look into that and we're also very concerned about the problems of air pollution and noise pollution," said Mohr.

The hearing will be held at 10 a.m. Monday at the Schiller Park Village Hall, 9636 Irving Park Rd.

Des Plaines Mayor Herbert H. Behrel yesterday said he will attend the hearing of the subcommittee, which was named by State Sen. Arthur R. Swanson (R-26th), chairman of the Senate Municipal Corporations Committee.

mittee. A car wash may be held Sept. 19 or 26.

Plans for an arts and crafts fair in October are also being studied. Student photography, and art work might be sold to raise funds.

According to a statement released this week by State Sen. Arthur Bidwell (R-2nd) and State Rep. Edward Bluthardt (R-Schiller Park), a 1968 state law requiring Chicago's airport authority to notify surrounding communities of expansion plans "is not operating properly."

"When it became apparent the law I sponsored was not proving effective, Sen. Bidwell and I asked Sen. Swanson to conduct an inquiry," said Bluthardt. "I believe they will fully examine the problems and be receptive to suggestions to improve the situation."

He said the law in question requires that notice be given and public hearings held to give communities surrounding O'Hare an opportunity to comment on expansion proposals.

Bluthardt said Chicago has not given public notice of its plans and not followed the law in the manner intended by the General Assembly.

"The very least the people being constantly bombarded by jet noise and drenched by falling jet fuel deserve a voice in the expansion of O'Hare," he said.

Kids, Fathers Needed For 'Y' Program

Y-Indian Guides and Y-Princesses from Northwest Suburban YMCA in Des Plaines have announced the beginning of their annual recruitment Y-Indian Guides is a club program for boys in the first through third grades and their fathers. It is designed to create a closer relationship between father and son. Y-Indian Princesses is a similar program for girls in first through third grades and their fathers.

American Indian culture is used as the structure for the programs because it offers a common interest level for both father and child, and provides opportunities for programs, projects, and activities, according to YMCA officials.

Meetings are held at junior high school gymnasiums throughout the northwest area to explain the programs to interested parents and children. The meetings begin at 7 p.m. Interested fathers are asked to bring their son or daughter to the meeting closest to their home.

For Indian Guides (Dads and Sons) registration is being held: Monday at Lincoln Jr. High, 700 W. Lincoln, Mt. Prospect;

Tuesday at South Jr. High, 314 S. Highland, Arlington Heights;

Wednesday at Algonquin Jr. High, 757 Algonquin, Des Plaines; and Thursday at River Trails Jr. High, 1000 Wolf Road, Mount Prospect.

For Indian Princesses (Dads and Daughters), registration is being held:

Monday at Algonquin Jr. High, 757 Algonquin Rd., Des Plaines; and Wednesday at Lincoln Jr. High, 700 W. Lincoln, Mount Prospect.

League of Women Voters

The Consensus

by Carroll Salzman

One of the things which sometimes puzzles non-members of the League of Women Voters and new leaguers is the organization's consensus policy.

By definition, consensus means "agreement among a substantial number of members, representatives of the membership as a whole, reached after sustained study and group discussion. It is not just a simple majority nor is it necessarily unanimous." (Definition from the local league handbook, 1969.)

Leaguers reach this rarified state by following a specific series of steps.

First, members adopt a series of questions at their annual meeting for study by all leaguers. Among these this year are human resources (including welfare, housing, education and unemployment studies), environment, U.S. Congress, election laws and low-cost housing.

Discussion at this meeting provides a framework for studying the problem, so that individual groups will be answering the same question from the same angle.

A RESOURCE committee then begins assembling facts about the study question. Among its tools may be discussion outlines, leaders' guides, pamphlets, every-member publications and bibliographies. This happens for national, state and local study questions.

Questions for study must meet certain criteria. They must be within the scope of the study, should not require additional background knowledge, should be answer in advance of the study.

The league then tries to involve as many members as possible in units, workshops and general meetings, as well as through bulletins and newspaper publicity.

The more members participating, the more valid the consensus reached.

Members are urged to read league publications and other resource material in advance of each meeting. They're also supposed to study all sides of each question, giving consideration to minority opinion.

ONE OF THE MOST important people at this stage is the discussion leader. It is she who encourages expressions of opinion and creates an atmosphere where even the member who expresses an unpopular opinion can be comfortable. This is especially important, because what might be minority opinion in one group could turn out to be the majority opinion when the study is completed.

THE LEADER ALSO defines meanings and controls the few who would like to do all the talking and those inclined to argue rather than discuss. She must also gauge the proper time to reach a decision, determining areas of agreement and disagreement.

It's at this point that group leadership becomes an art, rather than a skill. Consensus cannot be mere poll taking, which is too rigid a process. The leader must encourage the development of areas of agreement and the crystallization of opinion.

AN ESSENTIAL aid to this process is a recorder to note the differing opinions, the number of people participating, areas of agreement and disagreement, minority views and their strength and areas where members are undecided or lacking information.

At the end of the meeting, participants summarize the discussion to check its accuracy for a written report to the local board of directors.

"Determining consensus of members within the local league is the responsibility of the local board. It is an interpretive process, qualitative as well as quantitative, continuous, calling for foresight, clear lines of communication between the board and members, and the unselfish devotion of board members to the will of the membership," according to the 1969 local league handbook.

Factors considered by the board in making its decision include the strength of majority and minority opinions; the opinion of the informed member as against the uninformed member; the quality of the resource work; the effectiveness of the discussion; the number of members involved and the degree of member interest — all of these, you'll note, more or less intangible and subjective.

IF THE LOCAL unit is strongly divided, or had no opinion, no consensus can be reached. In that case, the unit can remain neutral on an issue. Individual members are free to act as they see fit on an issue, as long as they do not claim to speak for the league.

When a unit reaches consensus, it turns to action. When a specific ordinance or referendum or legislation appears, the board decides what can be supported or opposed under the consensus.

Fertilizer Sale Set By Jaycees

by CRAIG GAARE

The Buffalo Grove Jaycees will hold their semi-annual fertilizer sale tomorrow and Sunday, according to David Tylnski, chairman of distribution.

About 70 Jaycees will canvass the village taking orders for delivery next weekend, Sept. 19 and 20.

Phone orders will also be taken all next week by calling 537-7072 or 537-3397.

Oakton Community College will not have a "typical" staff arrangement.

Instead of having its instructors solely under the supervision of a dean of faculty, Oakton's instructors will report directly to all the college's deans and to the college president, according to a staffing plan presented Wednesday by college president William Koehnline.

This report was requested by the board which wanted a "complete" staff plan before approving creation of new staff positions for the junior college which will open Sept. 14. Philosophies behind the staff plan were approved previously by the board, Koehnline said.

KOEHNLINE TOLD the Herald/Day that the staff plan was different from typical college organizations because the teachers will have more than just teaching responsibilities.

Because they will have student counseling responsibilities they will also report to the dean of student personnel, and because they will have budgeting responsibility they will report to the manager of business affairs.

They will also report directly to the president, because they will be "involved in all the aspects of the school, and total instructional concerns," Koehnline said.

Another difference in the "typical" organization will be the responsibility of be director of computer service.

Because he works with all of the school, he will report directly to the deans and the president.

Other directors will report to the various Deans according to the plan presented. The dean of the learning resource center, the library and resource system, will report to the dean of faculties. The director of admissions and records will report directly and be responsible to the dean of student personnel.

KOEHNLINE emphasized that this organizational system would only apply to the first year, and that the administration has not yet worked out the organizational plan for Oakton when it will expand to have twice or three times as many students as it will have in 1970-71, about 400 full-time students.

The staff plan included 25 instructor positions, and five administrative positions, and 20 clerical positions.

The board must first approve the creation of a position before the administration can seek someone to fill that position. Before a staff member may be hired, he must gain board approval. His salary also must be approved by the board.

After hearing the president's presentation of the staff plan, the board acted on administration recommendations to create five clerical and secretarial positions. Creation of these positions had been delayed because board members wanted to see a "complete" staff plan.

Approved were the position of a secretary for the director of admissions, two library clerks, a secretary for the audiovisual department and a secretary for the director of computer services.

IN OTHER matters, the board awarded contracts for equipment used as teaching aids. The approximately $12,000 worth of equipment includes a photocopy machine, movie projector, stereo photograph, screens and cameras.

The board awarded a maintenance contract to the second, lowest bidder, Building Services System for $40,118 for the school year. This service is used at buildings near the campus, and received good recommendations, according to business manager Arthur Kent.

He said the lowest bidder, Columbus Services, at $37,578, had been qualified by him because he felt that they were not a local firm, and that they could not get a maintenance crew together in time for the school opening.

Representatives of a Des Plaines based firm, Marx Industrial Maintenance Inc., 2720 River Rd., which had bid $50,119, said they felt the Building Services bid was too low because Industrial decided to use one-third the men Marx felt necessary to do the job.

Board members said they were satisfied with the Building Services bid, and that there was sufficient protection for the school, in the form of withholding payments if the company could not do the contracted work.

Maintenance work includes care of the lawn, and sidewalks, cleaning of the buildings and care of the washrooms. The maintenance firm provides light-bulbs, towels and tissue, Kent said.

Local Couple To See World

England, Wales, Ireland, France, Belgium and 40 other countries will be visited during the next two years by a Des Plaines couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Miller, 8829 Robin Dr., will leave tomorrow for a round-the-world trip.

The couple have been planning and saving for the trip for a year, since they made their decision to go July 4, 1969. "It's a once-in-a-lifetime thing," said

Mrs. Mary Ann Miller. "There's so much to see. We want to see it before it changes too much. We haven't traveled widely before — only two summers in Mexico, and my husband studied for a while in France."

Miller, 29, was an employee of the Sun Oil Co. Mrs. Miller is a teacher of deaf children for the Maine Township Special Education District.

DURING THE YEAR since the Millers decided to make the trip, they have been reading travel guides and magazines such as the National Geographic, travel sections in newspapers, guides to Europe and world atlases, Mrs. Miller said.

They tried to plan their trip so they wouldn't visit the same area twice. They will circle through Europe, into Northern Africa, through the near and far East, and Central America, then back to Des Plaines.

They will begin their trip Saturday, with a drive to New York, where they will leave for England on the ship, Queen Elizabeth II. They will land in Southampton, which is south of London. They will spend a week in London, then visit Wales.

From there they will travel to Ireland, then Northern Ireland. They will take a ship across the English channel to France, then travel through Belgium to East Germany.

On Nov. 6, they will be in Berlin, where they will spend four nights. Then they will go to Poland, and spend several nights in Warsaw.

IN RUSSIA, they will travel to Minsk, Smolensk, and spend four nights in Moscow. Then they will travel to Novgorod and Leningrad.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller will spend their sixth wedding anniversary Nov. 27 in Leningrad.

From there, Finland, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Amsterdam, Germany, France, Spain, Portugal, Morocco, the Spanish and French Riviera, Italy, Switzerland, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Bulgaria, Greece, Egypt, Israel, Turkey, Iraq, Iran, Syria, Jordan, Afghanistan, Pakistan, India, Nepal, Ceylon, Singapore, Thailand, Cambodia, Indonesia, Hong Kong, Japan, Panama, Costa Rica, Mexico and, then, Des Plaines.

Mr. Miller feels the whole trip should take about two years. "I can't see how it could be done in less time, without cheating ourselves and rushing."

Mrs. Miller said she would keep in touch with the Herald/Day and send some reports back on their progress.

Fraud Office's Ear Bent To 30

by JUDY MEHL

Close to 30 people have registered complaints with the Elk Grove Village branch of the consumer fraud bureau since it opened last month. And 12 of these people have had their problems solved.

The branch opened Aug. 15 in the village office behind the police station at 666 Landmeier Rd. It is under the direction of the Illinois Attorney General's Bureau of Consumer Fraud and Protection.

Some complaints which were settled involved delivery of slipcovers that were long overdue and carpeting which was cut the wrong way.

Approximately 12 cases have been settled locally with about 12 others sent to the Chicago office for processing, Tom King, head of the volunteers manning the office, said.

EACH SATURDAY several of the volunteers open up the conference room from 9 a.m. to noon to receive complaints from people in the Elk Grove Village area. Other local offices are located in Niles and Schaumburg.

People may walk in to fill out their complaint forms or ask questions and be confronted with a gracious smile and a desire to help from either a college student, housewife or a retired special agent for Naval Intelligence.

King, the retired special agent, has been aided by Mrs. Jeanne Seidlin, Mrs. Pat Peacock and Miss Kirsten Reeder. Two new volunteers have joined the forces. They are Mrs. Kay Lycette and Mrs. June Cronin.

Tom King

All have volunteered because they believe too many people have been taken by unscrupulous businessmen or lose money because they are afraid to return to a company with complaints.

"We had to tell several people that we could do nothing and they should hire an attorney," he said.

"If you've already accepted the merchandise after signing a contract or you buy a house and live in it a year and then complain that it's falling apart, we can't handle it," King said.

"If it's fraud, we can handle it. Sometimes things can be straightened out by a phone call.

"When you come right down to it consumer fraud agencies can become a nuisance to companies and they are willing to go along with us rather than just an individual. When dealing with state or federal agencies they are a little more cautious. They don't want it to get around that such and such a company was a lousy one to do business with," King said.

ALTHOUGH THE office is located in Elk Grove Village, most of the people using it are from the surrounding communities. Only three people from Elk plains from people in the Elk Grove Village area. Other local offices are located in Niles and Schaumburg.

We're experts in auto financing...not autos.

The other day Elroy Knight of Evanston proudly showed our vice president, Bud Bruhn, the new Mercury Cougar which he purchased with an auto loan arranged for him at First. Mr. Knight explained the 351 engine with maximum torque of 355 pounds per foot at 2600 RPMs and 9.5 to 1 compression ratio.

Though impressed, Bud was a trifle confused. He's an auto financing expert, not a mechanic. In his more than 30 years at First, Bud has made more loans on cars than anyone in town. He may not know exactly how the manufacturer hides the radio antenna in a Grand Prix, but he knows there are no hidden charges at First. Loans are handled quickly, and repayments are designed to fit each individual's budget.

So, if you want to know how the electric-defogging circuitry works in the new Thunderbird, ask a mechanic. If you want the straight facts on auto loans, see Bud Bruhn, John Crim, Larry McDonnell, Lisa Mogensen, Lyla Guthardt or Jack Haugen. They're our auto financing experts.

The Way We See It

DuPage Party Sick

The Democratic Party organization of DuPage County is sick. It has been ailing for a long time, but now some of its symptoms appear fatal.

Two of the Democratic candidates slated for the November elections have dropped out of the running, and the party has had to find standins.

Nicholas Thomas withdrew from the race for Democratic candidate for Congress in the 14th District.

Democrats came up with an opponent in the person of William Adelman of Bensenville, former candidate for delegate to the Illinois Constitutional Convention.

Earlier, Wood Dale resident Philip Grisolia withdrew from the race for county clerk and was replaced by Mrs. Patricia Ring, a housewife from Downers Grove.

Thomas reportedly withdrew from reasons of health; Grisolia issued a statement saying he was disgusted with the party's organization and effort. This loss of candidates puts the enfeebled Democratic Party in an unusually awkward light.

Broader participation and more vigorous leadership seem essential if the party is to pull out of this nosedive and begin offering effective alternatives to GOP monopoly. As it is, the only semblance of a two-party system in DuPage is the conservative-moderate split within the Republican Party.

The Fence Post

Class Size Is Not Key

The teachers in Dist. 59 are refusing to sign a contract. The remaining large issue is not salary but their insistence that class size be reduced. This is not a reasonable demand for two reasons at least. The first reason is that the school board is properly the agency to determine policy. The teachers and other professionals are of course valued for their professional opinions. When these opinions are not convincing to the policy board, it hardly seems correct for them to resort to compulsive methods to force their opinion on the proper policy body. The matter at issue is one concerning the functioning of the district and is not one concerning their own individual rights.

In pushing for smaller class sizes the teachers have espoused a cause that has much popular support. Everybody assumes that small classes are beneficial. Statistical evidence suggests otherwise. Let me quote from authoritative sources. Doctor Roger Freeman, presidential advisor, said in a major address on this point on June 19 "The evidence we have accumulated is somewhat surprising. We have recorded traditional variables that supposedly affect the quality of learning, class size, school expenditure, pupil/teacher ratio, condition of building, teacher experience and the like. Yet there seems to be no direct relationship between these school measurements and performance. Statistical data in that report show that reading and arithmetic achievements in the highest expenditure schools average between five and seven months behind those in the schools with the lowest expenditures. The same is true for teacher/pupil ratios."

HE WENT ON further to say "On the whole the statistical findings definitely favor large classes at every level of instruction except the kindergarten, the general trend of evidence places the burden of proof squarely upon the proponents of small classes." He went on to say that three years ago the Coleman report found that the teacher/pupil ratio "showed a consistent lack of relation to achievements among all groups under all conditions." He went on to say, "That the myth that pupils learn more in smaller classes still flourishes and the demand for cutting class size continues while resistance to technological progress such as programmed learning with the help of machines or television and film grows."

The findings of this authority are supported by many others including the renowned Negro educator, Kenneth Clark.

Statistical evidence in our own community supports these conclusions. In a report issued by Dist. 59 itself, it was shown that the achievement levels of the children in our district are considerably below that in the adjoining parochial schools. The same finding has been true for the entire Chicago area. These figures are only recently released. Dist. 59 not only has many more teachers than the parochial schools, but is spending over three times as much money per pupil and getting much poorer results.

The figures from Dist. 59 will show that we hire one teacher for every twenty students. Somehow the average class size is about 28 students in a class. In addition to the teachers we hire, we do have available volunteers whose use should have a beneficial effect if small class size is the objective.

THE ABOVE COMMENTS are merely the statistical proof that small class size is not effective. You may cast about for reasons why the results are not consistent with the opinions of the teachers themselves. One enlightened teacher suggested that large classes contain "peer teachers." That is, the children learn a great deal from their contemporaries. It is easily understandable that in a large class size the discussion may cover a greater range of facts and that more children may bring their problems with the subject matter to the attention of the entire class. This is unproved supposition but the statistical facts remain. Dist. 59 recently authorized the hiring of 25 more teachers. This was done after the budget had been set for the current year and was apparently a response to the insistence of the teachers. The taxpayer will in the end have to pay for the implementing of this. Dist. 59 has for many years been the highest spending district in this area. The results have not been commensurate with the expenditure. Rather than insisting on smaller classes, perhaps our experts should study the school systems that are able to get better results in larger classes and with less money. Perhaps the solution lies in good leadership and the insistence on discipline in the class.

Wood Dale Sidewalk Law 'Segregates'

The latest victory in Wood Dale politics is an ordinance providing sidewalks for a segregated group of homeowners. The village council's concern for the safety of our children should be commended.

Realizing the possibility of defeat in a referendum, they segregated the homeowners, by means of an ordinance that put into law, sidewalks on the main county roads of Wood Dale.

This ordinance directly affects my pocketbook and I would grit my teeth and bear it, if the council had the courage to follow their own convictions. It appears that the village has taken a step in reverse, with the latest release, that only one side of Addison Road must install sidewalks.

APPARENTLY THE need for safety, is limited to the children on the east side of the road. The fact that the school is located on the west side has not been considered in the retreat. Logic should tell our councilmen that the children on the east side must cross Addison Road and a one-sided safety measure could best serve all the children if the sidewalks were installed on the west side of the road. However, west sided residents could claim that there is no danger to their children as they do not have to cross the street, and object to paying for the safety of our children. I quite agree.

The truth is safety should be the concern and burden of all village residents, not a segregated few. As an American and a taxpayer, I resent any law, any ordinance that discriminates against a selected minority. As a voter, I resent when village officials feel the will of the people, no longer must be considered, once they are in office.

Who Sees Drug Problem?

Friday, Aug. 28, 1970, you carried two articles in the paper. One of them was headlined "No Drug Problem Here" and the other "Suburban Drug Abuse Talk Held By Area Residents." It seems strange that more than "100 local, county and state representatives" should meet to discuss a non-existent problem.

I would agree with the no drug problem if police records of arrests for in possession of drugs was the basis for the statement as it seemed to be. (I didn't notice any mention of drunken driving or alcohol related arrests, our number one drug abuse.) We would be burying our heads in the sand if we accepted this headline as truth. We are a pill popping drug abusing society. Rather than look at the police records, perhaps we should take a survey upon: the number of sleeping pills, get going pills, tranquilizers and diet pills prescribed by physicians; the over the counter No-Dos, Compos etc. sold at the drug store. Certainly police records are an indication of the illegal users, according to present laws, but they are certainly not indicative of all the abusers of drugs.

FORTUNATELY OUR local residents have not accepted the No Drug Problem headline; I hope they are attacking the causes of the problem and giving their forces to change the antiquated laws now on the books. I hope the educators are going to their schools to revamp the curricula to reach all their students needs, not just the academically oriented college bound. Are they working on ways to recognize the student is a person, not an IBM number (especially at the high school level)? Why not explore student planned (with help) years of growth in high-school? How important and necessary are English, math, history and science in helping a student to find himself and who he really is?

Have we set up false idols for our youngsters? Do they have the right to question our establishment? Even the elementary school youngster must begin to worship "the grade" or we may be shirking. It's not enough, for example, to love singing and be putting your all out. It's the quality that's important, so we give an "A" or "D," but we have no idea what the "feeling" is. Enough quality marks not so good as someone else and soon the love of singing is gone, maybe stamped out forever. (Why aren't all those other people singing at a community sing or when the national anthem is played?) It seems to me enjoyment of knowledge is enough at the elementary level without a label. If there are no A's, no one has to cheat to get one. Later in life he may sing to get a "high," even though it might be off-key.

We're a pill popping society, no wonder. We've been lambasted by every commercial in the world that our problems, no matter what, can be solved by a blue, pink, green or what-have-you pill, and if that won't do it booze will. Not only will our problems be solved, but the advertising industry would have us believe that as a normal side effect of these pills, cigarettes (another drug—nicotine) etc., our masculinity and femininity are enhanced.

NO WONDER WE worry about the druggers, and if we don't we'd better. They're here (in spite of the police record) in the form of abusers of sleeping pills, LSD, marijuana, booze, etc. It's not just the teenagers and the swingers, but let's get to the causes as well as the symptoms. Let's look at the problems: antiquated drug laws, lack of rehabilitation facilities, Vietnam, narrow minded curricula, turned off parents, turned off people not caring about each other.

Fungus Carries Dynamite

by CHARLES HUFNAGEL

Corn may decide the election Nov. 3 in Illinois. It's the opinion of many observers that the extent and quality of this crop and the price the farmer gets for it will be an important factor in what the downstate rural areas do with their votes.

The reasons why this is so are the reasons why Republican farm prognosticators in the leading corn states, Illinois, Indiana and Iowa — the heart of the Republican conservative Midwest — are following with no little concern what the fungus blight is doing and may do to the farmer pocketbook.

It is true that the farmer today represents only a fraction of the producing and earning population but as a supplier of basic foodstuffs, in Illinois principally meats, he has to be recognized as a major factor in the economic life of the nation. As he goes, so goes a large sector of the economy.

BECAUSE OF advanced farm technology today with intensive and scientific handling of the soil to get maximum crop production, the farmer has to have tools which run into big capital outlays. To finance his complex operations — equipment, fertilizer, seed, insecticides — he has well developed banking connections. He is a major customer in the village and population centers in rural Illinois. But equally significant he is a major taxpayer, especially for schools.

So it is no exaggeration at all to contend that the extent of this corn fungus blight on the 1970 crop weighs heavily on the economic fortunes of rural Illinois. As the farmer goes pocketbookwise so go these areas. The corn fungus contains political dynamite.

In the Galesburg, Rock Island and Quincy triangle after a delayed start and a wet season, the corn crop looks promising. However some fields are visibly hurt, have already turned brown, and the question now is whether the worst is yet to come. Some surveys have placed the loss expected at 5 per cent, which would hurt but would not be disastrous. Other estimates are at 10 per cent and higher. But sounder views say it is now too early to tell. It will take from three to four weeks to determine how great the damage of this fungus blight when the harvest gets under way. Last year Illinois was the No. 1 corn producer.

Reports from other corn areas are less promising and point to trouble. What this can mean is that a poor corn crop would almost certainly lead to higher meat prices and an upward pressure on food prices generally. The threat of higher food prices is a reason why unions feel assured of winning their bid for bigger pay envelopes. This of course spells trouble for conservative Republicans who insist on pay increases as inflationary.

WHAT THE NIXON economists proliferate as higher wisdom could be scuttled in a jiffy by the capriciousness of mythic gods. The danger latent in this situation is that it carries the seeds of a chain reaction which could upset the calculations of orthodox political and economic thinking.

The Thrill Of Football

by BARRY SIGALE

As my brother, Les, puts it, the worst part about a vacation is when you have to go back to work again. Or something like that. So here goes.

The high school athletic season has swung into full bloom for the 1970-71 season and most of the attention once again will go to the football teams, including Maine East, West and North, Elk Grove, Notre Dame and St. Viator high schools in the Herald/Day circulation area.

USUALLY PUSHED back from the football activity's spotlight are such sports as wrestling, track and field, bowling, gymnastics, etc. These sports, and those similar to them, are also kept from the limelight when the basketball season starts in December.

Unjustly, the boys who participate in these sports, are not given as much attention as they should. Parents constantly complain, and rightly so, that not enough attention is being given to their sons and daughters.

But they can't ignore the magnetic influence of the sound of pads crashing together on a football field on a Septeminto some kind of foot stomping hysterics. Then the bands play some gay music and the stage is set for a big game.

Then out come the players, dressed in multi-colored uniforms which add to the expectations of a lively Friday night or Saturday afternoon. Yay! Then the opposition, equally resplendent, make its appearance. Boo!

Between the yays and the boos there is little except the sound of the quarterback calling the signals. When the ball is snapped all bedlam breaks loose from either stands. Sometimes the cheering and booing become more important to the fans than the game itself. But not for long. The game is usually packed with excitement.

A LOT OF hard work goes into the preparations for the weekend football and basketball games and the other athletic competition offered at the several high schools. These sports are not only good body builders but help the moral fiber of the individual raise a notch with each match.

It's a good idea, therefore, to show spirit and support at these events.

Driving along Schaumburg Road in a merry old mobile, a youth enjoys the open air on a fall day.

State Now Holds Greenhouse Keys

Mrs. Melanie Goerger, 84, of Elk Grove Township, has finally retired from the greenhouse business after more than 56 years.

Her daughter, Mrs. Alice Hacker, of 306 E. Hawthorn, Arlington Heights, Tuesday turned the keys to the old family greenhouse over to the State of Illinois, who bought the 2½-acre site at 501 W. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Township, for widening of the highway there. The business sold for $126,700.

The keys were turned over to Scott Andrews, an agent of the state right-of-way department.

Sold were the land, the 4,500-acre-foot greenhouse and a four-bedroom frame home, where Mrs. Goerger lived and worked since 1914, when her husband, the late Martin Goerger, bought the business.

It is located next to the Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

Mrs. Hacker said her father died in 1950, but her mother carried on the business, with the help of her children, right up to the end.

"WE HAVE A LOT of memories here. I guess our feelings are mixed about the sale," she said.

Mrs. Hacker said she and her sister, Florence Vacilek, 401 W. Algonquin Road, Des Plaines, ran the business with their husbands.

"We sold wholesale. Friday was our last day of work. We started with roses, then went to lilies and the last 15 years sold chrysanthemums," she said.

Mrs. Hacker said her mother had another greenhouse on Algonquin Road in Mount Prospect, but will lose that in three years through a condemnation suit filed by the Mount Prospect Park District and in 1973 it will be turned over as parkland. It is now run by one of Mrs. Goerger's sons.

Mrs. Goerger, who lived in the house across from the greenhouse, has moved to 52 Lonsdale Road, Elk Grove Village, and is reported happy in her new home.

The state is expected to destroy the buildings immediately in preparation for the road widening project.

Win at Bridge

OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

The original Culbertson asking bid was completely artificial. It was an extra jump in a new suit and it asked partner about first and second round control in that suit.

Today's hand was played by Culbertson in one of his last tournament appearances. He was playing with Ted Lightner, one of the truly great players and Ely's favorite partner.

Culbertson has been dead for almost 20 years. Lightner, who is now 77, still plays very fine rubber bridge at New York's Regency Whist club. He is still an excellent bidder and player.

Ely's jump to four clubs was a Culbertson asking bid. Lightner is always pessimistic but he knew that Ely wanted to find out about the club ace and Teddy showed it like a true soldier.

Ely couldn't be sure about the king of spades but he gambled that if Lightner did not hold that nice card he might finesse for it successfully. In any case, Ely, like most great players, was not afraid to bid grand slams so he went right to seven spades.

Seven spades made easily. It may look like an easy grand slam to get to by some other method but in this particular match Ely's opponent didn't even reach a small slam with Ely's cards, so that this asking bid was worth the full grand slam bonus to Ely's team.

Accident Kills Man, 76

Richard Runge, 76, of 922 N. Dunton Ave. in Arlington Heights, was killed in a traffic accident Wednesday afternoon at the intersection of Palatine Road and Rte. 83 in Prospect Heights.

The accident occurred about 2:50 p.m. while Runge was driving west along the Palatine frontage road. At the intersection of Palatine Road and Rte. 83 he turned south, and then east, attempting to enter the eastbound Palatine frontage road.

According to Cook County Sheriff Policeman Dennis Baker, "Witnesses reported Runge drove through a red light when he turned onto the eastbound frontage road."

A SEMI-TRAILER truck collided with Runge's car on frontage road, forcing it into a traffic signal which he knocked over.

Runge was taken to Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines where he was pronounced dead on arrival. The body was removed to the Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home in Arlington Heights.

The truck driver, whose name was not released, did not require medical attention, according to Baker.

Three fire trucks from the Prospect Heights Fire Department arrived at the intersection, soon after to wash away spilled gasoline.

Traffic was held up at the intersection for about 25 minutes. Additional police from the county and Wheeling assisted in directing traffic.

Educator To Write Story For Magazine

Norman Ladd, chairman of the mathematics department at Maine West High School, has been selected to contribute an article to the "Illinois Journal of Education" by the mathematics department in the office of the superintendent of Public Instruction in Springfield.

"Because you are an outstanding Illinois educator, we would appreciate receiving an article on mathematics from you for publication in the 'Journal' said Warren W. Lionberger, assistant director of the Title III program in mathematics, in a recent letter to Ladd.

The Journal has a circulation between 10,000 to 12,000 throughout Illinois and the United States.

Ladd has been asked to write an article relating to the changes in geometry.

Veterans' Vane

President Nixon has approved plans for a $14 million replacement hospital for the VA complex in San Francisco.

Kansas educator Theodore Shackelford has been appointed to VA's vocational rehabilitation & education advisory Committee.

During the past fiscal year, 451, 719 vets, a 28 per cent increase, were counseled on VA benefits at veterans assistance centers.

A new law increases monthly payments 8 to 12 per cent (retroactive to July 1) for most vets with service-connected disabilities.

VA study reveals that current GI Bill trainees are more likely to be enrolled in college than their WW II and Korean Conflict counterparts.

Corps Drill Set

The Guardsmen Drum and Bugle Corps of Mount Prospect will stage its final performance Sept. 20 in a parade at Monroe, Wis. The parade Sept. 20 will follow field drill competition Sept. 19 at Monroe.

During the Labor Day weekend the corps, which includes members from several villages in the Northwest suburbs, participated in two field competitions and parades.

At Lowell, Ind., the Guardsmen captured first-place honors in field competition Sunday night. The corps marched in a parade there Monday.

'Kid's Lib' Also Seeks Equality

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON UPI — Shortly before his school reopened this week, Finster Tadvaller, 8, coleader of the Children's Liberation Movement, held a news conference on the playground near the swing set. I was there.

"Finster, just what is it that..."
"Pardon me for interrupting, sir, but your presumption in addressing me by my first name even though you are a stranger to me is an excellent sample of the patronizing manner that we children resent in adults."

"Sorry, I didn't mean to appear condescending. How should I address you?"
"In my peer group I am usually called 'Mushmouth.'"

"OKAY, MUSHMOUTH, just what is it that you kids are..."

"I'm afraid I must interrupt again, sir. The term 'kids' is one of those derogatory appellations that are code words for adult superiority and thus offensive to children."

"Again I apologize. Just what is it that the Children's Lib Movement is trying to accomplish?"

"In a word, sir, equality. Our goal is no less than total equality for children, which, of course, means a complete end to age discrimination."

"Could you point out some of the areas in which you feel there is prejudice against children because of their age?"

"Children have been barred from X-rated movies. In many homes they have been subjected to earlier bedtimes than the rest of the family observes."

They have been denied employment opportunities. In the entire space program, for example, there is not a single juvenile astronaut."

"WITH ALL due respect, Mushmouth, aren't ALL of the things you classify as age discrimination actually a case of adults being better qualified?"

"The myth of juvenile inferiority has been carefully nurtured by adults to protect their favored status. In nearly every instance where they have been allowed to compete on equal terms in watching X movies or staying up late at night, children have performed as well or better than adults."

"Well, if the Children's Liberation Movement succeeds, won't you also lose certain preferential treatment, such as half-price tickets to the circus?"
"I have to go now. I just heard the class bell ring."

You can speak French by Nov. 12th

The trick is how we teach you. On September 21st, when the course begins, you start right in with simple words. "Le déjeuner." ("Lunch.") "Du vin." ("Some wine.")

After the first lesson, you're speaking easy sentences. Useful stuff, like "Qui est cette demoiselle?" ("Who is that young lady?")

And by the time the course ends, on November 12th, you'll know enough French to get around. "Garçon, cette addition est invraisemblable!" ("Waiter, this check is outrageous!")

At this point, we feel it's only fair to warn you that only a few people can take each French course at Berlitz. (The cost is $121.) The same goes for our other language courses, which start the same week. So maybe you should call us tout de suite. Or in other words, right now.

FRAMED BY A hand-carved ship model, Mary V. Wright, newly hired coordinator for the Des Plaines Historical Society, takes a close look at one of her favorite artifacts. Mary is bringing enthusiasm and energy to her new position and hopes to involve the community in the society.

The Historical Society Hires A Liaison To The Community

by DOROTHY OLIVER

We have yet to figure out how one who had a strong interest in veterinary medicine wound up as a history major. But it happened and this stroke of fate wound up a stroke of luck for Des Plaines. The animal loving history major was selected to be coordinator for the Des Plaines Historical Society, 777 Lee St.

Mary Virginia Wright moved into her office, finches and all, on Sept. 1. An enthusiastic 23-year-old, she starts first as liaison between the museum and the schools of Des Plaines.

"I originally planned to go into teaching," Mary said. "In June I read about the position at the Historical Society and I called — out of the blue. When I was interviewed for the job I really became enthusiastic about it."

MARY STROLLS through the rooms of the society sipping bits of information about the artifacts. "I haven't had the 'grand tour' yet but I've learned so much. Some of the Golden Agers volunteer as guides for tours through the museum, and they have told me so much — about the pieces we have here and about their memories of early Des Plaines.

"I've lived in Des Plaines all my life and it's kind of sad how little you know about it. People know more about the history of Chicago than they do about the town they live in."

Mary is one of two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wright, 1703 Mannheim, who moved to Des Plaines 23 years ago last June. Her mother, Jane, has taught fourth grade at Orchard Place School for the past 14 years. Mr. Wright is an ex-pediter at ITT Bell and Gossett in Morton Grove. Susan, 20, is a senior at Wisconsin State University.

ROUNDING OUT THE family are Snoopy, the family dog and a product of the Anti-Cruelty Society who considers herself a sister rather than a pet; the finches, who have taken up residence in an old-fashioned red bird cage in the Historical Society; turtles, tropical fish, gerbils and guinea pigs.

Mary describes her parents as history buffs and attributes her special interest in early American and frontier history to the background they have given her.

"Every year we took 'compass trips.' My dad would take out the compass and draw a circle around Chicago. We'd take a history tour of all the places that lay within the circle. It was fantastic," she said.

The Historical Society provides an exciting atmosphere for the new coordinator. "You don't get a feeling for history until you are in it. Here are the actual things — what history is all about. Each article is the past — in the present."

THE MUSEUM IS housed in the 19th century Kinder home, one of the oldest houses in Des Plaines. As we roamed through, Mary commented on some of the unique features of the old mansion. "There's a catch basin in the attic that catches rainwater. It empties into a pipe that leads to a special faucet in the kitchen so you can wash your hair in rainwater . . . There's a fruit cellar downstairs with double doors so when you go in you don't disturb the temperature of the fruit . . ."

"Look at the light fixtures. When the house was wired for electricity, they also kept gas lines running with it. Electricity wasn't very dependable then so they could always turn on the gas. Wasn't that forethought?"

"My favorite room is the pantry. Just look at the size of this flour bin," she continued as she pulled open a huge bin built into a cabinet. "And look at this old bathroom. The plumbing in this house is great — everything works. They don't build houses like this anymore."

MARY IS ANXIOUS to begin bringing tours of school children through the museum. "They teach local history and city government when the children are in third grade. We'd like to take the classes through the museum and are creating a slide program about the city and its historical houses and sites to go with the tour."

She will also be after more community involvement and hopes to get groups involved with the society. Once she is settled in her duties she will be working with William Jedlick, administrative assistant to the director of the Chicago Historical Society, who is serving as a consultant to the local society. She will pass on the training he gives her to the guides.

A future duty will be for Mary to write a complete and accurate local history. Her education in teaching will come in handy when she is working with the school children.

With the effervescence of Mary Wright bubbling around the Historical Society, you can look for new things to begin to happen. It's an historical venture to say the least.

A Flair For Calligraphy

She Writes A Fancy Hand

by MARY B. GOOD

Did you ever long to be an artist — but felt you had no talent?

Maybe it was like that with Eleanor Crispin of Arlington Heights. It took her three years to learn calligraphy because she's not artistically inclined.

Eleanor wanted to do something beautiful and self-satisfying, so she took up fancy handwriting as an art form (calligraphy). She adds that calligraphy was the one thing she could do while her children were sleeping. She certainly couldn't play her cello or piano!

During the day, this mother of five boys (now in school) teaches music at Winston Churchill grade school in Palatine. A woman of unusual pursuits, Eleanor Crispin misses mountain climbing and back-packing since moving here last November from Portland, Ore. But she's etched a place in her leisure for the practice of calligraphy.

"CALLIGRAPHY FELL into disuse when the printing press came along and scribes were no longer needed to copy manuscripts, but the art has survived and there are 3,000 practicing calligraphers on the West Coast," said Mrs. Crispin. "Calligraphy amounts to something of a religion in the Orient. A period of Zen meditation and self-composure precede the execution of the Oriental's art."

Mrs. Crispin points out samples of good and bad calligraphy with the enthusiasm of an 8-year-old at Christmas. Layout, spacing, pressure, form, delicate strokes, all contribute to the beauty of calligraphy, and one-hair brushes, toothpicks and bamboo quills are among the tools of the trade.

"What good is it?" people may ask. It stimulates the imagination as well as a sense of awareness. A housewife could use it to make her own home business of graphic art. She could do posters, diplomas, wedding announcements or scrolls. Christmas cards done by calligraphers are collector's items. Professional people use it to relax after a day's work.

"CALLIGRAPHY CONNECTS compartments of my mind, sections of knowledge that appear isolated," said Eleanor. She has used her flair in the design of calling cards, invitations, even a menu for an Italian restaurant.

"I find it exciting," she said. Twelve years ago Eleanor studied calligraphy at the Portland Museum Art School. Eleanor has kept nimble practicing 20 minutes a day, especially when she is in training for classes.

Suburbanites will be hearing more about Eleanor Crispin and the West Coast calligraphy rage as she starts teaching fancy hand classes in Italian on Tuesday, Sept. 15, and every Tuesday through Nov. 3 at Harper College, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

And just wait until Countryside Gallery gets wind of it!

You, Too, Can Be A Pro

Anyone attending a Paddock Publicity Workshop can become a pro in preparing news releases. All the do's and don'ts the "how-to's" and the "why-for's" are being covered in three separate workshops.

Open to presidents and publicity chairmen of all area women's organizations, the first workshop, for DuPage area women, was held Thursday at the Tloga VFW Hall in Bensenville.

The second and third workshops will be for Cook County women. On Thursday, Sept. 17, all the particulars about news releases will be revealed at the Plum Grove Club in Plum Grove Estates, Palatine. The Friday, Sept. 18, workshop will be held at the Northwest Suburban YMCA in Des Plaines.

CONDUCTING THE workshops from 9 to 11:30 these mornings will be Marianne Scott, women's editor of Paddock Publications' 11 daily and five tri-weekly publications. Assisting her will be Dorie McClellan, assistant women's editor, plus one of Paddock Publication's professional photographers.

So that comfortable seating arrangements can be made for all, and also so that there will be enough coffee and rolls, reservations should be phoned to Paddock Publications, 394-2300 Extension 233; in Des Plaines women may call Dorothy Oliver at 297-6633.

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

The Potting Shed

by MARY B. GOOD

I'm not happy unless I can embark on an adventure, and the Labor Day weekend provided such fortune.

The great mushroom expert visited us while we stayed in the North Woods and we joined him on a hike. I thought he'd reveal a few of his secrets, but no . . .

We picked blackberries as we tired and stopped to admire wildflowers at a clearing. All he pointed out in 10 miles of hiking was amanita (death cap), the large, poisonous mushroom, abundant thereabouts. I was disappointed, and when we got back, I let him know it.

"Of course," and I was up and grabbing my hat.

Now I know why people die of jungle rot. I worried about fungus, snakes, and ticks as the rotten branches scratched my legs, and water in the swamps drenched my moccasins. The forest ferns were taller than my eight-year-old daughter, and I kept her close so as not to lose her in the woods.

THE MUSHROOM expert, who asked that I not use his name, (he needs no publicity), is famous in that area. He has been picking and preparing mushrooms in gourmet dishes for 55 years. He has been poisoned several times by deadly varieties and probably knows more about mushrooms than anyone in the Midwest.

Watching him straddle rotten tree trunks over a bog was like watching Carl Wallenda do his aerial act.

The mushroom man explained that this was the terrain for boletus (leccinum scabrum). He filled his bag with pinky (russula rubicunda), and he fell into a swamp straining to pick a russula alba just out of reach.

He said saffron milk cap was very abundant and pepper cap looked good. The man predicted a bonanza year for mushrooms in Vilas County just after he slipped down a gorge.

IT WAS A treacherous trip, and I don't know how we would have made it if anything serious would have happened to our friend, but he said the spills are to be expected.

I never knew I would be in for a pioneering trek through some of the slipperiest foothills . . . and the densest woods, marshiest swamps and roughest terrain I'd ever seen . . . but it was a revelation to follow a pro as he "does his thing."

We went into places inaccessible even to the animals, I would guess, because the way was paved with skeletons of deer that died en route. I picked up a deer skull on a rotten branch, covered with blood-red fungus and waved it all the way through the swamps to scare away hobbits.

Exotic, wild, primitive, beautiful — someday the North Woods will be my

Offers Varied Activities To All Residents

Officers and hobby chairmen are busy, busy, getting activities organized for the fall and winter seasons of the Des Plaines Newcomers Club.

Newcomers is open to all new residents of Des Plaines, and there is also an associate membership available to anyone interested in participating in the hobby groups within the club.

In addition to husband-wife activities, such as dinner dances, card parties and candlelight bowling, there are 15 hobby groups covering a variety of interests. Each group meets at a different time enabling members to participate in as many groups as they desire.

Five different bridge groups are open to those who enjoy bridge. If your specialty is knitting, crafts, reading or bowling, there are groups to accommodate you.

Horsecapades

Chicago's famous Medinah Black Horse Troop will present its 18th annual Horsecapades at the Arlington Park race track tomorrow.

Two shows, 2:30 and 8 p.m., will include a variety of equine acts and displays of precision riding.

Tickets are available through 487-3909 or 774-1515.

Thursday of each month at First Federal Savings and Loan Association, 749 Lee St., Des Plaines. Due to the Labor Day holiday, the September meeting will be held Sept. 17 at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Dexter Baer, program chairman, is hard at work planning a series of interesting and timely programs. Des Plaines residents wishing more information should contact Mrs. Vince Bono, membership chairman at 298-5657 or Mrs. Robert Smith at 327-4193.

Rep. Griffiths Asks Support

Congresswoman Martha W. Griffiths of Michigan, who was instrumental in getting the equal rights amendment passed by the House, is urging all citizens to support her resolution by writing their Senators and urging them to vote in favor of the amendment.

The equal rights amendment was overwhelmingly passed 350-15 by the House on Aug. 10. It is now before the Senate where passage has not been assured.

Concerned citizens may write Senators Charles Percy and Ralph Smith at their offices in Washington D.C.

ART IS NOT ALL oil and watercolor. Calligraphy — fancy handwriting as an art form — is very popular on the West Coast, says Eleanor Crispin, a recent arrival from Oregon, who will be teaching classes in calligraphy at Harper College this fall.

Two Guilds Enter Festival To Perform One-Act Plays

Two local theater guilds have been invited to participate in a one-act play festival sponsored by the Illinois Community Theatre Association next Thursday through Sunday at Barat College Hilton Theatre.

Competing with 11 other community groups, The Des Plaines Theatre Guild and The Guild Players of Hoffman Estates will both be performing.

The Guild Players will present two performances of Donald Abramson's one-act play, "The Lot Assigned," Thursday, 8:30 p.m. and Saturday, 2:30 p.m. The three leading roles will be played by Rosemary Tengler of Schaumburg and Bill Schumacher and Richard Groat, both of Hoffman Estates. Victor P. Simone will be the director. Ticket information is available through 529-1075.

DPTG's ENTRY is "One Way for Another" by Jean Tardieu. It will be presented Saturday and Sunday evening.

Appearing in the one-act are Raleigh Powell, Marshall Kievit, Ginny Boyer, Ken Johnson, Jeannine Carlson, Kathy Linsey, Keith Olsen and Remi Bonfardel.

Mike Woods will direct the play, and Julie Tobias will assist and coordinate production.

The Des Plaines Theatre Guild will celebrate its 25th consecutive season tonight with a champagne premiere opening of "Little Mary Sunshine," a musical comedy to be presented in association with Music On Stage.

Performances will be every Friday and Saturday evening beginning this weekend through Oct. 3 at the Guild Playhouse, 620 Lee St., Des Plaines. Curtain is 8:30 p.m. Tickets are available through the box office, 294-1211, noon to 8 p.m.

KICKING UP HER heels for Northwest Chorale's fall rehearsals, is Mrs. William Fackboner of Mount Prospect, who will provide special accompaniment for the women's choral group from Northwest Suburban YMCA in Des Plaines. The chorus rehearses from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. every Tuesday at the "Y", 300 E. Northwest Hwy. Membership is open to all women. Child care facilities are provided.

History Of Rembrandt Told On Channel 5

"Lord of Light," the life story of Rembrandt as told through his paintings and the voices of the women in his life, will receive an encore colorcast on Channel 5's Sunday Special at 10:30 p.m.

A 1969-70 Emmy nominee, the program was first aired last November.

Paintings shown at the 300th anniversary exhibit in the Art Institute illustrate the artist's life, with actresses providing the voices of women in his life.

Filmed in color at the Art Institute of Chicago, "Lord of Light" was written by Bonnie Remsburg and produced and directed by Bill Heitz.

New Fairy Tale At Mill Run

"Jack and the Beanstalk" will make its debut at the Mill Run Children's Theater in Niles this weekend, Saturday and Sunday, at 1 p.m.

The thriller starring Jack who climbs a stalk in search of treasure will be presented every Saturday and Sunday during the month of September and possibly extending into October.

Reservations are available through 290-2170.

QB Or Coach: Who Calls The Plays?

Should a high school quarterback call his own game in the huddle?

That was the question presented to both Al Carstens, the head football coach at Maine West High, and Fran Willett, head grid coach at Notre Dame High.

The two coaches replied with contrasting answers.

Carstens, like hundreds of other high school coaches, believes that the coach should have the direct hand in calling the plays.

Willett, also like hundreds of other high school coaches, believes that the prep quarterback should have a reasonably free hand in calling plays in the huddle.

"I think that a high school quarterback has enough problems knowing what to do," Carstens said. "There are certain mechanics that high school quarterbacks have difficulties with, such as footwork and making handoffs."

"We don't want to make it any more harder on him by making him call his own plays."

"I also don't think that high school quarterbacks know enough about the game to call their own plays," Carstenspoint.

Scrimmage Lines

by LARRY MLYNICK

went on. "Occasionally, you'll have a boy who will study films and defenses, but most of them don't."

"And besides, I don't think that a high school boy can possibly know more about the game than his coaches."

With his last statement, Carstens brings out a particularly interesting

Coaches have years of football experience behind them. They have played the game on the high school and college level and have taught the game for numerous seasons.

A high school quarterback, meanwhile, has only a few limited weeks of instruction behind him. According to most coaches, the game is far too complex for anyone to comprehend in a few weeks.

Many coaches will point to the fact that quarterbacks under coach Paul Brown — quarterbacks with high school and college experience behind them — had their plays called for them by Brown.

And, the coaches will point out, Brown's teams had immense success.

Notre Dame's Willett, realizing the lack of time a quarterback has in preparation for the football season, puts his signal callers through a rigorous cram course.

"We want our quarterbacks to know the basic strengths and weaknesses of the defenses they will see," Willett said. "We want our quarterbacks to know what they are looking at when they are watching the defense."

Though Willett admits that the high school quarterback does not know as much as the coach on the technical standpoint, he does feel that the quarterback knows more than the coach in other regards.

"The quarterback is right there in the action," Willett said. "He is a lot closer to the action than we are way off on the sidelines."

"If the quarterback is watchful about what is going on out there and knows how to use this information, translate it, so to speak, then he knows a lot more than the coaches."

"The quarterback is the one who knows if the (defensive) tackle is stunting in or out. It is the quarterback who knows who's tired in his huddle or who may have been shaken up on the last play."

"If the quarterback can gather this information and use it properly in his play selection, he will probably make a better call than we would from the sidelines."

"Besides," Willett added, "in our meetings we get our quarterbacks to think along the same lines as we do."

Both Carstens and Willett admit that they will break away from their usual proceedings during the course of a game.

Carstens said that he calls approximately 80 per cent of the plays — which leaves 20 per cent to the quarterbacks. He will allow a quarterback to call his own play, or his own series of downs, after the quarterback has explained his strategy to the coach on the sidelines.

Willett, meanwhile, will send in plays to his quarterback from the sidelines on occasion. "There are times when we will see something that the defense is doing that the quarterback will miss," he said.

There are many high school coaches who use a 50-50 formula. The quarterback and the coach will call about the same number of plays.

Carstens and Willett use the 90-10 system — Carstens calls 80 per cent of the plays for Maine West while Willett's quarterback will call 80 per cent of the plays for Notre Dame.

My personal observation is that play selection depends much on the quarterback's knowledge and abilities.

If a team has a quarterback who has studied the films and the scouting reports, keeps a cool head, knows what's going on and knows how to "translate" this information, then he should be given a good chance to call his own plays — with help and information from the coaching staff, of course.

But if the quarterback is simply a lad who has a strong arm and does not have a quick and decisive football mind, then the coach should dominate the play selection.

Whatever the case, the argument and discussion over play selection has strong points from both sides. Coaches, players and fans will continue to debate the issue for some time to come.

One college coach, however, has made a firm stand on play selection.

One day his quarterback came up to him and asked, "Coach, you don't let me call some of the plays?"

"Well, son, it goes like this," the coach answered. "You have a four-year scholarship. I have a one-year contract."

"If I'm going to blow this job, I'd rather do it myself, thank you."

Three Teams Sweep Pin Openers

The women's division of the Paddock Classic Traveling League opened its second decade of action at Thunderbird Lanes, and while you could probably hear a pin drop, the more pronounced sound was the chain reaction of 10 pins being avalanched by the big black ball.

Three of the eight PCTL entries found the pocket often enough to sweep their competition in three straight games and in the final category of total pins.

Lattof Chevrolet, Doyle's Striking Lanes and Franklin-Weber Pontiac mowed down their opponents to rise to the top of the standings with seven points apiece.

Isobel Kosi

Arlington Park Towers dropped the middle set with Morton Pontiac to earn five points for the night, but Thunderbird Country Club, Des Plaines Lanes and Girard-Bruns all failed to break the ice in the scoring column.

Lattof showed power at the home lanes as Isobel Kosi coasted in with the night's high series of 613 against Thunderbird. A 235 in the second game made her the only bowler to surpass the magical 500 series mark.

Teammate Donna Reinhardt, paced by a 225 opener, just missed joining her teammate as she settled for a 595.

Doyle's meanwhile, rode Lu Schoenberger's 239, the high game of the night, to a sweep of Des Plaines Lanes. Lu also added scores of 149 and 211 to finish with a fine 599 series.

Ethel Juenger rammed home a 230 in the opener and closed with a 583 series to pace Franklin-Weber Pontiac to a seven-point blitz. Peggy Harris, although missing from the league opener, averaged her 183 standard to post the only 500-plus series for Girard-Bruns.

The girls will travel to Des Plaines Lanes Saturday to resume play. The men's division, after a week's layoff, will convene at Hoffman Lanes for their second meeting of the campaign.

The Heisman Award: Plunkett Appraisal

NEW YORK — (NEA) — This is the time of year when men (mostly young ones) who work for major universities as sports information directors, start cranking out press releases, brochures and four-color pamphlets detailing the exploits of their favorite Saturday hero.

It is known as the start of the Heisman Campaign and the SID (as publicists prefer to be called) who does the best job will be rewarded next January when the New York Athletic Club places a long-distance call to one of the athletic dorms on his campus and informs one of its inhabitants that he has been selected as the college football player of the year.

Last season, a young man named Mike Wilson added a new dimension to the Heisman Derby. He was not an SID but an aspiring agent. All he did was flood the country with Steve Owens material and, after Owens' face started gracing the front covers of national magazines, there were those who felt that Mike Wilson, and not Steve Owens, should get the trophy. Owens got it, of course, and, for his hard work, Wilson got Owens as his first big client.

Now the Archie Manning and Jim Plunkett and John Riggins material is beginning to flow into sports departments of newspapers from Bangor to Burbank, not to mention the NYAC itself.

Plunkett, the Stanford quarterback who is getting the big push from Bob Murphy (Stanford's SID), said that most college athletes who feel they have a chance at winning the Heisman — the SIDs call them "Heisman Candidates" — have the entire adventure in proper perspective. The Heisman Derby, like loose cleats and slippery mouthpieces, is all part of the game.

"All college players, I think, are aware of what goes into selecting the Heisman Trophy winner," said Plunkett. "Everybody would like to win it, but so what if you don't? It's not the end of the world or even your career. It's like a publicity contest, or a popularity contest, in some ways, but I think deep down most players still cling to the hope that it will be awarded on the basis of accomplishment alone. And who's to say it really isn't?"

"Last year, Owens won it and I think the determining factor was television. He had some good games on TV, and he took off from there. On the other hand, Mike Phipps of Purdue was in the running, I felt, until the Ohio State game. Not only did Phipps have an average game, but Ohio State won easily and that probably finished off Mike. If he had had a spectacular game and Purdue has beaten Ohio State, it might have gone his way."

"Myself, I'd like to win the Heisman because it opens a lot of doors. You know, traveling, appearances, that sort of thing. But I think I'm realistic enough to know that the Heisman doesn't open too many doors when it comes to the pros. It might be worth a little extra when it comes to signing a pro contract, but it's not worth an automatic $50,000 as some people might think it is.

"I think if you panned down the best players in college football about the Heisman, all of them would say it would be nice, sure, but they'd much rather be playing for a winning team or a nationally ranked team. No matter how you slice it, college players still have a little rah-rah in them when it comes to their teams and to winning."

"Personally, I'd rather beat USC than win the Heisman." Both wouldn't be bad either.

Maine E. Holds Grid Scrimmages

Maine East will hold a football jamboree starting at 5 p.m. on the Maine East High School field.

The jamboree will consist of intra-squad football games on all levels — varsity, junior varsity, sophomore and freshman.

Each level's team will be divided in a Blue Team and a White Team for the intra-squad games.

West Sports Spectacular

The Maine West Dad's Club will host the Fourth Annual Fall Sports Spectacular on the Maine West athletic field at 6 p.m. today.

A chicken dinner, at a cost of $1.50 per supper, will be served starting at 6 p.m. After the dinner, intra-squad contests in football and cross country will be held on all levels. One ticket will cover all of the athletic events and that ticket will cost one dollar.

Following the athletic events, a dance will be held in the Maine West gymnasium, approximately 9:30 p.m. Tickets for the dance will cost 50 cents.

The public is invited for all three affairs.

Baseball Scores In Opening Midget Play

by FRANK HOLAN
The action was brisk despite the hot, humid weather as the expanded Mount Prospect Midget Football Association started its 14th season on five Lions Park grids.

The Senior Division results resembled baseball scores as the Packers edged the Bears 8 to 6, the Cardinals lassoed the Colts 6 to 2 and the Giants blanked the Lions 13 to 0.

Impressive wins were chalked up in the Juniors by the Steelers, Chiefs, 49ers, Vikings and Redskins while the Eagles tied the Rams. The Bantam Division victories went to the Buckeyes, Spartans, Gophers, Illini and Badgers. The Boilermakers and Wildcats fought to a scoreless deadlock.

SENIOR DIVISION

A 40 yard pass from QB George Miscevicich to end Bob Chamberlain enabled the Packers to beat the Bears 8 to 6 in the opening big guys game. Earlier, Bill Bulls blocked a punt and Bob Strasser fell on the ball in the end zone for a safety. Halfbacks Chuck Peters, John O'Brien, Tim Davies, Mike Lapewewich and Bucky Fischer performed admirably. A strong defensive line game was turned in by Jim O'Brien, Jim Seashy, Matt Hower and Ray Demmert.

Dave Eames tallied the Bears' lone touchdown on an eight yard down-and-out pass from Steve Spielmann who also intercepted two aerials. Jim Barrett ran well behind the fine blocking of tackle Alan Black and end Scott Hetherington. Jay Loss gathered in an easy pass and hit runners for several losses.

The Cardinals scored a go-ahead touchdown late in the last quarter when signal caller Jim Petran hit halfback Rick Chulpek on a 55 yard bomb and then hung on to defeat the Colts 6 to 2. Ends Mike Ciaras and Mike Di Santi blocked hard and snagged several key passes. The V.I.P. linemen were Rob Van Schalk, Mike Laban, and Mark Pauluzzi on defense. Fumble recoveries were made by John Wiers and Paul Youngquist.

The Colts couldn't dent the Redskins defense but scored two points when a pass from center went over the Cards punter's head and was recovered. Halfbacks John Roth and Dave Thoma and end Chuck Frans executed some excellent passing and running plays. Key tackles were turned in by Jeff Leeman, Gary Horvath and Tom Dencker.

In the afternoon finale, end Dave Matz long-armed in 1st and 4th quarter passes from QB Doug Spahr which enabled them to shutout the new Lions eleven 13 to 0. Al Miller converted the extra point. Sharp offensive line performances were turned in by guards Tom Di Gangi and George Bregar plus tackles Joe Bono and Randy Galtuch. The defense was spearheaded by the quick quarter of Terry Fitzpatrick, Buddy Tolp, Jerry Parker and Steve Cooney.

The young Lions made a game of it as Mark Theobald threw several nice passes with Brian Shelton on the receiving end. Tackle Jeff Poundling blocked well. Ed Ernst, Jeff Shalkross, Steve Benaro, Bob Butler and Jimmy Miller stood out on defense. Phil Smith's punts kept the Giants on their toes.

JUNIOR DIVISION

The Steelers struck quickly in the first quarter and scored the game's only touchdown on a 30 yard flip from QB Tim Dixon to halfback Bruce Haaland and went on to blank the improved Browns, 6-0 in a defensive battle. Mark Sellers, Phil Bono, and Wayne Martinski blocked hard and good tackling was displayed by Ricky Holan, Jim Brown and Eddie Di Gangi.

Tough Tim Gosh picked up 60 yards for the Browns from his halfback position and end Lou Ciro caught two clutch passes. End Perry Douvris blocked a punt, recovered a fumble and tackled accurately.

A short scoring sprint and two blocked punts in the first half resulted in the Chiefs scalping the rookie Raiders 15 to 6. Halfback Tom Smith recorded one six pointer and tackle Paul Kadalis the other. Center Jim Kennedy contributed some fine interior play. Tom Smolen called an outstanding contest. Glen Shaler, Mike Crnich and Gary Schriber anchored the defensive unit.

Fullback John Loukis was the Raiders' top ball carrier. Larry Hayes made the most tackles but received plenty of help from tackle Doug Shattuck and line-backer-captain Kent Taylor.

Halfbacks Larry Oetting and Greg Gatto smashed for a touchdown apiece and Paul Lohan ran back an interception to paydirt as the 49ers outdistanced the Cowboys 20 to 7. Gary Gripenstrog, Randy Williams and Eric Mase were other standouts on the offensive squad. Pat Murphy and Dan Keller plugged up the opponents' middle of the line.

The Cowboys grabbed a short-lived lead as Steve McBride went over on a 30 yard toss. Halfback Rod Mobus cracked over for the seventh point which ended the losers scoring for the day.

The Vikings struck quickly in their 24-0 conquering of the powerless Jets. Mike Szukalla scooted over on 1st and 3rd quarter dashes. Tom Hermanson hit smooth operating end Pat Foley with a beautiful pitch and later scored himself on a QB sneak. Andy Loos, Dick Paulus and Mike Janzow put on a tremendous defensive exhibition.

The Jets offensive attack couldn't get moving and wasn't helped by a porous secondary on defense. Right end Steve Nerby eliminated sweeps by the victors.

Rambling halfback Ron Lerch scored three times as the Redskins whitewashed the fledgling Falcons 20 to 6. Mark Kantecki made good calls and passed on target. Guard Doug Scott blocked savagely and Tom Soffe and Mark Norwick were hard-nosed tacklers.

Johnny Maestranzi was the Falcons' ball carrying work horse as he performed behind the crisp blocking of Wayne Argast, Steve Mokry, and Pat Sidorchuk. Defensive stalwarts were Dave McKown, Greg Janesse and Jim Peterson who also played well on defense.

The Eagles right end Mark O'Brill "stole" the ball from the Rams quarterback on a handoff late in the game and dashed 40 yards for a game ending 6-4 deadlock score. The Rams connected on an 18 yard pass from signal-caller Bob Schachner to end Mike Sramek. Mark Wertz and Chuck Lynch exhibited some hard halfback running power. Jim Zilinski led with the most tackles. Tom Kennedy intercepted a pass and recovered a fumble.

Tim Meyer, Kevin Kronforst and Joe Holloway were Eagles offensive stickouts and Tom Ruane, Art Stevens and Guy Semar were defensive stellar-fellars.

BANTAM DIVISION

The Buckeyes tamed the Tigers 24 to 0 as Mike Carroll, Mike Skoog and John Whitehead each scored a touchdown. John Pettit, Jim Whitehead and Steve Ford accounted for two safeties. Brad Hiller, Mark Hauser and Tom Brothers threw hard, key blocks. Dan Ayers and Mark Fassnacht recovered fumbles.

The willing but inexperienced Tigers got good performances from Bill Buffton, Frank Garapolo, Howard Schiff, Ricky Kooker and John Georgan.

Jeff Patterson's punting kept the Hoosiers deep in their own territory and set up the second quarter safety which enabled the Spartans to squeak out a base-ball-like 2-0 victory. The Spartans Matt Lee sprinted well and far. Defensive demons included Mark Dabbe, Joe Hamilton, Rick Wagner, Marty Boyles and Dave Brucki.

All the Hoosiers played hard and King Strobel, John Barden, Tracy Wertz, Billy Weislo, Kurt Anderson and Jeff Vlach stood out.

The Gophers bruised the expansion Bruins 27 to 6 as Dave Kozzy, Joe Carorano, Tim Maloney and Mark Smolan each crossed the goal line once. John Cadwell, Ed Demmert blocked and galloped effectively. Aggressive tackling was shown by George Stedman, Kevin Lowe, Greg Squires and Jeff Lowe.

Len Kaiser's Bruins couldn't put together any offense but should improve as they gain experience, confidence.

The Illini beat the Hawkeyes 15 to 0 as Brian Gavre, Dave Peterson and Steve Joy scored. John Rover, Pat Schmiederer and Matt Johnson were other offensive standouts. Good charges and tackles were put on display by Pat Yates, Mike Ward and Jeff Johnson.

Bobby Skwarek was the Hawkeyes' leading ball carrier. Scott Wright, Curt Calas and Pat Doyle collected the most defensive points. Husting Harry Arnold pounced on two Illini bobbles.

The Badgers came from behind to record a 12-6 victory over the Wolverines as QB John Rohrer ran and sneaked for 45 and 20 yards respectively. Dave Pauluzzi and Mark Norris also carried the ball well. Tom and Brian Wabick, Richard Reed, Mike Reder, and John Horgan stopped a Wolverine rally in the closing minutes which was sparked by Don Bach, who put the losers in the lead in the first quarter. Bob Mularie, Don Lessner and Jon Scanlan ripped off good yardage. David Ciosek, Jeff Howell and Tony Dirk were a tough threesome on defense.

The Boilermakers and Wildcats put on a rugged bantam finale which ended in a scoreless duel. Halfback Chuck Arredia rushed for distance, made two game saving tackles on open field runs and recovered three fumbles. Joe Arredia pointed for good yardage and centered effectively, when not performing kicking chores. Mike Burd's tackling and Bob Peak's strong smashes were very effective. (The Wildcats did not submit any game information.)

Accreditation Listed As Top Harper Event

Harper College's candidacy for accreditation by the North Central Association was listed as a highlight of progress by James Hamill, chairman of the board of trustees, at the fourth annual trustee dinner Tuesday.

Other highlights during Harper's four-year history are its increased enrollment and endorsement by summer school students, who compared it favorably with other colleges, he said.

Hamill said Harper has not solved all its problems or met all its needs yet and added that next year the faculty and administration will have to work harder to obtain accreditation.

On student unrest, he said, "Our recently graduated high school students were born in 1951 and 1952. They are very familiar with America's shortcomings and failures as viewed through the 1960 dissent years.

"As a board, we know that all of the people in this room acted responsibly in our one student unrest episode last spring. We are confident we can and will work together to resolve any future student unrest problems.

"The greatest asset of Harper College is not the bricks and mortar of the campus, but the people," he said.

In one day we can make your new car last 5 years longer.

This year you bought a car that would save you money. But a car can't save you money until you first save the car. And that's what we're here for.

One day is how long it takes to Ziebart your car. When we're finished we'll give you a written guarantee that your car will be completely rust-proof for 5 years or 50,000 miles. And since it's rust, not mechanical wear, that ruins most cars—your new car will stay new that much longer.

At Ziebart, we get inside the unitized body with patented spray tools. We coat the metal with a special sealant that penetrates every corner, weld, and seam. In a few hours the coating toughens into a permanent, airtight, waterproof, corrosion-proof layer. Your car is absolutely rustproof. And up to 35 percent more soundproof. And squeakproof and rattleproof and dustproof and leakproof. And worth a lot more money when you finally decide to trade it in.

Ziebart. The rustproofing process that's guaranteed for 5 years or 50,000 miles.

Wouldn't it be nice to be able to drive your new car that long?

The Doctor Says:

All Barbiturates Are Habit-Forming

by WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q.—WHAT ARE the harmful effects of using phenobarbital?

A.—ALL BARBITURATES are habit-forming. They depress the nervous system, so a very large dose may cause unconsciousness. This effect is heightened when alcohol, also a nervous system depressant, is present in the body. Barbiturates also interfere with the normal periods of dreaming during sleep so that, although your muscles are fully relaxed, although your muscles are fully relaxed, your nervous system is not.

Q.—IS IT HARMFUL to drink coffee and take phenobarbital on the same day? HARMFUL to drink coffee and take phenobarbital on the same day?

A.—NO. But the effects of caffeine, a stimulant, and phenobarbital, a sedative, are antagonistic and to a degree cancel each other out.

Q.—MY HUSBAND'S HANDS and elbows are chapped and the skin is very rough. He has tried all kinds of creams and lotions without success. What is the cause and is there any remedy?

A.—THE CAUSE MAY be a deficiency of oil in the skin, exposure of the damp skin to cold, excessive dryness of the air in which your husband works or something he comes in contact with at his work. Before prescribing any treatment, every effort should be made to pinpoint the cause and eliminate it.

Q.—WHAT CAN BE done for a calcified aneurysm of the aorta?

A.—AN ANEURYSM is a bulging out of involved is the aorta, surgical repair is sometimes attempted. In the acute stage (first two or three weeks), however, the safest treatment is bed rest in a hospital and the slow intravenous (drip) injection of a blood pressure reducer and a tranquilizer.

Q.—MY DRUGGIST recommended Empirin for my headache. It contains phenacetin which I have heard is dangerous. What do you think?

A.—EMPIRIN contains aspirin, phenacetin and caffeine. Kidney damage may occur when this compound or phenacetin alone is taken in large doses daily.

Q.—IS ASPIRIN constipating?

A.—NO.

Q.—WHAT ARE the side effects of the antidepressant Aventyl?

A.—DRY MOUTH, drowsiness, dizziness, tremors, constipation, mental confusion, blurred vision, fast pulse, easy fatigability, sweating, insomnia and headache, to list a few.

Taxpayers Ask The IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) What should you do if you get a bill for taxes you've already paid?

A) If you have paid the tax recently you can disregard the notice. It was probably issued before the payment had been credited to your account.

However, if the payment was made more than four weeks ago return the notice, indicating when the payment was made and where it was sent.

If you have a cancelled check for the payment also indicate any numbers stamped on the check by IRS. This will help trace the payment.

Q) Is it true that stock market losses are only partially deductible under the new tax law?

A) The new law does make changes in the handling of long-term capital losses. These losses can still be used to offset capital gains, but when long-term capital losses are greater than capital gains, each $1 of the loss can be used to offset only 50c of ordinary income.

Short-term capital losses continue to offset ordinary income dollar for dollar.

Q) I work two jobs and both employers are taking out Social Security. Can I do anything about it?

A) The law requires each employer to withhold Social Security tax on the first $7,800 of an employee's wages. If more than the maximum of $74.40 is withheld for Social Security tax in 1970 because you had more than one employer, you can claim a credit of the excess on your 1970 income tax return.

Q) I do a lot of traveling on my new job. What kind of records should I keep on my food and lodging costs?

A) A cancelled check together with a bill stamped paid can be used to establish the amount of your lodging and the date. A diary or similar record of your meal costs is acceptable if entries are made when the costs are incurred.

Rules on travel expenses are detailed in Publication 463, Travel, Entertainment and Gift Expenses. For a free copy write your District Director.

Q) Can a self-employed individual set up his own retirement plan?

A) Yes, if you are in business for yourself you may deduct your contributions to a self-employed retirement plan, provided that the contributions are based on earned income. Your business can be either full or part-time.

For details, send a post card to your District Director and ask for a copy of Publication 568, Questions and Answers on Retirement Plans for the Self-Employed. It's free.

Q) There have been some changes in my tax situation since I filed out my estimated return in April. Can I change it now?

A) Yes, recompute your estimated tax on the work-sheet included in your 1040 ES package before you make your third installment payment in September. The amended tax figure and the new payment amount should be shown on the voucher you send in with your payment.

Check Trouble? Stop Payment

by RICHARD PUTNAM PRATT

Want to test yourself with a consumer quiz? Try this:

SITUATION—You buy a new home, and you hire a landscaper to grade the bare plot, cover it with four inches of topsoil, and sow it completely. After viewing the finished job, you hand over a check for $1,200 in full payment.

The next day you discover no topsoil was applied and the landscaper refuses to consider a rebate.

QUESTION—What's the easiest way to get the landscaper to negotiate a settlement?

ANSWER—Stop payment on the check. The stop-payment procedure is a little-known but legitimate method of retracting a payment you wish you hadn't made in the first place.

As in this case, the reason may be a contractual disagreement, but stop-payment can also be used in the case of lost checks or where duplicate checks have been written by mistake.

There are some practical aspects to the use of the stop-payment procedure that you ought to be acquainted with if you want to use it.

The most important of these is speed. Payment can be stopped only if the check is caught before it passes too far along in the system.

The minute you know you want payment stopped, call your bank. It will probably put the procedure into effect based on your phone call but will require you to sign a written order later.

The bank's problem is to locate the check. Massive volume, plus automated handling procedures make this difficult.

Once the bank is sure the check hasn't been paid, it flags your account so that the check will be sidetracked when it does show up.

Along about this point, you're going to be charged a fee for the stop-payment service. This fee will probably be about $3, but it could be $5, or even $1.

There are several reasons for the charge. First, the bank is stuck for the amount of the check if it errs by paying it after the order has been issued. Second, the time, trouble and paperwork involved in keeping track of stop orders makes them an expensive proposition for the bank.

Considering the trouble and expense, you won't want to use a stop-payment order for minor amounts. For sizable sums, however, this method provides a means for both parties to talk out their differences.

One final note of caution. Don't over-use the stop-payment order. At best, it is a cumbersome procedure for a bank and one fraught with peril.

Your banker is likely to be understanding about an occasional problem, but he will take a dim view of your using the system frequently as a result of petty disagreements.

The Almanac

by UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL
Today is Friday, Sept. 11, the 254th day of 1970 with 111 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase.

The Morning stars are Mars and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1777 troops of George Washington were badly defeated by the British at the Battle of Brandywine.

In 1841 all members of President John Tyler's cabinet resigned except Secretary of State Daniel Webster. They were protesting the veto of a banking bill.

In 1940 in the early days of World War II, Buckingham Palace in London was damaged by German bombers.

In 1963 all 81 aboard an Indian Airlines Viscount died when the plane crashed near New Delhi.

A thought for the day: Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "Life is not so short but that there is always time for courtesy."

Anderson To Discuss Con Son

U. S. Rep. William Anderson, D-Tenn., will visit the 13th Congressional District today to discuss Rep. Philip Crane's attempt to whitewash the Con Son prison report.

Anderson, one of two congressmen who visited the Con Son prison in Vietnam, to report conditions there were inhumane, will hold a press conference in Glenview at 4 p.m. and also will speak at the Palatine Township Democratic Organization's dinner-dance at Rolling Green Country Club in Arlington Heights.

Following his visit, Crane, R-10th, also visited the prison and said reports of conditions there were "grossly exaggerated." Anderson's visit was arranged by State Rep. Edward A. Warman, D-Skokie, who is challenging Crane for the 13th District seat in Congress in November. Crane beat Warman in last year's special Congressional election by 20,000 votes.

ANDERSON AND U. S. Rep. Augustus

Hawkins, D-Calif., were members of a congressional committee which visited South Vietnam, and one of the committee staff members who sold a story and pictures of the prison to Life magazine. The story told of mistreatment, malnutrition and generally unhealthy conditions there, and criticized the United States for supporting a government which allowed the conditions to exist.

Crane said he found none of the conditions described in the Life magazine articles and pictures and said conditions at Con Son were better than conditions in some Vietnamese homes, and also were better than conditions in many American prisons.

He accused Hawkins and his staff members of being "blind or deliberately misrepresenting what they found there." Crane's statements prompted a strong rebuttal on the floor of the House of Representatives by several congressmen who defended Hawkins and Anderson.

ANDERSON HAS BEEN a congressman since 1964. Prior to that, he was a Navy officer and commander of the atomic submarine Nautilus when it made its historic cruise under the North Pole.

Anderson will be joined at the Palatine Democrats' dinner tonight by Adlai E. Stevenson III, Democratic candidate for United States Senator.

Kidnapper Is Sought

by TOM JACHIMIEC

Elk Grove Village and Chicago police yesterday were continuing an investigation into the kidnapping of an Illinois Institute of Technology professor Wednesday evening.

The professor, Miss Audrey Companion, 38, of Chicago, told police she was forced at gunpoint by a man to drive away in her car from a parking lot on Chicago's Southwest side.

She escaped her abductor when the car went out of control during a struggle at Tonne Road and Devon Avenue near Elk Grove Village.

THE CAR WENT into a gully near Hank's Service Station where Miss Companion leaped out of the car and ran for help. Her abductor then got behind the wheel and drove off.

"He hadn't really pulled out of drive and this woman came running up shouting for someone to call police," said Hank Sobieski, service station operator.

"There he was holding a gun in his left hand," he said. "I never did get to look at his face."

The man apparently left the car in the parking lot at St. Alexius Hospital, at Bisner and Biesterfeld roads.

Police found the 1970 Cougar there later with its lights turned on.

The police combed the area searching for the blond-haired man, a white, about 30, five feet five inches tall, and dressed in a yellow shirt and dark pants.

"We knocked on doors in the area for about one hour after dark," said Det. Robert Salvatore, "but didn't find anything."

"HE EITHER HITCHHIKED or stole another car," he added.

Miss Companion, a professor of physics and chemistry at the university, was treated at the hospital for bruises on her legs sustained when she jumped from the car.

She told police the man approached her in the parking lot of a food store at 6649 W. Archer Ave. about 5:30 p.m. as she was attempting to open her car while carrying two bags of groceries.

She told police he jabbed a gun in her side and that he wanted a ride to Brookfield. Later, he changed his mind, she said, and decided to go to Elgin.

After driving around for about an hour he threatened to tie her up, she told police, and when they began to struggle she escaped.

Maine High To Offer Humanities

A humanities program is being offered for the first time at Maine West High School. The course is a combination of literature, philosophy, art and music.

Under the leadership of John Graef, literature: Dewane Barnes, philosophy: Mrs. Diana Johnson, art: and Gerald Hug and Grant Anderson, music, 128 students will develop a better understanding on mankind by being in the program, and school officials.

The year's program is divided into five units: general orientation, man's sense of beauty, man's sense of self in his world, man's search for his god, and man in society. Teaching is done individually and cooperatively.

"INSTRUCTION is done primarily in large group lectures, although small group seminars will meet from time to time for further discussions," said Graef.

"Work is a combination of a daily journal which includes lecture notes and personal investigations or observations, an occasional research paper on a relevant topic, and one major creative project for each student.

"Tests are minimized because we want this to be a learning experience," Graef said.

Outside experts in various fields will come in occasionally to talk to the students. A two volume text entitled "Search for Personal Freedom" is used.

Due to the large number of students desiring to take the course, enrollment is primarily seniors with some juniors. There are two sessions with 64 students in each.

"The group seems very curious," said Graef.

C&NW Reports 1969 Taxes At $2,298,257

The Chicago and North Western Railway Co., reported this week that its 1969 taxes paid this year on its railroad operating property in thirty Illinois counties totaled $2,298,257.93.

More than 62 per cent of this payment, or $1,437,844.27, was in the form of school taxes.

In the so-called five "commuter" counties in which the North Western's suburban service is concentrated, the railroad's property tax bill amounted to $1,636,643.36. These are Cook, DuPage, Lake, McHenry counties in which the North Western is the largest railroad taxpayer. The fifth of the "commuter" counties is Kane.

OF THE TOTAL railroad property taxes paid in the Illinois counties in which the North Western operates, $395,189.49 was in city and village taxes; $173,063.88 was in county taxes; $60,947.61 were park district taxes; $70,644.47 were sanitary district taxes; $63,918.56 were taxes on township road and bridge and road bonds and $34,521.04 were township taxes. Also included in the payment were $17,446.38 in fire protection taxes; $16,626.65 in forest preserve taxes; $5,564.68 in library, airport, hospital and cemetery taxes and $1,490.71 in mosquito abatement district taxes.

Taxes paid on operating property of the railroad by the railroad by counties were as follows:

Boone, $38,713.86; Bureau, $29,637.92; Cook, $1,192,684.98; DeKalb, $78,741.56; DuPage, $127,893.62; Fulton, $12,294.11; Henderson, $469.40; Jo Daviess, $29,466.86; Kane, $82,967.89; Knox, $9,642.16; Lake, $139,096.14; LaSalle, $12,745.34; Lee, $54,355.40; Macoupin, $29,122.24; Madison, $31,624.68; Marshall, $4,437.86; Mason, $6,294.38; McHenry, $69,940.82; Menard, $10,029.94; Mercer, $23,175.76; Ogle, $39,178.36; Peoria, $17,499.29; Stark, $5,152.03; Sangamon, $17,499.29; Start, $5,152.03; Stephenson, $22,298.06; Tazewell, $21,380.34; Warren, $28,653.07; Whiteside, $61,480.36 and Winnebago, $29,085.52.

Des Plaines Resident On Outing Committee

A Des Plaines resident was a committee member of the second annual John J. Schommer Golf Outing for alumni and their guests of Illinois Institute of Technology and the Chicago-Kent College of Law.

Rober J. Peterson, of 1315 S. Jeanette, Des Plaines, served on the committee for yesterday's outing at the Cog Hill Country Club in Lemont.

Anthony E. Sacco, National Football League umpire, was the banquet speaker Thursday evening. The annual outing is named for John J. Schommer, former director of athletics for the university.

Prizes were awarded to golfers for low gross and low net scores as well as to the most honest golfer.

The Prince Cried, 'Aha' My Throne

by GEOFFREY MEHL

Love with a grisly touch is reported from Draycourt, England, where a parish council has asked for special police patrols to move couples from the village's favorite courting spot — the cemetery.

On the zoo beat. Residents living near the Plashet park zoo are up in arms (as most residents near most commercial activities are these days), but they've got a different sort of beef. Seems the mating cries of peacocks are nocturnal in timing and annoying to sleeping.

Closer to home, officials at the Brookfield Zoo has got a dinosaur in its collection, but don't get scared if you happen across it in an "unexpected spot." It's plastic, and it was donated by the Atlantic-Richfield Co., who is very ecology minded.

If you'll recall, dinosaurs were wiped out when they stumbled into tar pits, among other things. When the whole mess got washed underground, it and varieties of plant life formed such things as coal, oil and natural gas.

That's just the sort of thing needed for civilization, pollution, and good oil depletion allowances.

A HOT ITEM from the Friends of Dracula Committee: Officials at a research farm in Hextable, England are paying two cents a head for every slug brought in by local children.

A researcher said that due to a dry spell there's a shortage of the friendly creatures, and they're even offering wooden spatulas for those squeamish about picking up the slugs.

Take heart suburban housewives: Jim Dobbs has been licking trading stamps for 11 years now, all with one goal in mind: a new car. The 44-year-old salesman, who expects delivery of the prize soon, commented "I never want to lick a stamp again."

How many stamps for a car? A mere 1,218,000.

ICKY STICKY GOO DEPT. — A jealous wife who suspected her husband had a secret affair with another woman was convicted on a disorderly conduct charge in Cincinnati the other day.

Seems she roared into the suspect's office with a large bowl, hollered "here's some honey for your honey," and proceeded to cover a coiffure with the sticky stuff.

Jealousy was worth a $100 fine and 10-day suspended sentence.

On the consumer front, workmen razing a house in Grimsby, England, found a packet of breakfast cereal made in 1926, and report that it was still edible.

You Gotta Be Kidding

Our Food and Drug Administration probably would have tried to give a mouse an overdose to see if it caused cancer, but in England, they're more civilized about such matters.

Royalty can be fun. Prince Charles, heir to the British throne, was photographed (by Lord Snowden, of course) waterskiing while seated on a wooden chair perched on a table top.

"Aha" cried the prince, "my throne." Then he toppled unceremoniously into the water.

Meanwhile, back at the castle, the 70-year-old Duke of Beaufort, who serves as master of the Queen's Horse to Queen Elizabeth and a recognized expert on matters of importance, will judge a contest to choose the prettiest female ankles at a party to be given by the Duchess of Westminster.

Harumph. Back in the days of Richard II, it was called something else.

For the detective fans in the crowds, this exciting item: Delly Roach (honest, that's his name) escaped from the St. Louis, Mo., city workhouse recently by simply calling a taxi and riding away.

The cabdriver said he was taken to a tavern, but Delly's still at large.

Consider Options Of Insurance

What should you know about life insurance before you buy such a policy?

According to the Illinois State Bar Association, a life insurance policy is a contract between you and the insuring company, and the more you know about its provisions and their legal effect, the better.

Insurance companies offer many "options" governing the pay-out of proceeds, whether these benefits are to be paid to a beneficiary or to you, the policyholder, should you plan to benefit from the cash value of the policy as a reward for many years of premium payments.

Most important, at the time you buy life insurance, decide whether proceeds of the policy someday will be paid out in a lump sum, in regular income payments or a combination of both. Or, you may choose a so-called "settlement option" which permits you to decide later as to how proceeds will be paid. If you don't choose an option, your beneficiary may elect one before the money is paid.

One argument against lump pay-out of life insurance proceeds is that the beneficiary may spend or invest the money unwisely, thus nullifying or jeopardizing the financial security the insurance was intended to provide. For this reason, it is sometimes wise to appoint a trustee to handle the proceeds of a policy in the interest of the beneficiary, especially if the payment is substantial. A trustee, whether a trusted individual such as your lawyer, or a bank, often is used when the beneficiaries are children.

Here, briefly, are the major types of options with which you should be familiar:

INTEREST OPTION: The insurance company holds the proceeds but pays out a guaranteed rate of interest at specified intervals (monthly, quarterly, semi-annually or annually). Interest payments may run for a certain number of years or for life, depending upon the terms of the policy. This option usually permits withdrawals from the principal sum. Thus, it provides a reserve which can be tapped for emergencies or for a child's education.

INSTALLMENT OPTION: Installments are paid from the proceeds of the policy until the principal and accumulated interest are used up. Installments may be paid in equal amounts for a fixed period, or fixed installments may be paid out indefinitely — that is, as long as the principal and interest lasts.

LIFE ANNUITY OPTIONS: The many options in this category are designed to provide a life income for the policyholder, or for a widow, children or other dependents. In selecting a life annuity option in advance, the insurance buyer should be sure the income-payment arrangement will be the one most ideally suited to the needs of his survivors and that they will not be deprived of needed funds because the money is "tied up in the insurance policy."

OTHER OPTIONS: A policyholder or a beneficiary may wish to inquire into the availability of other options which are not specified in the policy. Some companies are currently offering other settlement options which are more suited to the beneficiary's or policyholder's needs and although not specified in older policies, could still be made available upon request.

Mass Transit District

a policy question that Des Plaines and other communities will have to resolve, according to DiLeonardi.

"I think the main thing is that there should be immediate relief for United Motor Coach Co.," said DiLeonardi. "It's possible that there would be no real advantage to combining two or three municipalities into a transit district."

"Ultimately, if you're going to do any combining, it should be of a very broad area and it should be done on a maximum basis," he said. "I don't think that we're ready to do that for United Motor Coach."

"To fill the gap until there is the ultimate large transit district, perhaps the best thing would be to have one or more separate individual districts, each one of which could enter into contracts with United Motor Coach to provide services," DiLeonardi said.

For Des Plaines, action to help United Motor Coach would be a three-step process, DiLeonardi said. First would be the establishment of a transit district, involving the city and perhaps other local communities.

SECOND, HE SAID, the district would contract with United Motor Coach for bus services. And thirdly the city would transfer some of its motor fuel tax funds to the district for payment to the bus company.

"Interwoven with all that would be some kind of understanding between the city and United Motor Coach concerning distribution of those funds and some assurances to the city that they would be used properly," said DiLeonardi.

He emphasized that a local transit district would not be the ultimate solution to mass transportation problems but only an intermediate step until some organization like the Northwest Municipal Conference can move to solve those problems on an area basis.

Officials active in the formation of commuter line transit districts in the Chicago suburbs also point out the benefits of transit districts that cover large areas.

Thomas Ploss, Milwaukee Road attorney who is heading that railroad's efforts to get federal funds through a district on its west suburban line, said that in his opinion transit districts should be as large as possible. He also cited possible problems in combining small districts into larger ones should the need arise.

"WHILE AN INDIVIDUAL transit district (for Des Plaines) might be able to solve the immediate problems of United Motor Coach," Ploss told the Herald/Day. "It might not be able to solve the problems of the future because it wouldn't be eligible for federal funds."

The Milwaukee Road is seeking a total of $12.5 million for new equipment, Ploss said, two-thirds of which would come from federal grants. Already, he said, Itasca has passed an ordinance joining a district along the railroad's Chicago-Elgin commuter line and other on-line and neighboring communities, such as Elk Grove Village, are expected to join soon.

Forest DuSelle, manager of suburban services for the Burlington-Northern, said 10 of the 13 suburbs along its Chicago-Aurora commuter line have joined the new West Suburban Mass Transit District. The district is expected to apply for federal funds to buy commuter-cars that will be operated by the railroad.

Hopefully, DuSelle said federal officials will find that transportation planning in the Chicago area and that the transit district itself cover wide enough areas to qualify the district for federal funds.

A doubling of its capacity for the rehabilitation of former drug-dependent persons in Chicago and Illinois has been achieved by Gateway Houses Foundation, Inc. with the purchase and establishment of a third residential facility near Lake Villa, James B. Moran, president of the Gateway Board, announced.

The new therapeutic community on a 50-acre tract of land fronting on Fox Lake has the capacity to accommodate over 100 persons, or twice the number currently being housed in the Gateway Houses' unique "self-help" program now operating in two renovated residences on Chicago's south side.

After purchase of the Lake Villa property from the Sisters of Charity of the Blessed Virgin Mary, who used it as a religious retreat, an advance group of 20 former drug dependent residents of the two Chicago Gateway Houses moved into the former retreat house on Aug. 24. The initial residents immediately launched a renovation and clean-up program of the building and grounds, which had not been extensively used for the past several years, Carl Charnett, director of dynamics for Gateway reported.

WITHIN THE NEXT five to six months, after the properties are refurbished and put into first-class working and living order, a community of approximately 50 former addicts who have previously completed an initial orientation in another of Gateway's communities, will be in residence. They will there undergo the roughly 18-month, three-phase program of self-taught re-education and retraining to break drug dependent habits and form new and useful adjustments to everyday living and working in the general community.

Moran pointed out that the therapeutic community concept of reeducation is one of the most successful in the nation, and the Gateway Houses approach is patterned after the highly successful therapeutic communities of Daytop Village, in New York, and Synanon, in California. In these residential programs the communities are entirely staffed and operated by former addicts who have successfully completed reeducation, and are used as a professional staff to assist in the reeducation of other drug dependent persons referred to Gateway by hospitals, doctors, local or state law enforcement agencies, schools, and the courts, or individuals who enter voluntarily.

Charnett related that after the initial 50 residents have thoroughly mastered the first phase of their reeducation, the Lake Villa program will be expanded to its full capacity of slightly over 100 residents.

HE SAID THAT the new facility was ideal for Gateway's program with the substantial acreage and abundant opportunities for work therapy which is part of the Gateway training plan. All renovation and refurbishing work at the former retreat house is to be done by the residents. The residents also perform administrative and housekeeping chores for the community and, in fact, function as a large family.

Gateway Houses Foundation is an Illinois not-for-profit corporation, and the major part of the foundation's operating budget is provided for by funds provided under contract with the Illinois Department of Mental Health's Drug Abuse Program.

Additional funds are also made available by private contributions from business and industry, and from foundations interested in community health and welfare. Moran pointed out that the operating funds that make possible the expansion and initiation of the third facility were provided in June by a grant from the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission.

Purchase of the property was with funds contributed to Gateway by concerned parents of drug-using children, and by gifts from private individuals and business organizations dedicated to the determination of a long-term solution to the nation's drug abuse problems.

DR. JEROME H. JAFFEE, director of the State of Illinois Drug Abuse Program, has termed Gateway Houses therapeutic communities "a significant resource in our efforts to find some workable solutions to the perplexing problems of drug abuse."

Judge Kenneth R. Wendt, formerly a state legislator and previously of the Narcotics Court in Cook County, said: "Gateway has demonstrated a remarkable ability to attract and hold drug dependent individuals in their therapeutic communities, and to lead them toward purposeful, drug-free lives."

Gateway's therapeutic community concept has successfully operated for two years in Chicago and on June 30, 1970, Gateway's House at 4800 S. Ellis Ave., graduated the first nine residents who completed the full three-phase program. On that occasion, Judge Fred G. Suria, of Narcotics Court, told the graduating group, "From a square's point of view, you have been to hell and back. We need people like yourselves who can tell young people what it's like because you've been there."

In addition operating the three therapeutic communities, Gateway Houses also trains professional staff workers to provide the core groups to pioneer other therapeutic communities elsewhere in the country. It operates an educational and informational program directed to young people to warn them of the dangers of drug usage, and provides residents to speak to high school assemblies, community and civic groups and to engage in a dialogue with young adults and teenagers to reorient their behavior patterns away from drug abuse or drug dependency.

CHARNETT SAID the tradition of holding Saturday night Open Houses at Gateway Houses would be initiated at the new Lake Villa facility to enable the Lake Villa and Fox Lake community residents an opportunity to visit and understand the dynamic process of group confrontations which is the heart of the therapeutic community procedure, and to answer questions about the most up-to-date approaches for controlling drug abuse.

He said community groups are always welcome at Gateway and special arrangements for tours and visits, and for speaking engagements could be made by calling the Lake Villa facility at 356-3881.

THE LAST DAYS of summer for these two old men are good old days. "There's not much else to do," one of them explained.

'Once The Fields Flowered'

by BRAD BREKKE

The farms are almost all gone now. The fields that were tilled by generations of men are being paved over. The farmer's way of life seems to be a passing thing from suburban Cook County.

Once the farm wagons rolled to town with produce for the community.

Once men who are now old worked the soil and the livestock for the tables of suburban towns.

In Palatine Township, there is one old man who still remembers.

YEARS AGO THE OLD man used to be big on cows and sold $1,000 in milk a month to the dairy.

"I used to haul it to Barrington years ago on a wagon with horses. We got 90 cents a hundred pounds in them days. That's about 12 gallons.

"Now they charge $1.14 a gallon and the small dairy farmer makes almost nothing. That's why I got rid of them. Why should I work for nothing?"

Until a few years ago the old man raised hogs too. But they are gone now, along with the cows.

"I used to raise big pigs, by golly. I once had a sow who weighed over 800 pounds, can you imagine, and only 18 months old. When I took it to the stockyards, they couldn't believe it. They said I must really know how to feed hogs. I do. And I got a good price for my pigs too . . . $29 a hundred pounds. I made money that year."

THE OLD MAN USED to work on his father's farm, before he bought his own. It was located near his. He was paid $20 a month in the winter and $25 in the summer to work on it and he saved his money. When he was 45 years old, he put his savings down on a farm of his own.

"When I built this farm, I could hire a carpenter for $5 a day. Now they charge $10 an hour and $17 on weekends.

"Well they can go to hell and rest.

"I used to make $25 a month. Today you can't get someone to work on a farm for $25 a day. I have a man about 50 who helps me with the hay baling. I pay him $2.25 an hour.

"It's hard work and the only reason he does it, I suppose, is because he needs the money and was raised on a farm himself.

"You can't start out with a farm like this today. By golly, it just costs too much. Them days are long gone. Why a tractor costs $10,000 and maybe $18,000 for a good combine."

THE OLD MAN didn't get very high in grade school. He said his first year he went to a German school and didn't like his teacher.

"I didn't learn nothing. I didn't even get past my first reader. So the next year I transferred schools and you know what? I got that same teacher again.

"I never got beyond my fifth reader and then my dad told me I'd have to quit school and stay home and help with the farm work.

"School taught me nothing. I can read a newspaper and sign my name on a check, but I ain't a pencil pusher. I let someone else write my checks. I sign them. But I'll tell you I'm good enough with numbers to know when I'm being cheated. I'll tell you that, by golly."

The old man said he had four brothers and four sisters.

"I think there were a few more, but I can't keep track of 'em all. A few of the kids died one year from diphtheria. I was the oldest and had to be a foreman at home."

WINTER IS A dull time for the old man.

He says he lost his taste for beer years ago, but takes two shots of schnapps on cold nights to make him feel better.

"In the winter I just feed the chickens and watch TV. The days are very long."

The old man says he rests on Sunday. "I belong to a church and give them money, but I don't go no more because I just go to sleep," he said.

One day the old man said a little girl visited him when he was milking cows.

"I gave her a taste of fresh milk and she told me no, she doesn't drink milk from animals.

"I asked her what kind of milk she drinks and she said from bottles. I laughed and explained to her that most milk comes from cows and is bottled in dairies, but she just wouldn't believe it," he said.

The old man said if he had it to do all over again, he'd still be a farmer.

"FARMING IS ALL I know. I couldn't go to town and get different work. What would I do? I've farmed all my life."

The old man is the last of a vanishing breed of men in the Northwest suburbs. Much of the farmland here today has been taken over by industry and residential developers.

The small dirt farmer has felt the economic pinch of progress. Farming today is big business on a much larger scale than it used to be, and as a result, the little man has almost been squeezed out.

Even the old man, with all he knows about farming, has felt the pinch. But he's accepted that because he had no other choice.

And he'll continue farming for years to come because it's all he knows. Hard work is his habit. Farming is his life. And he's too old to change.

THE OLD MAN'S farm is located off Central Road in Palatine Township. He asks to remain anonymous.

Later in the day, the old man pulled himself up on his tractor and spat again. He squinted into the sun. It looked like rain in the west.

"Four o'clock now. Gotta rake some hay yet before dinner," he said.

And with a roar of the engine, the old man nodded his head and was gone.

The old man loves the farm and says hard work is his habit.

Years ago everything was done by hand.
